TO THE LOWER HOUSE ÓF

CONVOCATION

OU, Gentlemen, who are the Representatives of the Clergy of England, are proper Patrons of a Work, which treats of Religion and the Clergy. It is written to promote Liberty, Virtue and Piety; A 2

Piety; the Interefts of which, I hope, you will always efpouse, and efteem as your own; and will confequently approve my Defign, and give me your Thanks, whatever may have been the Success of my Endeavours.

The many wild and unfcriptural Claims started, and impetuoully maintain'd by very many of those you reprefent (and I with I could fay denied, though but faintly, by any confiderable Number of others) gave Occafion to the following Sheets; and, having in them shewn to my Brethren, the Laity, the Abfurdity and Impiety of those Claims, by Arguments fetch'd from Reason, the Gospel, and the Laws of our Country; I shall, in this Address to your felves, endeavour to convince you, that it is your Interest to drop them; and if I can fucceed in this Point, I prefume, all other Arguments Thefe may be useles.

DEDICATION.

These Gentlemen, in the Heat of their Demands and Contention for Power, have gone fo far towards Rome, and borrowed to many of her Principles, that I fee no other Medium left for them, but either to proceed on in their Journey thither, (which, as they have manag'd Matters, is now a very fhort one) or to turn back to the Principles of the Reformation (a very long Journey, I confess!) and accept of the Bishop of Bangor's Scheme, as much as they hate it and him. That Scheme, tho' it may not be altogether fo toothfome, yet is a fafe Scheme : And tho' it does not entitle them to all the Power and Wealth in England, yet it secures to them what they have.

Confider, Gentlemen, that you cannot take as much of Popery as you pleafe, and leave the reft. Machiavel has long fince told us, that no Govern-A 2 ment ment can fubfift long but upon its original Foundation, and by recurring often to the Principles upon which it was first founded. It will indeed stand upon no other ; and when that is fap'd and undermined; the Superstructure must fall to the Ground; and the old Inhabitants: find out new Materials, and erect new Buildings upon other Foundations; and they:are, for the most part, undone by the Experiment.

The first Principles of our Protestant Church, are the Principles of the Reformation ; namely, the fpiritual Supremacy of the Crown; the Right of the Laity to judge for themfelves; the forming of all Ecclefiaftical Polity by the Legiflature; and confequently, that of creating Clergymen by the Civil Power, forgot by too many of the Clergy, and remembred against their Wills by the Laity. Whoever would main-maintain the Reformation, must maintain these Principles; or embrace Popery, if he deferts them. Whether the solemn Oaths of the Clergy in general, have been sufficient Pledges and Motives for their believing and defending them, I appeal to their Behaviour and their Writings.

Being the fworn Servants of the Law, many of them have avowedly contradicted and bid Defiance to the Law ; Being entrusted with ferving and instructing the People, they have deceiv'd and fet up for commanding the People : Being chosen by the Crown to ministerial Offices, they have claimed a Power above the Crown; from which they acknowledge, upon Oath, to have received all Power. They have done what in them lay, to make the Mercy of God of none Effect, by damning whom they pleas'd; and to difarm his Juffice, A 4

Justice, by pardoning whom they would. They have made Heaven it felf to wait for the Sentence from the Prieft's Mouth, and God himself to follow the Judgment of the Priest. They have pretended to oblige God Almighty to open and shut Heaven's Gates. Thev have afferted, that the Priestbood is a Princely Power, greater and more venerable than that of the Emperor : That the spiritual Government (that is, a Government by Priests) is farther above the Civil Power, than Heaven is above the Earth: That a Bishop is to be bonour'd as God: That ' the Revenue of Priefts ought to be greater than the Revenue of Kings : That greater Punishment 'is due to an Offence against a Priest, 'than to an Offence against a King: 'That Kings and Queens are to bow ' down before the Prieft, with their Face 'towards the Earth, and to lick up the 'Dust of his Feet : That it is the • Royal

DEDICATION.

• Royal Office of Kings and Queens, to • carry the Prieft in their Bosom, or on • their Shoulders : That great Men • ought not to fay my Chaplain, in any • other Sense than we fay, Mr KING, • or Mr Gob.

As to the King's Nomination of Bifhops, and the Power he has over the Convocation, they have maintain'd that ' the Church fhould as reafonably have ' the Nomination and deposing of Kings; 'and that it is as reasonable that the 'Parliament should neither meet nor 'act without the Bishop's License and ' Authority : That the Chief Magistrate ' is bound to fubmit to the Bishop, who 'may excommunicate him : That it is a ' Contradiction and an Impoffibility, for 'any State to have Authority over the ' Church, that is, over the Priefts : That ' the Priefts Power extends to the fettling of Fasting, and Feasting, and Clothes : • That

· That those Clergy, who comply with ' the Government, and yet retain their. old Principles, are the best Part, and ' most numerous of the Clergy;' that is, that those of the Clergy, who are perjur'd, are the best and most numerous. They have decreed, that to maintain that the Sovereignty of England is in the Three Estates of England, namely, in Kings, Lords, and Commons, is a damnable Principle. They have afferted, that the Lords and Commons have no more Share in the making of Laws, than a Beggar bas in one's Alms: That all Subjects are Slaves as to Life and Property: · And that Refiftance is not lawful for ' the Maintenance of the Liberties of our · felves and others; nor for the Defence • of Religion; nor for the Prefervation ^c of Church and State; nor for the Salvation of a Soul; no, nor for the Redemption of the whole World.'

There is a choice Catalogue of these extravagant Doctrines, collected in a a Pamphlet publish'd some Years since, and entitl'd, A new Catechifm, with Dr. Hickes's 39 Articles; and all of them taken out of the Writings of Men in the higheft Reputation amongst you. Yes, Gentlemen, all these impious, mad and felfish Doctrines have been maintain'd by those of your Order, and never yet contradicted by any publick Act of your Body. On the contrary, with your ur fual Charity and good Nature, you have fallen upon those who expos'd them; tho' they were evidently the very Corner-Stones of Popery, and a flat Contradiction to the whole Spirit and Progress of the Reformation.

There is no Medium between Pope, ry and the Reformation; that is, between the claiming of any Power in Religion, and the renouncing of all Power

Power in Religion : (as you will find fully made out in the following Sheets) The latter is the Characteriftick of a Protestant Minister, and the former the black Mark of a Popish Priest; and you have it in your Choice, Gentlemen, which you will chuse to resemble.

If you do not think fit to accept the Biftop of Bangor's Protestant Scheme, which is the same with that of the Reformation, and has been ever since the Law of the Land, there is but one Choice left you, namely, that of working about a Popish Revolution, per fas & xefas; and of bringing undifguis'd Popery and the Inquisition into the Church, and direct Slavery upon your Country; and upon your selves, the Necessfity of throwing your selves blindly upon the Mercy of the Court of Rome, for her Protection, and Licence to

DEDICATION. Xiii to preferve your Dignities and Revenues.

You have no Poffibility of keeping dear of the Pope and the Regale both. The King will not part with his Prerogative; the Parliament will not give up its Authority; nor will the People entirely part with their Senfes. And for the Bishop of Rome, you would do well to remember what tender Ufage your Predeceffors received at his Hands. He indeed always discountenanc'd and oppress'd them. The lazy Monks, and debauch'd Fryars, were his Darlings, and peculiar Care. They were thoroughly detach'd from the Interests of the Laity, and thorough Dependents upon the Holy Father : They were therefore diftinguish'd as his Spiritual Janizaries, and the Guards of the Papacy; and to them he gave away the Revenues and Maintenance of the Secular Secular Clergy, not fo much trufted by him.

If you remember this, you will eafily judge how much more it is your Intereft to fubmit to the eafy and gentle Authority of the Prince, and to live under the Protection of the Laws of your Country, by which your Income and all your Immunities are afcertain'd and fecur'd to you, than to live expos'd to the Diftrufts of a foreign cruel Court, and to the Rapine of foreign and needy Priefts, who will be perpetually quarter'd upon you, and drawing Money from you; and when probably it will grow a Maxim in the Roman Politicks, that you muft be kept poor.

But befides, however good the Intentions may be of fuch amongft your felves, or of those you represent, to become the Subjects, or, as you may vainly vainly imagine, the Confederates of Rome; they will, in all Likelihood, find it utterly impoffible to execute their Defigns; and must, in all Appearance, venture their present Possessions upon the Success of fuch Defigns. And if they should happen to succeed, they may have the Glory indeed of the Wickedness; but the Rewards will be, for the most Part, reap'd by new Comers, who had no Share in the Toil. Foreign Ecclefiasticks will be the first in Favour, and the higheft in Place : They will carry off your Honours and your Preferments: The Sincerity of your Conversion will be question'd, or pretended to be question'd: There will quickly grow a Diftinction between Old Papifts and New Converts; as in Spain and Portugal, where a wide Difference is made between old Christians and new; which Difference holds for many Generations; and, in fhort, all Countenance

I am in Hopes, Reverend Sirs, that, from all these Confiderations, the Gentlemen of these Notions will find Reafon to look back to their Original at the Reformation, and to preach up the Principles upon which it stands, fince they are like to stand or fall by these Principles. Let them veer about once more; they know how to do it; and I will be the first to declare that they have been once in the Right, and once reconcil'd their Views to the Liberties of England.

DEDICATION. XVII

I might likewife fetch an Argument from their awkwardnefs in Politicks, to convince them that they ought to be Protestants. They have made it manifeft, by many Trials and long Experience, that they are but heavy Intriguers, and fadly want both the Temper and Talents of Politicians. The Protestant Religion being a plain one, fupported by obvious Truth and common Senfe, and requiring no Managements or Fineness to make it go down with the People; would fit them well enough, if they could be content with it. But it is quite otherwife with the Religion of Rome; which being a furprizing Medly of various and contradictory Parts, requires the utmost Addrefs, Delicacy and Skill to keep them from falling to pieces : And, in this Refpect, the Church of Rome owes its Figure and Prefervation to the Court of Rome, where all the nicest Secrets of Power a Power are underftood, and all the moft curious Arts in Politicks are practis'd; where every Abfurdity is finely difguis'd, and every Cruelty is artfully conceal'd; where, in fine, they have the Knack of making People pleas'd with being abus'd, and to forget that they are Slaves, or never to know it.

Hitherto, Gentlemen, it has been otherwife with you: Our Pretenders have but großly ap'd Popery: Their Aims have been too open, and their Management too coarfe. A blunt Demand at once for all the Wealth, and Reverence, and Power of England, was fo ridiculous, that, had we not before known their unhappyState of Ignorance, we fhould have thought they had been in Jeft when they made it. Nor has that incurable Appetite of theirs, which they cannot hide, of combating Conlcience with down-right Force, and brutifh tish Violence, done them less Harm. In short, good Counsel they have seldom taken; their soolish Counsels they never could conceal; and, God be thank'd, their wicked Counsels they never yet have been able, thoroughly, to execute; they, are in truth, but doggerel Politicians. English Priestcrast is as coarse as the Romish Priestcrast is fine. Theirs is the Depths of Satan, and Ours bis Shallows; as is excellently faid by the late Mr. Samuel Folmson.

The Romifh Clergy chofe the Days of Darkness to sow their Frauds in: They vended their holy Trifles, when Ignorance had increas'd the Number of Buyers: They planted their Power in the fertile Soil of Superstition; and by keeping the People poor, wretched, ignorant, wicked, and fearful, as they every where do, they still maintain their Dominion.

But

\mathbf{x} D E D I C A T I O N.

But our High Gentlemen, who both know and lament, that this Nation has feen more Days of Light and Liberty (which indeed are feldom feparated) fince the Revolution, than ever it faw before, have yet prepofteroufly chofen that very Time of Light and Liberty to advance all the wildest Claims of Popery, and all the vileft Tenets of Slavery. What could they mean? Did they not know, that the more Men find the Use of their Understanding, the more loth they are to part with it? And that those Men who are willing to part with their Understandings, must have very fhallow ones?

The English Laity have been us'd pretty much of late, to think for themfelves; and we find, as doubtlefs, Gentlemen, you do, that the more Men know of Church Power, the lefs they like it. They fee that Priestly Pomp always always ftands on Lay Mifery; that where the Priefts are Princes, the People are the loweft Slaves; and that Church Power always rifes with the Fall of Liberty and Knowledge.

The Popish Priests too, as they propagated their lying Tenets in the dark, so they did it so they and by well weigh'd Gradations. Every Invention of theirs had its proper Season. The *Fire of Pur*gatory was kindled at one time ; *Indul*gences were hatch'd at another. Transubstantiation stole in at a convenient Hour ; and all their Doctrines of Gain and Power, were broach'd at politick Distances, and as Opportunities in; vited.

But our High Priefts, as they have observ'd neither Measure nor Mercy in their Demands upon us; so neither have they made them at due and a 3 discreet difcreet Intervals. By over-loading the Cart, they have overturn'd it. They have frighten'd us with the broad and black Cloud of their Pretensions, and made Men unanimously oppose that Heap of Claims and Absurdities, which, had they been wife, we might have been brought to swallow fingly. They wanted Patience, as well as Policy.

We were not yet ripe for Popery. We had Judgment enough to fee that all those Claims, all those new Doctrines, evidently and solely tended to the Clergy's Advantage, and our Undoing : And we thought it was as consistent with natural Equity and common Sense, that we should be Judges in our own Case, as that you should be in yours. Indeed, if any amongst you had maintain'd Doctrines evidently grievous to your felves, and manifestly tending to the Knowledge and external Happines of the People,

DEDICATION. XXIII

People, we fhould at least have thought you in Earneft. If, for Example, you had contended, that the Priefts should fast Three Days in the Week, and the Laity only when they pleas'd; that the Priefts should be entirely at the Mercy of the People for a Maintenance; and shou'd be restrain'd from taking above Thirty or Forty Pounds a Year Sallary ; and forbid all Pomp and Affluence, because they vitiate the Mind, and breed Pride and Laziness, two Faults heinous in a Minister of God: I say, if you had contended for fuch Liberty in the Laity, and for fuch rigorous Restraints-upon your felves, it wou'd have carried in it the Face of Sincerity and Self-Denial. But, for Priest, who are known to have been, at first, the Alms-men of the People, (and who mostly are still educated by the Charity, and maintain'd by the Benevolence of the Laity) to talk of Palaces, Revenues, nay Thrones and a 4 and Principalities, and be for affuming Empire over their Mafters, and growing great by the Poverty of the People, is fuch a ftretch of Arrogance and Folly, as cannot be aggravated, as it would not be credible, did we not fee it. The Pretenfions of the great Turk are not half fo deteftable.

Who would not rather be a Slave to a Monarch, than a Monk? The Oppreflion of Temporal Tyrants never has been, and never can be fo great as the Oppreflion of Priefts. Temporal Tyrants only make their Slaves as miferable as Laymen can do. They take almost their All; but the little that is left, they leave them to use as they please: Whereas the Prieft, where he has Power enough, exercises his Tyranny over the Bellies and Palates of his more miserable Vafials, and suffers them to eat (if he leaves them any Thing.

DEDICATION. XXV

Thing to eat) but what he pleafes, and when he pleafes.

In Truth, the Subjects of Priefts, Abroad, are in a viler State than the Priefts Black Cattle : They are worfe fed, and not more knowing.

Can you deny, Gentlemen, that the more Power the Prieft poffeffes, juft fo much the more Men fuffer in their Souls and Bodies? Nor can it be otherwife; Power produces Pride and Debauchery in the Clergy, and Vaffallage begets Bafenefs and Poverty in the People. Whatever is gain'd to the Clergy, is gain'd from the Laity; fo that for them to be rich, we must be Beggars; and that they may be Lords, we must be Slaves. This I take to be felf-evident.

Will

XXVI DEDICATION.

Will you, or can you fay, Gentlemen, that those Claims are conducing to the Welfare of Mankind; which, where-ever they prevail, do effectually divest Mankind of every Thing that fweetens human Life; and renders it defireable, or indeed fupportable? Is that Power for our Benefit, which difarms us of our Faculties, cows our Minds with flavish Fears, and gives us up a Prey to those Men, whose Strength lies in our Weaknefs, and whole Profperity is owing to our Undoing? This is what it has always done, and what it does at this Day in Spain, Italy, and other Priest-ridden Countries: And this is what it would as effectually do in England, if Englishmen would suffer it.

These Claims of yours, Gentlemen, have done you great Prejudice. They have made Men afraid of your Spirit, which which feems to them to be mercilefs and infatiable. So that, if you are begrudg'd what you have, you may thank your felves; it is owing to your claiming what you ought not to have. If a Clergyman enjoys the Tythes of Part of my Eftate, by Virtue of the Law; and not content with that, would have Tythes of the Whole, in Spite of the Law; it is natural enough for me to think that the Man is a Knave, who would have no Man's Property fecur'd by the Law but his own.

Nothing is more common with you than to call the Impropriations of the Abbey-Lands, by the dreadful Name of Sacrilege. You fay, and fome of you have faid it in Print, and many more in the Pulpit, that fuch Impropriation was robbing the Church. What Church, Gentlemen? Was it not the Church of Rome? And are you of that

xxviii DEDICATION.

Church? It is certain, that the reform'd Protestant Church of England never posfefs'd any of these Lands. And how you, who are Protestants, and not Succeffors to the Monks, can hold from the Popish Monks, by divine Right, Lands and Immunities, which these gluttonous and cheating Vermin acquir'd by diabolical Rogueries; is fuch a Riddle as can only come from Ecclefiafticks, but can never be folved by Laymen. Did you ever hear, Gentlemen, that the primitive Preachers of Cbrift, fet up for being Heirs to the Riches and Revenues of the Heathen Temples, when they were deferted or demolifh'd? And, in my Opinion, these Pagan Revenues were more honeftly got, as well as more innocently us'd, than the Lands and Income of the Popish Monaftries.

DEDICATION. XXIX

Our Gentlemen of this Caft have long provok'd one Part of the World, and deceiv'd the other, by their Cant of Divine Right; which, tho' a very Jeft in it felf, and long fince exploded, is a Title they clap to all their Poffeffions, let them come by them how they will. This is fhameful Boldnefs. It is certain the Gofpel has not given you one Foot of Land, or one Shilling of Money; nor did ever God Almighty appear perfonally to do it by Word of Mouth. Your Church is a Creature of the Constitution, and you are the Creatures of the Law: And you most evidently belie Divine Right, if you pretend to derive from thence, what all the World fees you owe to fecular Bounty; I will not fay to devout Frauds.

If you could be but perfwaded to reconcile your Principles and Pretenfions XXX ons to the Security and Happiness of Mankind, all Mankind wou'd be reconcil'd to you and your Pretenfions. I do not remember to have ever heard the Clergy contemn'd, where they did not first deserve Contempt, When any of them depart from the Meeknefs of Minifters, no Body will pay them the Regard due to Ministers; such who intermeddle in every Thing, will be respected in nothing. Such who oppose every publick Good, and every Action favourable to Liberty, and beneficent to the World, will be deem'd Foes to Liberty, and to the World. Such who promote Strife, and Perfecution, will be reckon'd Enemies to Peace and Charity; and those who are at the Head of all publick Mischiefs, will themselves be thought a publick Mischief. If they promote the known Principles, and endeavour to fupport the known and main Pillars of Popery, can they expect expect to be treated as Protestants? If they promote Rebellion, and practice Perjury, can they either be accounted good Subjects or Christians? And if they are the Patrons of Tyranny, and the Promoters of Immorality, what Quarter can they expect to find in a Free Country, or amongst Men of Virtue?

If you ask me, why all this from a Layman to his ghoftly Guides? The Anfwer is ready— The Work was neceflary; and, Gentlemen, those of your Order made it neceflary: The Interest of Truth and Liberty was concern'd; and, indeed, at Stake; by the constant Attacks of those of your Robe upon them: which Attacks were so far from being difavowed by you, that the wicked Authors of them were not only treated as the Chief Champions of the Church's Cause; but but all who oppos'd them have been fallen upon with the sternest Outrage, and the utmost Bitterness of Spirit; together with lying Calumnies, uncharitable Suggestions, and base and brutish Language; their usual Weapons, Offensive and Defensive.

It is worth while to mention the great Want of Sincerity in the Conduct of fuch Men on this Occasion. Whenever they think it feafonable, in Conversation, to uphold the mad Principles of Hickes, and of the other Protestant Papists and Nonjurors, (tho', if ever there was fuch a Thing as Blasphemy in the World, it is to be met with in their Writings, in the most daring Colours) they never fail to fhew themselves their Advocates. But when they think that a Defence of these Reveries will do a Prejudice to the Cause, with those of your People,

People, who have a Notion of Religion and the Reformation; or among Men, who, they know, can expose these Reveries: Then, Gentlemen, they either shamelessly deny that these Writers maintain what they do maintain; or say, that the Clergy are not answerable for the Whimsies of particular Doctors.

These dishonest Shifts, these base Practices, compounded of Knavery and Lies, are common amongst too many of your Order. Yes, Gentlemen, to the Disgrace of common Candour, and the Reproach of Religion, they are very common amongst the High Clergy. Now, that these Principles (several of which I have already laid together in this Dedication) are afferted in the Books of your Non-fwearing and Forfwearing Brethren, I appeal to the Books themfelves: That they are impious, false, Antichristian, and Deftructive of Human Society, of all Social Virtues, and all Social Happines, I appeal to common Senfe, and to the known State of those milerable Countries where they prevail: And, that they have been either adopted, or approv'd by all the High Clergy, I appeal to their many Quotations from them, and to their conftantly oppofing, every Proceeding against them.

Gentlemen, it is of much Confequence to you, to clear your felves from the Imputation of maintaining or adhering to fuch ungodly, fuch, mitchievous Tenets: Tenets, which with-

Tenets, which abrogate the Juffice and Mercy of God, and call his very Being in Queftion; and Tenets, which would for ever banish all Peace and Security from amongst Men, and from the Face of the Earth. Confider, that you cannot take one Step in afferting or countenancing them, without direct Perjury. You have, upon Oath, renounced all Power, of any kind or fort what foever, but what you receive from the King and the Law: Will you, after this folemn Appeal to God, by an Oath, facred amongst Barbarians and Infidels, appeal to all the World that you are perjur'd, by maintaining, as too many do in their Writings and Sermons, that they have a Power, which they neither derive from the King nor the Law?

Sure it must be a melancholly Reflection to these Gentlemen, in Point of Credit and Reputation (for I fay nothing of Conscience) that, whilst they thus diftinguish themselves from Low-Churchmen, whose great Crime consists in not mocking God, and leaping over Conficience and Oaths; they do, at the same time, distinguish themselves from Christianity it felf, which, above all other Religions, disclaims Power, and more than all other Religions, abhors Infincerity and false Swearing.

Can you, Gentlemen, reconcile their Behaviour, fince the Revolution, to the Understanding of the People, or to any Man's Confcience but their own? If the Doctrine of Hereditary Right is true, as many of them eternally and fiercely contend, how could they fwear to Princes made by Act of Parliament? true, how came they to fwear to a Government founded upon open and evident Refistance, and to be instrumental themfelves in that Refiftance? Their particular Behaviour to His prefent Majefty, cannot yet be forgot. Be fo good to let us know, what Security He found from their Oaths; or what Affiftance the High Clergy gave Him against the late Rebellion, in purfuance of thefe Oaths? Can Men, who fhew, by glaring Actions, that they value not their own Souls, do any Good to the Souls of other Men ?

If you would clear your felves from the Imputation of fupporting or favouring fuch monstrous Principles, you must do it openly and avowedly, in full and express Words, free from that Equivocation which fome of your Order are much suspected of, upon the most folemn and facred Occations. And if you fairly renounce ill Company, you will not be cenfur'd, as you have been, for not centuring their Impieties. The Convocation at Oxford, in the Days of Tyranny, were fufficiently forward and explicite in damning, by their deteftable Decree, fince worthily burnt by the proper Hand of the common Hangman, by Order of the Legiflature; I fay, that black Affembly were forward and clear enough in damning all those Principles of Liberty, which ever have been and ever will be the Principles of Wife Men and Free Men. I cannot pass over in Silence, that fhameful want of Charity found amongft too many of you, and every Day complain'd of to no purpose. Allowing Charity to be a Chriftian Grace (and the Apoftle calls it the higheft) I would be glad to know in what Inftance you practife that Grace your felves, or pro-* mote it in others. As to fuch who deny the regular Means of Salvation to all Communions, except their own and that of Rome, they bring this Charge home to their own Door; fince their Courtefy to those of the fame Spirit with themfelves, and their good Opinion of them, is not Charity, but Selflove and Faction. But to flatter and be complain to those of the fame Imaginations, or the fame Craft with our felves, merely becaufe they are of the fame Craft, is fuch a new-fangled Charity, as would beat the old Christian Charity of St. Paul quite out of the World: And yet that this is the true Caufe and the true State of modern Orthodox Charity, appears abundantly from hence, that the most wicked good Churchman has more Complement paid him, and more Favour fhewn him, than the most righteous

Nay, by the fervile Court paid by many, very many, to those of their Patrons, who lived Libertines, and died Atheist; and by their barbarous Usage of peaceable, religious, Diffenters, (blameable only for being Diffenters) it would seem as if Virtue were no longer the Object of their Affection, nor Vice of their Aversion.

For God's fake, Gentlemen, abandon this damning Spirit, which is a Contradiction to Religion, and a Reproach to Humanity; affume Charity for all Men, or drop all Pretenfions to Chriftianity; learn to be temperate and well-bred, or ceafe claiming to be Gentlemen : Leave reviling, as you would be thoughtPreachers and Exhorters; and, as you would be thought Succeffors to the Apoftles, concern not your felves with worldly Power, of which the Apoftles had None. There has been a long and almost general Charge against the Clergy of all Ages and Countries, for neglecting to preach and enforce as much and as clearly as they ought, the great Doctrines of Morality, the best Mark of Religion, and the best Stay of Human Society : It is indeed Religion it felf; and that Religion which does not produce Morality, deferves another Name. Morality is the only Religion which Human Society, confidered as fuch, has any Occafion to fee practis'd. If a Man is really Moral, neither the Civil Magistrate, nor his Fellow Citizens, ought to have any Concern what he believes, or how he believes. Our Actions are in our Power, but our Thoughts are not, no more than our Dreams: Belief neceffarily follows Evidence; and where the Evidence does not appear fufficient, a Man cannot believe if he would : There was Virtue in the World

World before there was Orthodoxy in it; which hard, equivocal, prieftly Word, has done more Mifchief to Mankind, than all the Tyrants that ever plagued the Earth. This is worthy the Confideration of the Laity. Yes, Gentlemen, Orthodoxy has made many Tyrants, and exceeded All. What can be faid to this Fact?

I allow, that Priefts often contend for good Works; but, without a Paradox, the good Works they contend for, are, for the moft Part, not only not Morality, but, on the contrary, are often very wicked and finful. The Endowing of Churches and Monafteries is, for Example, with them a great good Work; and yet it has generally prov'd a mifchievous Liberality, which evidently hurt Religion and Human Society, and frequently deftroyed Both. I call upon you, Gentlemen, to fhew where and when the Chri-

Christian Religion ever thriv'd or gain'd by Riches? I, on my Side, can hew that they have been always Poyfon to it. Riches first made Priests Rampant, and fuch Priefts foon defaced and ruin'd Religion ; but still more or lefs effectually, as their Revenues: and Power were greater or fmaller. Chriftianity flourished most when it had neither worldly Priefts nor worldly Endowments. Will you deny this? In fhort, their preaching good Works has been generally preaching themfelves, who were the chief Gainers by them. And as to those good Works which did not promife any Advantage to the Clergy, they either always oppos'd them, or never encourag'd them. We cannot forget your Behaviour at the Beginning of our prefent Charity-Schools, how you every where oppofed them, till you had got the Management of them into your own, Hands;

Hands; and now you as violently promote them out of other Mens Pockets. Whether your Government of those Schools promotes the Welfare of the Common-wealth, (if you can bear that Word) appears abundantly from the bitter and difaffected Spirit found in them.

By Morality, therefore, is meant a Thing quite different from fuch good Works. Morality is Natural Religion, which prompts us to do Good to all Men, and to all Men alike, without Regard to their Speculations, no more than to their Cloaths, or to the Colour of their Hair, which is as much in their Power as their Faith is. Morality is a focial Virtue, or rather the Mother of all focial Virtues : It wifnes and promotes unlimited and univerfal Happinefs to the whole World : It regards not a Chriftian more than a Jew or an Indian, any further than as he is a better Citizen; and not fo much, if he is not.

Barbeyrac, in his excellent Preface to his Translation of Puffendorf de Jure Natura & Gentium, has shewn us, by a fine Detail of Paffages, how the Pagan, the Jewish, and too many Chrifian Priests, have all ever agreed in concealing, difguifing, mangling, calumniating, and oppofing the eternal Principles of Morality or Natural Religim. The Religion of these holy Hirelings confifted either in a long Rout of Ceremonies, as tedious as ridiculous : or incertain abstruse Points, which could never be known, and were not worth knowing; and always in great Pomp and Pride; and in Dominion, where they could get it. It was either a Religion of the Body, or a Religion of the Imagination, or a Religion of Shew, Profit and Terror. In fine, the bleffed Clubs of

Mr. Barbeyrac, in his Preface, has given us a diverting Specimen of the Abfurdities and Ravings of those Reverend old Gentlemen, whom we call the Fathers. And in all the Instances. he brings, it is hard, if not impossible to fay, whether the Uncharitableness, Roguery, or Stupidity of these old Saints, appears uppermost.

This Preface is every way fo excellent, that I have prevail'd upon a Friend of mine, a Gentleman of Gray's-Inn, to translate it into English, for the Instruction of the Laity. A Reverend Divine or Two of Mankind; and it infers a Charge of Corruption or Ignorance in his Pupils, out of which he aflumes to whip them. As every Man has a good Conceit of his own Merit, he thinks himfelf undervalued by Inftruction, and is provoked by Correction. The Confeffion of our own Weaknefs, and that of another's better Senfe, is generally both contained in the taking of Advice, which is feldom taken for that Reafon.

The INTRODUCTION.

HOEVER goes about to reform the World, undertakes an Office obnoxious to Malice, and befet with Difficulties. It fpeaks a Confidence of his own Capacity, which

Befides, Blindnefs and Prejudice are feldom to be refigned but with Pain; and therefore, for the most Part, are not refigned at all. It is but an unacceptable Civility to offer to let in the Rays of Understanding upon those Minds, which are used to subsist in the Dark. It is like opening Day Light upon a Nest of Owls; it always sets them a Screetching.

However, the Difference is confiderable between natural and acquired Ignorance, and the last is much more incurable than the first. The one is capable, and often willing, to be informed ; whereas the other thinks it felf above it, and is too wife to learn. There can be no Cure for one who is taught to be a Blockhead : His Ignorance is the Fruit of Instruction, and has cost him great Pains; and fo his Pride is engaged to support it. As he has improved his Mind into learned Darknefs, fo he stands upon his Guard against Common Senfe, is Proof against all the Affaults of Reason, and scorns its Power. If he

he does not take you for his Enemy, and ufe you accordingly; yet, at leaft, he will pity your Mistakes, and perhaps pray for your Illumination.

It will probably be faid, by fome of my Readers, that I here defcribe my felf and my own Performances, and perhaps with too much Truth. There lived, not long fince, a Poet, who made excellent Criticifms upon the most applauded Plays, and afterwards writ one himself obnoxious to them all.

But neither thefe, nor any other Difficulties, or Difcouragements, fhall hinder me from the generous Attempt of endeavouring to reform Mankind. I have the Magnanimity to face them all, and fet about the Work; though I am fufficiently fenfible of the Greatnefs of the Defign, and have long wifhed that fome abler Genius would have undertaken it.

I confess there have been fome feeming Attempts of this Kind, which were carried on with great Dexterity and Wit, and brought great Credit and other valuable Advantages to the Authors; but I should be glad to know what Service they have done to the Publick. The exposing of small Faults can do but small Service; and People may be singular in their Humours, and vain in their Drefs, without hurting humane Society. A Beau may wear a fine Coat, and a gaudy Sword-Knot, without prejudicing the Common-wealth, or in-. B 2 deed deed any one Member of it: Nor can I fee any dreadful Malignity in a hooped Petticoat. A Lady may keep a Squirrel, and diverfify her Face with Fifty Patches on a Side, without invading private or publick Property. There is no Mifchief in a harmlefs Snuff-Box, or a Diamond-Ring; nor do laced Cloaths, or a clouded Cane, prejudice Trade; nor the flirting of a Fan fhake our Conflitution. A terrible Fellow with a long Sword may be a peaceable Neighbour; and a Coquet may falute her Lap Dog, and yet not endanger our Liberties.

Thefe little Sallies and Excrefcencies of Humour, as they give real Pleafure and Happinefs to the Proprietors themfelves, fo they often entertain wifer Pcople, who might otherwife grow too fevere for want of a little Laughing. And yet, I will own, that many Papers, upon that Subject, have juftly merited univerfal Effecem and Admiration.

But the greater and more important Mifchiefs, which afflict Humane Society, have been, for the most Part, left untouch'd by our finest Writers; and Priestcraft and Tyranny have been feldom attacked by any, but rather flattered and supported. Mr. Saville is faid to have replied to a Frenchman, who exulted upon the fine Writings of his Countrymen, That there were but Two Subjects in Nature worth a Wise Man's Thoughts, namely, Religion and Government, and they durst speak fpeak of neither. But it is our peculiar Happinefs to live in a Country, where we may fpeak our Minds freely and openly upon any Subject, within the Bounds of good Manners and Virtue; which, I hope, I shall never transgress.

I own, the Free. Thinker is a useful, as well as a fine Paper. I have feen fome Difcourfes of his, which, in my Opinion, are inimitable; especially those upon Superstition and Enthu*hafm.* Most that come from him are instructive, and all are elegant. I hope fo worthy a Writer has fuitable Encouragement. I have not the good Fortune to know that ingenious and deferving Gentleman; but I am told that, befides his Capacity and publick Principles, and the Work he is now engaged in, he has done perfonal Services to the Govennment, which, in any other Country, would entitle him to a very good Station in it: If he has none in this, it is, no doubt, owing to the publick Spirit of the Great; who will, by no Fault or Courtefy of theirs, divert him from instructing his Country twice a Week. I shall only add upon this Head, that as no Man is fo well qualify'd as the Free-Thinker himself to execute his own Plan, mine will not by any Means interfere with his, as will be shewn in my next Paper.

There was one Weekly Paper, which, had it gone on, would have prevented this; I mean, the Free-Thinker Extraordinary. It breathed an uncommon Spirit of publick Li-B 3 berty, berty, and shewed fufficiently the Capacity of the Author to do Service to Mankind. But when he had shewed his Skill, and engaged our Attention, he dropped us and his Subject, and made it necessary, though dangerous, to fucceed him. It was never asked why he undertook it; for every one faw the Reasons and Advantages of it: But why he deferted it, has been the Subject of Enquiry; and the rather, because it was evident he wanted neither Art nor Materials.

For my felf, who have no manner of Attachment to any Party, I shall not be asfraid to speak my Mind of All, with that Freedom which becomes Truth and Independency; and the flattering of Power, in any Shape or Hands whatsoever, shall be the last Charge against me.

There is no Power in Names to confecrate Perfons or Things, or to alter their Nature; and yet the Majority of Mankind have always worfhipped the Idols of Words and Sounds; and a Monofyllable has often done more than an Army, towards keeping them under Awe and Servitude. In Catholick Countries, the Word Pope, or Priest, carries with it more Reverence than does the Old or New Testament, and more Terror than an armed Host. And lately in France, the Words, Grand Monarque, or the Glory of the Grand Monarque, could keep a vast Nation in Mifery and Wooden-Shoes, and carry a Hundred dred Thousand of them at a Time to the Slaughter.

This blind Devotion to Names, fo inconfiftent with true Liberty, which thews it felf in Judging as well as Atting, has alfo prevailed in this free Nation to a thameful and dangerous Degree. We know what terrible Lengths the Words Church, Clergy, Divine Right, and the like undefined Nontenfe, have gone towards enflaving us; and what a fteddy and ridiculous Reverence is ftill paid to them, even when they are evidently apply'd to the most impious and tyrannical Purpofes.

Nor does this Charge of wor hipping Words, lie altogether at the Door of one Party only. Even that Side, which boafts a greater Share of Reafon and Freedom, is manifeftly guilty of the like Idolatry to Names and Perfons, and in Inftances of the greateft Importance. They do not confider the Speech, but the Speaker; nor what is done, but the Doer; and confequently praife, by the Great, in their own Leaders, what they would loudly condemn in any others.

Credulity and implicit Belief are equally as dangerous in Government as in Religion: They have made the World Slaves, and they keep it fo. Every Party has its Pope, and fome have feveral; who, like him at Rome, never fail to make an ill Ufe of the Faith of their Followers, and deceive those who trust in them.

The Defign of this PAPER.

ELIGION was defigned by Heaven, for the Benefit of Men alone. It teaches us to moderate our Defires, calm our Paffions, and be ufeful and beneficent to one another; and whatever does not contribute to those Ends, ought not to be called by that Name. For, Almighty God has infinite Happines in himfelf, which we can neither diminish nor add to; and therefore he can require nothing of us, but for our own Sakes; nor command any Thing but what tends to our own Good, both here and hereafter.

I fay it with the utmost Sincerity, that no Man living defires to pay a more true and affectionate Esteem and Reverence than my felf to those Clergymen, who answer this End of their Institution, and whose Lives and Manners grace and adorn their Profession and Doctrine.

I thank God, I know many fuch; and perceive, with Pleafure and Transport, a noble Spirit of Liberty and true Religion rifing up among them; which will foon flame out far and wide, if it is not stifled by those, whose true Interest and Honour call aloud to them to give it Affistance and Protection.

That Profession must be always most honourable and deferving from Mankind, which is most useful and advantageous to them. As it is therefore impossible to shew too much Refpect to virtuous Clergymen, fo the corrupt Part of them cannot be too much expos'd. As the Possession which they have of the Fears and Panick of fuperstitious People, and in the tenderest Seasons too, enable them to do the greatest Mischief, so the strongest Antidotes ought to be applied to their Poifon. It will be ridiculous to call for Protection from that Character, which they constantly difgrace, and to ask Affiftance from the Religion, which they neither believe nor practife.

I here lift my felf under the Banners of the former fort; and defign by this Work to illufrate the Beauty of Christianity, by expofing fing the Deformity of Prieftcraft; and to diftinguish the good Clergy from the bad, by giving to each his Share of Praise or Infamy, according to the different Deeds done by them. I will lose no Opportunity of doing Justice to the former, nor willingly to the latter.

In doing this, I shall go far backward, and taking Things from the Beginning, shew in the Course of these Papers, the infinite Evils brought upon Mankind, from Age to Age, by the Pride and Imposture of corrupt Ecclesiassisticks: I shall shew what a Babel they have built upon the Foundation of Christ and his Apostles, who were made to father Doctrines which they never taught; and to countenance Power which they always disclaimed. I shall shew by what Arts and Intrigues they came, from being Alms-Men of the People, to be Masters of Mankind; and how, by pretending to dispose of the Other World, they actually usurped and ruled This.

I shall shew, that notwithstanding Christianity was first propagated by Miracles and Mildness only, and the Teachers of it had no Power but to perfuade; making it withal appear, in the whole Course of their Lives and Preaching, that they fought no Manner of perfonal Advantage, or any Manner of Jurisdiction over their Hearers and Converts; yet they who, without their Inspiration and Manners, called themselves their Successfors, did by Virtue of their Names, lay infolentClaim toDominion, and carried all Things before them, by the Dint of Terror and Excommunication.

IF

I shall shew that though the Clergy, like other Militia, were raifed and paid for protecting Mankind from their Spiritual Enemy, yet they foon made use of the Sword put into their Hands against their Masters, and set up for themfelves. I fhall fhew that notwithstanding the whole End of their Institution was to make Men wifer and better, yet whereever They prevailed, Debauchery and Ignorance also prevailed; and the constant Lesson they taught was blind Belief and blind Obedience, of both which they made themfelves the Objects. So that Superstition was an infeparable Creature of their Power, and the perpetual Issue of it; and tainted Morals and darkened Minds were the great Props of their Dominion. A good Understanding, and an inquisitive Spirit, led directly to Herefy; and a pious Life was of ill Example, and a Reproach to the Clergy; and if any one gave Offence this Way, it was but calling him Heretick, and delivering him over to Satan, and the Man was undone, and the Clergy fafe.

I shall shew how they soon banished the meek Spirit of the Christian Religion, and growing to as great Variance with Mercy as they were with Reason, perverted Religion into Rage, and Zeal into Cruelty. They made the peaceable Doctrine of Jesus a Doctrine of Blood, and excommunicated and damned by that Name, by which alone Men could be faved. It is true, they damned one one another as much as they did other People; for, agreeing in nothing but the great Principle of Interest, tho' they rode upon the Necks of their People, yet they never could be at Peace, nor Eafe, among themfelves, fo long as each Individual was not in the higheft Place: And therefore, becaufe every one of them could not be above all the reft, they were eternally quarrelling, and giving one another to the Devil.

If one of them held any Proposition, true or falfe, it was Reafon enough for another to deny it, and curfe him into the Bargain. At last, there was not one Principle in their System but what was contested, and they agreed in nothing but their own Power; tho', at the fame Time, they difputed what that was.

In this everlasting Scuffle and Civil War, they had fo mangled Truth, and muffled it up, that few could diftinguish it from the false Images they had made of it. And yet these Men, who, by their constant Discords and Debates, confess'd themselves in endless Uncertainties, were the fure and infallible Guides to others, who were obliged to believe their Guesses and Contradictions, on Pain of Hell-Fire.

I shall shew what a shameful Hand they have always had in bringing and keeping Mankind under Tyranny and Bondage to fuch Princes as would divide the Spoil with In fuch Cafe, it was a Point of Conthem. fcience, and a religious Duty, for Subjects to be miserable Slaves; and Damnation but to ftrive ftrive to be Happy. But if the Prince happen'd to be a Lover of Mankind, and endeavoured to protect his People in their Civil and Sacred Rights; then were they the conftant Incendiaries of every popular and wicked Faction. They preached nothing but Sedition and Blood, till they had worked up their blind and ftupid Votaries to Rebellions and Affaffinations; and to fuch Conduct is owing a great Part of their Power and Wealth.

I think no one, who is the leaft converfant with Ecclefiaftical Hiftory, will deny but this was the Condition of Chriftianity before the Reformation; and the chief Intent of this Paper is to let all the World know it, that they may be upon their Guard againft the like Mifchiefs. It is certain, that the Demands of the High Clergy, upon the Laity, are as great, if not greater, than they were at that Time. As Father Paul fays of England, The Horfe is Bridled and Sadled, and the old Rider is just getting upon his Back.

It is Time now to conclude this Paper, by faying, if my hearty Endeavours shall any ways contribute to detect the Impostures, and expose the wicked Practices of those, who, under the prostituted Name of Sanctity, are Foes to Truth, to Liberty, and Virtue, I shall think my Time and Pains well spent. But if not, I shall have the Internal Satisfaction of having attempted at least to attack attack Vice and Corruption, however dignified or diftinguished; and the worst which can be faid of me is,

Magnis tamen excidit ausis.

NUMBER III.

Of the Contempt of the Clergy.

ING the Bells backward! The R Temple, the Temple is on Fire! The High Priefts look aghaft, and the People flare, and all cry out, The Craft, the Craft is in Danger!

This I expected, and was prepared for, when I first engaged in the Undertaking: Touch a galled Horse and he will wince, tho' is in order to cure him. I knew a Gentleman, who found out a Murtherer by looking stedfastly in his Face: When any one is conficious of his own Crimes or Infirmities, he is jealous of every Approach towards a Discovery, and often makes one by it.

Ic

It is remarkable, that no Order or Society of Men is 10 apprehensive of Distribution of the can follittle bear the Examination into their Pretensions, as the greatest Part of the Ecclesiasticks : If you ridicule or laugh at the Professions of Law and Physick, the Lawyers and Physicians will laugh with you: The fame is true of Soldiers, Merchants, and the Professions of almost all Arts and Sciences, who generally are the first to expose the Knaves and Fools amongst them.

If a Lawyer, Soldier, or Merchant, deferves the Pillory; neither Weftminster-Hall, the Army, or the East-India Company, are in an Uproar; or complain that the Law, Trade, or the Soldiery, are wounded thro' his Sides; nor endeavour to raife a Mobb in his Behalf, or rebel in Token of their unlimited Submission to Government. The fair Sex do not think themsfelves ill used, when a Baud is ty'd to a Cart, or naughty Nymph beats Hemp: The Eleven Apostles lost no Credit when Judas hang'd himsfelf; nor would any honest Clergyman, tho' ever so many of the other Sort did the same, or if it was done for them.

But I do not know by what Judgment or Fatality it happens, that if you but touch the Pretences or Vices of the Meaneft of the Ecclefiafticks, fo many of their Body are in an Uproar: They roar aloud, their Order is expofed, their Mysteries derided and profaned, and Religion it felf in Danger of being subverted, verted; and Socinian, Deift, or Atheift, is the best Word, that is often given to their best Friend; and sometimes all of them are given.

All other Societies of Men are contented with the Efteem and Honour, which refult from the Ufefulnefs of their Employments and Profeffions, and the Worth and Capacity of their Members; and yet none ftand in fuch a Situation, and have fo many Advantages to acquire Refpect and Homage, as the Clergy.

Their Office is evidently adapted to promote the Welfare of Humane Nature, and to propagate its Peace and Profperity in this World, as well as its eternal Felicity in the next; fo that it is the Intereft of all Men to honour it; and none but a Madman will condemn and ridicule what has a manifeft Tendency to the Security and Happinefs of all Mankind.

The Temporal Condition of the Clergy does likewife place them far above Contempt: They have great Revenues, Dignities, Titles, and Names of Reverence, to diftinguish them from the rest of the World; and it is too well known that Wealth, Power, and Learning, carry to the Vulgar a kind of Myssery, and distant Grandeur, and command not only Admiration and Reverence, but often a superstitious Veneration.

Added to this, they have the Possessin and Direction of our Fears, and are admitted in in Health and Sickness: Every Sunday they have the fole Opportunity to gain our Efteem by worthy and useful Instructions, and all the Week by their good Lives: They educate us whilst young, influence us in our middle Age, and govern us in our Dotage, and we neither live nor die without them.

A numerous Body of Men, fo conftituted and endow'd, fo privileged and posted, are capable of being most useful and beneficent to Society, if their Actions are fuitable to their Professions. All the World will acknowledge and pay a willing Homage to their Merit, and there will be no need of demanding, much less of extorting Respect, or of Complaints and Exclamations for want of it. The Danger lies on the other Side; for there are such Seeds of Superstition in Humane Nature, that all our Prudence and Caution will be little enough to prevent even Adoration to their Persons.

If, therefore, they want that Respect they are so fond of, they cannot be to seek for the true Reasons, viz. their own Corruptions and Worthlesser, which must be exceeding great to get the better of so many Advantages. When a certain late Dutchels was complaining to a Gentleman of more Wit than Complaisance, that (in Spite of her great Quality and Revenue) she was subject to continual Affronts; Pray, Madam, fays he, is not Mr. Goodman an excellent Actor?

If Clergymen would avoid Contempt, let them avoid the Caufes of it. Let them not be starting and maintaining eternal Claims to worldly Power : Let them not be hunting after Honours, courting Preferments, and buftling for Riches: Let them not be assuming to give Models of Humane Government, or to adjust and determine the Titles of Princes: Let them not pretend to punish any Man for his Way of Worship, and to give him to the Devil for his Money or Opinion: Let them not join in Factions, and foment Rebellions: Let them not defy Heaven by fwearing falfly: Let them not promote Servitude in the People, and Barbarity in the Prince; and let them not flatter wicked Kings, and plague and difturb good Ones.

Let them win Respect and wear it; but let them not earn Infamy and demand Veneration. Let not those of them, who gratify Brutish Appetites, and live in all Vileness, add Want of Shame to their Want of Grace. and bewail that they are contemned, while they are deferving it. If a Man pretending to great Gravity and Regard, should drefs himself up in a Fool's Coat, and a Pair of Horns, would not People laugh at him in Spite of themfelves? And would not his Refentment and Rebukes add still to their Mirth? A Clergyman who is Drunk on Saturday, will but, with an ill Grace, talk of his Dignity and Ambassadorship on Sunday. Ought we to own and Reverence that Man as our Guide to Heaven, who is himfelf going a contrary Road, and rioting in those Vices which his whole Duty is to restrain ?

The Honour therefore of the good Clergy is confulted and promoted by exposing the bad. A profane Priest is the Disgrace and Bane of his own Order, and they who stand by him, adopt his Infamy, and defile themfelves. If he neglects God, and disturbs Humane Society, how do the Clergy suffer tho he is whip'd or hang'd ? His Punishment is their Credit and Security, because by it is lopped off from their Body, a gangrened Limb that incumbred and deformed the rest.

Atbeifts, who are not reftrained by the Fear of God, which is ftronger than all the Laws in the World, ought, in the Opinion of Politicians, as well as Cafuifts, to be expelled from the Society of Men: And fhall more Mercy be fhewn to those who are so hardened in Impiety, that tho' they believe a God, yet dread not his Vengeance, but swear by his great and terrible Name to an avowed Falfhood? Or can the Clergy fuffer by the Loss of fuch execrable Company?

An unfortunate Levite, fome Years fince, had his Head cleft by a Butcher, who caught him in Bed with his Wife; and neither the Number of Reverend Auditors, who attended the Tryal, a due Regard to the Cloth, or an Apprehension of the Carnage it might produce, could hinder the Judge from directing the Jury to call the Crime only Man-C 2 Slaughter;

Slaughter; which fo provoked the meek Spirit, and Patience, of a Holy Brother, then prefent, that he cried out in the Court, Hey Day! Here's a fine World! if these Things are fuffered, there will be no living for us.

No chaste or fober Clergyman could be terrify'd with fuch an Example, or think the Church in any Danger by it. Does any vertuous Member of the Holy Order fuffer either in his Person or Character, if Bis diverts his Spectators in a Pillory, or Parfon "Paul his Auditors upon a Gallows? None can share in their Difgrace, but those who fympathize in their Crimes, or cenfure their Punishment. How much more honest, as well as prudent, would it be to remove the Guilt from themfelves, by throwing it all upon the devoted Head; to put the evil Thing out of the City; and to imitate the Sagacity of the horned Herd, who always drive the blown Deer from amongst them, where he feeks his Refuge, tho' at the Hazard of involving the whole Tribe in his Misfortune!

Of the Explication of the Scripture.

O fear God, and keep his Commandments, is the Summary of the Old Testament; and to believe that Jefus Chrift is come in the Flesh, is the Compendium of the New. Whoever can prove his Obedience and Faith, by these two plain Duties, fulfils the Law and the Gospel.

It was most agreeable to the infinite Goodness and tender Mercies of God, to make every Thing which he requires of us, weak Men, obvious and clear. The Importance of the Duty implies its Certainty, which is not to be found in Phrases either doubtful or obscure. The Scriptures are justly stiled the Revealed Will of God, and are address'd to all Mankind, and given to remain as a Rule of Faith and Manners to the End of the World. It must therefore follow, that whatever is necessary to be known in them, is to Ъе be as easy and intelligible at one Time as another, and to all Men alike.

Where their Meaning cannot be politively determined, a new Infpiration will be neceffary to reduce them to Certainty; and if that is wanting, every Thing elfe is but Conjecture. Whoever therefore goes about to put a Conftruction upon fuch Pallages in Scripture, and enjoins us to believe his Interpretation, does not demand Submiffion to the Word of God, but to his own Authority and Imagination.

What Use is there of an unintelligible Proposition? Or of a Revelation which wants to be revealed? Almighty God will never require of us to see in the Dark, till he has given us new Eyes; nor to believe any Article, or obey any Precept, till we understand him, and know what he means. A Rule which is not plain, is no Rule at all: Nor will he make a Law binding, or the Tranfgression of it a Sin, till we know what it is.

It is true, Humane Laws oblige all Men to fubmit to the Penalty annex'd to the Tranfgreffion, tho' many perhaps may never hear of them. But this is to prevent the conftant Plea of Ignorance, which otherwife would be made by all Offenders. The Corruption and Imbecility of Humane Nature make this Proceedure neceffary. But it is far otherwife in the Difpenfation of Providence. The Author of it fees our Hearts, penetrates the moft fecret Receffes of our Souls, makes indulgent dulgent Allowances for our Weakneffes, and expects nothing from us, but what he has given us the Means and Abilities of knowing and performing. He requires us not to make Brick without Straw. He judges by the Intention, not the Action. We cannot offend him but voluntarily, much lefs offer him an Affront, when we defign Respect and Obedience.

The Creator and Preferver of Mankind cannot take Delight in puzling his Creatures with Darkness and Ambiguities, and in Points too where their Souls are in Danger. He is not a rigid Master, who would reap where he did not fow. This would be a cruel Mockery, unworthy of the Divine Being. Who has brought Life and Immortality to Light.

Nothing is plainer than the Law and the Gofpel. Whoever fays the contrary, does no lefs than accufe the great and good God, and justify wicked and wilful Men, whom he has left without Excufe, by telling them clearly what he expects from them. What does God require of thee, O Man, but to do Justice, to love Mercy, and to walk Humbly? faid One of his Prophets out of his Mouth, I am very fure there is no Difficulty in understanding this.

The obscure Passages in Scripture could not be intended for our Instruction. Infinite Wisdom has hid them from our Eyes, to be brought to Light in his own Time, and then C 4 ťo to answer the Ends of his Providence; or perhaps to baffle our vain Pride and Curiofity. Who art thou, O Man, who wilt be wifer than the Omniscient, who wilt make those Things necessary which he has not made so, wilt discover what he has thought fit to conceal, and know his Secrets whether he will or no? This would be to mend the Scripture; to make it more useful than God has made it; to help the Holy Ghost, and to teach the Almighty how to express himfelf.

How abfurd would it be to fend Cook-Maids and Day-Labourers to study Aristotle and Suarez; to rake into the Jargon of the Schools; to learn all Languages, examine all Systems; and to discover of themselves all Errors, Interpolations and Mistakes, or to, do what is much more ridiculous, that is, wholly throw themselves and their Salvation, in most Countries, upon a Confederacy of Men, who have an Interest to deceive and oppress them, and ever did so when they had an Opportunity; who have been always at Variance with one another, and with themfelves; and have agreed in nothing but the misleading of those who trusted them And yet One of these must be the unhappy Circumstance of the greatest Part of Mankind, if what I have faid before is not true; which we may be fure the Divine Goodness cannot permit.

Nothing

Nothing is more evident from Hiftory, than that most, if not all, the Improvements and Reformations of Religion have been made, not only without, but in Opposition to these There have been near a Million of Men. them kept in conftant Pay for the best Part of Seventeen Hundred Years, to teach the World by their Precepts, and reform it by their Example; and yet I am perfuaded they will not pretend that Religion is plainer, the Scriptures better understood, or that Mankind are more wife or virtuous for all their Instructions. So little have we been benefited by their Labours, and for all the Money they have received! I wish I could not fay that the World has gradually decreas'd in Piety and Virtue, as these its Teachers have advanced in Riches and Power. It is owned by the beft of themfelves.

It is the farthest from my Thoughts, by any Thing I have before faid, to undervalue their true Office, much less to make it useless. I fincerely think it absolutely necessary to the Peace and Happiness of Society. The Roman Confuls had an Officer attending their Triumphal Chariots, whose Business it was to cry out Memento mori.

I would have these too, answer the fame End of their Institution; to press the Reading of the Scripture upon their Hearers; to shew their Excellency and Advantages; to inculcate the plain Precepts of Faith and Morality contained in them; and to demonstrate the the Goodneis of God to Men, by proving that he has laid down to us, in plain Words, every Duty which he requires of us, either to himfelf, our Neighbour, or our felves. But let them not diftract, inftead of inftructing, and confound ignorant People with Metaphyfical Subtilties, which the Wifeft cannot comprehend. Let them not ftrain ridiculous and felfifh Confequences from obfcure Parts of Scripture, and make the Almighty mean what he never faid.

Let them give us God's Will in God's Words.

Another End of their Office is to execute thole Duties of our molt Holy Religion, which the Word of God has left at large for every one to do, but which indeed are neceffary to be perform'd by fingle Perfons in the feveral Churches or Societies of Chriftians; fuch as reading the Scriptures and publick Prayers aloud to the Congregation, and administring the Sacraments: What by the Gofpel Liberty is the Right of every one (as fhall be unanfwerably made out hereafter) is by the Confent of Voluntary and National Churches become the Duty and Bufinels of particular Perfons, who are fet afide and paid for that Purpofe.

In what I have before faid, I have the Concurrence of the best and wifest of our own Clergy, who acknowledge and contend that we are not to take the Almighty's Meaning ing at fecond Hand, nor receive that for his Will which we our felves do not find to be fo; but that we are to enquire before we believe, and to be convinced before we affent : every Aflertion or Proposition, before it is examin'd, being alike to the Understanding, as every Colour is to the Blind: They own that our Judgment ought to be at no Man's Service, nor our Minds controuled in religious Matters, but by God alone; for as no Man's Soul can be faved by Proxy, fo no Man ought to exercise his Faith by Proxy.

The Unfitness of the Clergy to Teach Others.

S in my last Paper, I hope, I have fully shewn that Clergymen have no Right to interpret the Scriptures for other People; fo I shall endeavour in this, to prove that they are the least qualify'd, for the most Part, to do so, of any Set

Set or Society of Men, in their prefent State of Learning and Virtue. This I do with a fincere Defign to ferve Them, as well as the Laity; hoping that when they fee from what Source the Neglect and Contempt, which they fo much complain of, proceed, they will join heartily in their own Reformation, in anfwering the Ends of their Inflitution, and in being hereafter as ufeful to their Country, as many of them have been formerly mifchievous.

Use makes every Posture familiar to the Body, and every Opinion to the Mind. We are told that the Brahmans, in India, do, by long Habit, so diffort their Limbs, that they grow in the Situation which they are put in. Every Day's Experience proves that we affimulate with the Company we keep, as well in our Sentiments, as in the Aire and Mein of our Bodies. Not only different Nations, but often Sects, Professions, and Trades, are to be known by their Phiz and Behaviour. A Sailor, or a Taylor, (to fay nothing of their Betters) may be found out, however they difguise themselves.

Nothing but keeping the best Company can give a free and easy Carriage; and an open and generous Conversation alone can difengage our Minds from the strong Imprefstrong of our Early Education. The Habit of thinking freely, and of expressing freely those Thoughts on all Occasions, enables us to judge well of Men and Things. Our Minds are polished by Collision, and a liberal Conversation not only starts all Difficulties, but folves them; if they are to be folved.

Almighty God give us Faculties to use them; and it is Ingratitude, as well as Folly, to return the Gift upon his Hands. Truth can never suffer by an impartial Examination, but on the contrary will receive Strength and Advantage from it. It is Error and Imposture alone, which dread a fair Enquiry, as being confcious of their own Weakness.

I think I may therefore fafely affirm, that whatever Body or Society of Men are most restrained by themselves or others, from Reafoning freely on every Subject, and especially on the most important of all, are the least qualify'd to be the Guides and Directors of Mankind.

I will now examine how far this is the Circumstance of the Clergy in most Countries. They are no sooner discharged from the Nurse and the Mother, but they are delivered over to Spiritual Pædagogues, who have seldom the Capacity, and never the Honesty and Courage, to venture at a Free Thought themselves, and must consequently be improper Channels to convey any to their Pupils.

From thence they are fent to the Univerfitics (very commonly upon Charity) where they are hamftringed and manacled with early Oaths and Subfcriptions, and obliged to fwear to Notions before they know what they

they are. Their Bufinefs afterwards is not to find out what is Truth, but to defend the received Syftem, and to maintain those Doctrines which are to maintain them. Not only their present Revenues and Subsistence, but all their Expectations are annexed to certain Opinions, established for the most Part by Popes and Synods, in corrupt and ignorant Ages, and even then often carried by Faction and Bribery, in Concert with the Designs and Intrigues of Statessen ; but are fanctify'd by Time, and are now to be received without Enquiry.

No one can fairly examine what is Truth, who has an Intereft on either Side of the Queftion. We are bribed by our Inclinations, in Spite of our beft Refolutions. Who can be heartily angry at an Opinion, which will keep a Coach and Six, or firenuoufly endeavour to find out any Herefy in it? Befides, all Men are fond of Refpect and Homage, and when they are in Poffellion, will efteem it but an unprofitable Study to find out that they do not deferve them.

As Clergymen fo educated cannot, for the Reafons aforefaid, be fair and impartial Judges themfelves of what is Truth, fo their Authority can give but little Weight to fuch Doctrines as they may think fit to teach to others. The first Question ask'd of a suspected Witness in every Court of Judicature is, Whether he gets or loses by the Success of the Cause? And, if either appears, he is conThe Independent Whig. 31 constantly fet aside, and not trusted with an Oath.

It is demonstrable in Reason, that every Man's Pretences ought to be try'd by the fame Test and Rule; and where the Evidence of a Proposition cannot be clearly shewn by one who has an Interest to advance it, not proved by Miracles, all other Persons have Reason to suspect it of Imposture: When what he offers will indisputably conduce to his own Benefit, and I have only his Word that it will conduce to mine, I cannot doubt but his Kindness is greater for himself than for me, and shall confequently believe that he is not doing my Business, but his own.

The Apostles, and some of the first Chriftians, did not so teach Christ. They not only convinced Mankind of the Truth of what they faid by Miracles; but made it apparent to all the World, that they sought no Temporal Benefit; but, on the contrary, left their Families, their Professions, and all the Comforts of Life, to wander about the Earth, and preach a Doctrine infinitely advantageous to the present, as well as eternal State of others; and expected no Reward to themfelves in this Life, but Beggary, Stripes, and even Death it felf.

It is not to be wondered that no Difcourfes, or even diftant Hints, are countenanced or permitted in Universities Abroad, which have the least Tendency to oppose the Pride or Temporal Grandeur of the Clergy; nor any any Speculations fuffered to be vented there, which ever fo little break in upon received Opinions. It is not only a certain Stop to all Hopes of Preferment, to queftion the Truth of any of their darling Notions; but you are in Danger of being expelled, and are fure to be difcountenanced and contemned.

The Philofophy and Learning there taught, and encouraged, are exactly calculated and adapted to this State of Darknefs and Ignorance: They are nothing but an unintelligible Jargon of undefined Words and bare Sounds, which mean nothing, and yet can prove every Thing. With this Gibberifh they are diverted from found Knowledge, by being put upon a wrong Scent; and are hindered from attaining true Wifdom, by believing that they have got it.

All Attempts towards useful Learning are neglected and discouraged; and nothing is found out to be true in Philosophy, but is made false in Religion; and the Authors and Discoverers are branded with Heresy, if not Atheism: of which the Examples are infinite.

Thus accoutted, and thus fet out, our young Ecclefiaftick commences Governour and Director of Mens Confciences. He is impatient of the leaft Contradiction, and is all in a Flame at an Oppofition which he has not been ufed to. As he never queftioned the Truth of any his own Notions himfelf, he grows outrageous at any one elfe who does, does, and immediately cries out aloud for Fire and Faggot.

To this it is owing that the Difference between the controverfial Writings of Gentlemen, and those of Divines, is so very remarkable. The first are carried on for the most Part with Humanity, and always with good Manners, even when the Matter is most poignant and farcastical. In the Latter, at first Sight, appears the Odium Theologorum; and Rage, Ill-breeding, and Revenge, breathe thro' every Part of them. A proper Disposition this to make Converts, and govern the World!

This Temper has (even in England) fhewn it felf vifibly, in their Treatment of a modern Bishop, whom neither his great Penetration, his pious Life, nor the pretended Regard to his pastoral Function, could protect from Ecclesiastical Hatred and Fury, for his having dared to engage in the Interest of Mankind.

As it is undeniably true, that what I have before defcribed is the unhappy Circumftance of the Clergy, in most Countries; fo no Man, who has the least Defire to promote useful Knowledge, true Virtue, and found Religion amongst Mankind, but must endeavour to manumit them from this State of Servitude and Darkness, even tho' they should oppose it themselves. Birds and Beasts used to Lodges or Dens, are afraid to go out of them; and even Men long shut up in D dark dark Dungeons, cannot for fome Time bear the Light of the Day: Galley Slaves not knowing what to do with Liberty given them, have often, of their own accord, return'd to their Chains; nay, God's own People themfelves longed again for Egyptian Flefh-pots, and Egyptian Slavery, when they were fed with Food from Heaven; notwithftanding which, Mofes would not gratify their brutish Appetites, but made them Happy in Spite of themfelves.

I would therefore have every Clergyman enjoy the full Liberty which every Layman enjoys. We are not confined in our Searches after Truth; and why fhould the Clergy be confined, in whofe Hands it is more powerful and advantageous than in ours? The granting of Ecclefiastical Freedom to Churchmen is as equitable as that of Civil Freedom to Laymen. I thank God, We posses a glorious Portion of the latter; and I heartily wish Them an equal Portion of the former.

Of Creeds and Confessions of Faith.

Have fhewn in my Fourth Paper, the Boldnefs and Abfurdity of the Exposition of Holy Scripture, when that Exposition is maintained and imposed for Canonical Truth. I shall here prosecute the same Subject merely as it relates to Creeds and Confessions of Faith.

In our Difpures with the Church of Rome, we contend that the Scripture alone is a fufficient Rule of Faith and Practice; and our Divines have proved it unanfwerably. But when our High-Church Priefts argue with Diffenrers, and those whom they are pleased to christen Hereticks, Holy Writ is not so highly complemented: It is then very subject to lead us into Mistakes, and hard to be understood. It is true is infallible, and was given us from Heaven to be a Light unto our Feet, and a Lamp unto our Paths; but so dark and D 2 infufficient without Human Aid and Explication. For, though it be exceeding plain to us of the Established Church of England, and proves us to be in the Right in every Article, Ceremony and Habit whatfoever yet it is utterly hid from those who will not accept of our Guidance, and fubmit to our Authority. And therefore if they refuse to believe and obey our Supplements and Improvements of the Bible, and to accept of the Salvation, which is to be had in our Church, and the Church of Rome, they shall have no Salvation at all. It is fit and Orthodox that Men should perish for follow their Confciences, and for understanding the Scripture without the Leave of the Ordinary.

Thus when they debate with the Papifts. they praise the Scriptures, inveigh against the impoling of Opinions, and speak in the Stile of Diffenters. But when they are pleafed to rebuke Non conformists, they borrow the Language of Papifts, and urge the Authority of our Apostolick Church, and her divine Right to judge for others, and deal hard Language and worfe Usage to all that take the fame Privilege which they do. There is. however, this small Difference between us Conformists and the Schifmaticks; We have good pay for being Orthodox, and the Separatift pays dear for being in the Wrong. these are not two good Reasons for delivering him over to Satan, I defpair of finding better.

In

In Confequence of this Power in High-Churchmen to be the Mouthsmen of the Bible, which if we take their Word cannot speak for it felf, they claim a Right to make Creeds for others: And this is what I am now to examine.

I think it but Justice to the Goodness of God to affirm, that Belief or Disbelief can neither be a Virtue or a Crime in any One, who uses the best Means in his Power of being informed. If a Proposition is evident, we cannot avoid believing it; and where is the Merit or Piety of a necessary Affent? If it is not evident, we cannot help rejecting it, or doubting of it; and where is the Crime of not performing Impossibilities, or not believing what does not appear to us to be true? Are Men who have good Eyes, the more righteous for feeing? Or do they offend in feeing too well? Or do blind Men fin, in not diftinguishing Colours ?

When we clearly fee the Connexion of a Propolition, or know that we have God's Word for it, our Affent is inevitable. But if we neither comprehend it our felves, nor fee God's Authority for it, and yet fwallow it, this is Credulity, and not divine Faith, which can have nothing lefs than divine Truth for its Object. When we are fure that God Almighty fpeaks to us, we readily believe him who cannot lie, nor be miltaken, nor deceive us: But when Men fpeak, though from God himfelf, our Belief in them is but human Confidence, if we have only their own Authority that they had it from God: Their being Bishops, their being learned, their meeting together in Synods; all this alters not the Cafe: We can judge of their Opinions no otherwife than as of the Opinions of Men, and of their Decisions, but as of human Decisions.

When the Articles of any Creed appear to be contained in Scripture, whoever believes that, does in Confequence believe them; and then fuch Creed is unneceffary: But when we cannot, or think we cannot, find them in Scripture, and yet give equal Credit to them, we depreciate and profane the divine Authority it felf, by accepting the Words of Man's Invention as wifer and more fignificant than the Words of God's own choofing.

We are fure that the Scripture Phrafes were infpired by the Holy Ghoft, and as fure that our own Forms and Injunctions are Human, and framed by Priefts. It is therefore ftrange, that the former fhould be infufficient and unintelligible, and the latter infallible, and to be embraced and obey'd on the pain of Damnation; and that the Priefts must do what God Almighty has, without Success, endeavoured to do.

Befides, as the Impofition of human Creeds is contrary to Reafon, fo is it alfo to Charity. They were generally made in a Paffion, not to edify, but to plague those for whom, or rather against whom they were intended. They were the Engines of Wrath and Vengeance, geance, nor could they ferve any other Purpofe. Those who believed them already, did not want them; and those who disbelieved them, were not the better for them. But this was not the worst of it; for they who did not receive them against their Conscience, were curs'd; and they who did, deserved it. So that either the Wrath of God on one Hand, or the Wrath and Cruelty of the Clergy on the other, was unavoidable. If People faid they believed, and did not, they mocked God and shipwrecked their Souls; and if they did not believe and owned it, though they faved their Souls, they provoked their Reverend Fathers, and were destroyed.

Whenever these Dictators in Faith had a Mind to be mischievous, and to undo one who gave them fignal Offence, either by his good Reputation, or good Bishoprick, they began his Ruin by their great Care for his Soul; and fo invented a Creed for him, which ruined him effectually, by giving him, as they faid, to Satan, but, in Truth, to Beggary, Stripes, or Flames. He therefore who had any Virtue or Religion, was a certain Sufferer by these Systems of Faith, which were contrived for that Purpofe. The Man that had no Confoience nor Honefty, was not worthy of their Anger; or, which is most likely, was on the Orthodox fide, or at least quickly became a Convert to it, being, like themfelves, able to fwallow any Thing.

So

So that Creeds, as they were the Refult of Revenge, Pride, or Avarice, fo were they the conftant Preludes and Introductions to Ignorance, Cruelty and Blood; and the wretched Laity were craftily, as well as inhumanly, made the deluded and unnatural Inftruments of Butchering one another, to prove the Infallibility of the Faith-Makers; who, while they were wantonly fhedding Chriftian Blood, and dooming to Damnation those who called upon the Name of the true God, had the fhamelefs Affurance to mifcal themfelves the Ambaffadors of the meek Jefus.

And indeed, what better could be expected from Men fo chofen, fo unqualify'd, and fo interested, as the Members of these general Creed-making Councils for the most Part were ? They were chosen from feveral Parts by a Majority of Votes; and they who were most aspiring, factious or crafty, carried it : They fprung from the meaneft of the People : They were bred in Cells: They popped into the World without Experience or Breeding : They knew little of Mankind, and lefs of Government, and had not the common Qualifications of Gentlemen : They were governed by Paffion, and led by Expectation: And, either eager for Preferment, or impatient of milling it, they were the perpetual Flatterers, or Diffurbers of Princes.

These were the Men, this their Character. When these Reverend Fathers were got together in a Body, by the Order of a Prince or a Pope; who, having his Neceffities, or the Ends of his Ambition to ferve, chofe proper Tools for thofe Purpofes; they were directed to form fuch Creeds and Systems of Faith, as his present Views or Interests made requisite for Mankind to believe.

In this new Employment every Member, we may be fure, was forward to fhew his Talents in flarting new Tenets, or in contradicting those already started, and so to make himself considerable enough for that Preferment which he was refolved to earn one way or another. And this being the great Aim of them all, Jealoufies and hard Words were carried to the most violent Pitch. There was no End of their Wrangling and Reviling. Not content to abuse each other by Word of Mouth, they fometimes fcolded in Writing; and every Reverend Father drew up a bitter Billinsgate Petition against another Reverend Father. Sometimes, not fatisfied with Vollies of Scurrility, unheard of in Assemblies of Gentlemen, they had Recourse to Club-Law, and made good their Inventions and Diftinctions with Blows and Blood. And if the Truth could not be found out by Scolding, Contradiction, and Battle, it was not found out at all.

Thus any Emperor or Pope might have what Creed he pleafed, provided he would be at the Pains and Price of it. And for the reft of Mankind, they had this flort Choice, To comply, or be undone,

Of Uninterrupted Succeffion.

INCE all the most idle and visionary Pretences of the Popish and popishly affected Clergy, have their Ends, and their Danger, and therefore fhould be narrowly watched, and vigoroufly oppofed; I fhall in this Paper enquire into the Validity of a principal Claim of theirs, I mean that of Uninterrupted Succession; and endeavour to find whether there is any Foundation to fupport this Corner-ftone of their Authority, except in their own wild Imaginations.

One might reafonably imagine, that a Doctrine of fo much Importance to the temporal and eternal State of all Mankind, fhould be expressly laid down, and fully explained in the Holy Scriptures, to prevent all Possibility of Mistake about it. Bur, instead of this, the Word, as far as I remember, is not once mentioned tioned there, nor any other Word equivalent to it; fo that we are under a Necessity of recurring to the Clergy themselves for Information: And here too we are as much bewildered as before; for some of them boldly affert it, and others flatly deny it.

Besides, those who hate and damn one another, claim it equally to themfelves, and deny it to all others. Those who are Suc+ ceffors to the Apostles in England, difown their Brother Successors beyond the Tweed and about the Lake; and they their Brother Succeffors at Rome; and they theirs at Greece and Armenia, as well as every where elfe, Now all thefe, who fo confidently affume the Succefforship to themselves alone, are as oppolite to each other in Sentiments and Worfhip as Light is to Darkness. They cannot therefore all have it; and if only one has it, how shall we know who he is? No Man's Testimony ought to be taken in his own Cafe; and, if we take that of other People, there are twenty to one against them all.

If the Clergy of the Church of England, as by Law eftablished, are, of all the Reformed, supposed to enjoy this Line of Entail entire to themselves; pray, how came they by it? Not from the Reformation, which began not till near fifteen Centuries after the Apofiles were dead; and Cranmer owned Ordination then to be no more than a Civil Appoinment to an Ecclesiastical Office. It is certain, at that Time this Utopian Succestion fion was not fo much as thought of by any who embraced the Protestant Religon. At present, indeed, and for a good while past, the Jacobite High Clergy contend for it with equal Modesty and Truth. But, in Order to adopt it, they are forced to drop the *Refor*mation; for,

You must know, courteous Reader, that this fame Succession is now deduced from Rome, and the Pope has had the keeping of it; who, by all that adhered to the Reformation, was held to be Antichrist, and the Man of Sin. He was often an Atheist, often an Adulterer, often a Murtherer, and always an Usurper; and his Church has constantly lived in gross Idolatry, and substited by Ignorance, Frauds, Rapine, Cruelty, and all the blackest Vices. It is certain, she was full of Wickedness and Abomination, and void of all Goodness and Virtue, but that of having kept the Apostolick Orders pure and undefiled for our modern High-Churchmen.

However, I think they themfelves feem to be now fenfible, that it will be a difficult Matter to make out, this Way, their Kindred to the Apoftles, without being nearer akin to Popery; they are therefore forced to own the Church of Rome to be a true Church. But, I would beg Leave to obferve here, that as there is no converfing here with a Chimney-fweeper without catching fome of his Soot; fo we ought not to be furprized if, in fucceeding to the Orders of that Church, they they also fucceed to most of her good Qualities, and if the Liquor smells strongly of the Cask. I confess, amongst us Laymen, it would look a little absurd, if any one should gravely assert, that, ' indeed Lais was a fil-' thy Strumpet, and no virtuous Woman ' could converse with her; but, for all that, ' she was a true Virgin, and all Chassity was ' deriv'd from her!

But fuch Abfurdities as these go for nothing amongst some Sorts of Ecclesiasticks. We will therefore, in the next Place, enquire what it is which they would fucceed to. The Apostles had no Ambition, Jurisdiction, Dignities, or Revenues; to which they could be Succeffors. We read not in Scripture one Word of Ecclefiastical Princes, Popes, Patriarchs, Primates, &c. On the contrary, our Saviour himfelf declares, that his Kingdom is not of this World; and when the young Man in the Gospel (St. Matth. Ch. 19th) asked of him, What he should do to obtain eternal Life? He answer'd, that, besides keeping the Commandments, he should fell all that he had, and give it to the Poor. N. B. He did not bid him give a Penny to the Priefts.

In the 20th Chap. of the fame Gospel, our Saviour takes Notice to his Disciples, that the Princes of this World exercise Dominion over them; but, fays he, it shall not be so mongst YOU; but whoever will be great amongst You, let him be your Minister; and whoever will be Chief, let him be your Servant. Nay, Nay, he fays that even the Son of Man came not to be ministred unto, but to minister. In the 23d Chap. he condemns the Scribes and Pharifees, for loving the uppermost Rooms, and the chief Seats in the Synagogue; and their defiring to be called of Men, Rabbi; and he forbids all this Pride to his Disciples as well as his other Hearers: and orders them not to call one another Master ; for one, fays he, is your Master, even Christ, and he that is greatest among you shall be your Servant. Nor do I find that, while he was upon Earth, he laid Claim to any Power but to do the Will of him that fent him. Indeed, after his Refurrection, he tells his Disciples that all Power is given to him in Heaven and in Earth; and he bids them teach it to all Nations, and baptize them in the Name of the Father. the Son, and the Holy Ghost; but he does not give them the least Power, or Dominion, of any Kind whatfoever.

And it is plain that his Disciples understood him so. St. Paul tells the Corinthians, in his 2d Epistle to them, Chap. 1. that they had not Dominion over their Faith, but were Helpers of their Joy. In the fourth Chap. of the same Epistle, he tells them, that they preach not themselves, but Christ Jesus their Lord, and themselves THE IR Servants for Jesus Sake. In the first Epistle to the Corinthians, Chap. 3. he admonishes them not to glory in Men, no not in himself, nor Apollos, nor Cephas; and tells the People, that even the the Apoftles themfelves, and all Things are THEIRS, and they are Chrift's, and Chrift is God's. In the 9th Chap. he tells them, that tho' he is free from all Men, yet he has made himfelf SERVANT unto all, that he might gain the more. St. Peter alfo, in his first Epistle, Chap. 5. exhorts the Elders to feed the Flock of Chrift, and to take the Overfight thereof, not by Constraint, but willingly; not for filthy Lucre, but of a ready Mind; neither as being LORDS over God's Heritage, but as being Examples to the Flock.

Now either thefe Elders were Clergymen, or they were not: If they were Clergymen, their pretended Succeffors may fee upon what Terms they are to be Feeders, and Overfeers of the Flock of Chrift: But, if they were only Laymen, then it is plain that no other Qualifications were neceffary to a Spiritual Shepherd, than a willing, difinterefted, and humble Mind; and all Subjection is, in the 5th Verfe, commanded to be reciprocal— Likewife, ye Younger, fubmit your felves to the Elders: Tea, all of you be fubject to one another, and be cloathed with Humility; for God refifteth the Proud, and giveth Grace to the Humble.

For my felf, I confess that I am not Mafter enough of any Language to find Words more expressive, or which can more fully renounce all Sorts of Jurisdiction and Dominion, than those in the Passages which I have here quoted: And nothing can be more ridi-ridiculous, as well as impious, than to oppofe them with equivocal, doubtful, and figurative Expressions. If the Popish Priests could but find out one such clear Text on their Side, how would they gallop away on the Ridge of it, till they had rode themselves out of Breath, and the Laity out of their Senfes, and their Estates !

As I have made it fully appear, that the Apostles understood our Saviour in this Senfe; fo it is evident, that the first Christians had not the least Apprehension that the Apostles claimed any Power or Authority to themselves. They were poor Men, of mean and mechanical Professions, who left Fathers, Mothers, Children, Families, Trades, and renounced all the good Things of this World, to wander about it, and preach Christ. Their Difinterestedness and Sufferings were powerful Arguments of the Truth of their Docrines: Whereas, if they had told their Hearers, in the modern High-Church Strain, that " as foon as they became our Converts, they " became also their Spiritual Subjects; That " they themselves were Ecclestaftical Princes; and that Spiritual Government was as much more Excellent than the Civil, as Heaven was than Earth, yea much more so; That the Episcopal Honour, and fublime Dignity, could not be equalled by the Glory of Kings, and the Diadems of Princes; That Kings and Queens ought to bow down to the Priefts with their Face towards the Earth, and lick up the Dust of their Feet - with whole Volumes Volumes more of fuch blasphemous Trash. as is vended by Dr. Hicks, Mr. Leflie, and indeed by almost all the High-Church Writers; and yet not publickly difapproved, or cenfured by the Convocation, or any Body of the Clergy, tho' they have fhewn an outrageous Enmity to all who have afferted the contrary Principles. If the Apoftles had told them too, that they themfelves had a Right, not only to the Tenth Part of their Estates, but of their Labour, and that fince they (their Hearers) administered so many Things to a King, who administers Peace and War for Bodily Safety; how ought they not to administer more liberally to him, who administers the Priesthood towards God, and secures both Body and Soul by his Prayers?

I fay, if any of this Choice Fustian had been broach'd to the World, at the first Opening of the Gofpel, what Progrefs could Chriflianity have made ? How could the Apostles have been difinterelied Witnesses of the Truth of the Doctrines, which gave them fuch Jurifdiction, Dominion and Riches ? And how juftly would the Princes and Powers of the Earth have punished fuch Usurpations upon their Civil and Ecclefiaftical Authority?

The Silence alone of the Enemies to Chriflianity, is a fufficient Confutation of this wicked and black Calumny, caft upon them by their pretended Successors; but which their bitterest Opposers had more Modesty than to charge them with, tho' they ranfack'd

Of Uninterrupted Succession. Part 2.

R. Tillot fon, in his Sermon againft Tranfubstantiation, tells us, that "it "might well feem strange if any "Man should write a Book to "prove that an Egg is not an Elephant, and that a Musquet Bullet is not a Pike." He might have added, that this was the hard Circumstance the Laity were reduced to in their Disputes about Religion with most Sets of Ecclesiasticks; and, what is still worse, when they had proved these Things, they were never the better.

The greatest Part of Mankind have learned to judge of Religious Matters, by other Faculties and Senses than those which God Almighty has given them. The first Thing they are taught is, that Reason may be on one

one Side of the Queftion, and Truth on the other; which Maxim being well eftablish'd, there will be an End of all Reafoning ever after; and there can be no Criterion between Truth and Falihood: But those, who, by Education and Custom, have once got Possession of their Superstition and Fears, may impose upon them what crafty and advantageous Doctrines they please.

By these Means the Christian Religion, most easy and intelligible in it felf, and adapted to the meanest Capacities, is become, in most Countries, a Metaphysical Science, made up of useles Subtilties, and infignificant Diftinctions; calculated to gratify the Pride of Corrupt Clergymen, by making them admired and reverenced by the People, for their profound Knowledge and deep Learning; and confequently Religion is wholly left to their Care and Conduct, as being infinitely above poor Lay-Apprehensions. And to this, the World is beholding for the Depravation of Virtue and Morality; and for all the Domination, Pomp and Riches of the Popish Priesthood.

Therefore, I hope no one will condemn an Undertaking intended to reftore Christianity to its Primitive Innocence, and Native Simplicity; to oppose Common Sense against Pompous Nonsense, and Learned Absurdity; and to shew how, and in what Meaning, The Kingdom of Heaven is faid to be Revealed to Babes and Sucklings, and hid from the E 2

Learned and Wife : That is to fay, it is eafily learned and known, by those who make Use of their Natural Faculties, and Uncorrupted Reafon; but will always be hid from fuch, who hunt after it in the Schools of the Philosophers, or in any ambitious and factious Affemblies and Synods of Popifh Ecclefi-I shall therefore endeavour to keep afticks. this plain and eafy Subject clear of all vain Philofophy, and Metaphysical Gibberish, with which the Adverfaries always attempt to entangle it; as knowing well, that if they can but make it Unintelligible, their Authority alone will decide every Question in their own Favour.

As I conceive I have fully shewn, in my last Paper, that the Apostles claimed no Jurifdiction, Authority, or Coercive Power, of any Kind whatfoever, over their Hearers; but only obey'd the Will of their Master, in delivering a Meffage from Heaven, for the infinite Benefit of Mankind; and to prove their Miffion, brought their Credentials, namely, The Power of doing Miracles, along with them: So I shall shew, that what Power they had, (except that which was miraculous, and died with them;) or, to speak more properly, what Right they had to perform the Duties and Offices of Christianity, did not defcend to one Christian more than another: but that all were empowered alike to exercife alike the Functions of their most Holy. Religion.

When

When a Command is given from God to Men, to do and perform any Action, it is not only the Right of every One, but it becomes his Duty, to execute it himfelf, when he is capable of doing it; unless the Precept directs fome other Manner of Performance : And whoever afferts that it does, is oblig'd to prove it. And he must not be furprized. if in a Cafe of this great Confequence, we shall expect plain and direct Texts, describing the Extent of the Power demanded, and the Perfons to whom it is given. It will not do his Business to pick up Two or Three fcatter'd and disjointed Sentences, and putting them upon the Rack, torture them till they confess what they never meant, against the whole Current of Scripture. It must be laid down plainly and directly, and made obvious to the meanest Capacities; not depending upon the Criticifins of Rabbinical Learning; not fublimated from Fewilk and Heathen Traditions; nor extorted from doubtful, equivocal, and unintelligible Expressions. It is not confiftent with the Goodneis of God, to fuffer a Power, upon which the Being of Christianity, and the Temporal and Eternal Happiness of all the World depends, to remain in Obscurity and Darkness; and therefore we may be fure, that whatever of this Kind does fo, is the Invention of ambitious and wicked Men, and not the Will of the great and good God.

It will be incumbent on them to fhew one clear and direct Text, where our Saviour confines the Administration of the Sacraments to any Set of Men whatfoever. The contrary of which is fo evident, that there is not in Scripture one Instance where the Sacrament of our Lord's Supper was ever Adminiftred by any One, who, in our Translation of the New Testament, is stilled Bishop or Presbyter. And it is as plain, that the Right of Baptizing belonged to all Christians equal-Both which, I shall make out unanlv. fwerably hereafter, in feparate Papers. I shall also shew that the Demagorgon, or boasted Power of Excommunication, is nothing elfe but a Liberty which every Man has over his own Actions, in conversing or mingling with what Society he pleafes; or, at most, only a Precept or Exhortation, not to keep ill Company, and to remove fuch, or feparate from them.

But to proceed with my Subject: If a Chain of Uninterrupted Succession had been necessary, an Uninterrupted Course of Talents, Grace and Abilities, fuperior to those of all other Lay-Christians, had been necessary alfo, to have made the Clergy refemble those whom they were to fucceed in an Employment which required the Higheft. But there is no fuch peculiar Genius or Virtue found amongst them. They are qualify'd by Means evidently Human for this Divine Calling. They are fent to Schools and Universities to learn learn to be Succeffors to the Apoftles: (I will not fay of them, what Mr. Dodwell fays of the Jewish Priefts, that they make use of Wine, among st other Bodily Helps, to obtain the prophetick Spirit.) And all who have the fame Sense and Opportunities, thrive at least as fast as those who are Candidates for the Priesthood; and might, if they pleased, apply their Learning to the fame Uses. And as to Grace, Piety, and Humanity, I think verily the Modesty of the Clergy will not let them pretend to excel their Lay Neighbours in those Endowments.

The Apostles were inspired, had the Gift of working Miracles, could bestow the Holy Ghost, and had the Discernment of Spirits; and were consequently proper Judges of Mens Fitness for the Ministry, and could confer that Fitness. Our Modern Divines are not inspired, cannot work Miracles, nor give the Holy Ghost; nor can many of them even find out their own Spirit, so far are they from discerning that of other People.

The Apoftles were a Set of extraordinary Perfons, appointed by the Son of God to convert all Nations, and had extraordinary Endowments given them for that End. Their pretended Succeffors are a Race of very ordinary Men, possession are a Race of very ordilities; fent by no Divine Authority; nor to Convert any Nation; but only take up a Trade to get a Livelihood.

Chrift's Apoftles were Pen-Men of the Holy Ghoft, and writ Books of Scripture: E 4 But,

But, pray, what New Gofpel do our Modern Apoftles give us? (I with None of them had ever confounded the Old!) They are at beft but Note-Makers and Commentators; in which Characters Laymen have fucceeded as well, even by their own Acknowledgment.

Minellius and Gronovius have written Notes upon Virgil and Livy: Pray, are they Succeffors to Virgil and Livy, for that Reafon? And are the flupid Dutch Commentators Succeffors to the great Roman Orator, becaufe they have flept over his Works, and darken'd them with Illustrations? Or is every One who fails to America for Gain, a Succeffor to Christopher Columbus, who difcovered and pointed out the Way to the New World?

The great Business and Commission of the Apostles, was to Convert Mankind. Now, I would be glad to know how they can be fucceeded in a Thing, which could be done but once; and in Countries, where it is already done : I mean, the Converting of a Nation, fuppofe Greece, England, or any other. What must the Jews have thought of a Set of hair-brained Ifraelites, who would have demanded of them vast Respect and Revonues, for fucceeding Mofes in redeeming them. from Captivity to Pharaoh, and for leading them every Day of their Lives out of the Land of Agypt, Seventeen Hundred Years after they had left it? Or could any Number of Jews fucceed Nehemiah in bringing back the Captive Tribes from Persia, and Babylon? Can

The Independent Whig. 57 Can any one fucceed the Duke of Marlborough, in fighting the Battle of Hochtsted, and relieving the German Empire? I prefume; every Foot-Soldier is not a Succeffor to Alexander the Great; nor every Serjeant of the Guards defcended in a Military Line from Julius Casar.

N. B. Having shewn that the Apostles have left no Successors, there is an End of the Question, Whether their No-Succession is Interrupted, or not ? But my Respect to the High Clergy obliging me to give them all Advantages, I will, in fome future Paper, admit that succession had once a Being; and then will undeniably prove that it has been frequently, I may almost fay constantly, interrupted and broken, under all those Heads which they make necessary to the Continuance of it.

Of the Clearnels of Scripture.

Shall in this Paper endeavour to confirm what I have faid in my last; by shewing, that God Al-mighty, in revealing his Will to Mankind, has always taken effectual Care that it could not be mistaken, and therefore made it fo plain, as to need no farther Explanation, in all Things which are necessary for us to know.

When God would have his Pleafure known to Men, it is agreeable to his Goodnefs to make it evident; when he would not, it is agreeable to his Wisdom to make it impenetrable. Scripture was not given to make work for Interpreters; nor to teach Men how to doubt, but how to live. The Holy Spirit has made undeniably clear and manifest, all those Precepts which enjoin Faith and Obedience, which which are the great Points of Religion; and weak Men cannot correct him, and do it better themselves.

I think it is generally granted, that Reve-lations are no more, and that Prophecy hath ceased. The Reason given for this, I take to be a very good one; namely, that God has already fufficiently discovered his Mind to Men, and made his Meaning manifeft. If it were otherwife, we should doubtless have his extraordinary Prefence still; but as we have not, it is to be prefumed there is no Occafion. He appeared himfelf whilft Men were in Darkness; but now that he hath shewn them his marvellous Light, he appears no more. His Prefence is fupplied by his Word; which being addreffed to all Men equally, and not to one Tribe of Men to interpret it for the reft, it follows, that all Men have in their Power the Means to understand it. Old Revelation therefore does not want the Affiftance of New, nor has the Omnipotent any need of Prolocutors.

While God is delivering his Law to the World, he is plain even to Exactnefs; and his Orders are full and circumftantial even about the minuteft Points. This is eminently proved by his Manner of giving Laws to the Jews. Every Ceremony, and every Inftrument and Garment, ufed in their Worfhip, is precifely defcribed and directed. The Trumpets, the Candlefticks, the Lamps, the Spoons, the Snuffers, are all of his own Appointment, both both as to the Materials and the Use of them. He makes it impossible to mistake him. He calls the Priests by their Names, points out their Perfons, and thews them every Branch of their Office. He limits and governs their Behaviour while they are about it; and does not leave it to their Wildom to invent fuch Postures and Ceremonies, as they think fit to call decent and fignificant. They had not the Privilege to chuse their own Garments. Moses, who was the Civil Magistrate, had it in his Charge to Sanctify and Confectate their Perfons. Their Business in the Sacrifices, is pointed out to them : They are to put their Hands upon the Head of the Beast, and to receive its Blood. and to make Fires. They are not, as I remember, once made use of to speak God's Mind to his People ; that is the Duty and Commission of the Civil Magistrate, and Moses performs it. They had not the least Hand in the Celebrating of the Paffover, the Jewish Sacrament, to which ours of the Lord's Supper hath, it is faid, fucceeded: And as little were they employed in that other of Curcumcifion, the reputed Ancestor of Baptism. In short, their whole Function was to be Servants and Journeymen in the Houfe of Sacrifice.

If Almighty God was thus punctual and particular in the Rituals and Outfide of his Worship, can we imagine that he was defective or obscure, in declaring the more weighty Points of the Law? No — When our first Parents Parents broke the Covenant, they did it wilfully, and could not pretend that they underflood it not; Of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, thou fhalt not eat of it, was all the Injunction that was laid upon them : And there was no need of a Commentator here. The Text might have been rendered more perplext, but not more plain.

The Covenant which he made with Abraham was not lefs clear. He was to be the God of Abraham and of his Seed; and every Male of his Race, and those that were bought with Money, were to be circumcifed. There were no more Words to this Contract; and the Patriarch and his Iffue had but one short System of Divinity, most intelligible of it felf, and in no wife darkened with Glosses.

The Decalogue, or the Law of the Ten Commandments, delivered by God himfelf from Mount Sinai, with great Glory and aftonifhing Circumftances, was little elfe but the Law of Nature reduced into Tables, and expreffed in Words of God's own chufing; and they were worthy of the Omnipotent and Infallible Author; for they were fo plain and indifputable, that not a fingle Perfon of all the Twelve Tribes, fo addicted on other Occafions to Contradiction and Wrangling, fo much as pretended not to underftand them: Nor was there one Man, much lefs a Body of Men, fet apart to explain them.

When

When God fpoke to the Jews by his Prophets, the fame Method of Clearness was obferved. The Admonitions given, and the Judgments denounced, were adapted to the Capacity of every one concerned. The Jews, it is true, did not often believe them, at least not mind them; but it was never pleaded that they did not comprehend them. God infpired, and the Prophets spake, and all understood; but neither Creeds nor Paraphrases were made, for they were not necessary. At last, indeed the Priests and Pharises made void the Word of God by their Traditions, and very rigidly tithing Mint and Cummin, neglected the greaterThings of the Law, and taught for Doctrines the Commandments of Men. But we know what Thanks and Character they had for their Pains from the Saviour of the World, and what a terrible Doom he pronounced against them. Read the 23d Chapter . of St. Matthew's Gofpel, and fee the Defcription of these vile Hypocrites, and then confider whether they be at this Day without Heirs and Successors. Indeed it feems to me to be the only Succession which has not been interrupted.

The Gofpel, when it came, as it was to excel all other Laws, in its Ends and Ufefulnefs, fo was it the fhorteft and plaineft Inftitution in the World. It only added the Duty of Faith to that of good Works, which was the great, if not the only, Bufinefs of the Moral Law. To believe that Jefus Chrift was the only Son of God, was the great Principle of the Christian Religion. Nor was the Practice of this Belief attended with the leaft Difficulty, fince our Saviour proved his Miffion and Ommpotence, by Miracles that were undeniable and convincing. For the Truth of them he appealed to Men's Senfes, and there was neither Mystery nor Jugling in his Actions, nor did they want any Body to explain them.

All this is further confirmed by the Conduct of the Apoftles. The conftant Drift and Tenour of their Lives and Preaching, was to perfwade Mankind to believe in Jefus Chrift. In order to which they worked Miracles, and gave the Holy Ghoft. The Precept was thus fhort, and the Motives to comply with it, were thus irrefiftible. Hence it was, that fometimes Thoufands were convinced in a Moment, without either Commentaries, or Creeds, or Catechifms. And indeed who could avoid believing a Proposition that proved it felf ?

The Apofiles, when they had converted one City, did not ftay to eftablifh a Hierarchy there only, and to tell the fame Thing over and over again to those that knew it already. No, — when they had planted the Faith in one Place, they travelled to another, and preached the Gospel to the unconverted World; leaving those already converted, to perform Christian Worship their own Way. If they believed in Christ, and lived soberly, the Apostles Apostles defired no more. Those were the Two Things needful; nor were they more needful than clear.

In this plain manner did God Almighty always difcover himfelf and his Will, whenever he difpenfed his Laws to the World. On the other Hand, while he hid himfelf from the Heathen World, did their Priests ever discover him? No, - they had Deities without Number; they worshipped Stocks and Stones, Trees, Rivers, Bulls, Serpents, Monkeys and Garlick. Both their Religion and their Gods were of the Priests making, and therefore we may be fure they were hopeful Ones. They created their Deities after their own Likenefs; angry, cruel, coverous and luftful. Their Mysteries were full of Horror, Obfceneness, Craft and Delusion. The Will of their God was fearched in the Guts and Ordure of dead Beafts, and a Coop of Chickens were his Privy Counfellors. His Favour or Difpleafure depended upon their Craws ; if they had puny Stomacks, the God was in a Fit of the Spleen; if Ravenous, he was in a giving Humour, and would grant you any Thing, even to the Cutting of the Throats of a whole Army, or Burning of a City, or Plundering a Province : And when he was tired of his Kindness to you, he would perhaps in a Day or Two, do all this for your Enemy.

Upon the whole, when Almighty God reveals his Will, he does it effectually; but when

when he difguifes it in dark and doubtful Expressions, it is plain the Time of making himfelf further known to Men, is not yet come, and it is in vain for them to pry into his Secrets.

The all-merciful Being does never require of us, that which we cannot find he requires. It is not confiftent with his Wifdom and Goodness, to make that necessary which he hath not made plain. He has with the greatest Perspicuity, described the Candlesticks, Tongs, and other Tools of Worship under the Fewilb Law; and yet in the Gofpel has not faid one Word of fome Doctrines, which we are told are necessary to Salvation. Altars and Priests are divinely appointed in the Old Dispensation, but are neither directed nor deferibed in the New; and yet we know of what Importance they are at prefent in the Popifo Church and elfewhere. The Prieft's Office is particularized and circumfcribed, even to the Killing of a Goat, or a Pair of Pigeons; and yet under the Gofpel it is not fo much as hinted, that a Priest shall administer either of the Sacraments; though, if we will take their own Words for it, there can be no Sacrament without them. In the Levitical Law, the Sons of Levi are expresly appointed to be Priefts continually; but it is not once faid in the Christian Law, that there must be an uninterrupted Race of Bishops, or Popes, or Priests, to the End of the World; and that there can be no Church where it is

is not; tho', if this had been needful, it must have been particularized: So effential a Pare of Christian Religion, and so absolutely necessary to every Man's Salvation, could never have been wholly omitted, or so much as left in Doubt.

As by the Law of Moles, the Priest's Office and Duty were minutely defcribed, fo their Maintenance was afcertained: But by the Law of Chrift, there is not any Priesthood at all appointed, (as I shall fully make out hereafter) and confequently no certain Provision made for them. It is indeed faid, that The Labourer is worthy of his Hire; and I acknowledge it is fit that those who hire them should pay them: But fure this Text leaves every one at Liberty to chufe his own Labourer, and to make as good a Bargain as he can, or to do his own Business himself. What Pretence is there of a Divine Right to just a Tenth Part; and not only of our Estates, but of our Stock and Industry too, which in fome Corn Lands comes to Double the Rent that the Landlord receives?

The Tribe of Levi amongst the Jews were the Twelfth Tribe of Ifrael, and, in the Division of the Lands, had a Right to the Twelfth Share, without any Regard had to their Priestly Office; and confequently were allowed but a very small Proportion towards their Hire, and much less than, I doubt, their pretended Successors would be satisfy'd with. I would therefore, as a sincere cere Friend to their Order, recommend to their Confideration, whether it would not be most adviseable, to quit their Divine Right, and be even content with the Laws of the Land.

Of Ordination.

Take Honesty and Knowledge to be the Essential Talents required for the Work of the Ministry: The • One is acquired by Study, and the Other depends upon the Disposition of the Heart, or the Grace of God. Therefore he, who has a Capacity to Teach and Edify, has a Right to do Both.

Those who are Candidates for the Priesthood, carry their Qualifications along with them; and having passed Examination, receive a Power from the Bishop, which he receives from the Law, to put these Qualifications in Practice. But, if upon Trial, they F 2. are, are found infufficient, they are, or ought to be rejected.

A Phyfician does not receive from the College an Ability to practice; but only a Declaration that he already has it. Such a Declaration are Holy Orders: They convey nothing; neither Righteoufnefs, nor Learning, nor Wildom. They are only a Diploma or Privilege to exercife a certain Calling, during Good Behaviour. Any further than this, what fignifies the Hand of a Bishop laid upon the Head of a Stripling, who feeks Promotion or a Livelihood? If that Hand puts any Thing into that Head, I would ask what it is, and how does it appear? What Alteration for the Better is to be found in the Perfon, or Endowments, or Spirit of the Party Ordained? How does it appear that he has any Moral Sufficiency which he had not before ? Or any Spiritual Gift, belides that which he carries Home in his Pocket; and which was confer'd by the Bishop's Secretary for a Fee? Can there be any new Ability or Character without fome Marks of it? Or is there an Alteration without a Change? It is an unconceivable Mystery to me, that the same Man should be another Man! I have known many a Man's Pride fwell, and his Morals decay, after Orders ; but very feldom his Manners or his Capacity enriched by them. He who has the Spirit, will do the Works of the Spirit: By their Fruits ye shall know them. The Thing, were it true, is very capable of Proof. indeed, it could not be hid nor difputed.

puted. On the contrary, when neither the Heart is mended, nor the Understanding enlightened, it is manifest that the Holy Ghost has nothing to do with either of them.

A Learned and Virtuous Layman can instruct more effectually, and pray more devoutly and fuccefsfully, than an ignorant and profane Prieft; and is confequently a more proper and fecure Guide to others. To fay that he has no Call, is no more than to fay that he has not enter'd bis Name : Besides, it is false; for I will lay it down as a Proposition which I will abide by, that He who has a Power to do Good, has a Call to do Good; and the promoting of Virtue, and fecuring of Souls, is doing the greatest Good of all. St. James tells us, that the effectual fervent Prayer of a Righteous Man availeth much; but he does not fay that he must be in Orders, or that he must perform the fame in a confecrated Place : Tho' the Convocation, in the latter Part of the Queen's Reign, thought fit to differ with the Apostle in this Point.

Apollos, without any Call at all, but from his own Abilities, being an Eloquent Man, and Mighty in the Scriptures, and instructed in the Way of the Lord, and fervent in the Spirit, Spake and taught diligently the Things of the Lord, and boldly in the Synagogue. It is plain he was not Ordained, unless it was by the Tent-Maker and his Wife, Aquilla and Priscilla: And that he had not the Holy Ghost, is also plain, for that he knew only the

the Baptism of John; and fo they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the Way of God more perfectly. (Acts xviii. v. 24, &c.)

I doubt the Holy Ghost is too often made free with in Popish Countries, upon the Occafion of Young Mens taking Orders. I believe it will be found that their Motives are much more Temporal. It is confider'd as a fecular Employment, as much as any other; and the Labour of a Clergyman is as evidently Bought and Sold, as that of an Attorney or any Tradefman. Belides, the Way to this Calling is eafy and obvious: Where is the Difficulty of learning a little Greek, or chopping a little Logick, and of getting by Heart a few Questions in School-Divinity? Nay, there are many Ordained there, even without any of these momentous Accomplishments.

There are fome who take the Orders of Clergymen, and yet never exercife the Function of Clergymen, either thro' Idlenefs, or Weaknefs. Does the Holy Ghoft call Men to the Work of the Ministry, not to do the Work of the Ministry? Or does he call Men to an Office, without giving them Gifts and Grace to perform it? It was not fo in the Apostles Days, when God inspired all whom he fent; and where the Divine Commission or Call was given, a Door of Utterance was also given. But there were then no Sine Cures, no great Revenues; no great Doctors, nor finall Curates.

It is evident, that neither the Church of Rome in general, nor any of its Bishops in particular, believe a Word of this pretended Call of the Holy Ghoft, in the Bulinels of taking Orders. For, by the Canons, the Perfon demanding Ordination, is to be examined as to his Capacity for the Ministry, and must produce a Certificate as to the Innocence and Morality of his Life; both which were unneceffary, if there was any Proof or Affurance of his Call from God. And the Questions asked him upon that Occasion, are such as demand no more than ordinary Human Aid to answer them. Nor is it at all expected of him that the Goodness of his Life should exceed that of other Laymen: If it is as good, it is well.

Whenever the Holy Ghost was given, it was given upon fome extraordinary Occafion, for the doing of fome extraordinary Action; as it was to the Apostles, for converting the Heathen World. They shewed the Power which they had, by the Wonders which they did; and gave effectual Evidences that they were divinely affifted. But fome modern Priest, who have no extraordinary Work to do, affert, notwithstanding, that they have an extraordinary Call from the Spirit; which would also infer his extraordinary Affistance. But they fay it without fhewing it, and pretend to it without proving it. It is a Happiness that we are not obliged to take their Word; for the' Faith it felf F 4 felf be the Evidence of Things not seen, yet ftill it is the Evidence; that is, Proof must precede Belie!

When the Popish Clergy are charged with Frailties, Vices and Immoralities, they then confess the Truth, and are pleased to become Flesh and Blood as well as other Men, and fubject to the like Infirmities and Passions; and if they faid greater, we could readily believe them. But when a Point of Gain or Dominion is to be contended for, they grow all of a fudden more than Men; They are then the Lord's Ambassadours, Successors to the Apostles, a Sacred Society; and the Lord knows how many more fine Things. Now this Management is very unlucky for them, and full of palpable Contradiction; for if they had a greater Share of God's Grace and Spirit than others, it would be especially evident in the fuperior Piety of their Lives, fince Holinefs is shewn in Practice : Whereas the Spirit of this World manifests it felf in the Love of Power and Wealth; and hence those who pursue them are called Worldly Minded, in Opposition to God's Elect, who are the Spiritual Minded. I need not recommend it to fuch Clergy, which to chufe, Carnal Minds with Riches and Authority, or Heavenly Mindedness without them. It is certain that the Apostles were as pious as poor.

If by the Call of the Holy Ghost, on this Occasion, be meant no more than a ferious and and devout Bent of Mind to administer in the Publick Worship of God, as some Reverend Divines, Lovers of Truth, do, I think, confess; then is the Claim of a Divine Mission and successive Right utterly at an End; and the taking of Orders is no more than taking a Licence to perform a religious Office, for which every religious intelligent Man is already qualify'd.

And indeed fuch a Man is, without the Confent of any Bishop, entitled to be a Paftor, in the Scripture Senfe of the Word, tho not to receive the legal Wages of a Pastor. He may preach and pray, and deliver the Sacrament, when Temporal Laws do not restrain him; but cannot take Tithes, which are annexed to certain Conditions and Opinions established by the State. As every State has its own Religion, fo almost every Religion is directed and modelled by fome State; and therefore they, who are Orthodox Conformists in one, are often Schifmatical Differents in another. But fuch is the fingular Modesty and Submission of the Clergy, that they, in most Countries, humbly acquiesce in the established Faith; and not only meekly accept of all the Ecclefiastical Power and Revenues to themfelves, but gratefully condeficend to perfecute all those Confciences that are not as complaifant and fupple as their own. And indeed, it is but generous in them to be zealous for those Notions and Ceremonies, which which bring them Reverence and Hire; But methinks it is a little unreafonable to expect that others fhould, without their Motives, adopt their Zeal.

P. S. Having in my last Paper afferted, that there is no particular Priestbood at all directed by the New Testament; I am told it is from thence furmized by fome, thro' Malice, and by others, thro' Mistake, that I do by this infinuate, that there is therefore no Occasion for any Church-Ministry whatsoever, notwithstanding my former Declarations upon this Head. I particularly fay in my Third Paper, speaking of the Clergy:

• Their Office is evidently adapted to pro-• mote the Welfare of Human Nature, and • to propagate its Peace and Profperity in • this World, as well as its eternal Felicity • in the next; fo that it is the Interest of all • Men to honour it: and none but a Madman • will condemn and ridicule what has a ma-• nifest Tendency to the Security and Happi-• ness of all Mankind.

I fay also in my Fourth Paper, that I fincerely think their Office to be absolutely necessary ry to the Peace and Happiness of Society. I could likewise refer to other Passages. But to give full Satisfaction once for all, to fuch as will be satisfy'd, I declare that I do only contend for the Right of every National and Voluntary Society to appoint their own Pastors, and to judge of their Doctrines and Ber Behaviour: Further than this I have no Aim. Nor do I defire to leffen the Refpect due to the Clergy from their Merit and Ufefulnefs; or the Dignities, Privileges, and Revenues which they derive from the Law, or from the good Will and Contributions of the People. And I intend very foon to defend the Church of England upon the Principles and Authority of the Scripture and the Law; as well as the Toleration granted to Diffenters by the fame Law, and the fame Scripture.

Wednesday, March 30. 1720.

The Advantageous Situation of the Clergy, firangely inconfiftent with their common Cry of Danger.

IRTUE and Innocence were created naked and undifguifed; nor did our first Parents cover themfelves till they had offended. Truth can never fin, and therefore need not, and ought ought not, ever to appear in Masquerade : She is most amiable when most uncovered ; and appears truly Majestick, and in greatest Lustre, when disrobed of all gaudy and affected Ornaments : Her Natural Features want no Varnish or Colouring, nor has she any need of Dressers and Tire-Women.

Knavery and Deformity alone want Daubing and Difguife. Actors do not care that any one should look into the Tiring-Room, nor Juglers or Sharpers into their Hands or Boxes; whereas Honesty and Sincerity appear always barefaced, and shew themselves most in open Day; they foorn all indirect Advantages, and borrowed Helps, but trust alone to their own native Beauty and intrinstick Strength: The Lion is never known to use Cunning.

I confess, that I am not Master enough of my Temper to avoid Laughter, and Indignation, by Turns, at the noify Clamours of the High Clergy, against the Freedom of the Age, and the Liberty of the Press; as if Virtue was inconsistent with Good Sense, or Truth could fuffer by Knowledge, or Religion by a free and thorough Examination. What Figure would a grave Lawyer make in Westminster-Hall, if, after he had been tiring his Auditors for Two Hours together, he should defire the Judges not to hear the Counfel of the other Side, left they should perplex the Cause, and missed the Court.

Every

Every Stander-by would take it for granted, that he was confcious of the Weaknefs of his Client's Caufe, and that it could no otherwife be defended, than by being not underftood. This is, in Point, the Cafe of thofe, who demand of all Mankind to be heard by the Clock, and will yet hear no Body; who talk and rail by Wholefale, whilft they cannot bear a fingle Jeft, or ludicrous Expression; and who write Volumes by the Yard themfelves, and are in an Uproar, and Outrageous, at a fingle Half-Sheet of other Peoples.

How abfurd would it appear for an Army of an Hundred Thousand Men, entrench'd up to the Ears, to call aloud for the Affiftance of the Constable and Watch, to defend their Camp against the Assaults and Storms of Highwaymen and House-breakers! Just fuch a Request do the Popish Clergy Abroad make, when they cry out, Fire, Fire! Help, Help! and demand the Affiftance of the Secular Power; and infift, that no Sermons be preached, Books printed, or Harangues made, but their own. They have already more Advantages than Truth can defire, and indeed enough to offend her Modesty, and to make her ashamed and blush; they are too well armed for a fair Adversary, and yet are always complaining of the Shortness of their Weapons; and declaring themselves overcome, by calling out for more Help.

Besides

Befides the Piety and Example of their Lives, they are vaftly numerous, and in Poffeffion of great and various Dignities, and immenfe Revenues and Dependencies; are all bred up to Letters; have the Prejudices of the People, the fole Education of Youth, the Fears as well as the Faveurs of the fair Sex on their Side; and have the Weekly Opportunity of haranguing to the People upon their own Ufefulnefs and Importance: And they tell us too, they have a fole Right to the Scripture Prophecy, That the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against them.

Crown'd Heads always have thought it their Interest to keep Measures with them; Ministers of State are not able to Trick fuctessfully, and play the Knave, without their Leave and Affistance: They take Advantage, and make their Market of all Factions and Disturbances in States, and apply them to their own Benefit : Knaves shelter themselves under their Protection; Hypocrites court and feem to admire them, and Bigots and Enthufiasts adore them. Every Event of Life contributes to their Interests : They Christen; they Educate; they Marry; they Church; they Bury; they Perswade; they Frighten; they Govern; and fcarce any Thing is done without them. Notwithstanding all this, they toar aloud, that they cannot keep their Ground, but that Contempt and Infidelity pour in upon them like an Inundation.

And

And yet it is very remarkable, that the first Christians were not only destitute of all the before-mentioned Advantages, but their Enemies enjoyed them; and they themfelves were perfecuted and contemned, buffeted. ridiculed and calumniated, in constant Books and Libels, published by the greatest Philosophers and Wits of the Heathen World; and vet Christianity every Day spread far and wide, and made a wonderful Progrefs; infomuch, that in an Age or Two, Superstition and Idolatry were driven from a great Part of the Earth.

A Speculation upon this Head, and an Enquiry into the Caufes of fo prodigious a Change, would be worthy the Endeavours of the brighteft Wits and Genius's of our Age and Country, who undoubtedly must be found amongst our own genuine Clergy. I have long wished to see a Differtation upon this great and ufeful Subject; and with the greateft Humility propose to the Consideration of the Lower House of Convocation at their next (fo much defired) Meeting, to give the the World their Thoughts upon it, in a Second Representation of the Causes of Vice and Infidelity: And in Hopes to encourage them in fo publick an Undertaking, I intend before that Happy Day, to give them my poor Affiftance, and in fome Measure to alleviate their Labours, by endeavouring to prove that no Part of this Misfortune ought to be laid at the Door of the Laity. t

Indeed, it would be unbecoming the Re² fpect and Reverence, which I have always professed, and hope shall always pay to these Reverend Gentlemen, to but hint at any Thing to improbable as the contrary Conjecture: For fince Human Nature is always the fame, who can entertain fo undecent a Thought of their Defigns, or have fuch a Contempt of their Performances, as to imagine that Mankind can grow worfe under the Light of the Gospel, and in Defiance of their pious Lives and Examples; and of the numerous Forms of publick and private Prayer: their constant Sermons, and godly Exhortations; and of fo many Creeds, Catechifms, Syftems, Commentaries, and whole Cart-Loads of other ghoftly Geer, which the World is every Day blefs'd with from the laborious Endeavours of above a Million of Ecclesiasticks, or more; who have always, and do still, cost the People more than their whole Civil and Military Expence put together? Therefore, fince we may be fure that this great Change and Degeneracy cannot be owing to any remaining Defect amongst the Laity, it may well be expected from Perfors of their Penetration and Perspicuity, to let us into the true Caufes of fo furprizing a Phanomenon.

In the mean Time, (tho' with all the due Submillion of an humble Votary) I fhall for once prefume to advife them, not to level for many Batteries against good Scule and human man Reason, which are impregnably fortified and fecure against the fiercest Assaults. A great Philosopher tells us, when Reason is against a Man, a Man will be against Reason ; and therefore I much fear if these my Friends, and Patrons, should continue to hold forth and exert their Eloquence against Private Judgment, Freedom of Enquiry, and a daily and diligent Search after a religious Knowledge of the Holy Scriptures, that the World may mistake their Endeavours, and imagine all these good Things make against them; and yet unfortunately they are in fuch Repute, that there are little Hopes of depreciating or putting them out of Countenance.

Befides, I humbly conceive it to be impolitick upon other Accounts too. It appears to me to be very indifcreet in Perfons Militant, to endeavour to put an End to a War, which for the most part puts an End to themfelves and their own Pay. A jovial Country Parson once in a merry Mood, passing by a Waggon which was overturn'd, told the Carter that he had kill'd the Devil; to which the profane Wretch reply'd, that he was glad of it with all his Heart, because then, quoth Ralph, I have spoiled your Trade. A Word to the Wife is fufficient.

Methinks alfo, it fhould be doing too much Credit to his Satanick Majesty, to suppose him more than a Match for a Million of confecrated Persons, with all their Hierarchial Powers, and, as they say, Divine Affistances about them. G NUMBER

NUMBER XII. Wednesday, April 6. 1720. The Enmity of the High Clergy to the Reformation, and their Arts to Defeat the End of it.

Achiavel advifes any One, who would change the Conflicution o a State, to keep as much as poffible to the old Forms; for then the People feeing the fame Officers, the fame Formalities, Courts of Juffice, and other outward Appearances, are infentible of the Alteration, and believe themfelves in Poffelfion of their old Government.

Thus, Cæfar, when he feized the Roman Libertics, caufed himfelf to be chofen Dictator, (which was an Ancient Office) continued the Senate, the Confuls, the Tribunes, the Cenfors, and all other Powers of the Common-Wealth; and yet changed Rome from the most Free, to the most Tyrannical Government in the World. This

This Policy is yet more neceffary to be observed in altering the Religion of a Country; for very few Persons, of any Sect or Party in Faith, are conversant with the Speculations or distinguishing Tenets of their own Church, or fo much as know what they are.

Whilft they fee the fame broad-brim'd Hats, Bands, Caflocks, and Long Gowns; and hear the fame Pfalms fung in the fame Tone, and in the fame fashioned Buildings; they think they have the fame Religion, and will be angry with any one who shall tell them the Contrary.

But if the Ceremonies or other Forms of Religious Worfhip are to be altered too, the Change must be made infensibly, and by Degrees, that the Difference may be unobserved, or thought of no Consequence; and all Advantages must be taken of Revolutions in Government, of Publick Calamities, and of Factions, when they beat high, and are ready to fall into any Measures to oppose and mortify each other.

The Priefthood in all Ages have made thefe Arts, and a Thoufand others, contribute to their Greatnefs; and the High-Church Jacobite Clergy of England have put them all in Practice to regain every Thing they loft at the Reformation; and if they could but have prevailed upon their Flocks to have followed them, they had long ago fold them again in the Roman Market: But fince we of the Lai-G 2 ty ty are fo refractory, and hang backward, they now feem refolved to gallop away by themfelves, and leave us to come our own Pace after; infomuch that a Clergyman of the Church of England, as by Law Eftablifhed, is, at prefent, become a most agreeable Sight, and many of his Brethren treat him as a Monster.

It must be evident to any one, who has read our Ecclesiaftical Story, that the Reformation in England was carry'd on, not only without, but against the Consent of the whole Body of the Clergy, (very few excepted) who always opposed every Step towards their own Amendment: It was, indeed, every where, properly speaking, an Effort, or Insurrection of the Laity, against the Pride and Oppression of the Priess, who had cheated them of their Estates, imposed upon their Consciences, debauched their Wives, and were ever insulting their Persons.

The poor Injured People had long felt the Malady, but were fo intimidated by their own Superfition, and the over-grown Power of their haughty Mafters, that they durft not think of a Remedy, till a bold and difobliged Friar or Two diffolved the Enchantment; and then the whole Chriftian World feemed to rife at once against this Fairy and Fantastical Empire.

But People long used to Servitude, knowing not what Freedom is, or how to preferve it when thrown into their Laps, have always t Recourse Recourse to fome Leaders, of whose Honesty and greater Wildom they have conceived an Opinion; and these for the most Part abuse fuch Confidence, to advance their own Views of Wealth and Power.

So it happened in this Cafe; and confequently the Reformation went partially on, according to the Direction under which it fell: Where Priefts were at the Head of it, they attempted only to make it a Reformation of Sounds and Diftinctions: They took no Offence at the Riches and Grandeur of the Clergy, (which was the Source of all other Evils) but were angry that they had not their Share of them; and fo look'd upon the Revolt only as a Means to aggrandize themselves. They condemned not the Tyranny, but the Tyrants; and attempted to usurp that Power in their own Perfons, which they londly exclaimed against in the Romiss Priesthood : Most Sets of them wonderfully well agreed, that there was a Divine Right in the Glergy to dictate to the Laity in Religious Matters; but every Sect claimed that Power to themfelves, independent of all others.

They could not agree about tharing the Prey, but each would have had the Whole; which had this good Effect however, that they were all obliged to abate much of their Pretentions, in order to engage Cuftomers; and, I thank God, they have not yet been ablerto raife the Price again to the old Market; tho', to do them Justice, they are no Ways answerable Ġ 3 able to their Successors, for having let slip any Opportunity to that Purpose.

But whill they were thus carrying on their Project for Dominion, they found it neceffary to throw out a Barrel to the Whale, and keep the Peoples Minds busied, and their Passions associate, with Metaphysical Subtilities and Distinctions, of no Use to true Religion and Morality, tho' very conducive to their own ambitious and tyrannical Designs.

I would gladly know from these Reverend Venders of Trifles, whether it would have been worth the Thousandth Part of the Combuftion which has been made, or the Blood which has been fpilt, only to fettle a few Speculations, if they could have been fettled? Pray where is the effential Difference between Tranfubstantiation, Consubstantiation, and the Real Presence ? What the Confequence, whether a Child be baptized by one fort of Priests, or by another? Or of what Use to Mankind are the abstruse Questions about Predestination, Free-Will, or Free Grace ? What is the Difference, as to the Duties or Ordinances of Christianity, if they are administred under the Direction of a fingle Person, a Bench of Bishops, or a Lower House of Convocation, or none of them all, fo they be pioufly administred? Or whether the chimerical Line of Succession is broken, or ever had a Being ?

Since 'tis agreed amongst all our prefent Sects of Christians, that the Saviour of the World

World is the Son of God, defcended from Heaven to teach Virtue and Goodness to Men, and to die for our Redemption; how are we concerned in the Scholastick Notions of the Trinity? Will the Scripture be more regarded, or the Precepts of it be better observed, if the Three Persons are believed to be Three Divine diftinct Spirits and Minds, who are fo many real fubfifting Perfons? Whether the Son and Holy Ghoft are Omnipotent of themselves, or are subordinate and dependent on the Father? Or if they are independent, whether their Union confifts in a mutual Confciousness of one another's Thoughts and Defigns, or in any Thing elfe? Whether they are Three Attributes of God, viz. Goodnefs, Wildom and Power? Or Three internal Acts. viz. Creation, Redemption and Sanctification ? Or Two internal Acts of the One fubfilting Perfon of the Father; that is to fay, the Father understanding and willing himself and his own Perfections? Or Three internal Relations, namely, the Divine Substance and Godhead confider'd as Unbegotten, Begotten and Proceeding? Or Three Names of God afcribed to him in Holy Scripture, as he is Father of all Things, as he did inhabit in an extraordinary Manner in the Man Jefus Chrift, and as he effected every Thing by his Spirit, or his Energy and Power? Or laftly, whether the Three Perfons are only Three Beings, but what fort of Beings we neither: G 4. know, know, nor ought to pretend to know; which I take to be the Trinity of the Mob, as well as of fome other wifer Heads.

As far as I can remember, these are the important Questions which have fet Mankind together by the Ears, for fo many Ages; and it feems are yet thought of Confequence enough to create new Fewds, and mortal Dudgeon amongst all our Sets of Ecclefiasticks. But why must we of the Laity quarrel about them too? What have Beaus and Belles, old Women, Coblers and Milk-Maids to do with Homoousios, Consubstantia. lity, Personality, Hypostatical Union, Infinite Satisfaction, &c. none of which hard Words, or any like them, are to be found in Scripture; and therefore, I think, we may even return them to Rome, that being the Place from whence they came, and be contented to be good Christians without them.

We ought to shew our Faith and Obedience to God, by a chearful Submission to his Commands, and not affect a vain Curiosity of prying into his Secrets; pretend to Philosophize upon his abstracted Nature and Effence; and with our limited and corrupt Understandings, assume to comprehend infinite Wission and Power, and define the Modus of its Existence and Operations. Almighty God would not make himself farther known even to Moses, nor suffer himself to be otherwise described to the Children of Israel, (tho' to get them out of the Land of Bon-Bondage) than by the comprehensive Words, I am that I am; which methinks might baffle our officious Impertinence, and put us in Mind of the Danger of peeping into the Ark.

The above Disputes make us neither wifer nor better: Men are not intended for Speculation; exceeding few are capable of it: The Faculties of our Minds, as well as the Frame of our Bodies, are adapted to Labour, and to fupply the Exigencies of our Nature: We are formed for Society and mutual Help, and the Goodness of God has implanted in us Qualities fuited to these Ends; and, besides. has given us Precepts for our Affiftance, and annexed infinite Rewards to the Obfervance of them. We know how to be good Parents, good Children, good Neighbours, and good Subjects; but how small a Part of Mankind understand, or are capable of understanding Metaphysical Questions! When they use the Terms, it is plain they have no Ideas annexed to them, but fight at Blind-Man's Buff, and quarrel about what none of them understand: It is evident therefore that the Allwife Providence could not intend to perplex and confound weak Minds with fuch Subtilties, for the Knowledge of which he has not given them fuitable Qualifications.

Wednesday, April 13. 1720.

The Church proved a Creature of the Civil Power, by Acts of Parliament, and the Oaths of the Clergy.

Have observed, in my last Paper, that many of the Protestant Priests endeavoured to divert the growing Spirit in the Christian World for Reformation, to Metaphysical and useless Speculations, of no Benefit to the present or eternal Happiness of Mankind, whilst they were feating themselves at leifure in their Predecessions Chairs.

But far otherwife was it where it fell under the Direction of Laymen, who confider'd it as an Opportunity put by Heaven into their Hands, to free themfelves from the Ufurpations, and unjust Domination of the Priesthood: They made no Scruple (notwithstandstanding the loud Cry of Sacrilege) to feize and and apply to publick Uses, a great Part of those Riches, which the Clergy had extorted from old Women, and superstitious and enchanted Bigots; the Compositions for Murthers, for publick and private Robberies; the Plunder of dying and despairing Sinners, and the Supports of their own Idleness, Pride, Ignorance and Debauchery.

A bold and honeft Phyfician (whofe Name was Erastus) at this time started up, and told the World, that all these Squabbles of the Clergy about their own Power, were Difputes de lana caprina, and that none of them had any Right to what they almost all claimed : That the Quarrel amongst them was only which of them fhould oppress the Laity, who were independent of them all; for that their Ministers were their Servants, Creatures of their own making, and not of God Almighty's: He shewed them from Reason and Scripture, that every State had the fame Authority of modelling their Ecclefiastical as Civil Government; that the Gospel gave no Preeminence, or Authority to Christians over one another, but every Man alike (who had fuitable Abilities) was qualified to execute all the Duties and Offices of their most holy Religion; and that it was only a Matter of Prudence and Convenience to appoint particular Perfons to officiate for the reft, with proper Rewards and Encouragements; which Perfons would be intitled to no more Power than they themfelves gave them.

This

This Doctrine, as little as it pleafed the Clergy, yet prevailed fo far with the Laity, that most Protestant States modelled their Ecclefiaftical Polity according to their own Inclinations or Interests; and particularly, in England, the whole Reformation was built upon this Principle, which ever till lately, was efteemed the great Characteristick of the Church of England; and therefore 'tis the last Degree of Priestly Insolence for a Body of Men to call themselves the only true Churchmen, at the fame time that they deny, and every where exclaim against, the fundamental and effential Article which diffinguishes it from most other Churches, and particularly from Presbytery; for as to the reft of the Articles, the Calvinists are more Orthodox than the Churchmen themselves.

At the very Beginning of the Reformation, the Clergy here in England, confcious of their own Enormities, and the just Vengeance which hung over their Heads, were contented to difgorge their ill-gotten, and as ill used Power and, in full Convocation, threw themselves upon the King's Mercy, acknowledging his Supremacy in the fullest and most fignificant Words; and promifed in verbo facerdotii, that for the future they would never prefume to attempt, alledge, claim, or put in use, enact, or promulgate any Canons, Constitutions, or Ordinances, without the King's most Royal Licence and Affent had thereunto; and humbly befought his Majesty to appoint Thirty Two

Two Perfons, half Clergy and half Laity, to examine the Canons and Conflictutions in being, and to abrogate and confirm them, as they should think good.

This Petition was changed into an Act of Parliament by the 25th of Hen. the VIIIth, Cap. 19. But it is there declared, That the Crown and Convocation together, fhall not put in Execution any Canons, Conflictution, or Ordinances, which fhall be contrariant or repugnant to the King's Prerogative, or the Laws of the Kingdom : The fame Statute alfo gives an Appeal from the fupreme Ecclefiaftical Court, to the King's Commiffion.

In the fame Seffion of Parliament, the Manner of Proceeding upon the Conge d' Elire is directed, viz. * A Licence from the Crown is to be fent to the Chapter to choofe or elect. an Archbishop or Bishop, and a Letter missive with it, to nominate the Person they are to choose; which if they do not obey, nor fignify the fame, according to the Tenor of the Act, within Twenty Days, they are subjected to a Præmunire; and if the Election is not made within Twelve Days, the King may nominate a Bishop by Letters Patents without any Election at all, as is now done in Ireland, and formerly was so in Scotland, where their Bishops were durante bene placito.

The

The next Year the Parliament * reciting that the King juftly and rightly is, and ought to be fupreme Head of the Church of England, enact the fame, and that he fhall have full Power to vifit, redrefs, reform, correct, and reftrain all Errors, Herefies, Abufes, Offences, Contempts, and Enormities, whatfoever they be, which by any manner of fpiritual Authority or Jurifdiction, ought or may be reformed, redreffed, cc.

Afterwards, in the 37th Year of the fame Reign, the Parliament, reciting that the Bishop of Rome and his Adherents, minding utterly to abolish, obscure, and delete the Power given by God to the Princes of the Earth, whereby they might get and gather to themfelves the Rule and Government of the World, had decreed, that no Layman might exercife Ecclefiastical Jurifdiction, left their false and ufurp'd Power which they pretended to have in Christ's Church might decay, wax vile, and be of no Reputation, (which Power they affirm to be contrary to the Word of God, and to his Majefty's most high Prerogative) and reciting alfo, That Archbishops, Bishops, Archdeacons, and other Ecclefiastical Perfons, have no manner of Jurifdiction Ecclefiaftical, but by, from, and under the King's Majefty; enacts, That Laymen, qualified as the Law appoints, may exercise all Parts of Ecclesiaftical Jurifdiction, and all Cenfures and Coercions appertaining, or in any wife belonging thereunto.

The 2d and 3d of Edward the Sixth, Cap. 1. enacts the Common-Prayer Book, (which was before compiled and drawn up by the King's Authority) and makes it a Law.

The 3d and 4th of Edward the Sixth, Cap. 12. appoints fuch Form and Manner of making and confecrating Archbishops, Bishops, Priest, and Deacons, and other Ministers of the Church, as by Six Prelates, and Six other Men of this Realm, by the King to be appointed and assigned, or by the greater Number of them, shall be devised, &c. and none other. These two Acts were confirmed with some Alterations, in the 5th and 6th Year of this Reign.

The ist of Queen Elizabeth, Cap. 1. establishes and enacts, That all Jurisdictions, Privileges, Superiorities, and Pre-eminences, Spiritual and Ecclesiastical, at any Time lawfully used, or exercised, for the Visitation of the Ecclesiastical State or Persons, and for the Reformation, Order, and Correction of the fame; and of all manner of Errors, Herefies, Schifms, Abuses, Contempts, Offences, and Enormities, shall be annexed to the Imperial Crown of this Realm; and gives Power and Authority to it to appoint any Persons, being natural born Subjects, to exercise all forts of Ecclefiaftical Jurifdiction ; and declares at the fame Time what, and what only, shall be The deemed Herefy.

The Oath of Supremacy (which is an Affent to these Laws, and obliges those who take it, to affist and defend them) is appointed in this Act; which Oath all Ecclesiastical Persons, as well as any others, who shall be promoted and preferred to any Degree or Order in the University, are to take under severe Penalties.

The 8th of Queen Elizabeth, reciting that the Queen had in her Order and Difpolition, all Jurifdiction, Power, and Authority, Ecclefiaftical as well as Civil; and had caufed divers Archbishops and Bishops to be duly elected, and confecrated; does confirm all the faid Elections and Confecrations; as alfo the Common-Prayer Book, and the Orders and Forms for the making of Priest, Deacons, and Ministers, which were added to it in the Fifth and Sixth Years of Edward the Sixth.

All which before mentioned Acts are now in being, in full Force, and fworn to by all the Clergy, who are fubjected to a Præmunire if they contradict them.

Thus our Parliaments, at or just after the Reformation, whilst the Memory of Sacerdotal Oppressions continued in their Minds, were resolved to pare their Claws, curb their Infolence, and not leave it in their Power to corrupt Religion any more; and therefore put it under the Care of the Civil Magistrate, who could feldom have any Interest in perverting it: Whereas there is not any Instance when when it has been left to the Conduct of any Set of Ecclefiafticks whatfoever, but they have abufed and facrificed it to the Advancement of their own Wealth and Power.

Even Aaron himfelf (though a High Priest of God's own Appointment) when Mofes, the Civil Magistrate, was but a little while absent, to receive the Almighty's Commands, cheated the Ifraelites of their Earings, melted them into a Golden Calf, and encouraged the Boobies to fay, Thefe were the Gods which brought them out of the Land of Egypt. He built an Altar before his Idol, proclaimed a Fast, and then made use of all this Deceit to extort from that stupid and superstitious People, Burnt-Offerings and Peace-Offerings; which provoked Almighty God to that degree, that his Wrath was kindled against the whole Nation, and he was inclined to confume them all, till Moses, the Lay Soveraign, turned his fierce Wrath by his Prayers, and by remembring him of the Oath be fware to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, viz. that he would multiply their Seed like the Stars in Heaven, &c. And then it is true, that the Lord repented of the Evil which he thought to do unto them : But no Thanks to the Prieft, who had drawn them into this Scrape, Exod. Chap. 32.

Wednesday, April 20. 1710.

The Clergy prov'd to be Creatures of the Civil Power, by the Canons, and their own publick Acts.

N my last Discourse, I have shewn what is meant by the Supremacy of the Crown of England; by virtue of which, our Kings sometimes with, and sometimes without their Parliaments, have govern'd and modelled the Ecclesiastical State, ever since the Reformation. Bishops, as well as inferior Clergymen, have been often sufferended and deprived by the King's Authority; and, in the Instance of Archbishop Abbot, for his Pleasure. The Popish Bishops were all deprived by Queen Elicabeth, and some Thousands of the Parochial Clergy were ejected by the Act of Uniformity 5 ty; and many also of all Orders were deprived at the Revolution.

I shall now proceed to shew what have been the Opinions and Practice of the whole Body of the Ecclesiafticks, since the making of these Laws; in doing which I shall take Notice only of their publick and Authentick Acts; for as to the Whimseys of private Doctors, I think them of so little Weight, that I shall be assumed to quote them on either side of the Question.

Upon the Clergy's owning the King Head of the Church at the Reformation, all the Bishops took out Commissions for the exercifing their Ecclefiastical Jurisdiction; which were renewed again upon his Son's coming to the Throne. In these Commissions, all Ecclefiastical Jurisdiction is owned to proceed from the Crown, as from a supreme Head and Fountain and Spring of all Magistracy, in the Kingdom; and they acknowledge, that they executed it formerly only ex precario, and that now with grateful Minds they accepted the Favour from the King's Liberality and Indulgence, and would be always ready to yield it up again, when his Majesty pleased to require it.

These Commissions recited, amongst other Particulars of Spiritual Power, that of Ordaining Presbyters, and of Ecclesiastical Correction.

The 2d Canon excommunicates every one who shall endeavour to hurt or extenuate the King's Authority in Ecclesiastical Cases, as it H 2 is is fettled by the Laws of the Kingdom, and declares he shall not be restored till he has publickly recanted such impious Errors.

The 37th Canon obliges all Perfons, to their utmost, to keep and observe all and every one of the Statutes and Laws, made for reftoring to the Crown, the antient Jurisdiction it had over the Ecclesiastical State.

The 12th of King James's Canons declares, that whoever shall affirm that it is lawful for the Order either of Ministers or Laicks, to make Canons, Decrees, or Constitutions in Ecclesiastical Matters, without the King's Authority, and submits himself to be governed by them, is, ipfo facto, excommunicated, and is not to be absolved before he has publickly repented and renounced these Anabaptistical Errors.

Archbishop Bancroft, when at the Head of all the Bishops in England, he delivered Articles to King James against the Secular Courts, for encroaching upon the Ecclesiastical, owns, that all Jurisdictions, Ecclesiastical as well as Civil, are annex'd to the Imperial Crown of this Realm, as may be read more at large in the Lord Coke's Third Institute; which I would recommend to the perusal of every one, as a Specimen of the Difference between Ecclesiasticks and Laymen.

I shall think it necessary only here to add, that the Clergy have never prefumed, by any publick Act, directly to contravert this Prerogative, or indeed but to nibble at it, unless in one one Inftance during the laft Reign; which the Queen refented highly; and fhe let the Convocation know, by a Letter to the Archbishop, that fhe was refolved to maintain her Supremacy, as a Fundamental Part of the Constitution of the Church of England.

This is the Supremacy of the Crown; thefe are the genuine Principles of the Church of England; which whoever denies, may be a Papist, a Presbyterian, a Muggletonian, a Fifth Monarchy Man, or any Thing elfe, befides a Member of our Communion. This Doctrine, and these Opinions, have been acknowledg'd and fworn to by every Ecclefiaftick fince the Reformation; and we daily fee they are All ready to fwear them over again upon any fresh Motives of Advantage; and fure no One will fuggeft, that the Whole Clergy of England have lived in the State of Perjury for near Two Hundred Years: I am fure, if this be the Cafe, it is not their Interest to let us know it, fince their Authority must be of very little Weight in any Thing elfe.

We have it here upon Oath, that all Jurifdiction, Power and Authority, Spiritual or Ecclefiaftical, of what Kind or Sort foever it be, does flow from, and is derived from the King's Majefty; and I readily allow them to have all the reft by Divine Right. They have been always very happy at Diffinctions and Difcoveries, and therefore if they can find out any Power or Authority, which is of no Kind or Sort what foever, I think they ought to H 3 have it for their Pains: I with them much Joy with it; and thall own it always to be Sacriledge in any One who thalt attempt to take it from them; but, if there is any fuch Thing, it is plain it belongs to them as Governours of the Invifible Church, and is of a Nature we know nothing of.

For it is certain, that Archbishops and Bifhops are Creatures of the Civil Power, and derive their Being and Existence from it: They are chosen by the Direction of One Act of Parliament, and ordained and confectated according to a Model prefcribed by Another; in which Those who Officiate, act only Minifterially; and all other Methods of choosing them which the Clergy can devife, are declared void and ineffectual, and will not convey any Spiritual Power at all; nor, I dare fay, will any Clergyman in England pay Submillion to fuch a Choice, if he does not like the Man; nor if he does, provided he thinks that he shall lose any Thing by it. If the Bishops have no Power but what they derive from the Crown, they can convey None but of the fame Sort to the Inferior Clergy.

I durft not have ftood the Imputation of Calumny, in charging any of the prefent Clergy with Principles or Practices fo directly in Defiance of these glaring and notorious Declarations of the whole Body, as well as their own repeated Oaths and Subferiptions, if I had not the Authority of the brightest Luminary of the prefent Church and Age (our Great Great Metropolitan) to bear me out, who affures us in his Appeal, "That a new Sort "of Difciplinarians are arifen up from a-"mongft our felves, who feem to comply "with the Government of the Church, much "upon the fame Account as Others do with "That of the State; not out of Confcience "to their Duty; or any Love they have for "it; but becaufe it is the Eftablifh'd Church, "and they cannot keep their Preferments "without it: They hate our Conftitution, and All who ftand up in good Earneft for "it; but for all that, they hold faft to it; "and fo go on to fubfcribe and rail."

To these wild and Enthusiastick Notions we owe the present Difassection; and most, if not all the Calamities and Publick Disturbances that have happen'd fince the Revolution; and yet (which is amazing to think of) they have prevailed so far amongst the corrupt Part of the Ecclesiasticks, that I wish we could find more even of the Low-Church Clergymen, who dare thoroughly to renounce these Impious and Anabaptifical Errors, as their own Canons call them.

Dominion! Dominion is the loud Cry; which, as it has already produced all the Cruelties and Abfurdities of Popery, fo it is ftill teeming with, or bringing forth new Monsters; and what other Issue can be expected from fo unnatural a Copulation as that of the Christian Priesthood with worldly Power?

To

To this we are beholden for all the Corruptions and Fopperies brought into Religious Worship, as well as the ill-shapen and ungainly Brats of Passive Obedience; the Divine Right of Kings and Bilhops; the Uninterrupted Succession ; the Priests Power of the Keys; of Binding and Loofing; remitting and retaining Sins; the Real Prefence in the Sacrament; the Altar, and Unbloody Sacrifice upon it; the giving the Holy Ghoft; of Excommunication, as laid Claim to; and Confectation of Churches and Church-Yards: the Reconciliation of God's knowing what we shall do with a Power in us not to do it; of Perfecution for Opinions, and the Tritheistical Charity; with a long Train of Monkish Fooleries befides: All, or any Part of which, could never have entered into the Heart of One Layman, or Clergyman either, if Nothing had been to be got by them.

The Absurdity and Impossibility of Church-Power, as independent on the State.

Have shewn, in my last two Difcourses, that the Clergy of England have no Jurisdiction, Power, or Authority whatsoever, which is not derived mediately or immediately from the Legiflature; and that they have all fworn to this Principle: I now own my felf fo much concern'd for their Reputation, that I will even run the Hazard of incurring the Difpleafure of fome of them, by proving, that they have taken true Oaths, and that it is impoffible to conflitute a Protestant National Church upon any other Foundation.

I intend to fhew, in the Courfe of these Papers, that there is not the least Colour or Pretence for the chimerical Distinction of Ecclefiastical and Civil, in any other Sense than *

as the Words Maritime and Military, are ufed to denote different Branches of the Executive Power: for, take away the legal Effablifhment, and the Clergy can have no Power at all, but what flows from the Confent of voluntary Societies; which I undertake hereafter demonstratively to make out; and I defy all the Ecclefiasticks in the World, united together, to take one Step towards proving the contrary, without plunging themselves in everlasting Nonsenfe and Abfurdity.

But to keep them a little in good Humour, I will suppose, for the present, that their wild Hypothesis is true; and that our Saviour, whilft upon Earth, (even against his own Declarations) had Ecclefiaftical Jurifdi-Gion over the whole Earth; that he gave it to the Apostles; that they convey'd it on to their Successors; and that the Church of Rome, and the prefent Clergy of the Church of England, as by Law established, are their undoubted Succeffors: Nay, I will be fo civil as not to ask one Question, what fort of Power that was? but take it for granted it. was worldly Authority, and ought to be rewarded and supported by worldly Equipage, Wealth, and Titles; and if they have any Thing more to ask of me, I will grant that too, and then examine what Use can be made of these Concessions to the present Purpose.

I desire first to be informed, from whence they will fetch their Ecclesiastical Heraldry of Archbishops, Diocesan Bishops, Deans, * Chapters, Chapters, Arch-deacons, the new Office of Deacons, Officials, Commiffaries, the Two Houfes of Convocation with co-ordinate Powers, Ecclefiaftical Courts, Parifh Priefts, and Curates, with the whole Train of inferior Machines, and fpiritual Under-ftrappers. Here I doubt all their Texts, all their Schemes will fail them; for very few of thefe hard Names will be found even in their own Tranflations of the Bible, and they muft have Recourfe to Human Authority at laft.

If they fay, (as I fufpect they will) that the Government of the Church being conveyed down to the Bifhops from the Apoflies, they must have all Power which is necessary to it; and confequently have a Right to appoint Courts of Judicature, and Ecclesiastical Officers, as also to give them proper Powers to answer the Ends of their Trust.

I would then ask them, whether this great Epifcopal Authority is given to every Bilhop, independent of all the reft; to all the Bilhops of the whole Church every where difperfed, agreeing together, to the Majority of this Whole; or to the Majority of any Number of them meeting in one Place, either by Confent, Accident, or the Appointment of Princes or States ? For, I think, it must be agreed by all the World, that if the Bilhops had any Power from God, which is Independent of the Civil Sovereign, he cannot reftrain, model, or limit it; and that any accidental Alterations of the Bounds of Dominions, either ther from Conquest, Chance or Consent, can no Way affect this Divine Authority, or hinder its Operation.

If every Bifhop has this whole Power delegated to him from God; then by what Authority can the Exercife of it be afterwards reftrained to a particular Diftrict or Diocefe, fo as to make his Actions out of it, not only invalid, but fchifmatical and criminal ? Who can limit a Power given by the Almighty? Not the Civil Sovereign, who has nothing to do in another Jurifdiction; nor the Bifhop himfelf, who must accept it upon the Terms God has given it.

It cannot be fuppofed that he receives it for his own Sake, but as a Truft for the Benefit of Christianity; and it must be the higheft Breach of this great Truft, not to difcharge it perfonally, but to divide it with others, of whose Honesty he can have no fufficient Knowledge.

Befides, when these Bishops differ with one another, (which will happen as often as they have different Complexions, Interests, or Understandings) what must the Christian World then do? Must they follow the Bishop of B-r, or the Abbot of W-2? Or fusspeed? A folid Rock truly to build God's Church upon!

So great a Body of Men as the whole Christian Church, or the Majority of them, never did, or could meet together; and if fuch The Independent Whig. 109 fuch a Thing was possible, they would only Scold or Fight; and therefore any one may with great Modesty affirm, that no Ecclesiassistical Establishment now in the World did, or could, take its Rife from such an Affembly.

Nothing therefore remains, but that, once upon a Time, a certain Number of Bishops met together, and settled such Constitutions, from which the rest are derived; otherwise we must fetch them from the Civil Magistrate, or confess them all to be Usurpations.

Those who suppose the first, are obliged to tell us what Number are necessary to this Purpose; and if another equal Number should fettle a different Establishment in the same District or Province, who will be the Schifmaticks: I think it is agreed by all High-Churchmen, that every one of these can make as many other Bishops, and Governours of the whole Church, as he pleases; and therefore if one of them in a frolickfome Humour should create Two or Three Hundred of these Ecclesiastical Princes, are they all to have Votes in the Episcopal College? And I ask this Question the rather, because I my felf once knew a Drunken Popifh Bifhop in Ireland, who would have made these Spiritual Sovereigns from Morning to Night, for a Pot of Ale a Piece.

If it should be faid (as indeed what is not or may not be faid by Persons of their Perspicuity?)

foicuity?) that the Power it felf comes from God, but the Exercise of it is to be limited and directed by the Civil Sovereign; I anfwer, that, befides the egregious Blunder of diftinguishing between Power and the Exercife of Power, the first being only a Right to do certain Actions, in which the other confifts: this gives up the whole Queftion; for there can be no greater Power necessary to give an Authority than to take it away; and every Restriction and Limitation is taking it away in Part : No one can have a Right to depose a Temporal Prince from any Part of his just Dominions, without having also the fame Right to deprive him of the whole; and in this Respect there can be no Difference between Temporal and Ecclefiastical Sovereignties.

If these Gentlemen were not in Possession of fanctifying Nonsense, they could not venture to tell us, that our Saviour has given Power to Bishops to execute Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction thro' the whole Earth; and confequently all Mankind must be their Spiritual Subjects: But that this great Power may here below be limited and restrained to Cities or Provinces, and parcelled out and divided in such a Manner, that some may have large Districts, others small ones, in which no one else must officiate; nay, that many more may have none at all, and yet every one have universal Jurisdiction, and be a Bishop of the whole Earth.

Thefe

These, with a huge Heap besides of glaring Abfurdities and Contradictions, must be maintained by those, who would reconcile the divine Right of Bishops with any Protestand Establishment now in the World. have fo amply fhewn bow inconfiftent it is with our own, from the whole Tenor of our Laws and Canons, as well as the repeated Acknowledgments of the Clergy themselves, that I should think it not only needless but impertinent to fay any thing further of it, did we not daily hear of fuch Numbers of our Spiritual Guides, who rail against these Laws at the Time they fwear and fubscribe to them, and complain aloud of them as Violations of their own divine Rights, and denounce Judgments upon the Nation for fuch Usurpations.

Therefore in my next Paper I shall descant a little upon the voluntary and most applauded Actions of the highess, even of these High Gentlemen; and shew that they cannot help acknowledging the Principle I maintain, even in the Instances where they would oppose it, and amidss their greatess Demands for Power. This I intend to do, not with the least Expectation or vain Hope to induce them to alter their Measures, (there being a Prescription among the Ecclessafticks against such Lay Follies,) but (if possible) to open the Eyes of their blind and stupid Adorers, and to let them see what wretched Idols they are worshipping.

The Inconfiftency of the Principles and Practices of High-Church; with fome Advice to the Clergy.

F the Ecclefiafticks have any divine Right, which is neither derived from the Civil Magistrate, nor the Confent of voluntary Societies, it must be vested in a fingle Person; in a certain Number of Persons, which we all call Bissons; or in common to them all: The First is Popery, and the Last Presbytery. But I think there is no Establishment which now subsist; or ever did subsist in the World, which does or did affert the divine Right of Bissons, Independent of the Pope; and consequently it is the Proprium or peculiar Whims of our own perjured High-Churchmen, not only in Oppo-

Opposition to their Oaths and Subscriptions (as I have shewed already) but to the most applauded Actions of their greatest Champions; which its the Business of this Paper to make out.

If there be a divine Right in the Bilhops to Govern the Church, it is fpiritual Rebellion, and the highest Sacrilege, to usurp upon this great Authority; but then, what will become of all the daily Daubing and fulfome Panegyrick upon the best established Church in the World? Since I think it is agreed by all the Clergy, that the Power of Legislation, as far as they have any thing to do with it, is vested in the Convocation, which confifts of two Houses, one of Bishops, the other of Presbyters; a Constitution utterly inconfistent with this divine Right; which the High-Clergy have been fo far from regretting or complaining of, that it is one of their most estential Characteristicks, to maintain the Power of the Lower House against the Upper; that is, of Presbyters against their own Diocesans.

They claim a co ordinate Power with them in the fupremeft Acts of Church Government; an Authority of acting by themfelves, to choofe their own time of meeting, to fit as often and as long as they pleafe, to adjourn by their own Authority, to begin what Bufinefs they think fit, to choofe their own Committees, excufe Abfence, receive Proxies, judge of Elections, cenfure their own Members, and do all other Acts, which ought to be done by the fole Authority of a Houfe which is it's own Mafter and Judge: All which, though they are rank Presbytery, yet are alfo become the genuine Principles of modern High. Churchmen; at the fame time that they affert a fole, divine, Apostolick, and independent Power in the Bishops to Govern the Chuch.

The afferting of these Rights of the Lower. House, is the Merit of their prefent Champion, fupplies the Wants of Charity in him, and covers a Thousand Faults; and tis much to be feared and lamented, that all the late Zeal of a much greater Man, and the prefent Services he is doing, will scarcely atone for his having acted formerly upon Low-Church Principles, in defending the Prerogative of the Crown, and maintaining the Power of the Upper-House over the Lower.

What Perfons or Party have fupported the Bifhops and their Authority, ever fince the Revolution, againft their own Presbyters? All Low-Churchmen. Who were thofe who have been always afperfing, calumniating and libelling the two laft Arch-Bifhops, our prefent Metropolitan, till very lately, the laft Bifhop of Salisbury, and indeed every worthy Prelate; but the High-Church Priefts and their Followers? And who have honoured and defended their Perfons and Characters, but Low-Churchmen ?

Who exhibited Articles against a present Bishop, for having impeached the King's Supremacy in Ecclesiastical Affairs, (wholly inconfastent with the divine Right of Bishops) but the

the High-Church Clergy? Who fupported the late Dean of Carlifle againft his own Diocefan? All High-Churchmen. And who defended both thefe Bifhops? All Low-Churchmen. Who burnt by the Hands of the common Hangman, a Book wrote by a Right Reverend Bifhop, which afferted King William's Title upon the once genuine Principles of Conqueft, and pafs'd a fcandalous and groundlefs Vote upon the late learned Bifhop of Worcefter, but High-Churchmen? And who voted for thefe Bifhops? All Low-Churchmen.

Such open Blunders and glaring Inconfiftencies must these Men be reduced to, who measure all Opinions by their present Interest and Passions; and who have no other Standard of Right and Wrong, but what most gratifies their Ambition, Pride, Covetousiness, or Revenge.

I can fafely fay, that, as I had no Interest in entring upon this Delign, nor can have any in continuing it, but to promote the Caufe of Virtue and Truth, and to support our prefent legal Establishment; by shewing the Laity that they are free, both by the Laws of God and their Country, from all the wild and enthuliastick Pretensions of the highflown Ecclefiafticks: As I was willing alfo, not wholly to defpair of being able to reftore again the Apostate Clergymen to the Church of England, and to make them really of the Principles they fwear to, pretend to monopolize, and yet constantly oppose; ſa I 2 fo I shall have the utmost Pleasure, if I can contribute to these great Ends, and shall rejoyce over such an Occasion, to drop this Paper.

As the High Clergy can have no other Motive to purfue these Principles, but the temporal Interest of their Order, in opposition to Christianity, and the apparent Laws of their Country; fo I shall endeavour to convince them, that they are grasping at what they can never reach; and, with the Dog in the Fable, loosing a Substance to catch at a Shadow.

It was a Saying of the wife Lord Halifax, that Dr. Echard, in his Treatife of the Contempt of the Clergy, had omitted the chief Caufe of it, namely, (not their Ignorance, but) the Knowledge of the Laity; and it is very true, that the Mifts of Superflition and Fear, which have been fo long raifing before our Eyes, are pretty well diffipated and difpers'd; nor will an Horizontal Hat, a ftarch'd Band, and long Petticoats, pafs in this Age for effential Marks of Wifdom and Virtue.

The Rehearfal has long fince told us, that the graveft of all Beafts is an A/s, and the graveft of all Birds is an Owl; and indeed the World feems generally of Opinion now, that found Senfe, polite Learning, good Breeding, and an eafy and affable Conversation, are not only confistent with true Religion, but are most productive of it; and fure it cannot be denied, that the Laity, for the most mart, exceed in these Qualities. They

They are refolv'd, at last, to fee with their own Eyes, hear with their own Ears, and feel with their own Hands: Ipfe dixit will pafs no longer. It is a ridiculous Attempt to endeavour to deceive any one, who will not confent to be hood-wink'd: A Jade will not be put into an Horfe-Mill, till she is blinded : nor could Samplon be led about and about by the Philistimes, till they had put out his Eyes; therefore I would give my old Friends a Hint. tho' I doubt to little Purpose, namely, to change the Courfe of their Sailing, according to the shifting of the Winds and the Tides, and not run the Danger of Shipwreck upon those Coasts, where their Predecessors formerly found deep Water and fafe Riding.

I am fenfible, many of the High Church Popifb Clergy will laugh in their Sleeves at this Advice, and think there is Folly enough yet left among the Laity, to fupport their Authority; and will hug themfelves, and rejoyce over the Ignorance of the Univerfities, the Stupidity of the drunken Squires, the Pannick of the tender Sex, and the never to be fhaken Conftancy of the Mobility; but I would put them in Mind, that all thefe fine Visions have once already millead and deceived them, and therefore may again.

I defire they will count their Gains, and recollect what Addition of Power they got, or were like to have got, by the late great Revolution of temporal Politicks, which they were fo inftru-I 3 mental mental to bring about: Indeed they were call'd together, and had a Liberty given them to fcold and quarrel with one another; but they were not fuffered to hurt fo much as a Moufe; and even Mr. Whiston laugh'd at them. Whilft their Patrons were making their Court to France and the Pretender, for Preferments; the Lower-House of Convocation was very usefully employ'd and diverted, in compiling Forms of Prayer for confecrating Church-Yards, and for Criminals who were to be hang'd; which, 'tis faid, a certain Great Person then call'd, Throwing out a Barrel to the Whale.

I am afraid, they are not well informed of what it much concerns them to know, namely, that even the Tories themfelves will not be Priest-ridden; and that those amongst them, who have any Senfe, laugh at High-Church Principles in private, tho' they Bow to the Broachers of them, and feem to admire them in publick; of the Truth of which I my felf have been frequently a Witnefs : So that of whatever Importance they may feem to themfelves, they are, in Troth, but the Tools and Cats-Feet to the worst of Men; are only employ'd to do their Drudgery, and run down their Game; and will fcarce have for their Pains even the picking of the Bones, when (like Jackals) they have hunted down the Lyon's Prey.

I should not have thought my felf at Liberry to have unburthen'd my Mind thus freely, freely, if it had not been to have ferved fome of my Friends among thefe High-Church Clergy, by helping them to a little of that Understanding, which is not to be learn'd in Univerfities, and in Conversation with one another; and I wish, (tho' I cannot hope, much less perswade my felf to believe) that when they have duly confider'd what I have faid, they will change their Style, and endeavour to atone for all the Mifchiefs they have hitherto done, by being hereafter Advocates for Civil and Ecclefiaftical Liberty; will make use of the Influence they have over the poor deluded Mobility, to promote true Religion, as well as Peace and Happinels, amongst Mankind; and be no longer the Boutefeus or Incendiaries of every popular Faction and Tumult. Which God. of his infinite Mercy, grant, &c.

Reafons why the High-Church Priefts are the most Wicked of all Men.

T feems natural and reafonable to fuppofe, that Clergymen, who have a learned, ingenuous, and Chriftian Education; who are bred up in ftrictDifcipline; who in their Youth study the Works of PLATO, ARISTOTLE, CICERO, and other Heathen Moralist; as also the Books of the Old and New Testamenr, which they believe to be divinely infpir'd; who attend daily Prayers, and frequent Sacraments ; who pretend to have a Call from the Holy Ghoft, to teach the World; who fpend a great Part of their Time in composing divine Discourses or Sermons; who are obliged to Pray and Converse daily with Weak, Sick, and fcrupulous Parishioners, about heavenly Matters; who, by Conversation and close Union

Union with one another at Visitations, and other holy Meetings, and (I prefume) by Prayers together, have great Opportunities of improving themfelves in Vertue and Godlinefs; and who are under a particular Obligation to fet good Examples, and under a fort of Necessity to observe some Decorum; should be better, than other Men. But yet, it is a Matter of common Observation, that they are not fo; almost all in the Roman Church, and too many in other Churches, being notorioufly guilty in an eminent Degree of those Vices, which are of most pernicious or most extensive ill Confequences, and most Anti-Christian; such as Ambition, Pride, Anger, Hatred, Malice, Revenge, Litigioufnefs, Uncharitablenefs, Hypocrify, Perfecution, Sedition, Treason, Equivocation, and Perjury; (whereof Multitudes of the Laity are not only wholly innocent, but remarkable for the Virtues opposite to them;) to fay nothing of their equal Guilt with other Men in respect to the inferior Vices of Swearing, Drunkennefs, and fuch like. And this Fact is honeftly confefs'd by the late Bishop of Sarum, who in his Memoirs (which we expect foon to fee publish'd, with the utmost Impatience) tells us, that he always believes well of Laymen, till he fees Caufe to change his Mind; tho', as to Churchmen, it is otherwife with him ; for he has feen fo much amifs in that Profession, that he is inclined always to think ill of them, till he sees Cause to think otherwife. Where-

Whereupon, it is a frequent Subject of Inquiry, how it comes to pass, or what are the Caufes of this Fact, which would never be credited if it was not very manifest. Some are at a Lois about this Matter; but, for my Part, I am not. And the Fast is no more furprizing to me, than are other common Facts concerning Men; which, by being common, must have plain and manifest Cau-The Caufes of this Fact, in particular, fes. are fo plain to me, that from the mere Confideration of them, I should wonder if I found the Clergy better than they are; and I efteem those Causes to be so necessarily productive of their Effect, that I do not think it Prefumption to pretend to know the Doings of the High Clergy in all Ages to have been wicked, even without History or Testimony, which are requisite to give us the Knowledge of other Mens Crimes. GROTIUS's Observation, * qui legit historiam Ecclesiasticam, quid legit nisi vitia Episcoporum? must be true, and juftly apply'd to all other Clergy as well as the Christian.

It is not the Defign of this Paper, to affign the general Caufes of this Fact, or all the particular Caufes, which render fo many of our Clergy fo bad as they are. That Subject I referve for a Treatife by it felf. I shall at prefent only affign fome of those Caufes, which I conceive to have the most

The Independent Whig. 123 direct Influence on the Morals of fo many of our Clergy.

Youth is the great Opportunity of Life, which fettleth and fixeth most Men either in a good or bad Courfe; and the Impreffions, efpecially bad Impressions, then made, are usually lasting. Youth is also a Time of Innocence, when Men have Horror for Vice, which they never commit at first without offering Violence to themfelves. The first and most natural Thoughts of Man are to be Honeft, and Juft, and Reasonable, as the best Things he can do for his own Sake; and it is the Influence of ill Example, and of the common Practice of the World, which, for the most Part, changes his Sentiments, and puts him upon ill Actions. But the natural Innocence of Youth being once broke in upon, Man by Degrees grows harden'd and impudent in Wickedness, and commits it without Shame or Remorfe.

Nothing therefore has fo direct a Tendency to debauch the World, as to debauch the Youth: And the earlier, the more effectual; for thereby Innocence and Vertue may be fo effac'd, as in a little Time to leave no Memory or Trace of them, no more than Q UARTILLA in PETRONIUSARBITER had, who, tho' a young Woman, did not remember that fbe had ever been a Maid.

Now, it feems to me peculiar to the Clergy, in most Parts of Christendam, to begin the

the World with the greatest Breach upon the natural Honesty and Integrity of Youth, and with the greatest Violence upon their own Confciences, that can be imagin'd; as will be evident from the following Particulars.

1. First, the Youth who are fent to Universities, are early initiated into Perjury, by being abliged to take College Oaths, in fome respects impertinent or ridiculous, in others wicked, or impossible to be kept; by which Means, False Swearing becomes familiar to them, and they esteem Oaths only as Matters of Form, and their Breach to be but common Qualifications for Preferment.

2. Secondly, When they go into Holy Orders, they profess, that they are inwardly mov'd by the Holy Ghoft to take upon them their Office: tho' nothing is more notorious, than that many are inwardly mov'd by the Prospect of Power and Wealth, and by Neceffity of a Maintenance; and that many use all the Arts and Means, to no Purpole, to procure to themfelves Law and Phyfick Fellowships in Colleges, and other Lay-Preferments, (where no Engagements contrary to their Judgments and Confciences are requifite) in Order to avoid the Burden of going into Orders: And by Confequence, that they feel no inward Motions of the Holy Ghoft; unless he can be supposed constantly to concur just as ferves the Purposes of Men engag'd in the Purfuit of their Temporal Interefts. Here then is a folemn Lye and Proftitution The Independent Whig. 125 titution of the Confeience, in all those who do not feel themselves mov'd by the Holy Ghost.

3. Thirdly, Many of the Clergy Abroad fubscribe Articles of Religion, which they do not believe. Mr. WHISTON (Effays, &c. p. 237.) fays, he believes there is scarce one Clergyman, even of our reformed Church, that has confider'd and examin'd Things with any Care, who believes all the 39 Articles in their proper and original Meaning. This implies, that the Unbelievers, among the Clergy, of the Articles, are very numerous; unlefs it be fuppos'd, that few of the Clergy confider and examine Things with any Care. But the Thing is manifelt from the Sophistry and Knavery used by many of them to palliate their Subscription to the Articles; which imply, that they do not believe those Articles. (1.) Some pretend to fubscribe them as Articles, which, tho' in Part erroneous, they oblige themfelves not to contradict. (2.) Some pretend to fubscribe them in any Senfe, wherein they can understand them according to the Rules of Grammar. (3.) Some pretend to fubfcribe them in any Senfe, wherein they can reconcile them to Scripture. (4.) And others chuse the Sense, they pretend to fubscribe them in, out of the feveral Senfes they fuppose intended to be held forth by the fame Articles. And I wish more of them pretended to subscribe them honeftly and fairly, viz. in the Senfe really really intended by the Imposers, who, to prevent Diversity of Opinions, impose their own Sense, as agreeable to Scripture 3 and therefore cannot be supposed to have intended, that the Articles should differ from all other Writings, which all Readers endeavour to understand in the one Meaning intended by the Authors. Nay, to fubscribe the Articles without believing them, is fo reputable among the High-Church Priefls, that a fair Subscriber, that is, one who subscribes in the one Senfe he fuppofes originally intended, passes amongst them for the worst of Men, viz. a Presbyterian, and an Enemy to the Church.

4. Fourthly, Every Clergyman instituted into any Benefice, fwears, That he has made no (imoniacal Payment, Contract or Promile, directly or indirectly, by himfelf, or by any other, to his Knowledge, or with his Confent, to any Person or Persons what soever, for or concerning the procuring and obtaining of his Ecclesiastical Dignity, Place, Preferment, Office or Living, (refpectively and particularly naming the fame whereunto he is to be admitted, instituted, collated, install'd, or confirm'd) nor will at any Time hereafter perform or fatisfy any fuch kind of Payment, Contract or Promise, made by any other, without his Knowledge or Confent : So help him God, thro 7ESUS CHRIST. Now, whether any of them break this Oath, I leave to the Confideration of the Reader, who ought to efteem efteem all Clergymen taking it guilty, that either make Prefents to any Body, or Marry, or compound with the Patron about Tythes, in order to get the Benefice; no lefs than those who, by Bargain, pay Money before or after the Benefice is procur'd, are guilty.

5. Fifthly, An Oath of Allegiance to his Majesty King GEORGE is taken by all Benefic'd Clergymen; who may be justly deem'd perjur'd, if they do not pay the fame Regard to his Majesty, which they pretend to have been due to King CHARLES the First, or Second; or to Queen ANNE, at the Beginning and latter End of her Reign. The Popularity and Credit, to which this Perjury intitles the High-Church Clergy among one another, and the Difgrace attending those who are faithful to the Oaths they have taken, (the former being dubb'd by them Honeft Men, and good Churchmen, for breaking their Oaths; and the latter Rogues and Betrayers of the Church, for keeping them;) leaves us no Room to doubt, that the Perjured of this Kind are but too numerous. However, I am willing to think it would be Injustice to fay, that many Laymen need not go out of their own Parishes, to find one at least, and often more, where there are Le-Aurers and Curates.

The Difficulty therefore mention'd in the Beginning of this Paper, admits of a plain Solution; and it is as eafy to conceive, that that Men, who begin the World in this Manner, fhould exceed others in Wickednefs; who either begin the World innocently, or are under no Neceffity to begin it wickedly; as it is to conceive, that Butchers and Soldiers fhould be lefs Humane than others, or that young Women, once profituted, fhould lofe all Modefty.

A general Idea of Priestcrast.

Have, in my Eighth and other Papers, vindicated the Almighty from the Imputation of Obscurity in revealing his Will to Mankind; and fhewn, that he is plain, exact, and even circumftantial, when he delivers his Precepts to them. I fhall now expose the contrary Proceedings of weak and corrupt Men; by giving a general Idea of the principal Arts, by which the defigning Priests of all Religions The Independent Whig. 129 ons have kept their Craft and Impostures from a Discovery, and made the Truth, as far as they could, inaccessible.

Every mad Action, or Principle, in Religion and Government, must have some appearing Caufe affign'd for it, proper to make the People stare, and to hide the true one. Mankind, as tame as Priests and Tyrants have made them, will not be content to be deceiv'd or butcher'd, without having a Reafon for it. The Pope, who assumes a Power to judge for all Men, and devotes whole Nations to Damnation and Massacre, and fends People to Heaven or Hell in Colonies, just as their Money or Disobedience determines him, acts a very confistent Part in tying the Keys of both Worlds to his Girdle, and in stiling himself God's absolute Vicar General. These are his Reasons; and the Catholick and more Orthodox Parts of Europe are well content with them.

In former Reigns, when many of our English Clergy thought fit to tye us Hand and Foot, and deliver us over to our Kings, as their proper Goods and Chattels, to be fed or flay'd according to their facred Will and Pleasure, they told us, it was the Ordihance of God, that one Man might glut his Luft, or his Cruelty, with the Destruction of Millions, and if we kept out of Harm's Way, we were assuredly damned. And These were their Reasons then. Of late, it is true, many of them have changed their Doctrine K and

and their Behaviour. We are, it feems, at prefent, living in the Guilt of Rebellion, which is a damnable Sin; and fo we are to rebel upon Pain of Damnation, to free our felves from the Damnation which follows Rebellion. These are their Reasons now.

Formerly, when fome certain Perfons were content to be Protestants, the Church of Rome was the Spiritual Babylon, and the Scarlet Whore, and Sodom; and the Pope was Anti-Christ; for he fate in the Temple of God, and exalted himfelf above all that is called God. But this was Truth, and could not hold long, confidering into whofe Hands it was fallen; and therefore in a little Time, when they had a Mind to get into the Pope's Place, and to do and fay as he did, the Church of Rome became all of a fudden a true Church, and an old Church, and our Mother Church. In fhort, the old withered Harlot and Mother of Whoredoms grew a great Beauty, and her Daughter here in England refembled her Mamma more and more every Day she lived, and gave the foregoing Reasons for it.

From hence it is plain, that tho for every Impofture fome Caufe must be affigned, yet a very indifferent one will ferve the Turn. The Grofs of the World are dull and credu-Ious: Few make any Enquiries at all, and fewer make fuccefsful ones. It is, however, ftill best if the Cheat stands upon fuch a Foun-

Foundation, that it cannot be fearched nor examined by any Human Eye.

When Numa Pompilius told the Romans, that he conversed familiarly with the Nymph Egeria; which of them could pay her a Visit, and ask her whether the Prince and the were in Earnest fuch very good Neighbours? And when Mahomet took fuch a wide Range thro' the other World, upon his Nag Elborach, and told Wonders at his Return; there was neither Man nor Horfe in all Arabia, that could take the fame Journey to difprove him : Or, when he was pleafed to be thought conversant with the Angel Gabriel, I do not hear that ever the Angel figned a Certificate that they were no wife acquainted. The Quack, who had found out the true Fern Seed and the Green Dragon, thought it, no doubt, a hard Matter to prove him a Lyar.

In the Heathen Temples of old, neither the Sybils, nor any other Priefts or Belchers of Prophefy, Male or Female, were anfwerable for the Oracles and dark Sayings they utter'd. They had what they faid from God, who never once contradicted them. It was impossible to come at him for perfonal Information; and a very profane Crime not to believe his Prieft; and to diftruft the Deity himfelf, was almost as bad: You had nothing to do but to captivate your Reason to your Faith, and fwallow the Verbum Sacerdotis. If you did not, the Judgment of the God, K \hat{z} that that is, the Anger of his Priest was fure to pursue you.

The fame Policy has been ever practis'd by the Deluders of Mankind in all Names and Shapes. They have always entrench'd themselves behind the Ramparts of Mystery, Uncertainties and Terrors. The Romilis Clergy maintain all their Pretensions and Power by Doctrines, which are calculated to make the People either wonder or tremble. And when a Man has loft his Courage and his Understanding, you may eafily cheat or terrify him into as tractable an Animal as the Creation affords. The Doctrines of Purgatory, and of the Priests Power to forgive or damn, are alone strong enough to frighten most Folks into what Liberality and Submisfion the Church thinks fit to demand of them. And we all know that fhe is not overmodest upon such Occasions. Bring me all thou hast, and follow me, is her Stile.

I wilh I could keep thefe Impostures and wild Claims altogether out of England, and confine them to Popish and Infidel Countries only. But that which is obvious and avowed cannot be hid. Very many of our High Jacobite Clergy aim at Dominion by the fame wicked Means, and hood-wink and alarm us all they can. They lead us out of the Road of Reason, and play their Engines in the Dark; and all the Illumination we can get from them is, that we are all in a Mist. Without their Guidance we go astray, and and with it we go blindfold. All their Arguments are fetched from their own Authority. Their Affertions are no lefs than Rules and Laws to us; and where they lead we muft follow, tho' into Darknefs and Servitude. If we grow wilful, and break loofe from our Orthodox Ignorance, we are purfued with hard Names and Curfes. Doubting is Infidelity, and Reafon is Atheifm. What can we do in this Cafe? There is no Medium between a Blockhead and a Schifmatick; if we follow them blindly, we are the Firft; and the Second, if we leave them. We want Faith, if we will not take their Word; and we want Eyes, if we do.

They indeed give a Sugar-Plumb, and refer us to the Bible for Proof of all that they fay. But, in Truth, this Privilege, if we examine it, will appear None at all; but, on the contrary, an errant Bite, and grofs Mockery. For when they have fent us to a Text, will they allow us to construe it our own Way ? No fuch Matter: They have nailed a Meaning to it, and will permit it to bear no other. You may read, provided you read with their Spectacles; and examine their Propolitions freely, provided you take them every one for granted. You may exert your Reason fully, but be sure let it be to no Purpose; and use your Understanding independently, under their absolute Direction and Controul. I wonder how these Men could ever have the Front to accuse the Church K 3

134 The Independent Whig. Church of Rome for locking up the Bible in an unknown Tongue!

The eternal War that they wage against Reason, which they use just as they do Scripture, is founded upon good Policy; but it is pleafant to observe their Manner of attacking it. They reason against Reason, use Reason against the Use of Reason, and shew, from very good Reason, that Reason is good for nothing. When they think it on their own Side, then they apply all its Aids to convince or confound those who dare to think without their Concurrence: Therefore. in their Controversies about Religion, they frequently appeal to Reason; but we must not accept the Appeal, for if our Reafon be not their Reason, it is no Reason. They use it, or the Appearance of it, against all Men; but no Man must use it against them. As there is no fuch Thing as arguing and perfwading without the Assistance of Reason, it is a little abfurd, if not ungrateful, in these Gentlemen, to decry it at the fame Time that they are employing it; to turn the Batteries of Reafon against Reason, and make it felf destroy it felf.

Neither Scripture, therefore, nor Reafon, by these Rules fignifies any Thing till the Priests have explain'd them, and made them fignify fomething; and the Word of God is not the Word of God, till they have declared its Sense, and made it fo. Thus, by the Time that Scripture and Reason have been modelled, The Independent Whig. 135 modelled, and qualified, and cooked up by the High-Church Jacobite Clergy, they are neither Scripture nor Reason; but a perfect French Difb, or what the Spiritual Cooks please; an Oleo or Hodg-Podge of Nonfense, Jargon and Authority.

From all that has been faid, the following Conclusions may be drawn: Such Clergymen as I have been above defcribing, prove every Thing by afferting it, and make any Pretence fupport any Claim. They build Systems upon pretended Facts, and argue from Propositions which are either highly improbable, or certainly false. When they cannot convince, they confound us; and when they cannot perswade, they terrify. We have but Two Ways to try the Truth of their Doctrines, and the Validity of their Demands, namely, Reafon and Revelation; and they deprive us of Both, by making the One dark, and the Other dangerous.

What a Contempt must this Tribe have for Mankind!

Ecclefiaftical Authority, as claim'd by the High Clergy, an Enemy to Religion.

INCE there are fo many diffe-5 S 🗟 rent Opinions and Apprehensions in the World about Matters of Religion, and every Sect and Party docs with fo much Confidence pretend, that they, and they only, are in the Truth; the great Difficulty and Question is, by what Means Men may be fecured from dangerous Errors and Miftakes in Religion? For this End fome have thought it necessary, that there should be an Infallible Church, in the Communion whereof every Man may be fecured from the Dangers of a wrong Belief: And others have thought it necessary, that their feveral fallible Churches should have Authority in Matters of Faith, in order to keep up

But it feems God has not thought either neceffary: If he had, he would have revealed himfelf more plainly in this Matter, than in any particular Point of Faith whatfoever. He would have told us exprefly and in the plainest Words, that he had appointed an Infallible Guide and Judge in Matters of Religion, or Men who should have Authority in Matters of Faith; and would likewife have plainly mark'd out him or them, for Men to have had Recourse to on all Occasions; becaufe our Belief depending on this infallible Judge, or on these Men who had Authority, we could not be fafe from Mistake in particular Points, without fo plain and clear a Revelation of this infallible Judge, or of these Men who had Authority, that there could be, no Mistake about him or them; nor could there be an End of any other Controversies in Religion, unless this Matter of an infallible Judge, or of Men who had Authority, were out of our Controversy.

It is not pretended by any Advocates of Infallibility or Authority, that God has delivered the Matter expressly and plainly in the Scriptures. They proceed, and build only on Inferences and Deductions from thence: And the Papists are divided among themfelves as to the Seat and Extent of Infallibility; as the Protestant-Papists are, in respect to the Seat and Extent of Authority. And both both Infallibility and Authority are manifefly abfurd Pretences in Point of Reafon; tho' Infallibility feems lefs abfurd than Authority. The Pretence of Infallibility is plainly abfurd; because the Infallible Church gives conftant and daily Proofs of its Fallibility: And the Pretence of Authority is abfurd; becaufe, that may lead Men into any Mistakes whatfoever. But, as I observed, Infallibility is lefs abfurd; becaufe that is of a Piece, and confistent with, and necessarily follows from Authority: Whereas Authority without Infallibility, fupposes a Power given Men by God to lead the World into any Mistakes, and to fubvert Christianity it felf. But however this be, they are both fufficiently ridiculous; and it is ridiculous to fend Men, in order to their Salvation, to believe either in the Pope, or Dr. Swift, or Dr. Burge/s, on whole Authority, if Men depend, they can only be Papists, or Swiftites, or Burgelites, and not Christians.

If then God has not provided an infallible Judge, nor any Men with Authority in Matters of Religion; there is fome other Way, whereby Men may be fecur'd against all dangerous Errors and Mistakes in Religion, and whereby they may discern all such Truths as are necessary to their Salvation. Now that way our Saviour has declared to us in these Words, If any Man desire to do his Will, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my felf: that is, if a Man has an honeft and fincere Mind, and a hearry Defire to do the Will of God, he has the beft Prefervative against dangerous Mistakes in Matters of Religion; and God, or his Understanding, will enable him to distinguish sufficiently, whether Doctrines be of God or Men, and will conduct him into all necessary Truths.

This is a true and plain Answer to the Question proposed; and also true and plain Religion, or Christianity, if Men will be govern'd by CHRIST, the Author and Finisher thereof. This is easy to be known, and requires little Time to learn. This frees Men from all Concern about the intricate and endless Squabbles of Divines, disputing which of them are to have Authority, and wherein their own Authority consists; and ought to set them at Ease; for, as Christians, or Followers of CHRIST, they have nothing to do to enquire, what Priests are to have an Anti-christian Authority over one another and the Laity.

But notwithstanding the Plainness of the Cafe, it is no Wonder, that weak People now a Days should believe in Priests and not in Christ; should be Priestlings and not Christians; when, in our Blessed Saviour's own Time, the Jews were ready to believe in any Impostors, and averse to believing in him, as he himself tells us. I am come, fays he, in my Father's Name, and ye receive me not; if Another shall come in his own Name, bim him ye will receive; how can you believe, which receive Honour one of another? That is, (19 make a fort of Application to our prefent Times) " you have the Bible among you, " wherein I teach you in my Father's Name, " wherein I bid you fearch, examine, and " try all Things for your felves, and to call " no Man Master in Religion upon Earth : " That Bible you reject, in not understand-" ing it for your felves; but if any Man " fet up for an Authoritative Interpreter of " it, him you will receive for your Master, " and call your felves after his Name. How " ean you be Believers in, and Followers " of me, who believe upon the Authority " of Men, and reject the Authority of " God?

Christianity, or Religion, thus truly understood, has too many Enemies to make it loft Labour to prove it true by Arguments. And therefore I observe, in Proof of our Saviour's Doctrine, That a hearty Defire and Endeavour to do the Will of God, is the best Prefervative against dangerous Mistakes; First, that therein our Saviour recommends the best and most proper Disposition of Mind to qualify a Man to receive Truths from God, and to enable him to make a right Judgment as to what proceeds from God, and what from Men. For a good Man is most likely to have right Apprehensions of God and Divine Things. Secondly, fuch a Difpolition in a Man supposes his Impartiality tiality in the Search of Truth; that he has no Partiality to any particular Doctrine; and that he is fuperior to the Temptations of any Passions, (which blind the Mind) and has no Reason to deceive himself by receiving Things without Evidence; nor Inclination to reject what has Evidence. Thirdly, God will not fuffer the best dispos'd Minds to fall into dangerous Mistakes; but will, as he fays himfelf, guide them in Judgment, and shew them his Way. Again, God fays by SOLOMON, If thou incline thine Ear unto Wildom, and apply thy Heart to Understanding ; yea, if thou cryest after Knowledge, and liftest up thy Voice for Understanding, if thou seekest her as Silver, and searchest for her as for hid Treasure; then shalt thou understand the Fear of the Lord, and find the Knowledge of God. Indeed, the Bible is fo plain, as to all neceffary Truths, that he that runs may read; and a Day-Labourer cannot fail of finding Truth, that fearches it there ; and is in no Danger of failing, unlefs he delivers himfelf up absolutely to some Guide to interpret the Bible for him. Fourthly, and Laftly, living honeftly, and feeking after Truth, are the best Things a Man can do, and the very Perfection of his Nature; and by Confequence all that God, who is a good and reasonable Being, can require of him.

I shall conclude this Paper, which I have written in Behalf of Christianity, and against Antichristianism, with another Divine Saying ing of our Bleffed Saviour: He that speaketh of himself, seeks his own Glory; but he that feeks his Gory that fent him, the fame is true, and no Unrighteousness is in him. As if he had faid, " Hereby you may diftinguish One " that comes from God from an Impostor. " If any Man feeks his own Glory and Au-" thority, you may conclude, God has not " fent him; but, whatever he pretends, that " he fpeaks of himsfelf, preaches himself, and " from himself; but he that feeks the Honour " of God, and not his own Interest, Advan-" tage and Authority, by directing Men to the " Authority of God alone, that Man has no " Falshood, no Design to deceive; you may " conclude him to be no Deceiver or Impo-" ftor."

Of Chaplains.

S between the feveral Acts of the most grave and folemn Tragedies, it is allowed to divert the Company with a Dance or a Song; fo in this Paper, I fhall defcend to entertain my Readers with a Differtation upon Chaplains, who are a Sort of expensive Domesticks, which none but great Families can entertain. How or when this venerable Piece of Household-Stuff became first in Use, is not certainly determined, that I know of; but it is certain, that he is left entirely out of the Roll of Ecclesiastical Officers mentioned in the New Testament; his Use and Importance being not thought of, or forgot to be mentioned by St. Paul, though not by Mr. Collier, who has supplied the Omission of the Apostle, and discovered them.

It is likely that Chaplains were first invented and brought into Fashion, in the dark and barbarous Ages; and fo Cuftom has continued what Ignorance began. To these Days of Darkness is owing the marvellous Encrease of lazy Monks and cheating Friers; in which black Swarm of Reverend Idlers, probably, first crept in this Supernumerary Levite. It is well known, that worthlefs and defigning Priefts have always advanced and nourifhed Superstition, being very fensible that it would in return nourish and multiply them. Thus Priestcraft and Bigotry beget each other; and being fo near a-Kin, perpetually maintain the mutual Relation.

The Office of a Chaplain is, according to Mr. Collier, to Pray for, Blefs, and give Abfolution to those he is concerned for — "All "which, fays he, are Acts of Authority and "Jurifdiction." If this last Affertion be true, it is enough to destroy all Charity; fince at this rate of Reasoning, I ought to be afraid of throwing a Farthing to an Alms-woman, less the would be thereby provoked to Pray for and Bless me, and by that Means acquire Jurifdiction over me. And who would not rather deny his Charity, than give away his Liberty?

To shew that Mr. Collier is very much in earnest in bestowing this fame Authority upon this his Domestick Parson, he puts a Rod in his Hand against the Master of the Family himself, whom, it seems, it is his Right to counsel.

counfel, exhort and reprove; which Offices, he fays, are "inconfiftent with the Condition "of a Servant." The Chaplain therefore is in the first Place a much Wifer Man, as well as a more Holy, than my Lord is; and in the fecond Place, it is his Duty to owe my Lord no Duty at all in the Capacity of a Servant to a Superior.

After he has put the Clergy in " joint Com-" million with the Angels themfelves," as he fays God has done, it is no Wonder that he will not allow the meaneft of them to be any Man's Servant, how great foever. He therefore reasons against the 13th of Henry VIII. becaufe it calls the Patrons of Chaplains their Masters. If fome of them " formerly " were Stewards and Clerks of the Kitchen to People of Distinction," as he fays Bifhop Latimer complains fome of them were forced to be in his Time; I cannot fee for all that how they could, according to Mr. Collier, fuffer by it in their Dignity and Reputations; because, for as good Reasons as before, their gathering the Rent and going to Market for Provision, might give them Jurisdiction over the Perfon who employed them. I cannot therefore join with fome of the Criticks in cenfuring the Author of the Scornful Lady, for difpatching Par son Roger in a Morning, with his Basket under his Arm, to fcour the Roofts and gather Eggs; the fame being a primitive Branch of his Office, if we may believe the aforefaid Bishop.

But

But though "People misapprehending the "Priest's Office, entertain a Chaplain upon "the fame Account they do their Footmen, only to garnish the Table and stuff out the "Figure of the Family"; (Collier's Essays, "part 1. p. 204, 205.) yet "for a Patron to "account such a Confectated Person bis Priest, "as if he belonged to him as a Servant, is, "in effect, to challenge divine Honours, and "to set himself up for a God, (p. 207.) Mr. Lesse puts the fame Thing stronger, in fewer Words, and will not suffer any Man (Prince or Subject) to say, my Parson, or my Chap-Lain, in any other Sense than we fay, my King or my God.

So thar, in the Sentiments of these Reverend Gentlemen, every one who hires a Chaplain, hires a Master. Take Warning then, O ye rich Men, Nobles, and Princes of the Earth; and due Submission and Allegiance pay unto these your Spiritual Sovereigns, whom you have taken into your Service to be your Superiors; and to whom you give Bread and Wages to exercise DOMINION over you.

After all, Mr. Collier is fo good as to allow "the Mafter of the Family, in the Ab-"fence of the Prieft, to fupply his Place, as "far as lawfully he may, that is, in Praying "and giving Thanks at Meat," (p. 200.) But he mult not Pray to God to Blefs his Family, and to forgive them their Sins; for this would be to U/urp the Authority of his Lord, the Chaplain.

Before

Before I have done with Mr. Collier, I would ask him one Question, and that is, Whether the Chaplains of Bishops are of the fame fuperior Importance and Authority with the Chaplains of Laymen; because the Bishops themselves are qualified to be their own Chaplains; if the faying of Domestick Prayers, and Bleffing their own Table, is allowed by him to be confistent with their Ecclesiastical Dignity?

Milton, though otherwife a Man of great Parts and Merit, yet wanting either the Senfe or the Grace to fee the Usefulness and Excellency of these adopted Sovereigns, speaks of them with too much Contempt. He fays, that " in State perhaps they may be lifted " among the upper ferving Men of fome " great Houshold, and be admitted to some " fuch Place as may stile them the Sewers or " the Yeomen Ushers of Devotion, where the " Mafter is too refty, or too rich, to fay his " own Prayers, or to Blefs his own Table." " (Vol. 2. of his Works in Folio, p. 509.)

But this was the Cafe only in his Time, for a Chaplain now a Days is looked upon as a After a more honourable Piece of Furniture. Coach and Six, the next Trappings of Domeftick Grandeur, are a Page, Plate, and a Parfon. He fwells the Houshold Pomp and Luxury, and is often taken for Pride more than Prayers. Formerly, his Appetite was uncourreoufly reftrained; he was only permitted to Riot in Roaft Beef; and Sir Scrape and and the first Course were removed together. But now he has better Luck, having, for the most part, obtained a general Toleration for Custard.

Nor are the Times mended with Mr. Chaplain in one Instance only : In Days of Yore he was humbly content with Abigail, and my Lady's Woman was thought a fuitable Match for the Houshold Priest, (as Mr. Collier Christens him) but now he does not make that ule of her, but leaves her, and flies at higher Game. If my Lady is fingle, the Doctor has a Chance for making his Fortune; and when he cannot marry her, he can fome times fell her: of which I could give Instances, but for the regard which I bear to the Quality and the Priesthood. If my Lady be already married, he has still Happiness and good Fortune in his Eye, provided fhe be but Young; and even though the is Old, provided the be Superstitious and Bigotted : So that whether her Person is agreeable, or her Understanding crazy, he has his Ends; for he has a Parfon's Barn, and nothing comes amifs.

It must be owned farther, that a Chaplain in a Great Family is a useful Body for most Purposes, except that of his Function: He is often a facetious Person, and his Jokes and Puns keep the upper Part of the Family in a good Mood; for, as to the Inferior, he deigns not to speak to them, unless to insult them, and thereby teach them the great Respect which they owe him. He moreover graciously condescends The Independent Whig. 149 defcends to pry into all the Actions and Behaviour of the Servants, by which he keeps them in Obedience and Fear, at least of himfelf.

Befides, he is fo courteous, that he meddles with all Family Affairs, unasked; and interpofes with his Counfel and Authority, unthanked. From hence it comes, that he and the Steward can never agree: For the Steward (like a fawcy Layman, as he is) will be pretending to know his own Business as well as Mr. Chaplain, who is a Confecrated Person. The Family is therefore eternally divided into Two Factions between them; but the Doctor has the Secret of fecuring the Women on his Side, and fo always gets the Better.

The Doctor is likewife a confiderable Perfon for divers other Arts and Accomplifhments. He throws a Bowl with more Skill, and follows it with more Activity, than any Man (not in Orders) upon the Green. He is alfo a trufty Toper in the Family : He has an uncommon Palate in the Difcernment of Liquors, and an uncommon Zeal for their Confumption. Nor is his great Dexterity at Whisk of trivial Moment : His Talent in this Branch of his Duty is fo fignal, that my Lady feldoms fails chufing, or rather requiring him for her own Partner, if he is not already fnapped up by the Daughter for her's.

After

After all this, who can wonder that our Hou (hold Prieft holds up his Head, and adores himself? He is an hourly Witness of his own Importance and Figure; and finding himfelf an extraordinary Body, it is nothing strange that he demands extraordinary Treatment. As little to be admired is the Erectness of his Mien, and the dignified Primnefs of his Manner; how else should he be himself, and differ from all other Men? His Authority and the Cuftom of the Cloth give him a Right to Contradiction; and if he loves State and pompam aulicam, what Layman does not? If he hates to fee a Brother peeping through Timber, or wrigling in a String, who can blame the Workings of Self-love ? If the German Princes are under his Difpleafure for facrilegioufly admitting their Pages to fay Grace; fo are all they who make bold to cut their own Corns, under the Frowns of that famous Artist Don Saltero of Chelsea.

To conclude with a grave Paragraph; I am afraid it too often happens, that this fame Hou/hold Prieft, who is taken into a Family to Sanctify it, proves a Difturber of its Repofe, and a Foe to its Welfare. He is a Spy upon the Wealthy and the Great, for the ill Ends of his Order. If he has the Ear of his Patron, he can, by alarming his Confcience, or ftroaking his Vanity, influence him to turn the Patrimony of his Children into a Gift to the Altar; and fo a Family of Innocents are ftraitned, or ruined, to enlarge the Pride and Income Income of a worthlefs Vicar, ot to rear up a gracelefs Mob, for the Intereft and Support of Prieftcraft and Slavery. So that the Publick it felf fuffers in no fmall Degree from the Malignant Influence which defigning Chaplains have in Great Houfes. How many Noble Families are by them inflamed with an unfocial Bitternefs of Spirit against all those, who inoffensively think for themselves; and are tainted with the vile Principles of Vassage to any Authority, Civil or Sacred, which these their Spiritual Governors shall plead for ?

 \mathcal{P} . S. This Paper being intended to expose the ridiculous Privileges claimed in Behalf of Chaplains, as if they were of Divine Institution; and the ill Ufe they make of their Influence over weak Minds: Nothing here faid is meant against any Gentleman's taking into his Family a pious and agreeable Clergyman, under the Title of a Chaplain; who, if he posses an honest and beneficent Heart, with Affability and good Breeding, is, no doubt, an amiable Character. But as to those little, sour, unbred Bigots, whom I have frequently feen in that Station, I do not think they ought to be admitted into the Conversation of Gentlemen, or fuffered to have any Concern either with their Children or Servants.

A Comparison between the High Church and the Quakers.

HE Clergy of our National Church are Spiritual Officers appointed by Order of the Civil Magistrate (like Church-Wardens, Overseers of the Poor, Constables, and other Parish Officers) to act according to his Law, which is their Rule, and which has interpreted the Bible for them in the Thirty-Nine Articles, Homilies, Liturgy, Canons, Injunctions, and other Institutions. The chief Defign of their Appointment is to instruct Men in Religion and Morality, or to make Men wifer and better than they would be without their Affistance. To that End they are hir'd, and paid a great Revenue, which, by the Means of Lands, Tythes, Rents, Salaries, Fees, and Per-

Perquifites, is fuppos'd to amount to Two Millions per Annum; wherein they greatly differ from the aforefaid Parish-Officers, who perform many real Services to Society without any particular Reward, as is, in many Cafes, the certain Duty, which Men of the fame Society owe to one another. But as making Men wife and good are the very best Things which can be done for them, both in Relation to their Condition in this World and the next : So every Man ought to think this Revenue well bestow'd, if Men are made more wife and good in any Proportion to the Charge; and on the other fide ill bestowd, if Men are not in the least improv'd in Knowledge and Virtue; much more, if they are render'd more ignorant and worfe by the Teaching and Influence of their Guides.

We are justly concern'd how we part with ourMoney in other Cafes, how it is laid out and managed, and whether what we receive in Lieu of it be worth our Money, especially when the Sum is confiderable. It is therefore of great Importance to us to confider the State of this Affair, wherein fo much is expended; that, in Cafe the Clergy do not answer the Ends of their Calling, and not deferve their Revenues, we may take proper Measures to make them do fo; for it is in the Power of us of the Laity, who almost wholly chuse and constiture the Legislature, to make the Clergy ufeful, and it is either thro' our Ignorance, or Knavery, or Both, if we do not make them ufeful. Now

Now it feems to me, that the Toleration or Liberty of Conscience granted by Law in England, gives us an Opportunity of examining this Matter, beyond what can be done in Popilb or other Countries, where no fuch Toleration is allow'd. We have a numerous Sect, or People among us, diftinguish'd by the Name of Quakers, who have no Spiritual Officers, with any Wages, Hire, or Salary, whole peculiar Business it is to Teach: bur every Man among them does freely of himfelf, and gratis, communicate his Knowledge, both publickly and privately, according to his Ability, whenever he judges it proper fo to do: And therefore we may eafily make a Comparison in the Cafe, between the Wifdom and Virtue of the common People of the National Church, and the Wifdom and Virtue of the Quakers, (who have no Quality or Gentry among them, but confift of Tradefmen, Artificers, Farmers, Servants, and Labourers) and thereby make a just Judgment, whether the Two Millions per Annum arc well or ill bestow'd.

1. No Man will deny, but the Quakers are born with the fame natural Parts as the Churchmen. It will also be manifest, that they improve their natural Parts by the Knowledge of what the Clergy esteem the most important and sublime Points of Religion, under their general, diffus'd, unbir'd Ministry; equally at least with the Members of the Church, under the Direction of their Clergy, bir'd for Wages; for by free Conversation with both both Sorts, you will find that the Quakers understand as well the Nature and Attributes of God, the Doctrines of the Trinity in Unity, the Satisfaction, the Incarnation of God, and other fuch Points, and express themselves as clearly about them as Churchmen; and I presume this Matter will appear so clear as not to admit of the least doubt. I do confess, the Quakers have some Errors, (for what Man is or can be free from Error?) But as to those Errors, I think two Things may be offer'd in Excuse of them.

First, I observe in general with the most ingenious and Reverend Mr. NORRIS, (in his Two Treatifes of Divine Light. 2d Tract, p. 32.) who fays, that he cannot think Quakerism inconsiderable, as the Principles of it are laid down and manag'd by Mr. BARCLAY. That great and general Contempt they lie under, does not binder him from thinking the Sect of the Quakers to be far the most considerable of any that divide from the Church, in Cafe the Quakerism that is generally held be the fame with that which Mr. BARCLAY has deliver'd to the World for such; whom he takes to be so great a Man, that he profess freely that he had rather engage against an Hundred Bellarmins, Hardings, and STA-PLETONS, than with One BARCLAY.

Secondly, I observe, that the Quakers seem very excusable in respect to several of the Errors wherewith they are charg'd; and that their Neighbours, if they would do as they defire to be done unto, may justly pardon them.

them. For as to their Opinions about Tythes. and paying Wages to Clergy, (which are deem'd fundamental Errors, and judged by the Clergy in their Books against the Quakers to be a fort of Atheism) they have it to fay in their Excuse, that Tythes, which were a Part of the ritual Law of the Jews, are as fuch abolish'd under the Gospel, which has repeal'd the whole ritual Law. It feems alfo strange to them, that Ambassadors, (as the Clergy pretend to be) or Negociators, should claim Money from those to whom they are fent; that it appears more ftrange that the Clergy, who pretend to be Succeffors in Ambasladorship to Christ and his Apostles, should claim Tythes or Money, and thereby fuppofe our Bleffed Saviour himfelf and his Apoftles to have begun that Claim: Therefore they alledge, that if the Clergy are only voluntary Ambassadors or Negociators, they ought to bear their own Charges; and if only Ministers or Servants, they should be paid their Wages by those who hire them, and not claim an independent Maintenance; and herein they pretend to follow the Primitive Chriftians, who (according to the Reverend and Learned Dr. REEVES, in his Apologies, &c. Vol. 1. p. 44.) would not pay Taxes for the Maintenance of the Heathen Temples: And indeed, there is no Colour to make Tythes due Jure Divino, that Point being fully determined on the Side of the Quakers, by that accomplish'd Scholar and Divine, Dr. Prideaux, deaux, in his Original and Right of Tythes; and befides, it is a Matter of Contest among the Clergy, to which fort of them an independent Maintenance does by Divine Right belong.

As to the Quakers Doctrines of Passive Obedience, or taking patiently all manner of Affronts and Injuries, and refusing to bear Arms on any Occasion; it is known, that herein they follow St. JUSTIN MARTYR, OR I-GEN, TERTULLIAN, St. CYPRIAN, LAC-TANTIUS, St. BASIL, SALVIAN, and others the most Learned and Ancient of the Primitive Fathers.

And as to their Principle of not Swearing at all, they follow the Fathers of the Five First Centuries, who (according to the most Learned Dr. WHITBY, in Differt. de Script. Interp. p. 164.) all agreed, that Oaths of all Kinds were Unlawful to Christians; those Fathers understanding our Saviour's Words, Swear not at all, universally; which, indeed, swear not at all, universally; which, indeed, feem fuited to the Notion, as they were the very Language, of the Essens, a Sect of Jews in our Saviour's Time, who maintain'd all Oaths to be Unlawful.

It will be difficult to find one Quaker that cannot read, unlefs he has been educated and bred up in the Church, and became a Convert to Quakerifm. Whereas, I will venture to affirm, that Half the Common People of the Church, especially in the Country, cannot read a Word.

The

The Quakers are great Readers of the Bible; and it is their Principle to endeavour to make the Beft of that Divine Book ; which, tho' containing infinite Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge, yet, as it is a perfect Rule of Faith to the whole World, is a plain and most intelligible Book, and must naturally improve the Quakers, more than it does those Churchmen. who either cannot read, or do not read the Bible at all, or not fo much as the Quakers; or that think they are not to make the Best of their Bibles without any Restraint. I dare to be fo unfashionable as to affert, that the Bible may, and will, improve the Readers thereof; norwithstanding Dr. South fays of a Part of that Holy Book, that it either finds Men mad or makes them fo; and that Dr. REEVES, in Derogation of its Divine Precepts, thinks fit to suppose, that Quakers, by reading the Bible, become stark Bible-mad. (Preface to Apologies, &c. p. 11.)

But there is one Point wherein the Quakers greatly exceed the Churchmen in Understanding, and whereof the Meanest among them is firmly perswaded; and that is, that Every Man is to judge for himself in Matters of Religion. Whereas few Churchmen are clear, as Men, Christians, and Protestants, ought to be, in this Matter; which is the Foundation of all good Sense, Christianity, and our glorious Reformation from the Worst Priestcrast, Po-PERY. This Principle naturally produces Knowledge: For the Use of the Understanding ing improves the Faculty; as delivering up the Understanding to Priests or Guides, finks and debases it. And accordingly the Quakers reason and act very nicely in their Affairs, as a Politick Body, in Relation to Marriage, Orphans, Care of their Poor, &c. and Particulars among them understand Trade, and the Business of the World, and how to live in it, as well as any Men whatfoever.

2. As to the Comparison, which are the Best Men, Quakers or Churchmen; I suppose, it will not be deny'd, but that the Quakers are as good Men; as good in their Families: as good Neighbours; as Quiet, Temperate, Chaîte, Sober, Free from Passion, Industrious; as clear from the grofs Crimes which fill the Goals, and expose Men to the Pillory and Hanging; as Charitable in their Sentiments to those who differ from them; as great Enemics to Perfecution; as true to Liberty and Property as any Churchmen; and, in fine, as good Subjects, and as Loyal to King GEORGE, (tho' Loyalty be the diftinguishing Principle and Glory of our Church,) as any professed Follower of Dr. SACHEVE-REL, LUKE MILBOURNE, or other fwearing loyal Divine.

Since, therefore, it is undeniably evident, that the Quakers are at least as wife and as good, without any Charge to the Publick, as Churchmen are with it; I conceive it is incumbent on every One, who does not envy the Clergy their Preferments, to endeavour to to find out fome other Way to make them as ufeful as poffible to Mankind, and to put them upon fuch an Eftablishment as may enable them to deferve all their Power and Riches; which shall be the Subject of fome future Papers.

Priestcraft corrupts every thing, and perverts the Use of Words.

OETS tell us, that Midas changed every Thing he touch'd into Gold, and Medufa's Head every one who faw it into Stone; but Prieftcraft is yet of a more mischievous Nature, for That converts all who come within its Influence into Idiots or Lunaticks; and every Vertue or good Quality of the Mind into Nonsenfe or Roguery.

Every Creature and Plant affimilate the Food or Nourishment they receive into their own own Substance: The Toad converts into Poyfon the fame Juices, of which the Bee makes Honey: The fame Breath blown into different Inftruments, makes good or harsh Musick; it is no wonder therefore if that which is all Corruption it felf, should corrupt and spoil every Thing elfe which touches or comes near it.

It has fo mangled and perverted the Signification of Words, and the Nature of Things, that Language is rendered ufelefs, or rather a Snare to Mankind: There is fcarce a Sound or an Action, which has received the Stamp of a general Approbation, that has not loft its Meaning; and is ftript of all Honefty to become Orthodox, and be made free of the facred Society, as the Popifb Priefts are pleafed to call themfelves.

A becoming Zeal for the Glory of God, which ought to be a fervent Difpolition of Mind to promote Holinels and Virtue amongft Men, by Softnels, Perfwalion, and Example, is now nothing but Party Rage, an implacable and furious Hatred, and the Denunciation of Woe and mortal War againft all, who do not believe just the fame with us, and cut their Corns as we do: Moderation is become a Vice, and esteemed to be Lukewarmenels, and an Indifference to Religion and Goodnels.

An obstinate Bent of Mind, and a determinate Resolution to adhere to Opinions, the Truth of which we have never examined, M never never intend to examine, and for the moft part, are not able to underftand if we did, is what is call'd Conftancy in the Faith; and to burn our felves, or to fight with our beft Friends till we can burn them, passes for Heroick and Christian Courage.

We must shut out the Sun at Noon in a Summer's Day, to make use of Candle-Light; and give up all our Senses to submit to frail Authority. We are to believe every Thing in exact Proportion as we cannot understand it, or as it appears absurd; and allow that alone to be true Faith, which contradicts the first Principles of Science. Reafon, which is the only Light God has given to Men, to diftinguish Truth from Falshood, Virtue from Vice, Religion from Imposture, is decried; and the Use of it deemed impious and dangerous.

Perfecution of our Fellow-Creatures, Fellow-Subjects and Fellow-Chriftians, for doing the beft Action they are capable of doing, (which is worfhipping God in the Manner they think to be moft acceptable to him) is called ferving the Almighty, and promoting his Religion. The ruining and deftroying our Neighbours, (whom we are commanded to love as our felves) and cutting their Throats, is having Pity upon their poor Souls; and the acting against all the Dictates of Nature, and Precepts of the Gospel, is Chriftianity, and doing the Will of our Saviour.

Enthu-

Enthuliasts, fanatical, melancholly, monkish, recluse and sequestred Persons, are esteemed the Religious; and are supposed to know the other World, in Proportion as they know little of this. Philosophers, and Men of Wit or found Knowledge, are generally accufed of Infidelity and Atheifm : Nay, the cardinal Virtues themselves cannot escape; but without the Belief of certain fashionable Speculations, are accounted only splendida Peccata, and those who posses them are treated with Ignominy; and indeed, none are thought fit for Heaven by Gentlemen of this Cast, but fuch as no Man of common Senfe would care to keep Company with upon Earth.

Celibacy is effeemed a Virtue in fome Churches, and not difcouraged in others; and the difobeying the great Dictates of Nature, and the politive Command of God, to entreafe and multiply, is mifcalled Chaftity; and the wafting our Time in running up and down from Church to Chappel, from Chappel to Church, to hear Maffes, and idle Harangues, and being perfectly ufelefs to Society, and good for no one Thing in the World, is called by the Popifk Priefts Devotion and Godlinefs; as if the Almighty could be any way ferved but by doing good to his Creatures.

Poornefs and Dejection of Mind, is called Meeknefs of Spirit; and a Readinefs to fubmit to Injuries and Impositions, is Christian Humility; stifling our Senses, is Submission M 2 and and Deference to Authority; and our beft Searches, and most fincere Enquiries after Truth, are called the Defires of Novelty, and curious and forbidden Studies: The doubting of any Thing, which our Guides think it their Interest to tell us, or shewing the Weakness of their Arguments, is Sceptieism, and renouncing the Faith; and a hearty Concern for the Honour of Almighty God, and the Good of Men, is often interpreted to be downright Atheism; and to communicate with our Christian Brethren, when we can do it with a good Confcience, is Hypocrify; unless we do it too when we think it finful.

An Attempt to oblige the Clergy to keep the Laws they have fworn to, and the Articles they have fubfcribed, is to oppofe received Opinions, and quieta movere. An Endeavour to preferve our Legal Conflitution, is Sedition, Faction, and being given to change; and a generous Love for all Mankind, and the Liberty of our Country, with a noble Refolution to venture Life, and all which is valuable here below for that glorious Caufe, is Rebellion, and worfe than the Sin of Witchcraft.

Wasting, macerating, and torturing our Bodies by Fasting and Penances, is fanctifying our Souls; and to reject and throw back the Benevolence and bountiful Gifts of indulgent Providence, is to shew and pay our grateful Acknowledgments to his Goodness; as if he gave us any Thing, not to use and enjoy enjoy it; but we were to accept these Blessings only in Trust for the Clergy, and so live poorly our selves, that they may riot in Luxury, Profuseness and Pride: which they have seldom fail'd to do, when they have had the Means of doing it; carnal Things being obferv'd best to fuit with spiritual Minds.

Playing Monkey Tricks at Church, paffes amongft the Papifts for the Worship of God; and they go to ghostly Dancing Masters, to know how to accoss Him fashionably: The failing in a Ceremony, the Omission of a Bow; the not filing to the Right or Left readily, or not adjussing their Motions to the Tune and Time of the Organs; are all dangerous Errors, and favour much of Heress; and the worshipping God in Spirit and in Truth only, is Disobedience to the Church, and little better, if not worse, than Atheism: The decking up, and dressing of Churches, and giving the Deity fine Cloaths, is Decency, and doing him Honour.

Confectation, which is the Appointment or Appropriation of Places, Perfons, or inanimate Things, to be ufed only in the immediate Service of God, (and which may be fo applied indifferently with any Ceremony, or with none at all) is turn'd by the Romish Priefts into a fort of Incantation or fpiritual Jugling: By virtue of a little Holy Water, looking towards the East, mumbling over a few cunning Words, certain Motions of the Hand and Head, and by the help of fome M 3 Powder

Powder le Pimp, the faid Places, Perfons and Things become facred, and the Holinefs is transferred from the Minds of the Communicants to the Ground, the Wainfcoat, and the Carcals and Cloaths of the Prieft; and fo the Devotion due to Almighty God, is chang'd into a fenfelefs Idolatry to as fenfelefs Men and Idols.

Prayers are turn'd by them into Curfes, and Sermons into Invectives and Libels: Benevolence and good Will towards Men, and even Charity it felf, which is comprehensive of all the Vertues, and without which Faith and Hope fignify nothing, and which is not confin'd to Persons, Nations, or Languages, to Sects nor Opinions, but ought to be as free as the Elements, and diffusive as the animal Creation, is chang'd into Faction, Partiality, and often Profuseness, to fupport a Party, and a Combination against all Mankind, who do not think and act as we do.

But no Parts of Speech have had fo ill Fortune, as Scripture Language, and even amongst fome Protestants: Appellatives, and the Names of Complex Ideas, are often left untranslated, that they may pass for real Beings, and fignify whatever the Priests have Occasion for; and sometimes, where they have been translated, false or unfair Meanings have been affigned to them, and they have been made to convey a quite different Sense from what they import in Scripture: The Word Ecclesia or Affembly is translated Church, which which there always fignifies the Christian People, and in our Articles, is defined to be the Congregation of the Faithful, but is now generally us'd only for the Clergy; and the Word Episcopos (which in English is Overser) is english'd Bisloop; fo that Women, and the ignorant Crowd, are fully fatisfy'd that they have found in Scripture, a Lord of Parliament, and a Diocesan Prelate, with a Mitre upon his Head, and a Crosser in his Hand; and whenever they hear or read the Word Presbyter, they fancy they see a Parson beating his Custant Divino; Instances of this kind are endles.

Even Literature it felf is perverted, and inftead of being made to improve Mens natural Faculties, is ufed to extinguish or stiffe the first Principles of Knowledge. Seminaries have been erected and endow'd to teach Men backward; The Youth at a very great Expence, learn to be Blockheads, and accomplish'd Dunces; and spend the first and most improvable Part of their Manhood to be finished in Folly. The Discovery of Printing, which brought about the Reformation, is used to destroy it; and, like the Scotchman's Monkey, is made to bite every one but him who has the fole Custody of the Machine.

Of all or most of these Heads, I shall treat separately, in order to undeceive Mankind, and to manumit them from the Frauds and M 4 Tyranny

Tyranny of Popils and popility affected Clergymen; by shewing, that they now do, and ever did, make Use of all their Influence over the stupid and unhappy Laity, and of all the Power and Riches they have been ever trusted with, to drive Religion and Virtue from the Face of the Earth, and therefore have always endea-voured to turn the worft Things into the best, and the best into the worst.

One Drop of Prieftcraft is enough to contaminate the Ocean.

Number XXIII.

Of ZEAL.

Do not know any Word, in any Language, which, next to the Word Church, has fo much Wickednefs and Roguery, to answer for, as the Word Zeal. It is indeed an important portant and dreadful Monofyllable, which, when used with proper Gestures and Emphafis, can turn a Cut-Throat into a Saint, and a Mad-man into a Martyr. It can commit Bloodshed and Butchery, with innocent Hands; destroy Life and Property, with a good Confcience; and dispeople Nations with Applause.

True Zeal is a fincere and warm Concern for the Glory of God, and the Spiritual Welfare of Mankind. This Definition feems to me to take in every Idea which ought to be annexed to the Word Zeal; and fhews it to be a Vertue full of Affection, Meeknefs, Humanity and Benevolence, and void of all Choller, Bitternefs, Ill-will, and Severity. This is its Character; and whatever contradicts it, is not Zeal, but Rage.

Especial Care ought therefore to be taken, effectually to diffinguish true Zeal from false, and the Thing from the Pretence of it. For, if it is not well grounded, it falls under the Apostle's Censure, of a Zeal, which is not according to Knowledge. Of the latter Sort, is that with which crafty Men infatuate the credulous Multitude, who take their Religion upon Trust, and their Faith and Zeal at fecond Hand. Their Godliness consists in Prejudices and a Set of Names. They hate Diffenters, becaufe they do not come to Church, and because they are strict Observers of the Lord's-Day, and feek God without Book: And they are zealous for the Church; but if you you ask them what they mean by it, you will find it to be either the Organs, the Ring of Bells, or the Parson. They have a zealous Antipathy to a black Cloak, which is a certain Sign of a wrong Religion; and they have a doating Fondness for a black Gown, which is an infallible Mark of the true Church: They therefore abhor and infult the former, and honour and bow down to the latter. Which Temper and Behaviour in them are wonderful Demonstrations of the Spirit of the Gofpel; and entitle them to the highest Favour and Approbation of their Spiritual Governours. At the Time when Dr. Sacheverel was fuffering the Law for Sedition, I asked one of his Mob, who was ftragling at some Distance from the rest, in Lincoln's-Inn-Fields (as they were proceeding to demolish Daniel Burges's Meeting-House) what provok'd him to fo much Outrage against Daniel, and his Congregation ? He answer'd; Because they had murther'd King Charles the First. I then asked him, What he knew concerning King Charles the First? Why, quoth he, He was One of the Twelve Apostles; and Dr. Sacheverel is the best Friend be has in the World. Here he fwore a great Oath, and left me to pity the Ignorance and Phrenzy of the enchanted Crowd.

Ignorance is the Mother of this fort of Zeal, and Craft its Father: And as its Pedigree is vile, fo is its Behaviour brutal and abominable: It is the Tool of Knavery and * Defign, Defign, and operates by Folly, Wickednefs and Force : It is a Mastiff uncoupled, and halloo'd at Confcience, Sobriety, and Peace : and fet on to devour every good Quality, it felf poffeifing none: It is rouzed by Lies, and animated by Liquor: It combates Truth with Curfes, and Moderation with Blows. Its Courage is Madnefs, and it is bold thro' Blindnefs. It has never any Mercy upon others, and feldom upon it felf. It takes the Word of its Driver; and miltakes Mifchief for Merit, and his Word for God's. It is the most miserable of all Slaves; it is blind. and it is distracted; and its only Freedom is to act Outrages, and shed Blood. It is neither bleffed with Enjoyment nor Reft. It boils with Anger; it burns with Envy; it is tortured with Hatred; it is worried by all the worft Paffions. It is incapable of Happinefs; and either deaf to Instruction, or undone by it; for the Moment it grows wifer, it dies.

How often do Ambition and Defign work their own impious Ends, under the fnug Difguife of fanctify'd Zeal! Men are never weary of being deluded with Sounds; and a pious Word, artfully proftituted, and devoutly pronounced, will at any Time lure them into the groffeft Impoftures, and push them on to commit the most inhuman Barbarities. Thus the Papists are first taught that the Pope is a Vice-God, and the Representative of Jefus Christ; and that his Zeal for his own Re-

Revenues and Dominions, is Zeal for Christ and his Church; and then it is an eafy Matter to perfwade these poor Slaves and Bubbles, to adopt fuch a Portion of the fame Zeal, as will prompt them to poifon, and murder, and plunder, and burn, all those unhappy Schifmaticks, who continue fo, rather than abandon their Senfes, their Humanity, their Charity, and the Fear of God; all which are destructive of the Character of a Zealot. And thus both Papifts and Protestants, being perfwaded by their Priests, that all who, either thro' Reason, or Grace, think differently from the faid Priest, are in a State of Damnation: become further perfwaded, that becaufe they are to be damned, therefore they are to be undone; and fo anticipate the Labour of the Devils, and add Mifery to the miserable. By this Means, as Satan is the Almighty's Executioner, they make themfelves Satan's; and fuch Zeal is at once the Instrument and Qualification of a Damon.

When I fee a grave Doctor proudly urging upon his Hearers the Divine Right of Episcopacy, which is just of as much Importance to Mankind as the Divine Right of Geography; I fee prefently into the Heart of the Man, and would lay any Wager that he has a burning Zeal to fucceed St. Peter, in the Divine Revenue and Lordship of fome Human Diocefe; or elfe courts fome Bishop with great Zeal for his Lordship's Neice, or for a fat Benefice. And I cannot but own, that that a Christian Zeal for a Thousand Pound a Year, or even for Two Hundred Pound a Year, or even for a rich Wife, gifted with a good Apostolick Fortune, is a very commendable and very prevailing fort of Zeal; but I cannot fee that it equally affects the whole Congregation. Pray of what Moment is it to a harmlefs, well meaning Flock of Sheep, whether their Shepherd is called Paftor or Overseer? Or, whether he has Twenty Pound a Year Wages, or Twenty times as much? Or, whether he is hir'd by the whole Village, or only by the Chief Man of the Village? Or, whether he wears a plain Hat, or a high Crown'd Cap? Or, whether he wears Linnen or Woollen? But it is of great Moment to them, whether he feeds them or ftarves them; or whether he defends or plunders them; or whether he utterly neglects them himfelf, or only leaves them to the Care and Command of his Dog; or whether he feeks their Safety and Happiness, or only their Flesh and their Fleeces.

But further; the Tempers of Men, being either naturally warm, or quickly made fo, it is eafy to miftake a hot Head for a devout Heart, and an angry Heart for a devout Zeal. But, alas, how different is the meek Spirit of the Gofpel, from that Fury which is rais'd by ftrong Beer, or paffionate Sermons! How little, do Men confider, that the fame Arteries do often beat with equal Vigour for a Punk as for the Church, and occafion broken broken Heads for the one as foon as for the other !

True Christian Divine Zeal is inspired by God Almighty, and comes attended with every other Christian Virtue, and fubdues every unruly Passion. It is inseparable from Charity, the higheft Christian Grace, and the chief Characteristick of a Christian; that Charity, which wisheth all Things, hopeth all Things; which forgives all Men, but hurts none. It neither burns nor imprisons Mens Bodies: nor plunders their Goods, nor rails at their Perfons, nor ftirs up Mifchief against them, nor marks them out for Damnation. It is not raifed by cruel Language, nor encreas'd by Bottles of Brandy; it is modeft, it is merciful, it is temperate, it is discerning.

On the other Hand, there is not in the World a more cruel, debauch'd, or more ignorant Passion, than false Zeal: It is void of Pity, of Grace, of Knowledge, and of Charity; it is outragious; it delights in Blood; it commits Massacres, and murthers Innocents; it dispeoples Nations: Nothing can restrain it, neither Kindred nor good Qualities, nor Pity nor Tears: It usurps the Name of Religion, and deftroys all Religion; it commits Abomination in a Style of Devotion, and talks Blasphemy in the Name of the Lord. It proftitutes God's Authority to deftroy God's Works; and, in the Name of Chrift, damns and destroys those whom Chrift died to fave.

The Independent Whig. 175,

If People would but look a little into their own Hearts and Constitutions, they would too often find that their Zeal is only Anger, and that this hot Devotion refides altogether in the Blood. I have long observed that your Cholerick Fellows are your most zealous Fellows, and are always the warmest Churchmen; and that, amongst the Ladies, the most amorous are ever the greatest Bigots. He who is peevifh at his Table, will be peevish in his Pulpit; and as highly offended at an ill Dinner, as at a Conventicle. I oncecaught a great fat Doctor at St. Paul's, curfing and storming against Presbyterians, whom he configned in a Body over to Satan, with great Zeal, and no Remorfe. Says I, to my felf, This reverend ill-tongu'd Parson will certainly quarrel, and kick, over his Claret as well as over his Cushion: In order to try, I got into his Company at the Baptift's-Head, and by the Humility of my Behaviour, and the Divinity of the Hermitage, I fat at tolerable Ease with the Doctor, till the middle of the third Bottle, and then he fwore at the Drawer for not answering before he was call'd; and, before it was out, he drank Confusion to Fanaticks, and a Health to Sorrel. The Doctor then shew'd a violent Appetite for Quarrelling; but meeting no Body in the fame Humour, he only eased himself in Oaths; till an honeft Citizen drank to him the Glorious Memory of King Williams which the Doctor pledged, by throwing a wild wild Duck, just hot from the Spit, full in the Citizen's Face, and got up at the fame Time to fall upon him with his Hands; but as foon as he got up he fell, and we left him upon the Floor, to the Care of the Drawers.

How long are Mankind to be deluded with Sounds; and how long will Uncharitablenefs and Outrage, which are Enemies to the Nature of Christianity, pass for Zeal for Religion! Are Men to be curs'd, or punish'd, or destroy'd, out of Zeal for the Gospel, by which all Severity is forbid? Where are we commanded to quarrel for the Peace of the Church? or to run mad for the Reasonableness of Liturgies? or to fight for the Drvine Original of Human Forms? or to deliver Men to the Devil, for the faving of their Souls?

How unlike is our Modern Zeal to that of the Apoftles, and how unworthy to be call'd by that Name! They liv'd under Hardships and Stripes, and ventur'd their Lives to convert Unbelievers : Our present Zealots live at Ease and in Plenty; and their Zeal is devoutly employ'd about Tythes, Honours, Garments, and Forms. They do not pretend to venture their Livings and their Lives to convert either Pagan, or Papist, or Maho-The Idolatry and Infidelity under metan. which the miferable World lies, do not feem to interrupt their Quiet and their Enjoyments. But if a Dozen harmless Christians presume to to worship God in a Barn; or to pray to God without Book; or to commemorate Chrift's Death with Praises and Prayers, such as a devout Heart dictates; or to refuse complying with a Rote of Words, which they judge neither edifying nor warrantable; or to follow their Consciences, which alone can justify them in the Sight of God; and not the Authority of Men, which cannot justify them in the Sight of God; they are allarm'd, and their Church totters if Conscience is protected.

If this be the Spirit of Christianity, I must own my felf to have been hitherto a Stranger to Christianity; and yet these Men go on to tell us, that they are the only true Church, tho' they posses not one Grain of that Charity which diftinguishes a Christian from a Reprobate, as much as a Rational Soul does a Man from a Monkey; and to damn all other Churches, that is, the whole World, without taking one Step towards bringing them into a State of Salvation.

Of PERSECUTION.

HERE are but two Ways of propagating Religion, hamely, Miracles and Exhortation. The one depends upon divine Power, and the other upon the Strength of Reafon. Where the Finger of God appears, all further Teftimony is needlefs; and where the Truth is obvious to Reafon, Miracles are needlefs. God never wills us to believe that which is above our Reafon, but he at the fame Time commands our Faith by Miracles. He does not leave neceffary Things doubtful; and for this Reafon alone it is, that Mcn are faid to be left without Excufe.

Every Point of Belief therefore must be fupported either by Reason or Miracle, or else it is no Point of Belief at all. Both the Jewish and the Christian Law were delivered and enforced forced with manifest Signs and Demonstrations of God's extraordinary Presence and Power. And it has been very justly boasted of the Christian Religion in particular, thar it spread and prospered by Miracles, Persuastion, and Clemency, in Opposition to Violence and Cruelry.

But when Christianity became tainted and defaced by Priestcraft, it grew necessary to have many Points believed, which contradicted both Revelation and common Sense: Therefore its Foster Fathers, who to the Worship of God, added the Worship of themfelves, had no other Way to prove their System but by Wrath and Vengeance. Reason was against them, and Miracles nor for them: So their whole Dominion stood upon Falthood, guarded by Force. This Force, when it is exercised upon a religious Account, is called Perfecution; which is what I am now to confider and expose.

To punifh Men for Opinions that are even plainly Falfe and Abfurd, is barbarous and unreafonable. We poffefs different Minds as we do different Bodies; and the fame Propofition carries not the fame Evidence to every Man alike, no more than the fame Object appears equally clear to every Eye. A cholerick Temper, when it is not corrected with Reafon, and feafoned with Humanity, is naturally Zealous. A phlegmatick Temper, on the other fide, as it is naturally flow, fo is it lakewarm and indifferent. Is there any N 2

Merit in having a warm Complexion, or any Sin in being dull ?

But further; to punish a Man for not seeing the Truth, or for not embracing it, is in the first place, to make him miserable, because he is already so; and in the second Place, to pluck Vengeance out of God's Hands, to whom alone it belongs, if we will take his own Word for it. If this Severity is pretended to be for his Good, I would ask, Is manifest Cruelty any Token of Kindness, or was it ever taken for such ? Does it not always encrease the Evil which it is employed to cure? Is Destruction the Means to Happiness? Absurd and terrible !

But what, if, after all, the Perfon perfecuted fhould be found an Adherent to Truth and Honefty, and his Enemies fhould prove their Enemies? Would not this be adding Cruelty to Falfhood, and heaping up Guilt with both Hands? This indeed is often the Cafe. And where it is not altogether fo, the Perfecutors are ftill inexcufable. He who, in the Search of Truth, does all he can, does as much as he ought. God requires no more, and what Man dares do it, who fears him ? When he acquits, who is it that condemns?

Besides, he that suffers, or at least dies, for Religion, gives a Testimony by so doing, that his Conscience is dearer to him than Ease or Interest: Whereas the Patrons of Persecution have manifestly personal Motives and self Ends in it. It gratifies their Pride, awes

The Independent Whig. 181 awes Mankind, and brings them Obedience and Gain.

Our bleffed Saviour, who had no View but the Redemption of the World, never used his Omnipotence, or the least Force, to fubdue his Enemies, though he knew their Hearts to be malicious and implacable. He neither delivered them to Death nor the Devil, even for their hellish Defigns to kill him; much lefs for Points of Error or Speculation. He reafoned with all Men, but punished none. He used Arguments, he worked Wonders : but Severities he neither practifed, nor recommended. His was a different Spirit. He rebuked his Apoftles with Sharpnefs, when. being yet full of the Spirit of this World, and void of the Spirit of God, they were for bringing down. Fire from Heaven upon the Heretical Samaritans. The merciful Jefus would not hurt these half Heathens, though they rejected him in Perfon; for he came not to destroy Mens Lives, but to save them : And they who take another Method, give the Lye to the Lord of Life, and difown him for their Head.

His Apostles, as foon as they had received the Holy Ghoft, grew wifer and more merciful. They shewed by Miracles, that they were endowed with the Divine Power, but they never used either to compel or to burn, though they were befer with false Teachers, and opposed by Gain-fayers. They were fo far from giving ill Ulage, that they never returned N_{3} turned it. The Exercise of wholsome Severisties was no part of their Doctrine. Prayers and Perswasions were their only Arms, and such as became the Gospel of Peace.

This was the mild and heavenly Behaviour of Chrift and his Apostles towards those who did not believe, or believed wrong; and it was followed by all their Successors who aimed at the Good of Souls. But those who used the Sacred Function, as a Stirrup to Power and Gain, made a new Gospel of their own Decifions, and forced it upon the World, partly by Fighting, and partly by Curfing. The Apostles taught Christ, and their Succesfors taught Themfelves. It was not enough to believe the Doctrine of Christianity, but you must believe it in Words of their inventing. To difpute their Decrees, though they contradicted common Senfe and the Spirit of God, was Herefy; and Herefy was. Damma-And when, in Confequence of this, tion. they had allotted a pious Christian to eternal Flames, for his Infidelity in them, they difpatched him thither with all fpeed; because he was to be damned in the other World, therefore he was to be hanged or burned in this. A terrible Gradation of Cruelty! to be cursed, burned, and damned! But it was fomething natural; it began from perfecuting Priefts, and ended in Hell, and the Devil was the last and highest Executioner.

Thus they became Prelates of both Worlds, and Proprietors of the Punishments of both. Even Even where the Civil Sword was not at their Command, their Vengeance was as fuccefsfully, and in my Opinion, more terribly executed without it, by the temporal Effect of their Excommunication. For the Perfon under it was looked upon as a Dæmon, and one in the Power of the Devil; and fo driven out, like a wild Beaft, from all the Comforts of Life, and human Society; to perifh in a Defart, by Hunger, or the Elements, or Beafts of Prey. And all this, perhaps, for denying a Word or a Phrafe, which was never known in Scripture, though impudently pretended to be fetch'd from thence.

Such dreadful Dominion had they usurped over the Bodies and Souls of Men, and fo implacably did they exercise it! And, to fill up the Measure of their Falshood and Cruelty, they blassphemously pretended to be ferving God, when they were acting as if there was none.

Those who set up for Infallibility have found a good Excuse, if it were true, for the insupportable Tyranny, infinite Murthers, and wide Devastations, which their Religion has every where introduced. But those, who exact a blind Obedience to Decrees, which they own to be human, and annex Penalties to Positions, which we know to be false, and they know to be disputable; and, in fine, act and dictate as if they were infallible, without pretending to be so; are so utterly without all Excuse, that I know no Lan-N 4

The Mahometan Imposture was professedly to be foread by the Sword. It had nothing else but that and Libertinism to recommend it. But to propagate the Christian Religion by Terror or Arms, is to deny it. It owns no fuch Spirit. It rendered it felf amiable. and gained Ground by a Principle of Peace and Love. These were the Means of Christ's instituting, for the Recommendation and Defence of his Gospel; and they, who would chuse contrary ones, charge him with Folly, and have Ends to ferve very different from his. Ambition, Pride, and Revenge, may make good Use of Violence and Persecution; but they are the Bane of Christianity, which always finks when Perfecution rifes. The vileft and most profligate Men are ever the greatest Promoters of it; and the most virtuous are the greatest Sufferers by it. Libertines flick at nothing; but they who have the Fear of God, cannot comply with all Things.

Perfecution is therefore the War of Craft against Conscience, and of Impiety against Truth. Reason, Religion, and Liberty, are its great Foes; but Ignorance, Tyranny, and Atheism, its great Seconds and Support. We ought then constantly to oppose all Claims of Dominion in the Clergy; for they naturally end in Cruelty. I believe it will be hard to shew, that ever the Priesthood, at any Time, or or in any Place, enjoyed the Power of Perfecution, without making use of it.

Of CONSECRATION.

OLINESS is that Character of Purity, which originally and effentially appertains to God Almighty, (as a Being utterly incapable of Stain and Imperfection;) but is alfo afcribed, in a reftrained and relative Senfe, to every Act of Devotion, and every Perfon performing it. It is an active and rational Thing; and where it is attributed to Things inanimate or irrational, it is either merely in a figurative Senfe, or in no Senfe at all.

Thus, when the Elements in the Sacraments are faid to be Holy, it is meant only of the Ufes to which they are apply'd, and the Purpofes for which they are taken; for, tho' they were confectated over and over again, gain, yet, if they are never taken, or never devoutly taken, they have in themfelves no more Holiness than a common Roll, or a Cup of cold Water.

And thus, when a People are faid to be a Holy People, it is meant of their fincere Love of God, and Conformity to his Will, and of the Actions by them perform'd in Confequence of these good Affections. But, if fuch Actions, tho' feemingly devout, are fuperstitious, or hypocritical; there is no more Holines in them, than in the Indians worshipping the Devil, or in a Boy's faying his Prayers to avoid Whipping.

And thus, when a Houfe, or a Piece of Ground is faid to be Holy, it is underflood only of fome Mark of Holineis there fhewn, either by the extraordinary Prefence of God, or by fome Act or Acts of Worship performed there to him. But when these Marks of Omnipotence, and these Acts of Devotion cease, that Ground is no more than common Ground, and that House is a common House.

And thus, laftly, when the Priefts are call'd Holy unto the Lord, it is meant only of their affifting at the folemn Acts of Adoration which are paid to him. At other times, they are as other Men; as is evident from their Living after the Manner of other Men.

Holinels, therefore, confilts only in a virtuous and pious Difpofition towards God, and

and is only shewn by the Actions which it produces. But as Superstition, especially when govern'd by Craft, never fails to see, or to think it sees, Effects and Operations, which neither Religion nor common Sense can shew; hence Men have been generally perswaded that Places, Buildings, Utensils, and Garments, did actually posses a real Holines; that Stones and Brickbats are blessed; and that Timber, Surplices and Bells are exceeding godly Bodies.

To help on this wretched and fenfeless Credulity, the Pagan and Popifs Priefts have gone fo far as to compose Farces of Legerdemain, call'd by them Offices of Confecration; the whole End of which was, they pretended, to bestow Godliness upon dead Earth, and Things inanimate. Thus they deceived the People in the Name of the Lord, and gravely made Speeches (which they called Prayers) over Wood, Stones, and Iron; by Virtue of which, the faid Wood, Stones and Iron were obliged to become good Orthodox Lumber, and as fanctify'd Bodies as the other Members of the Congregation.

If one was to demand of these reverend Worthies, who required these Things at their Hands? I doubt it would prove a hard Queflion; and probably the impertinent Enquirer would be dispatch'd for Satisfaction to Satan, or the Inquisition— An effectual and orthodox Answer to such busy Unbelievers, and often practised with terrible Success!

But

But as I live in a Nation where fuch Superstitions and Cruelties are, I blefs God, at an End: I take Leave to be amazed at the Affurance of those Popish Confectators, who thus impioufly pretend to draw down an Attribute of the Almighty, and endow with it what Spot of Earth they pleafe. Will these infolent Deceivers fay, that God Almighty cannot hear as well and as favourably, a Prayer put up from a Ship as from a Chappel? Or in what Part of Scripture are we told that he will be rather worshipped at St. Peter's, than upon the Alps; or at Loretto, or any other confectated Place, rather than a Booth, or a Barn; provided the Worfhip is perform'd with equal Piety? Or does e'er a Text in the New Testament inform us, that one Piece of Earth is holier than another; or that any Man or Society of Men can make it fo?

If confecrated Ground has no more Holinefs in it than other Ground, how is divine Worfhip more acceptable in it than in other Ground ? And if it has fome uncommon Sanctity in it; let thofe concerned tell us what it is, how it is, and by what certain Signs we fhall know it ? And whether it keeps all the faid Holinefs to it felf, and amongft its own inanimate Heap of Stones, Timber, and Nails; and then what are We the better for it ? Or whether the religious Bricks and Mortar do in good Earneft communicate Part of their Piety to the People ? And, if fo; fo; in what Manner do they perform this; and how does it appear first, and operate afterwards? But if all, this is a Mystery, let them shew us where it its revealed in Scripture, wherein all other Mysteries are revealed.

If by Confectation any Change is made, the fame must be either visible, or only mystical. If the Change is visible, then it comes under the Test and Examination of our Senses, and must be evident to all Men: But if the Change is purely mystical, it must be revealed to all. So that we must either have the Evidence of Sense, or the Evidence of God's Word and Authority, which is as good. But where neither of these Proofs appears, our Faith and Assent ought neither to be demanded; nor given, if demanded.

If Prayers are more prevailing with God, and divine Service more welcome to him, when they come from confecrated Ground; then all Worship and Devotion ought to be performed only at Church ; and Family Religion ought either to be neglected, (as lame and infufficient) or every private House should be confectated; and then every House would be a Chappel, and every Chappel is a Church. I would be glad to know, why only one House in a Parish should be consecrated, that is, made fit to pray in; and why not every House, for the same Reason? For, nothing that helps Devotion ought to be omitted, such Omission being doubtless a Bur great Sin.

But if it is allowed that People may pray to as good Purpole out of confecrated Ground as m it; how are Prayers at Church better than in a Chamber, or the Fields? Or, why fhould the Prayers of Five Hundred have more Need of confecrated Ground, than the Prayers of One, Two, or Three? Or, if a Place becomes Holy by the Devotions perform'd in it, then every Place where Devotions are perform'd, is as Holy as another; and if fo, pray what Use of a Form of Words, and a particular Office for that Purpole?

Suppose a Church to be confecrated, and yet never after used; is it, for all this, Holy? Or, suppose it has been used for all the Purposes of a Church, and yet was never formerly confecrated; is it, for all that, not Holy?

Either the Scripture is not a fufficient Rule of Worship, or this Business of Confectation in Popils and Pagan Countries, is a needlefs, empty, fuperstitious Foppery, an evident Trick of Priestcraft; as if the Priests could change the Nature of Things, and confer the Grace which they have not themfelves upon Stocks and Stones, that have nor, nor can have, the least moral Goodness, or Pravity, in them. A General of an Army may as modefuly and rationally contend, that the Ground, on which his Pavillion flands, is valiant Ground; and that the Ticking, of which it is made, is courageous Ticking. And, according to the fame Way of Reafoning, ing, there is prodigious Policy in the Boards that compose the Council-Table; The Carpet is a long-headed Carpet, and the Wainfcot and Chairs understand wonderfully well the Interest of Christendom.

If Devotion gives a Tincture of it felf to Wood and Walls; the Pravity of ill Actions must, by the fame Rule, diffuse it self, and taint all the House or Fields where such ill Actions are committed. A Jobb of Lewdnefs must needs debauch the Curtains greatly, and the Bed-cloaths must partake of the Iniquity; and were justly punished by Fire in Hereford hire for that Reafon; at which Execution, I am told, a certain devout Perfon now Living, was a very zealous and ufeful Assistant. Every Counter and Shop-board in the City must, for the like Reason, be guilty of unpardonable Tricking and Lying; and for Falshood and Dissimulation, Heaven have Mercy upon fome great Buildings at the Court End of the Town!

I would here be glad to know the precife Extent of the Influence which Holiness and Vice have upon the inanimate Creation : Is a thick Church-wall as quickly and fully impregnated with them as a thin One? And do they never extend an Inch beyond the Church and Church-yard? Or, is the Church equally Holy, whether much Devotion, or little, is perform'd in it? Or have the Popish Priests set Bounds to the Godliness of the Ground, and the Building; and faid -

Thus

Thus far, or thus deep, O Ground! shall the Holiness extend, and no farther.

If Confectation fignifies any Thing more than a Declaration, that fuch a Place is fet afide for the Worship of God, I wish it could be explained and proved; and the rather, because Things of the most fimple and obvious Nature have, by the Guile or Superstition of designing Church-men, been render'd to the credulous gaping Multitude, mysterious and tremendous; the natural Enthusias in the Mind of Man, having always made him the Prey and Property of Delusion and Deluders.

Happy, thrice happy, are we, who live in a Country where all this Pagan Idolatry and these Monkish Fooleries receive no Countenance from our Laws; but, on the contrary, are forbid and punishable by them. The Laity at the Reformation had feen what Use the Priests make of this dark Jugling, and of these Hocus Pocus Tricks; and, therefore, would not fuffer them to be play'd over again, to deceive superstitious and enchanted Bigots, by making them pay great Prices to be buried in confecrated Ground, which rofe, like the Value of Jewels, as they approached nearer to the Bodies of Saints, or to the Altar, where it feems the Devil could not come at them; with many other advantageous Frauds, which I shall hereafter expose to the World, when I treat again upon this prolifick Subject.

Of FAITH and MORALITY.

R good Actions, or in a Disposition to do them. These being in our Power, as we perform or neglect them, we merit Praise or Blame. But in Matters of Speculation, or Doubt, or such as are not necessitive attended with some Confequences, it is of no Moment on which Side of the Question we stand. Where there is no Certainty, or Significancy, there can be no Duty. Faith without Works, in Scripture, has but a very indifferent Character: It is faid to be dead; and we all know that what is dead, is uselefs.

If you would know any Man's Affections towards God, confult his Behaviour towards Men. Though his Professions be ever fo voluminous; though his Zeal be ever fo noify; O thoung though he believes by the Lump, and fwallows Creeds by Dozens; yet if he is immoral, he is worle than an Infidel. What is the Use of Belief, but to govern our Practice, and beget good Deeds? We all fee the Neceffity of living well; but to believe well, and do no more, is the fame Thing, with Regard to others, as not to believe at all; and, with Regard to our felves, worfe.

A worthy Life infers worthy Principles; but a bafe Behaviour contradicts and difhonours an honeft Profession. Will any one tell me, that a virtuous Heathen is not a better Man, and more in the Favour of God, than a profligate Christian? A Pagan, who violates not the Laws of Truth and Peace, is, in my Eyes, an infinitely more religious Person, than a turbulent and forfworn Christian Priest, though he wears a Mitre.

Socrates, Plato, Cato and Brutus, were excellent Perfons, though they were only govern'd by the fimple Dictates of human Reafon, and were utter Strangers to Creeds and Fathers, and our prefent orthodox Notions eftablished by Law. Who, that has any Care for his Soul, any Honour for his God, or any Love for Mankind, would not rather chufe to be animated by the rational and beneficent Sentiments of these righteous Gentiles, than be possible of the fierce and inhuman Spirit of Father Laud, Friar Francis, or Doctor Bungy, though they were all found Believers ?

Believers? I would have mentioned Ariftotle here with the other Ancients; but I find, that though he was very Orthodox, and a great Enemy to Dr. Clark's Arian Principles, * yet this true Believer was a very wicked Liver. However, as a true Friend to the Church, he died the Death of the Righteous, and 'tis faid, enjoys everlafting Life. \uparrow

Besides, faying is not proving. If we would be thought Christians, we ought to fhew our felves Christians. Living well, is the best and only Evidence we can give that we believe well. If a Man professes his Faith in Jefus Chrift with one Breath, and fwears falfly by his Name with another, why should I give Credit to one who fo effectually contradicts himself? We do not credit the Propolitions of Mathematicians, till they have gained our Affent by Demonstration : And why should we trust any Man's Professions of Faith and Morality, before he has, by Works of Faith and Morality, proved them fincere? If we hear a Man full of the Praises of Loyalty, and yet fee him every Day rebelling, would we not take him for a Madman or a

* Emanuel de Moura, and some other orthodox Writers fay, that Aristotle was a steady Believer of the Trinity.

† This is the Opinion of Sepulveda, a learned Man in the 16th Century.

Deceiver ? A good Life is beneficial both to our felves and others, but a good Belief without it, is neither.

But besides, this fame Belief is perhaps necessfary; and if so, what is unavoidable, is not vertuous. Where is the Praise or Merit of feeling the Heat of the Sun, or the Severity of the Winter? Or, of hearing Sounds, when our Ears are open? To believe in Christ was and is inevitable: His Miracles command Assent. But to do his Will, is a Trial of our Piety and Virtue. And for our Saviour himself, would his Law have been ever received, or his Doctrine believed, had he contradicted Both by his Example? Or could the Apostles, without leading the Lives of Christians, have gained Converts to Christianity?

I have placed Faith and Practice in this Light, to flew how little valuable the Pretence of believing well makes Men, unless they also live well. I would therefore bring our High Clergy to be tried by this Teft. If they are more zealous for Orthodoxy than Piety; if they abhor a virtuous Man, who prefers the Dictates of his own Conscience, before those of their Ambition and Authority; and openly court and honour any Perfon, who is observant of the Priesthood, tho' he lives at manifest Defiance with Heaven; if they treat Unbelievers and Debauchees as pure Churchmen, and devout Christians as Schifmaticks, Hereticks, and the Lord knows what. The Independent Whig. 197 what, their Faith is felfish and vain, and fuch Religion is false and absurd.

Conformity is the Word! it is the Mother of all Virtues, and the Sanctifier of all Crimes. It is, in fine, All in All. And yet, fo weak and blind am I, that I take this fame applauded Conformity to be in fome Cafes a very great Sin. If a Man, for Instance, in the Worship of God, follows the Authority of any Church whatfoever, and diffents at the fame Time from the Suggestions and Perswassions of his own Conficience; it is certain, that he does not worship God at all, but mocks him, adores Men, and condemns himfelf. If, on the other Hand, he thinks his Soul in Danger, or in no Way of being edify'd in any Church, tho' ever fo Orthodox; he ought to defert it, and join with that which appears to him better. If I should thwart or difturb my Confcience, by bowing fashionably to the Altar, I would ask the Clergy, whether ought the Altar or my Confcience to be first or most regarded ? He who believes at Random, and obeys blindly, may give great Satisfaction to Churchmen; but he neither knows the Gospel of Truth, nor obeys the Precepts of the Holy Ghoft.

It is a furprizing Thing, the Selfifhnefs and Pride of Man! What Prieft is there that (in Difputes of the most trivial Nature) does not grow hot and eager for Victory, and angry if his Opinion does not prevail? In Spiritual Affairs, this Spirit of levelling all Men to our own Conceits, is still fiercer, and Religion, which was given and intended to fubdue the Passions, is turn'd into an Engine to raife them. We are much more zealous that Men should conform to us than to Holines, and would rather have them obedient than godly. How many High-Church Parsons would not rather see their Parishioners drunken Churchmen, than sober Dissenters?

Laymen are at least as capable of judging of Error as the Clergy, and more proper, as having no Interest on either Side of the Que-However, the latter have usurped ftion. this Privilege wholly to themfelves, and with good Policy; for it has wonderfully answer'd their great Ends of Power and Wealth. We are not therefore to wonder that many of them give much more Countenance and Quarter to the most heinous Immoralities, which are only Sins against God; than to the least Variation from an Orthodox Opinion, which is an unpardonable Sin against Themselves. The greatest Mistakes, when involuntary, are innocent in the Sight of God; but in the Eyes of the Priest, the smallest are often damnable. Nay, many a Man has been pronounced a Heretick, and deliver'd to Hell and the Devil, for his pious Searches after Truth, and his devout Adherence to it.

Thus we fee that God may be pleas'd, and fome of the Clergy provok'd, by one and the fame fame Action. From hence it wofully happens, that weak Men and Profligates, who will do and fay as they are bid, without any Biafs from Reafon and Confcience, are carefs'd, encourag'd and promoted ; while the Wife and Virtuous, who cannot abandon Truth and the Fear of God, to promote the Craft, and humour the Pride of alluming Men, are brow-beaten, reproached and perfecuted. Mr. Whifton, and the Parson of his Parish, are known Instances of this shameful Truth.

I know feveral, who, notwithfanding their avowed Disbelief of the Gofpel and all Reveal'd Religion, are in high Efteem with the High Clergy; becaufe, tho' they deny our Saviour, they reverence his Succeffors; and are zealous for the Hierarchy, tho' they laugh at Religion. The Truth is, if a Man is but a hearty Churchman, it is never asked whether he is a Christian. Profligates, void of common Honefty, and common Senfe, have been, and are still, reckon'd True Friends to the Church, and courted by the Ecclefiasticks, as their Patrons and Defenders. And indeed, where Religion is turned into Faction, fuch Measures and Alliances are natural and necessary.

But, in the Opinion of us Christians, a wicked Liver, whether he is a Believer or no, is an Enemy to Religion, which is propagated and supported by Example; and to human Society, which is maintain'd by the O 4 Bonds

Bonds of Morality. Whereas a good Man, though a Heretick, is a Friend to Religion, Virtue, and his Country. To conclude : He who is a Rebel to the King of Kings, is like to prove but an ill Subject to his Vicegerent; and as bad a Pattern to his Fellow-Subjects.

NUMBER XXVII.

Wednesday, July 20. 1720.

R. Burnet tells us, in his Letters of Travels, that the Priefts of Italy have found out a Secret to make Men miferable in fright of all Men miferable, in fpight of all the Abundance and Profusion wherewith Nature hath bleffed that happy Climate: They measure their own Happines by the Peoples Calamity; enjoy no Pleasures in which they take any part; nor are fatisfied with all the Plunder and Depredations they make upon them, unless they can also heighten their own Relish, by making the little they leave to the Laity, infipid and tasteles. As

As one Inftance of this Truth; he informs us, that the Priefts have made it a Principle of Religion in the People, to mingle Water with their Wine in the Cask, which foon fours it; whereas they always keep their own pure and unmix'd, becaufe they fay it is to be ufed in the Sacrament; and fo he obferves, that Travellers can drink no good Wine, but what they buy from the Convents.

For this and fuch like Reafons they preach Penances, Mortification, Fafting, and a Contempt of worldly Riches, and of all thofe earthly Bleffings, which indulgent Heaven has given to wretched Mortals, to alleviate their Sorrows, fweeten their Calamities, and make the naufeous Draught of Life go down; whereas we cannot better fhew our Acknowledgments and Gratitude to Providence, than by making a proper Ufe of the good Things he has given us, and by enjoying them in every Degree, which will not deftroy that Enjoyment, and change it into a Misfortune.

If we drink or eat more than our Heads will carry, or our Stomachs digeft, Diftempers, Indifcretions, and fometimes Murthers fucceed; and, if we fpend fafter than our Incomes will fupply, there is a fure Foundation laid for future Want and Mifery: But nothing can be more abfurd or impious, than to make Abstinence from Food or Pleasures meritorious, any farther than it conduces to Health, Health, or qualifies us for Bufinefs. Almighty God referved but one Tree in all Paradife from our first Parents; but the Priests would keep them all from their Posterity.

Besides, the Luxury of the Rich (when it does not exceed the Bounds of Vertue and Prudence) is the Wealth and Support of the Poor, and the best judged Charity: For, what we give in grofs Sums to, or for the Ufe of those who appear to be in Necessity, is often mistaken, and applied to maintain present Idlenefs, or reward past Extravagance; and fometimes too, I doubt, is pocketed by those who are trufted to distribute it: whereas whatever is laid out upon the Produce of Labour, and for fuch Manufactures as employ Multitudes of People, can never be mifapplied. It might eafily be made appear, that there is not a Piece of wrought Silk, Linnen, or Woollen Cloth, which has not contributed to the Maintenance of more than an Hundred Thousand industrious People, who must be all kept alive one Way or other.

As it is the higheft Crime to deftroy our Beings, fo it is proportionably wicked to endeavour to make them miferable: The Glory and Honour of God are beft confulted, in promoting the Happinefs of Mankind. It is profane, and a kind of Blafphemy, to attempt to perfuade People, that the good God takes Pleafure in the vexing and tormenting his Creatures: He is not pleafed by human Sacri-

Sacrifices, nor by human Sufferings of any Kind: A pale Afpect, the Griping of the Gurs, wry and difforted Faces, and being Ghofts before our Time, will contribute to no Ends of Religion; and therefore, I confefs, that I cannot fee how Fasting can ferve God, or answer any Purposes of Devotion, or indeed can enhance any Appetite, unless to a good Dinner.

Nothing confequently can be more ridiculous, than for the Romifb Clergy to tell us, that any Part of Religion confifts in fafting Days, and fafting Weeks; which oblige the wretched People to infipid and unwholfome Diet, whilft they indulge themfelves, and riot in the richeft Wines, and the luxurious Difhes of Salmon and Turbatt, with all the coftly Inhabitants of the Liquid Element: Befides, it is impolitick, as well as uncharitable; it difcourages Trade and Induftry, depopulates Nations, and depreciates Matrimony, by rendring the People unable to maintain and raife their Families,

Riches and Labour are two Words which fignify the fame Thing : Nature fpontaneoufly fupplies but little to the Ufe of Man; all the reft is the Produce of Invention and Industry : And therefore whatever does contribute to make Mankind idle and lefs ufeful to one another, conduces fo far to their Want and Mifery. One Holy Day, ftrictly kept, robs the Poor of more than a whole Year's Charity will fupply. A little loofe Money Money pick'd up at the Church-Doors, and afterwards divided between the Parfon. Church-Wardens, and a few favourite Objects, will make but poor Amends for the Taxation of the Nation, and of every Perfon in it, with the Lofs of a Day's Labour, and Profit of his Trade; which Lofs probably cannot amount to lefs than Two Hundred Thousand Pounds, without having any Regard to the Extravagance and Debaucheries committed upon those Days; which often confume the Acquisitions of a Week, and render the common People liftlefs, and unwilling to return to their Labour again. I may therefore venture to affirm, that there is more Charity in taking away one Saint's Day, than in building and endowing Twenty Colleges.

However, to do Right to my Countrymen and their genuine Clergy, I must freely confels, that we fuffer very little from the Penitential Observance or Fasting Part of our Holy-Days; for the Poor do not fast at all, unless they can get nothing to eat; and the Rich, in Imitation of their Guides, hold out no longer than is necessary to digest their former Excesses, and get better Stomachs to a double Dinner; as old experienc'd Sinners often live a Day or two with Sobriety and Innocence, to enjoy a Debauch the remain ing Part of the Week. At the Universities, as I am told, it is quite given up, and there is not more Epicurifm than on those Days ; and and to their Churches there are ancient Veftries annex'd, which are the confectated Repofitories of Pipes, Sack and Tobacco, where the Reverends take regularly a Whiff and a Cup, to prepare them for the Fatigues of the enfuing Service.

But how little foever Holy-Days and ftated Fasts contribute either to the Temporal or Eternal Happiness of the Laity, yet the Romilb Clergy have been able fufficiently to find their own Account in them: When all other Shops are shut, theirs are open; where they fell their Spiritual Cargo of Grimaces, Visions, Beads, Indulgences, and Masses, for Silver and Gold, Lands and Tenements; and to enhance the Value of their Merchandize, and perfwade the People of the Reafonablenefs of fuch an Exchange, they make it their Bufinefs, and exert all their Endeavours, to depreciate worldly Happinefs, and cry down all the good Things of this Earth, that they may have them all to themfelves. If they can extinguish the Appetites God has given us, and teach us the Secret to live without our Estates, or to make us think it dangerous to live on them, they hope to have them for their Pains; for who can have a better Title to our Superfluities than our fpiritual Guides, who have infpired us with fo much refined Devotion, and have given to us lasting Estates in Paradise, in lieu of a few momentary Pleafures, and frail and earthly Tabernacles below ?

By

By these Arts, and many others, which I fhall shew in the Progress of this Paper, the Priests are become possessed of so much Dominion and Wealth.

Of AUTHORITY.

Y Faith is often, if not most commonly, meant, an inward Persuafion or determined Assert of the Mind to a religious Proposition affirm'd, or deny'd; and such Consent can never be given but by the Conveyance, and from full Conviction, of the Senses, or the manifest Operation of the Holy Ghost; and therefore must depend wholly upon what appears to be infallible Inspiration, or infallible Information. In this Sense of the Word, I doubt there can be no such thing in the World; for as no Man living ever faw

the Miracles of Chrift and his Apoftles, or can prove his particular Syftem from felfevident Propositions, or can be fure he is infpired by the Holy Ghost; fo he cannot have Faith in this Sense, whatever he himfelf may imagine.

Therefore the only reasonable Sense of the Word is, An Affent of the Mind to the Truth of a Proposition upon probable Arguments, or upon the Testimony of other Persons; which can never produce Certainty, but only Opinion or Belief; which must be stronger or weaker, according to the many Degrees of Probability. A probable Evidence can only produce a fuitable Affent; and when any thing does not appear at all probable to us, we cannot avoid diffenting as to the Truth of it. Almighty God does not require of us to give the Lye to our Understandings, and to put out and extinguish the only Light he has given to Men, by which they can difcern Truth from Falshood, and Vertue from Vice.

The Apostles and Evangelis, who were evidently endowed from Above with extraordinary Gifts and Graces, were undeniable Witnesses of the Truth of the Gospel, to those who faw their Miracles: And their Writings, and the Testimony which they bequeath'd to their Followers, fealed, as it was, with their Blood, have passed the Examination of many Ages, and constitute the highest Degree of human Probability, and consequently carry * along along with them an irrefiftible Authority; and can admit of no Difobedience or Difpute: They are a real Authority, in the moft ftrict Senfe of the Word; I mean, as it is apply'd to the Propagation of Religious Opinions, and as producing a lively Faith next to Perfuasion.

But no Decisions or Resolutions of uninfpired Men are, or ought to be, of any weight with us, but fo far as they will bear the Examination of our Senfes and our Reason. The only Motive any Man can have to believe, or to put this Confidence in another, is, that the Person trusted is not deceived himfelf, and will not deceive him; neither of which he can have any tolerable Affurance of: for no Man is infallible; and the gravest and most folemn Pretenders, are as eafily cheated as the meer Vulgar; and, what is more, will as often lye and cheat others; and therefore there can be no fuch thing as Authority in this Senfe amongst Men : For let a Matter in it felf be ever fo certain, I am by no Precept human or divine obliged to believe it true, till it is proved true; and it is the Business of my Reason alone to diflinguish what is fo from what is otherwise.

God's Word, though to be believ'd without Proof, yet ought first to be proved to be his; which Proof, it is the Province of my Understanding to examine. The Words and Allegations of Men, or of the Church, ought, before they are believ'd, to be proved, either by by divine Authority, or by Reafon: If by Reafon; then Reafon must judge of Reafon, and every Man who has it is a Judge: If by Divine Authority; even here our Reafon must be farisfied, whether it is Divine Authority or not. So that human Authority is either nothing at all; or at most only an Opportunity given, or an Invitation made, to examine by private Judgment, the Truth of what it fays.

All Books therefore, except the Holy Scriptures, and all Names, except those of our blessed Saviour and his inspired Followers, ought to be of no Authority with us, any farther than to convince our Understandings by folid Arguments, and felf-evident Truths; and a Beggar or a Cobler, when he can do this, is so far entitled to equal Credit, or, if you will, to equal Authority, with Councils and Fathers.

Every Man, that reasons with you, appeals to your Reason, and his Arguments lie at your Mercy, whether you will believe them or no; and every Man, who brings you only his Affertions, ought also to bring you his Proofs, or elfe you are at full Liberty to reject or despise them: It adds nothing to his Weight in this Matter, that perhaps he wears a Cloven Cap or a Sable Gown: There have been no greater Deceivers of Mankind, than such as have worn these Emblems of Gravity; and indeed Gravity has ever been one effential Characteristick of Imposture.

There

There is no Authority in founding and fanctified Names, whether they be those of Archbishops, Bishops, Priefts, or Deacons. It is very certain, these goodly Words are so far from having any Charm in them against Deceit and Roguery, that the compleateft of all Villanics, and the most masterly and mifchievous of all Delufions, have been, and still are, protected and propagated by them in Popilb and other Priest-ridden Nations. His Holine s and Most Holy, are Terms appropriated to St. Peter's Chair, (and in our precious Pope Laud's Days they began to be current at Lambeth) altho' most that filled that Chair, have liv'd at Defiance with God and Man, and were the greatest Deceivers and Disturbers of the World.

Nor is there any certain Authority in Learning of any kind or degree. Who are better Scholars, or greater Rogues, than the Jefuits? Who was a more learned Man, or a greater Simpleton, than Mr. Dodwell? And, as to his genuine Anceftors, Aquinas and Scotus, those celebrated Founders of the Schools; who have been long the infallible Guides of the infallible Church; they were the most voluminous and most unintelligible Dunces that ever dabled in Sophistry, and darkened common Sense.

Pray what Evidence of Truth neceffarily attends the Knowledge of the Oriental Tongues? The. Jews understand Hebrew, and the Turks Arabick; and yet both continue fierce and obstinate Enemies to Christinuty. Nor Nor are Men the more to be trufted, merely because they are acquainted with Ecclefiastical History and the Fathers. As to the Fathers, they are guilty of grievous Errors against Orthodoxy, and Church Power; infomuch that Father Petavius, the Jesuit, has pretended to prove that most of them were infected with Herefy, especially in their Notions about the Undivided Trinity. We all know, that St. Auftin (the Foreman of all the Latin Saints and Fathers) was for admitting Children to the Lord's Supper, contrary to the Doctrine and Practice of our Church of England as by Law established. St. Ferom derives Episcopal Power from the Instigation of the Devil, which is also an impudent Reflection upon our Orthodox Church. St. Bafil (I think it was) very fairly challenged the Emperor, his Liege Lord, to fight him; in defiance of the Doctrine of Passive Obedience, which is the peculiar Doctrine of our High Churchmen; and which, unlefs a Man believes and practifes, he cannot be faved. St. Ambrole bullied Theodolius, the Lord's Anointed; and refused to admit his Imperial Majesty to partake of the Lord's Body, till he had made his humble Submission. Sr. Gregory Nazianzen gives a miserable and vile Character of Synods and Councils; and his Grace of Canterbury, when he was Bilhop of Lincoln, and before, did the fame. Dr. Prideaux shews Tertullian to have been a credulous weak Man, often mistaken and missed.

As to Ecclesiaftical Hiftory, which is nothing but many large Volumes, containing fome few of the Squabbles of the Bishops and inferior Clergy with one another, and all the World; I know not whether the Use of it can much alter for the better any Man's Life and Principles; fince the most he can learn by it is, that the Reverend Heroes of of the Story were eternally cuffing and contradicting one another. Nothing of Humility, nor of Charity, nor of Uniformity, nor of Certainty, is to be found amongst them, or learned from them. And I know not at this Day any prevailing Opinion of any Sect of Christians, but what is both countenanced and condemn'd by one Father, or another.

Lastly; even the most apparent Piety, the most difinterested Mind, and the most unblameable Life, tho' to me certain Signs of a good Man, yet in the Eye of our best High Church Men, are only sins, and cannot entitle the Possessin to the least good Word or Tenderness; much less to any Authority amongst Men. Dr. Clarke, Mr. Whiston, and others, are undeniable Instances of this Truth.

Upon the whole; Authority, as it is generally underftood, is a Word pregnant with Danger and Nonfence. It is a falfe mifleading Light, or rather none at all; for those who follow it, do only grope in the Dark: When we blindly truft to another, our own Eyes grow ufelefs, or may give offence.

Digitized by Google

This

This fhews its Peril; and for its Abfurdity, it will appear from hence, that it is impolible to truft to one Authority, without trufting to more. For, either my own Reafon must be confulted and followed; and if so, . there is an end of all Authority: Or elfe, I must trust to fome Authority to direct me what Authority I must trust to. And, if I have Liberty to chuse my first Guide, why not alfo my fecond, and fo on? For, no Reafon can be given, why I may rely on my Judgment in one Cafe, and yet must refign it in just fuch another Cafe.

But if no Choice at all is left us in these Matters, pray how shall we difcern Herefy from Orthodoxy, and a regular Set of Ecclefiasticks, from an irregular? If I am born in Scotland, and educated in the Presbyterian Way; must I continue in an invincible Antipathy to what is there called proud, lordly Prelacy, and fuperflitious Surplices, and Popish Ceremonies? Or, have I a Right to examine and embrace the Doctrine and Discipline of our Orthodox Established Church? Or, am I to embrace them without examining them? And is my Judgment to approve and condemn, only what the Parson approves and condemns; and, in all other Spiritual Matters, to lie still and take its rest? If I leave one Church for another, out of Judgment; how am I to behave my felf when my Judgment changes? Or, is it our Duty to conform, in fpight of our Inclinations? And have we no Right P 3

To conform without confenting, is a Contradiction, and a Mockery to the Spirit of Religion: And to conform, because I approve, is no Compliment to Authority, but, indeed destroys it, and justifies every Man in every Religion, provided he has taken all necessary Pains to find out the true one. If I have a Liberty to enquire which is the best Church. I have also a Liberty to blame its Errors, if I fee any, as well as to admire its Excellencies : And the Authority of no Man or Men shall determine me in either, in Opposition to my Reafon. If I praife the Advantages of any Church, I am my felf praifed by its Votaries, for doing Justice to those Advanta ges, which my Reafon shews me : But if the fame Reason discovers Blemishes in it, I am condemned by the fame Votaries, for what I cannot help. So that I am applauded for Seeing, and damned for Seeing, at the fame time, and from the fame Principle; namely, that of Paffion and Partiality.

There is therefore no Authority but two, Scripture and Reafon. The Scripture is our Rule of Faith ; and Reafon, where God gives not his Spirit, is our Rule for underftanding the Scripture.

Of EDUCATION.

T has often been the Subject of ' my ferious Thoughts, to what Caufes are owing the Depravation

World, and the feeming Decay of Human Understanding. If we read the Greek, Roman, and other ancient Histories, we shall find another Race of Men, than feem to be now existing upon the Face of the Earth. Alexander had Conquer'd the East before Thirty: Scipio and Hannibal performed Actions of great Eclat before Twenty: Pompey Triumph'd over Europe, Asia and Africa, long before his Middle-Age. Indeed, thro the whole Roman Story, we find their Generals, Orators, and Statesmen, shone in full Lustre in their early Youth; and could demand their Discharge from publick Business, before P before the Age at which we are often thought qualify'd to enter upon it.

This Difference fure cannot be owing to any real Decay of Human Nature, which undoubtedly has been always the fame fince the Flood; on the contrary, 'tis to be prefumed, fince Almighty God hath communicated to us the marvelous Light of his Gofpel, and has made himfelf more known to Men, that their Faculties are bettered and improved. Besides, this Difference is observable only in fuch as are entitled, by their Birth and Fortunes, to the most liberal Education; for, as to Arts and Sciences, the Moderns eminently (as I conceive) exceed the Ancient: They are better Mathematicians, and Mechanicks, better Navigators, better Musicians, and better Husbandmen, and they attain early to their greatest Perfection in these Arts; and therefore we must look out for other Caufes to account for this Phanomenon, which I conceive to proceed only from their different Manner of Education.

The Antients were inftructed by Philofophers, and the Moderns are taught by Priefts: The first thought it theirDuty to make theirPupils as ufeful as possible to their Country, and the later as subservient to themselves, and the Interests of their Order: One endeavoured to infpire them with noble and generous Sentiments, equally fit for Dominion or Subjection; and the Other always instill into them abject, fordid and pusillanimous Principles, to qualify fy them to be proper Tools for their own low Purpofes: In fhort, the first made it their Study and Business to enlarge and improve their natural Faculties, and growing Reason; and the latter to pervert, stiffe and extinguish every Approach towards true Knowledge and publick Vertue.

As foon as the Emperors and their Courts came into the Church, Ambition and Pride got in too; and the Innocence and Simplicity of primitive Christianity became corrupted, and changed into outward Pomp and Pageantry: The Clergy bethought themfelves how (in the Modern Phrase) to make the best of their Bible: Unluckily it was all against them; and tho' they read it over and over, they found it every where levelled against Spiritual Pride and Domination, and they could not spick out one direct Text for their Purpose.

What must be therefore done in this momentous Affair? The Holy Writings were dispers'd Abroad, and could not be suppreffed, and yet Riches and Power were of indispensable Necessity to the Good of the Church? Why! fince they could not get them out of the Peoples Hands, they contrived how to render them of as little Use as possible there; and, in Order to it, they pointed all their Batteries against Human Reason, and Polite Learning, and made it an heinous Sin to read any Heathen Authors: By which Means, in an Age or two, few could eould read at all; and the Romans, fo famous for Knowledge, Vertue and Humanity, became (for the most Part) funk to the lowest Dregs of Barbarism, Superstition and Ignorance.

But lest the curious and inquisitive Part of Mankind should not be wholly diverted from the Search after Knowledge, they invented and fubstituted in its Room, a senseles Jargon of undefined, infignificant, and canting Terms, confused Ideas, and indistinct Images; which they perfwaded the World to effeem profoundLearning and deepWifdom : And then they reduced and determin'd all Questions in Philosophy and Religion by this Gibberish; and he got the Victory, who could hold out longest, and most confound his Auditory, by entangling them in an endless Labyrinth of Nonfense. Men of Wit and Genius were distasted at a Study, which would cost them fo much Pains to attain, when they could find neither Pleafure in the Pursuit, nor Profit or Improvement in the Conquest; and having no Notion of any other Learning, they confented to let the Clergy have it all to themfelves.

When they had fo reduced the Laity to this happy and defireable State of Stupidity and Submiffion, they took away their Bible from them too; or, which was the fame Thing, they continued it only in a Language, which, by the many Conquests upon the Empire, and the Revolutions of Time, was un-

The Independent Whig. 219 understood by none but themselves. And now, having converted their Hearers into Assess and Beasts of Carriage, they bridled them, they salled them, they yoked them, and put heavy Burthens upon them, till they so overloaded the Jades, that they grew resty, and overturn'd their Packs and Riders too.

Thus the World came by the Reformation; which difperfed the thick Mift of Superfition and Ignorance, that then oversha-dowed all Christendom: The Laity were refolved to be no longer hood-wink'd; but a general Disposition arose in Europe, to revive ancient Learning and useful Knowledge: And the Greek and Roman Authors were fought after, rescued from Dust and Worms, and diligently read. Many Princes promoted thefe Studies, and gave all due Encouragement to Vertue and Learning: But this noble Spirit of Liberty lasted no longer than the Lives of those Princes, and while the Images of facerdotal Oppressions were deep engraven in Mens Minds; which, like all other Things, wore out by Degrees.

The Unum Magnum, neceffary to fecure all the reft, was never thought of, or forgotten; which was to retrieve the Education of Youth out of the Hands of the Priesthood, and to reform the Universities, (which were contrived and established by Popes to support their own Pride and Power over the unhappy Laity,) and instead of suffering them to continue Seminaries of Faction, Tyranny, and Ecclefiaftical Ufurpations, to convert them into Schools of Vertue, Liberty, Knowledge, and true Religion: The old Leaven was permitted to remain, and the Clergy had still left to them the Education of the Nobility and Gentry in most Countries; and they were educated accordingly.

It became a Maxim in the Universities Abroad. That those, who were born to large Posfeffiions and Estates, had no need of Learning; and fuch were always encouraged or connived at in mifpending their Time in Idlenefs and Luxury, and were generally made the Companions of their Governors and Tutors in their Pleafures, who were perpetually inftilling into their tender Minds Tyrannical or Slavish Principles. But when they had to do with Youths of fprightly Wit and Genius, who either, from their own Inclinations, or the Impulse of their Relations, would not be diverted from the Pursuit of Knowledge; they induftrioufly put them upon a wrong Scent, and perplexed and confounded their Understandings with metaphysical Whimseys, and an artificial Cant: out of which many of them could never extricate their Senfes; and fuch as did, spent often as many Years after they came into the World to do fo, as they loft before in the Universities, to be upon the Level with those who had never been there.

This

This foon became again the State of Learning and Knowledge amongft the Nobility and Gentry: Either they had none at all, or fuch as they were the worfe for having; infomuch that thofe, whofe Birth and Fortunes intitled them to be Legiflators and Governors of Mankind, were themfelves the Slaves and Dupes of Pedagogues and Chaplains, were contented to do all their Drudgery, and be humble Inftruments to their Pride and Luxury.

However, as the Priefts could not agree amongft themfelves about fharing the Laity, and, as Printing about this Time came into Chriftendom, which made it impracticable to fupprefs all Copies of ufeful Books, or hinder them from being read; many Perfons have had the Vertue and Refolution to oppofe Clerical Ufurpation, and have kept alive fome Spirit of Liberty, in Spite of all the Efforts of Prieftcraft and Delufion, ever fupported by worldly Intereft, and too often by worldly Power.

It is a hard Circumstance for Truth, that in most Countries it must fubsist upon Converts; and Education, Interest and Authority must combine against it: But if, notwithstanding all their Efforts, its own clear Evidence and irressistible Authority can make such a Progress in the World, what might we not expect, if the Approaches and Passages to it were made easy and advantageous, and proper Rewards and Encouragements given to the Promoters and Difcoverers of fuch Philosophy and Knowledge, as will make Men useful to themselves and their Country?

It cannot be doubted, but ancient Virtue and ancient Eloquence would revive again; the Nobility and Gentry of Christendom would refume their proper Stations; and exceed the inferior Part of Mankind, as much in publick Spirit, Courage and Wifdom, as they do in Fortune and Quality; and poffibly might in Time as much outfhine the Greeks and Romans in those great Endowments, as they are evidently outdone in fuch Arts and Sciences, as the Priests do nor pretend to teach, and feldom know any Thing of.

Of EDUCATION. Part 2.

OT all the Cruelty of Tyrants, the Subtilty and Craft of Priefts, or the Malice of Devils, have ever invented or brought a greater Plague or Mischief upon Mankind, than false Learning: We may be upon our guard against all other Calamities; but here the Enemy is within us, and admitted at all times to the innermost Recesses of our Souls: where he acts the Part of a treacherous Friend, betrays us under the Pretence of ferving us, and administers Poison in Cups of feeming Nectar and Ambrofia: We are gradually deprived of our Senfes, whilft we think we are improving them, become Fools by Industry and great Application; like Tan-talus, are starved with an imaginary Banquet at our Months; and, in the midst of an appearing pearing Profusion of Knowledge, want common Sense; and, what is yet worse, are infensible of our wanting Distemper, and consequently are incapable of a Remedy.

Our Minds as well as Bodies are eafily distorted, and put out of their natural Frame: Abfurdity and Nonfenfe is to be learn'd, and good natural Faculties may be improved into foolish Ones, or none at all. A Man, like a Veffel, is capable of holding only a certain Quantity, which when it is full of one Liquor is incapable of receiving another; and even when the first is drawn out, it generally leaves a Tincture behind it. The Mind, when rightly fet out, ufefully employ'd, and upon proper Objects, will improve, and every Day strengthen; but when conversant only with Visions, Phantoms and Whimfeys, will affimilate with the Company it keeps, and by Degrees loofes its diftinguishing Faculty.

A proper Exercife, and a natural Ufe of the Limbs, give Health and Vigour, as well as Gracefulnefs and becoming Motion; whereas Grimace and abfurd Pofture, are Qualifications only for Jack-Puddings and Merry-Andrews. One who has been long taught by an ill Mafter, is farther from a good Dancer, than another who has never begun; becaufe he muft unlearn all his ill Habits, to be in the Circumftance of him who has not learn'd at all; as a Man, who gets out of his Road, is farther from his Journey's End, than if

if he had staid at Home; and commonly must return thither again, to find out his right Way.

Whoever spends his Time in reading foolish Books, and in studying useless or false Speculations, will grow the greater Coxcomb, the greater Progress he makes : He is learning backwards, and undermining and destroying the first Sparks, innate Principles, or Capacity of Knowledge, and in time will be fortify'd and impregnable against common Senfe. A great Philosopher tells us, that Ignorance is a middle State between Knowledge and falfe Learning; that is to fay, one who is wholly untaught and unimproved, is as much above a Learned Man, in the common Acceptation of the Word, as a Man well educated does exceed another who has had no Education at all: The Capacity of the first is entire, and fusceptible of Information; whereas in the other, all the Avenues and Paffages to Wifdom are deftroy'd or lock'd up, and he is fo puzzled, perplexed and confounded in a Maze of improved Nonfense and Absurdity, that he can never get through it or out of it. The Acquisitions in fuch Learning have been aptly compared to the fluttering and rumbling of a Swallow falling down a Chimney, who, when he is at Bottom, flies about, and hurries backwards and forwards to every Window, and every Corner of the Room, to make his Escape, but never thinks of the Way Way, he came in, and fo becomes an eafy Prey to the first Enemy which assaults him.

Whoever is conversant with Scholasticks. and has any Understanding of his own, (if fuch a Correspondence can possibly be) must readily affent to this Truth. It is even grown a Proverb in the Learned Language, that, Merus Scholasticus est merus Asmus : What an Appearance do these Reverend Drones and accomplish'd Dunces make amongst Mankind ? How are they exceeded in Converfation, agreeable Addrefs, and useful Knowledge, by the youngest Gentlemen, by Soldiers and Merchants, and often by Mechanicks and Tradefmen, who can only write and caft Accompts? Nothing but the Solemnity of their Habits, and the auftere Gravity of their Phiz, Mien and Behaviour, hinders them from being the Jeft and Contempt of Women and Boys. It is faid, Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, once took a Conceit to invite all the deep Chins about the Town to a magnificent Entertainment fpread upon a long Table; and he made himfelf amends. by fitting at the upper End, and enjoying the Visto. Indeed I cannot deny, but I have fometimes had fuch a fort of ill-natur'd Pleafure, in imagining that I faw fome of the Governors of the Two Universities (with others of their Betters, who shall be namelefs) uncafed of their reverential Robes, and dreffed up with Hats and Feathers, Swordknots, and laced Coats, and in that Equipage

They give us, in fome Degree, the fame Figure, when they shew in the Grand Monde: Like Snails, they carry their Houfes about them, and bring Pedantry, Conceit, four Humour, Bigotry, magisterial Grimace, and ill Manners, into all Conversations where they have to do; and indeed are not fit for any. till they have been often kick'd out of it. They have neither the Temper of Christians, the Reafon of Philofophers, or the Affability of Gentlemen, and therefore are juftly despised by them all. Fryar John, as I re-member, asks of Panurge or Pantagrouel, in Rabelais, what is the Reafon that the Houfhold Priest is used worse than any one else in the Family? And, I think, he answers, because he neither ploughs the Ground like the laborious Ox, carries Burthens like the useful Horfe, nor keeps the Door like the faithful Dog; but, like the Monkey, runs about every where fouling the House, chattering and making a Noife, biting People's Fingers, and doing nothing but Mischief; and fo every Body has a Stroke at him, and gives him a Knock as he passes by.

The Writings of many of these folemn Gentlemen are of the same Kind, and carry the same tragical and grim Aspect. They would be Dictators in Faith and Science, and so their Books are full of the Spirit of Pe-Q 2 dantry, dantry, falfe Zeal, and Ill-breeding; and, under the Appearance and Affectation of Learning, contain only Paradoxes, Uncertainty, harfh Severity, or awkward Buffoonery. Any one, who is the leaft acquainted with thefe dogmatical Zealots, thefe punning Inquifitors, muft own that I have done Juftice to their Characters, and the Merit which runs through them; unlefs in fome Inflances, moftly about this great Town, where an uncommon natural Genius, Liberty of Mind, generous Birth, or a free Converfation, have got the better of a conftrain'd and corrupt Education.

I thank God, fuch as have of late Years had the Honour of being admitted to great Dignities, and been brought into the Legiflature or Royal Councils, are of the latter fort: But what Figure have others formerly made in the Senate House, or Council Board ? How much below young Noblemen, who had never been at the Universities, or had just forgot what they had learned there, and rubb'd or filed off College Rust by polite Conversation ? In One, you might have obferved an Eafiness of Address, Softness of Speech, and Freedom of Thought; in the Other, Starchness of Behaviour, Sourness of Looks, and flarved Conceits, urged with fierce and impetuous Rage. A late Noble and great Genius of our Age and Country, compares them to those Grotesque Figures, and Dragon-Faces, which are often feen in the the Frontifpiece, and upon the Corner-Stones of old Buildings: They feem placed there as the Defenders and Supporters of the Edifice; but with all their Grimace, are as harmlefs to People without, as they are useles to the Building within.

Of CEREMONIES.

LAINNESS and Simplicity are not more infeparable Marks of Truth, than they are of true Religion, which wants neither Paint nor Pageantry to recommend it felf to the Hearts of Men. It wins the Affections, by the Force of its Perswassions; and the Understanding, by the Reasonableness of its Precepts. It abhors Violence, as opposite to its Nature; and despises Art and Policy, as below its Dignity. Human Ornaments may Q 3 hide hide and disfigure, but cannot preferve nor improve its intrinsick Beauty, and divine Lustre: And Pomp and Grimace, as they are no wife a-kin to it, so neither are they the Effects of it, nor bring any Advantage to it. On the contrary, they tend to fill the Mind with gross Ideas, or fullen Fear; and so create Superstition instead of Piety, and Farce instead of Worship.

God himfelf has told us, that he will be worfhipped in Spirit and in Truth: which fhews, that Love and Sincerity conflitute Devotion, and that Religion refides in the Mind. As to Bodily Religion, and Corporeal Holinefs, the Gofpel is filent about them; leaving every one at full Liberty to behave his own Way in the Practice of Piety.

It is justly esteemed the Glory and Felicity of the Christian Religion, that by it we are released from that grievous Yoke and Bondage of Ceremonies, which neither we nor our Fathers were able to bear. It is a Religion of Reason, void of all Superfluities, and trifling Impertinences.

Men cannot judge of one another's Thoughts and Inclinations, but by Words and Actions: And, becaufe it would be both troublefome and filly to be on every Occafion haranguing our Friends and Superiors, upon the profound Veneration which we profess for their Perfons or Characters; it has become necessary to agree upon fome outward outward Forms, to denote internal Respect. And this I take to be the only good Reafon which can be given for fuch Manner of Addrefs or Ceremony. It is ridiculous, either by Sounds or Gestures, to tell a Man over and over again, what he knows already: and therefore, the most intimate Friends and old Acquaintance make but little Ufe of Shew or Complement; and those, who make most, are ever found the least fincere. But how fenfelefs and abfurd must it be to entertain Heaven with fuch Grimaces! that Heaven, which fearches our Hearts, and knows our most hidden Thoughts; and will not be deceived by outward, arbitrary and fallacious Marks of inward Difpolition !

It can never be conceived, that the Allmerciful and Omniscient God should, by the fending of his Son, abolish, or fuffer to be abolished, the whole Jewish Legion of Ceremonies, tho' appointed by himfelf in Perfon; and should graciously condescend to establish a new Dispensation, destitute of all Ceremony and exterior Grandeur; and yet should leave it to the Ambition of defigning Men, or to the Folly of weak ones, to invent and impose a fresh Load of Rituals, in Opposition to the plain Genius of the Gofpel. This would be for the All-merciful, to be merciful in vain; for the Creator to refign his Power to the Creature; and for God to recall his own Injunctions, which he once gave for a gracious and wife End, fince ceafed.

ed, that Men may enforce their's, for a weak or a wicked one.

Nothing is, or can be, pure Religion, but either what God commands and tells us he will accept; or what is dictated by cternal Reafon, which is the Law of Nature: And whatever is fuperadded, however dignified by a venerable Name, is no Part of true Religion; which, as has been faid, can be fupported by nothing but Divine Revelation, or Divine Reafon. When both thefe are wanting, we wander in the Dark, and worfhip blindfold; being led by the Hand of Conjecture and Invention, which are uncertain and endlefs.

This is fo true, that where-ever there is true Religion, there are few Ceremonies: And, on the other Hand, where Ceremonies abound, there Religion is either utterly loft, or miferably decayed; and, in Popifh Countries, it is more or lefs visible, according as Ceremonies and Bigotry (which, like Caufe and Effect, go always Hand in Hand) are more or less practifed or promoted. Thus, in France, where, thro' the Commerce of that Kingdom with Protestants, there are still fome Remains of common Sense, and confequently of Religion; God Almighty is worshipped as well as dead Men, tho' not fo much: Whereas, in Italy and Spain, the Saints have deprived their Maker of all Devotion; and the Bleffed Virgin, St. Dominick, St. Jago, and St. Anthony, are, by thefe hot-

The Independent Whig. 233 hot-headed Bigots, made Governors of Heaven and Earth, and the Givers of eternal Life; and confequently are become, next immediately after the Priests, the only Objects of their Adoration. If you deprive them of their Saints and their Ceremonies, there is not the least Face of Religion left amongst them.

So little has Christianity gained by Ceremonies, that a great Part of Mankind have, by Adopting them, banished all true Religion. If they were introduced, as it is alledged, to kindle Piety; I am forry to fay, it has fo happened, that this Heat of Devotion has quite drank up the Truth and Vitals of Religion; and the blind Compliance with a fenfeless Cringe, invented and enjoyned by a Popish Priest, is made of more Importance and Merit, than the Possession of all Moral and Christian Vertues, without it. Religion, good Senfe, and Humanity, are infeparable Friends; but a superstitious Fondness for Ceremonies is a Contradiction, and an Affront to all the Three.

The Teachers of Mankind have, for the greatest Part, been the most unteachable of all Men; and these our Guides to Peace have been always the Foremost to break it. They have seen, from Time to Time, the Violence and ungodly Effects produc'd by their Contention for Human Forms, Habits, and Decisions; and yet, where the Religious Laity and the Law did not interpose, to restrain restrain this Unchristian Behaviour in Churchmen, they have not only still adhered with Obstinacy to their Inventions and Impositions, but frequently made it their Business to broach new ones, and to throw about fresh Balls of Strife and Cruelty.

Ceremonies were first brought in under a very plausible Pretence; namely, that of aiding and promoting Religion: But we have seen, by above a Thousand Years Experience, that these its pretended Friends always become its real Rivals and successful Enemies; and, by the Help of those, whose Interest it was to contrive and support them at any Rate, never failed to banish it as far away as their Power extended.

It is pretended, that the Invention of stated Ceremonies and Garments, is justified by these Words of St. Paul to the Corinthians. Let all Things be done decently, and in order; which Words are only a Precept to avoid Immodefty and Confusion, in their religious Assemblies. Two, for Example, were not to fpeak at the fame Time: One was not to fing Pfalms, while another prayed. Neither Love nor Trade was to be the Business of their Meetings; nor Tithes and their own Power the Drift and Business of the Preachers: Chrift was not to be confounded with Belial; nor Pride and Dominion with Meeknefs and Christianity: Exhorting was not to be mix'd with Railing, nor Praying with Curfing; nor were the People to be taught E0

The Independent Whig. 235 to hate one another: In fhort, God was to be adored with the Heart and Affections, and not with a Fiddle, or a Pipe and Tabor.

I do not find, that the Apostle's Words were understood in any other Sense than this, by those to whom they were addressed: It does not appear that immediately upon the Sight of St. Paul's Epistle, the Corinthians concluded that Prayers should be faid in Surplices; and that the Faithful, as soon as the Word was given, should kneel, stoop and stand, or turn to the Right or Left, like a File of Musqueteers; or that they were to nod towards the East, as if the Almighty kept his Court only there.

Nor were the Corinthians directed by this Text to play Popish Tricks over the Forehead of a Babe baptized, as fure and certain Signs of Regeneration: Nor were they commanded to put up their Petitions in Quavers, and to fing their Prayers as well as fay them; nor was that fubtle Diftinction then and there found out, of bowing at the Name of Jefus, but not at the Name of Chrift or of God.

All thefe pretty Fashions were unknown to the Apostle and his Correspondents; and their Genteelness and Significancy have been long fince discovered by the Romish Clergy in the later Days; and indeed, it is now become impossible to make one's Court well without them.

The Words Decorum and Significancy, which are made use of to justify the Celebration bration of Ceremonies, are Words of fuch prodigious Latitude, that the World does not agree, nor ever can agree, what it is that does come properly under their Denomination, and what does not. With the Turks it is decent to be covered at Devotion: with us, to be bare-headed. How is the wearing of a Periwig, or a Cap, more decent and orthodox than the wearing of a Hat? How is a Prunella Gown, or a Lawn Frock more fignificant than a Cloth Coat? Is God Almighty better pleafed with a Cambrick Band, than with a Muslin Cravat? And is an Organ.Loft more acceptable to him, than plain Country Piety, that has neither Motion nor Musick in it?

If Men are at Liberty to invent and enjoin one unneceffary Ceremony, why not two? And if two, why not two Thoufand? When fuch a Power is once granted, it cannot be eafily, nor indeed reafonably limited. If the Clergy can oblige me to throw my Head into my Bofom, upon their pronouncing certain Sounds; they may, by the fame Right, upon pronouncing different Sounds, oblige me to run it against a Stone Wall: Nay, which is still worfe, whoever has an Authority to direct my Manner of Worship, must have also a Power to direct the Matter of it, and may command me WHOM to worship as well as How.

Superfition in the People, and Power in the Priefts, were the true Ends and Confequences quences of creating Popish Ceremonies; for, as to their Significancy, it was a meer Bub. ble and Pretence. Such a Plea would justify endlefs Phrenzy and Fooleries; and every Madness would be made a Mystery. For Instance; we might be made to walk barefooted into the Church, to fignify the Sanctity of the Place; and to crawl upon all Four out of it, to fignify the Humiliation of our Hearts. A Match of Cudgel-playing every Sunday might be instituted, to fignify our fpiritual Warfare; and a Game at Blindman's-Buff, to fignify the Darkness of our Understandings. In short, any Thing might be made to fignify every Thing; and any Punishment be inflicted upon the profane Gain-Caver: And upon this Foot may be justify'd all the Pagan and Popish Fopperies that ever were, or ever could be invented; and nothing can be faid against all the many Garments, and many Colours, and many antick Gestures used by the Romish Priests at this Day.

It must be evident to every intelligent Man, that all this pretty Pageantry and Raree-Shew, can never make Men more acceptable to God, who will not be gratified or obliged by a Jigg or a Tune. But, I believe I may fafely affirm, that if all this Merry-making and jovial Devotion in the Popisb Churches do no manner of Good, they must needs do Harm; because they divert the Mind from deliberate Devotion and calm calm Repentance, and can at best only work it up to a wild and enthusiastick Worship.

However, tho' this pompous Parade in Piery does no Service to Religion, it effectually answers the End proposed by it; and contributes vaftly, as every Thing elfe does, to the Advancement and Grandeur of the Romilly Clergy, as it turns Mens Thoughts from divine Objects to a superstitious Veneration for Postures, Habits, Grimaces, Cringes, Utenfils, &c. all invented by Priest, who are always fure to appoint themfelves Masters of the Ceremonies, and to be well paid for their deep Knowledge in this momentous Science: Befides, it lifts into their Service great Numbers of People; fuch as Organilits, Fidlers, Singing-Men, with all the piping and chanting Crew, as well as Artificers of various Kinds. It engages Men of Pleafure, and Ladies, in their Interests; and it catches the Mobility by the Ears and the Eyes, and fets them a staring; and it alleviates their own Drudgery of frequent Preaching and Praying: It also ferves the Purposes of Interludes in the perpetual Tragedies they are acting; which they render lefs terrible, by playing, like Nero, upon their Harps, in the Midit of Conflagrations of their own making.

What a Bleffing is it to this Church and Kingdom, that all this Farce in Devotion is forbidden by the Act of Uniformity, as well as by our Homilies; as fhall be further taken Notice of, when I treat again upon the fame Subject. NUMBER Of CEREMONIES. Part 2.

Y last Paper treated of superstitious Ceremonies; and this shall contain a Profecution of the same Subject.

The Pagan Religion confifted altogether in a vast Number and Variety of strange and fenseless Ceremonies; and, being soolish and false, it could confist of nothing else. Its Votaries had, for their Religious Task, certain frantick Actions to perform, certain wanton Motions to make, or certain mad Races to run; fometimes'galloping about the Streets like Lunaticks, flark naked, and fometimes half naked; or in a religious antick Drefs, fignificantly fuited to their Behaviour. They were to be religious with their Heads, Feet, Joints, and their other Organs : They were were alfo to utter certain harfh and devour Sounds, which had no Meaning, but were prodigious fignificant, and being very ridiculous, were very decent.

During all this holy Exercife, which was edifying in Proportion as it was mad, their Minds were posses'd with a drunken Feflivity and Wantonnefs, or with Crazinefs and Enthusiastick Fear. They were either lewd or raving, Rakes or Fanaticks. It never entred into their Heads, nor did their Priefts ever put it into them, that Religion was a fober Thing, confifting in the Exercife of Reason, and the Practice of Virtue. No: a Spirit of Sobriety, or a Ray of Underftanding, would have blown up the Authority and Dominion of the Heathen Parsons; and therefore, the poor Lay Pagans were not fuffered to know that a Man might be a religious Man, without being a good Dancer, and please God without Roaring and running Races.

This was the Godly and wholefome Difcipline, invented and inflituted by the Pagan Clergy, for the Ufe and Edification of the deluded and idolatrous World. Action and Outfide was all they knew of Religion; and therefore their Superflition took great Delight in building and beautifying Temples. They imagined, that the doing of a Thing which had any Reference to Religion, was actually a Piece of Religion; and that any Jobb of Work about a Holy Place, was, in good good Earnest, a Jobb of Holiness. They might have as rationally believed, that Mafons, Joyners, and Plaisterers, employed about a Temple, derived Piety and Merit from that Employment.

Had not Pagan Ceremonies (and Pagans were the first Inventers of Ceremonies) fignified nothing, or rather something very bad; as indeed it was evident to every Eye, that they were either senseless or impious; our Saviour would never have instituted, as he did, a Religion without one Ceremony in it. The Religion of the Gospel is as pure from Fancies and Ceremonies, as from Pride and the Spirit of Dominion.

Our Bleffed Saviour knew well, that the crafty and profane Priefts, had, by their fhamelefs Inventions and filthy Ceremonies, polluted or abolifhed all Religion; and therefore, in Mercy to Mankind, founded a Religion without Priefts, and without Ceremonies: (as fhall be fully fhewn hereafter) For, it is to be observed, that while the Eftablifhed Church of Paganifm flouristicd, Priefts and Ceremonies always flouristicd or increased together.

Such was the fimple Inftitution of the Gofpel: But when Popery began to Elbow out Christianity, Ignorance and Ceremonies were fome of the Principal Engines by which it effected the fame. For, as the Meeknels of Christians was then converted into the Cruelty of Barbarians, and the Plainnels of the R Golper Gospel into all the detestable Fopperies of Paganism; fo Holineis of Heart was changed into Holineis of Poslure; the Humility of Soul into bodily Bowings; the Worship of God into the Worship of Bread, and the piping of Organs: And the Clergy, as they had called themsfelves, were no longer cloathed with Meckness, but with Surplices, &c.

Nor was this mighty Revolution, this unnatural Transition from the Beauty and Gentlenefs of Christianity, to the unhallowed Spirit and abominable Rituals of the Heathens, at all hard or impracticable: The People had, by the Idlenefs, Infufficiency, and Debaucheries of the Ecclesiasticks, become corrupt and blind to the last Degree, and therefore ran readily and chearfully into every new Abfurdity. Whatever the Bishop pronounced decent, though ever fo vile or filly, his conforming Flock received as Reverend and Edifying. A grofs and fenfual Manner of Worship, fuited best with the Groffnels of their Understandings, and the Sensuality of their Minds. They had no Conception of the Spiritual Nature of the Gofpel, and of that Evangelical Grace, which operates internally, and is wholly employed about the Soul, but produces neither Cringes, nor Dances, nor Grimaces.

A Religion therefore of Ceremonies, which is no Religion at all, agreed well with those Carnal Christians, who were taught to place all Religion in Ceremonies. When the ignorant rant Vulgar are once perfuaded that Ceremonies are good 'for any Thing, they come quickly to think them good for every Thing ; and the more, the merrier ! They are delighted with Shadows and Mystery, and Hocus Pocus. Ignorance, like every other Habit, is daily improving it felf, and encreases in Strength as in Years; it delights to be still plunging into farther and deeper Darknefs. The less People understand, the more they stare; and because there is nothing in the Gospel but plain Piety, plain Reason, and plain Matter of Fact ; therefore it can raife no Wonderment in them, and confequently no pleaking Piety : But strange and mysterious Ceremonies can do all this; and, for that Reafon, have always got the better of Reli- gion in all bigotted Countries.

Here therefore is a glorious and ample Field of Gaping, Sottifhness, and Credulity, for crafty Priefts to play their Tricks, and fow Superstition in. And, indeed, they have topped their Parts, in this Undertaking, with fuch Dexterity and Success, that their humble and refigned Votaries do not any longer pretend to carry their own Eyes or Underflanding: Their very Palates and Nofes are Priest-ridden, and dare neither Taste nor Smell, without an Ecclesiastical Licence. Thus even the invincible Operations of the Animal Spirits, and of the Five Senfes, must fland still, when commanded by the Priest, who can annihilate the Creature, and create his Creator. As R 2

As under the facred Name of God and Religion, the greateft Irreligion and Impieties have been propagated; fo, under the Colour and Umbrage of fignificant and decent Ceremonies, the most ridiculous and immodest Usages have been introduced. It would require more than a whole Paper to expose all the many Apish Gesticulations of the Romis Mass; I shall only run over a few of them.

The Priest, in the Administration of Mass, must wear a white Linnen Garment, which, I suppose, must signify Whiteness; for I cannot see a more obvious Meaning in it. The fame was also worn by the primitive Heathen Clergy, when they butchered Bullocks, to appeale their Deities.

As he approaches towards the Altar, having great Devotion in his Back-Bone, he bows, and bows, and ducks his Head, as if he was playing at Hop Frog. The Altar is alfo covered with a Surplice, or white Cloth, which, doubtlefs, fignifies fome great Myftery; but, in profane Eyes, typifies only a Damask Table Cloth. It moreover ftands towards the Eaft, which, to be fure, has a deep Meaning, and feems to imply, as if God Almighty was either more merciful or more powerful in that Quarter of the World, (though he made it All) than in any of the other Three; or as if he liked that Climate beft, and All thofe who bow to it.

He then, after many Monkish Gestures and Scrapings, says a world of short Prayers, (the

The Independent Whig. 245,

(the whole Service being judicioufly fliced into pretty little Morfels of Devotion) and reads Scraps of Scripture; all which Prayings and Readings would not be half fo Wholesome any where else as they are just at the Elbow of the Altar. Then there is a lighted Candle standing by him at Noon Day, probably to fignify that there is Light enough without it. Now, in fome other Churches. the Altar is only illuminated with dark Candles, which, for ought I know, may be equally mysterious and fignificant. But, upon this great and effential Point, I shall pronounce nothing dogmatically.

The Priest then mutters Words over the Bread and Wine, which thereupon ftart into omnipotent Flesh and Blood; and the living Jefus is fwallow'd Whole, in Remembrance of the dead One : and the Priest makes his Maker, and the People eat him. The Wine, which the Priest very naturally keeps all to himself, must not be poured out of a Bottle into a Glafs, which would not be fignificant enough; but out of a Flaggon, which, being of Silver or Gold and holding more Liquor, is confequently very significant. He repeats, Lord have Mercy upon us, very often, to fignify that he does it more than once; and fpeaks loud, to fignify, that he may be heard.

But I am quite fick of this strange fignificant Stuff, before I have gone thro' the Tenth Part of it. The whole Performance is perfectiy ly Theatrical, and improperly and impioufly, called a Sacrament. It is indeed a wretched, unentertaining Interlude; a flupid Farce, of which the Priest 'is the Chief Mimick; for Mumbling and making Mouths, does not deferve the Name of Acting.

We have had feveral Attempts made to revive a mongft us this infamous Mummery in Devotion, and thefe Apifh Ceremonies; which are an Affront to Common Senfe, and below the Dignity of Human Nature, much more of Religion : But fuch Attempts can never fucceed, while we enjoy either Liberty or Knowledge. Archbishop Land, therefore, when he had bewitched the Court, fway'd the Scepter, and deftroy'd the Liberty of the People and of the Prefs, took the beft Opportunity he could get, to transport Rome to Lambeth; and having married the Harlot, he adopted her Trumpery.

A Sample of this Man's Genius for Popery may be feen in his mad Manner of Confecrating fome New Brick and Mortar which had been ufed in the Repair of Sr. Catharine Creed-Church, London; as the fame is related at large by Rushworth. At his Approach 3 the Weft End of the Church, the Doors flew open, upon pronouncing certain Words out of the Pfalms, That the King of Glery might enter; and then entered the Bilhop, and falling down upon his Knees, Baptiz'd the Ground, or, which is the fame Thing, pronounced it Holy, in the Name of the Father, Son

Son, and Holy Ghost. Then he threw Duft in the Air, and play'd fome other pious Pranks. Then he pronounced many Curfes. and called upon the People to Curfe with him. Then he scatter'd aBasket-full of Bleffings amongst all the Masons, and other Holy Mechanicks, who had helped to make that Church fine. He also went round the Church in Procession, and told God Almighty and the People, over and over, that that was Holy Ground. At last, after a Bead-Roll of Pravers, and a Hundred and Fifty Bowings, and after many wild Gestures, sometimes advancing, fometimes recoiling, like One affrighted and crazy, he gave the Sacrament.

Besides all this, he removed the Communion-Table, and placed it in the Chancel Altar-wife, contrary to the express Direction of the Rubrick; which fays, it fhall fland where Morning and Evening-Prayer is directed to be faid. He made Pictures of the Trinity, and caufed them to be hung up in Churches; and was guilty of many other Popish Innovations, all tending to create Fanaticism and Superstition.

This Paper grows too long, and leaves me no Room to do Justice to Crosses, Square-Caps, and Fantastical Garments: all which, I warrant you, are profoundly Mysterious; tho' to Carnal Eyes, they feem only to fignify to make the People stare: For every odd Sight strikes the Imagination, and disposes. the Beholder either to Laughter or Reverence. Nor Nor have I Time to honour with a proper Encomium, that Ingenious and Ecclefiastical Device, of explaining the fublime Mystery of the Trinity by a Pair of Compasses, tho' it is above all Explication, and even of Conception. unlefs thro' Faith; and of reprefenting the Father, Son and Holy Ghoft, by a Triangle in a Circle, over the Communion-Table. Was there ever fuch a pretty Piece of pious Cunning! By the faid Triangle is typify'd and held forth to us, that the faid Triangle confifts of Three Angles; which is exceeding plain and edifying : And by the Circle is fignified, that the faid Circle is but One Circle. which is prodigious good again! But, that a Triangle is a Circle, and a Circle is a Triangle, Dr. Waterland faith not.

I must, for the fame Reason, pass over unobserved, the Praising of God with Organs, which our Homilies very uncivilly call Superstitious; Cuts in the Common-Prayer, Books, tending to prepare People for Idolatry; and Pictures in Churches, for the same devout Purpose.

NUMBER XXXIII.

Wednesday, August 31. 1720.

The Ignorance of the High-Church Vulgar, and its Caufes.

Have always thought the best conflituted Church in the World to be that, which forms and produces the most religious and most rational Churches are Places where Men Members. are, or should be, taught the Love of God, and of Vertue; and when People have been long used to perform divine Discipline, and, as they imagine, receive Instruction in Moral and Evangelical Duties, in these stately Fabricks, they generally conceive a deep Re-verence and Devotion for the Buildings themfelves, and for every Thing that is faid in the them, as well as a great Opinion of the Wifdom and Sanctity of the Teachers, who prefide there, and dictate ex Cathedra: They efteem efteem them as Perfons fent by God himfelf, to deliver a Melfage from his own Mouth; for which alfo they have often the Word of the Preacher—No fmall Reafon to the many for the believing of it!

So that here is an uncontroulable Prepoffeffion in Favour of every Doctrine, or every Dream, which corrupt Priefts fhall think fit to deliver. And indeed, the High Church Clergy have never failed to make their Advantage of this fuperflitious Awe and Gredulity of their Hearers; and to fanctify every Falfhood, and every Whimfey and Impiety uttered by them, with a mifapply'd or preverted Text of Scripture; and fo proftituted and prophaned the high and holy Name of God, to patronize their Impoftures. I fhall give fome Inftances.

When they have had a Mind to flatter a a cruel or a foolish Prince, in order to make him ferve their Purpofes, and do their Drudgery; they have dubbed him inftantly God's Vice-gerent, tho' he acted at the fame Time by the Instigation of his Lust or of Satan. And, because David and Saut, being appointted by God himself, by Word of Mouth, were called the Lord's Anointed; therefore every Tyrant, who was not appointed by God himfelf, but feized a Crown by Violence or Surprize, became also the Lord's Anointed. And because Adam was the Father of his own Son, therefore he was the King of his own Son; and therefore all fuch Kings, who, who had not Adam for their Father, were neverthelefs, in Right of Adam, Kings and Fathers of their Subjects, who yet were por their Children, but for all that owed them the Duty of Children, whilst they were plundering and ruining them; and all the Rapine and Murthers they were prompted to commit, by their Anger or their Avarice, were called the Ordinances of God, and were to be fubmitted to, with Christian Stupidity, on pain of Damnation; that is, it was made Damnation to refift Actions and Cruelties which deferved Damnation: And as you were to fubmit to Law and Justice, on plain of Dumnation, fo ought you to fubmit to the overturning of all Law, and all Justice, on pain of Damnation alfo. And, because when we have any Matter of Complaint, we are bid to acquaint the Church with it; therefore the People, who are the Church, are, in every Cafe, to be determin'd by the Parfon of the Parish, who is not the Church. And, becaufe we are to confess our Sins one to another; therefore we are to do it to a Prieft, which is not doing it to one another. And becaufe Abraham gave the Tenth of his Plunder to Melchifedeck, who was not a Priest of our Church by Law Establish'd; therefore our Establish'd Priests, who have nothing to do with Melchifedeck, nor know any thing of him, have a Divine Right to the Tenth Part of every Man's Effate and Industry. And, as the Tribe of Levi had a Right to Tythes, tho' they and

and their Tythes are long fince abolished; fo ought our Parsons to have the same Tythes by the Gospel, without being in the least akin to Aaron's Perfon, or Heirs to his Estate, or Successors to his Institution. And, though our Saviour's Kingdom is not of this World; yet the Kingdom of the High Clergy, who, if you will take their Words for it, are his Representatives, is, and ought to be, of this And, because the reprobate and World. gluttonous Monkshad, by endlefs Rogueries, and diabolical Lies, plundered the deluded Laity of their Possessions, and engrossed to themselves most of the Lands of England; therefore our modern High Priests have a natural and bereditary Right to enjoy the fame; And, tho' they have, upon Oath, renounced all Power, and all Pretence to Power, but what the Law vouchfafes to grant them; yet they have a Power independent on the Law, and Principles independent on these very Oaths, tho'renounced by these very Oaths.

All thefe, and many more Abfurdities, equally vile and impudent, have been blafphemoufly father'd upon Scripture, and the Author of Scripture; tho' they all contradict the Scripture, as well as they do common Senfe and common Honefty. But as the Vulgar do always take that to be the higheft Point of Religion, about which their Teachers make the most Noise, for the Time being, whether it be Tythe, or Dr. Sacheverel, or the Pretender, or the late Duke of Ormond, Ormond, or King Charles the First; fo vicious and corrupted Clergymen, on their Part, have always tacked the Name of God, or, which is much more powerful with the Mob, the Name of the Church, to any Affertion, or any Claim, or any Invention of theirs, be it ever fo monstrous or mischievous; and inftantly it becomes, with weak People, an Article of Faith, upon which Salvation it felf depends. For, as it is their first Care, to force a Testimony from Heaven for every Whim, or Forgery of theirs; fo their next Concern is, to make every Contradiction and Opposition to it, damnable.

Hence it comes to pafs, that the fame Vertues are not of the fame Importance at all Times; but Vertues are made Vices, and Vice is made Vertue, just as the prefent Temper, or the prefent Views prevail; and, by corrupt Priefts, Things are often taught under the Name of Christianity, which are opposite to the Nature of Christianity: Religion is pretended, and Power meant. In confequence of this, Duty is converted into Sin, and Sin into Duty. Thus, the worfhipping of God according to one's Confcience, without which there can be no Worfhip, is made by the High Church Priests a damnable Sin; and the not worshipping a Table in the Chancel, tho' in Oppolition to one's Confcience, is as bad. Sometimes the resisting of unlawful Power, is certain Damnation; and fometimes the not rebelling againft gainst the most lawful Power, has the fame terrible Penalty annexed to it. To doubt or deny their uncharitable, unintelligible Explications of Mystery, which cannot be explained, is the most heinous Atheism; and to whip a sedictious, forsworn Priest, is crying Infidelity, and a Wound to Christ, through the Sides of his Ambassador.

At one time, Predestination is of high Consequence, and made an Article of Faith, and all Free-Willers shou'd be banished the Land, or locked up in Dungeons, like wild Beafts which was the Judgment of the Bishops in King Fames the First's Days, concerning the Armini-At a different Seafon, when Preferments ans. run high on t'other fide, as in King Charles the First's Reign, and ever fince; Arminianism not only recovers Credit, but grows modifh. and confequently Orthodox ; while Predestina. tion becomes an old fashioned Piece of Faith. and a fure Sign of Fanaticism; and yet it continues one of the 39 Articles, and yet it must not be believed, and it must be figned and affented to with a fincere Affent.

In all these Marches and Counter-marches, the Passions of too many of the People keep Place with those of the High Priest; and they are constantly disposed to be Slaves or Rebels, Free-Willers, or no Willers, Believers of this, or Believers of that, ljust as Almighty High Church commands them.

Such Men do not pretend to teach their People the Mcckneis of Christianity:-No, their their Zeal is to be Anger, and their Religion Cruelty. That Fiercenefs, which is inconfistent with the Spirit of a Christian, is to be the certain Criterion of one whom they call a true Churchman; and that Mercy, which is infeparable from the Gofpel, is inconfistent with the Temper of High Church. Their Votaries are not taught to be Christians. which wou'd fpoil the Project, but High Churchmen: and instead of an Army of Martyrs, they are to be an Army of Martyrmakers: Nor is any Portion of Knowledge fit for them; for That might endanger the Lois of their Vassalage; and the teaching them to know for themfelves, might extinguish their Zeal, and entirely change their Belief and Behaviour. The poor People are, in short, by such Guides taught to be ignorant, and to let others know for them : They must give up common Sense, to learn their Duty; and abandon Christianity, without which they cannot have the Grace of God, to embrace rigid Conformity, which is neither a Sign, not a Caufe of that Grace. but often a Bar and a Contradiction to it. This is fo true, that whoever can reconcile Human Authority to Christian Charity, may reconcile Water and Fire, or do any other . Impossibility.

Tendernefs and Moderation to those who devoutly differ from us, though they are evident Principles and Duties of Christianity, and even the Refult of Reason, Justice, and Hu-

Humanity, yet are never mentioned by the Mouth of Orthodoxy, but as Terms of Contempt or Reproach: Infomuch, that a pious Indulgence to Men of a different Communion, the most honest, virtuous, inoffenfive Men; and an Indulgence for the invincible, and perhaps rational Perswasions of the Mind, is the common Butt of Satire, and either ridiculed or reviled : whilft Men of the fame Side may go what Lengths they will in Violence and Villany, without Anger or Rebuke: And while one Man shall have his House burned, his Brains beat out, and his Family ruined, for having a fcrupulous Confcience, which is much more offenfive than none at all; another Man shall break all the Ten Commandments with Reputation.

Hatred and Bitternels of Spirit, are the first Lessons which the unhappy People are taught by fuch Men; and the Gofpel must be laid aside, and good Nature be extinguish'd, before modern Orthodoxy can be fwallowed, or modern Zeal infused. Some of them may probably have learned to repeat the Catechifm by Rote, and even to have practis'd profound Refpect and Submiffion to their Spiritual Superiors; but for the great and indifpensable Duties of Religion, how can it be expected they should mind them, while they daily fee their Teachers express a much more warm Concern for their own Dignities and Revenues, than for the Honour and Interest of pure unmix'd Religion, which was ever

The Independent Whig. 257 ever higheft when Ecclesiaftical Power and Ecclefiaftical Excife were loweft.

When a Congregation fees the Doctor much warmer against Dissenters, than against Sin, and not half fo zealous for the abfolute Necessity of a virtuous and sober Life, as for the absolute Necessity of a rigid Conformity; what can they conclude, but either that he banters them, or that a stupid Compliance with him, and a raging Refentment against Nonconformists, are the great Duties of Churchmen? Add to this, that if his Life be vicious, fuch a Conclusion is still the more natural to vulgar Understandings. When they fee Church Power fo violently contended for, and Gofpel Holineis fo little regarded, or fo eafily difpenfed with; what can their stupid Understandings infer, but that a blind Submission to the Ecclesiaflicks, is beyond all Evangelical Grace, and every Moral Virtue? They find by daily Experience, that they may commit Drun-kennefs or Whoredom, with Impunity, or a fmall Expence; but if they do not give the Doctor what he calls his Due, even to the last Sheaf of Corn, or the last Pound of Wool, they are exposid in the Pulpit, harrassed in the Bishops Court, and probably, at last, surrendered to Satan and Damnation.

Besides, they oftner hear Texts quoted, in fome Pulpits, to abuse Separatists, than to recommend Godliness and Vertue; and fee the Mode of performing a Duty more vehemently hemently urged, than the Duty it felf: Thus kneeling at the Lord's Supper, is made by many of equal Importance with the Sacrament it felf; and the Crofs in Baptism must no more be parted with, than the Ordinance of Baptism.

It is therefore no wonder that the Affections and Antipathies of the common People. have neither proper Caufes nor proper Objects, and that they neither love the Gofpel as fuch, nor hate Sin as fuch; but form, their Faith and Devotion upon the Word and Behaviour of their Priefts, who have the keeping of their Religion, their Zeal. and their Passions; and what hopeful Use they make of this terrible Dominion, we all know: For indeed the Christian Religion is not so much as known to the High Church Vulgar, not fuffered to be known; and as little do they feel, or are fuffered to feel, the tender Impulses of good Nature and Humanity, but posses an Implacableness of Spirit, as opposite to the Spirit of Christ, as was the Spirit of Mahomet to that of Moles.

) OF FASTING.

N my 27th Paper, I have made a Differtation upon Fasting; in this I shall continue it.

Monsieur de Fontenelle, in his History of Oracles, tells us, from Philostrasus, that the Oracle of Amphiaraus in Attica, deliver'd its Answers in Dreams; and that those who confulted it, must first fast well, in order to dream well: But when Fafting failed to produce a Phrenzy of Brain, and by it the Meaning of the God, who had no other Way of ascending into the Head, but upon the Fumes arising from empty Bowels; then the Priest helped his Master to bring forth a Dream, by wrapping up the devout Querift in the Skins of Victims, which being rubb'd and impregnated with intoxicating Drugs, disposed him to dream most divinely, and S 2 and fill'd his Noddle with very hopeful Prophecy. This fatisfy'd the believing Querift, faved the Credit of the God, and brought pretty Offerings to his Vicar.

Such Use did the Pagan Priests make of the Duty of Fasting; and that the Romillo Priests have perverted it to as wicked and deceitful Purposes, I have shewn in another Paper. It is agreeable to their Cunning and their Avarice, to make the People poor and mad; and it muss be own'd a pretty priestly Art, that of driving Men out of their Estates and their Understandings with their own Consent; and leading them into a Belief, that Starving is a Duty, and Lunacy is Grace.

By the Law of Nature, we are not obliged to fast at all, unless in the Way of Phylick, when we are ill, thro' an Overfulness of the Vessels, or any other Diforder, which may be removed or leffened by Abstinence. In this Cafe, we ought to fast for our Health fake; and whatever is neceffary for Self-Relief, or Self-Prefervation, becomes alfo a Duty, and a Piece of Natural Religion, when it does not contradict a positive Law of God. But to abstain, upon certain Days, from the comfortable Use of God's good Creatures, which ought to be received with Thankfulnefs, out of a vain Pretence to pleafe Him, or to promote our own Salvation, is a strange and barbarous Chimera, which the Law of Nature abhors ; and can be the Effect of nothing thing but Distraction in the People, or Craft in the Priests. We might as rationally imagine, that going naked at certain fevere Seafons of the Year, would draw us nearer Heaven; and that the afflicting our Skins with Frost and Snow, would do great Service to our fhivering Souls; and that tho Self-Prefervation be an effential-Law of Nature, yet Self-Destruction is also an essential Law of Nature.

Fasting, therefore, being no Part of the Law of Nature, the Jewish Law of Ceremonies, which is abolished, cannot make it a Duty: And for the Examples of Fasting, taken from the Prophet Daniel, and other Holy Men of the Old Teftament; they were either voluntary, fuch as any one may perform when he is in a fasting Humour, which no Body pretends to restrain; or they were the Effect of Sorrow, when Grief had deftroyed Appetite, and then there was no Devotion in them; or they were extraordinary and fupernatural, and being inimitable, cannot be neceffary. Miraculous Fasting cannot be a Duty, where the Gift of Miracles is not given.

As to the New Testament, there is not a ftated Fast appointed in it: We are indeed commanded to fast and pray; but we are no where told how much, or how often, we are to do either; but are left to choose proper Occasions, and proper Inclinations, for doing both. St. Paul is fuch a generous Advocate cate for Liberty of this Kind, that he condemns all those who condemn others for taking it. Let not, fays he, him that eateth, despife him that eateth not: And let not him which eateth not, judge him that eateth: for God bath received him. One Man effectmeth one Day above another: Another effectmeth every Day alike. Let every Man be fully perswaded in his own Mind. (Rom. Ch. xiv, v. 3 and 5.) The same Spirit of Charity, and the same good natur'd rational Advice, runs thro' the whole Chapter.

The Inflitution of Lent was founded upon our Saviour's Fast of Forty Days in the Wilderness; as if weak impotent Mortals could imitate the Omnipotent Son of God, in Works done but by divine Power! They might as well pretend to walk upon the Sea once a Year, or to raise the Dead at all Times: Besides, our Saviour perform'd this Fast but once, and his Apostles never, as far as we know. Once a Twelve-month you must keep Lent, is not a Gospel Precept.

No Society, therefore, of Men can enjoyn any Time, or Meafure, of Falting (except where the Law directs the fame) without departing from the Gofpel, and contradicting St. Paul, and fetting up their own Authority in Defiance of both the Gofpel and the Saint. Such an Injunction would be impracticable, and even cruel. To many Conflictutions it might be dangerous, and even fatal; and to all all Men, it would render Life wretched and burthensome. The good God has no where commanded frail Men to worship him with Pain and Sickness of Body, nor to hasten their own Death by the Means of their Devotion. This would be to reprefent him as delighting in human Milery, and human Sacrifices; a fort of Worship suitable to the terrible Spirit of Moloch, or any other Demon, but no wife acceptable to the God of Mercy, and the God and Father of our Lord Fesus Christ.

The Popish Priests know well, that it is intirely impossible that all Men should comply with this their Difcipline of Hunger, and perhaps that very Impossibility is their best Reason for maintaining it. It is certain that from hence they draw vaft Gain, by hiring out Dispensations for Eating on the Days of Fasting; and the Lucre they make by breaking the Canon, is an unaniwerable Argument for defending it. No Man is denied the Privilege of breaking Lent, who can pay for breaking it. He who cannot fast at all, may, for a competent Fee, ear Fish, which is a more luxurious Diet than Flesh; and he who cannot fast upon Fish, may, for a more competent Fee, fast upon a Belly-full of Roaft-Beef; which, tho' a chaster Sort of Food than Fish, is more strictly forbidden by that Church.

berty to eat, when it is a Duty to fast, that the whole Inflitution of Fasting there, seems only a religious Roguery, defign'd for starving the People, to feed the Priests. For my felf, I think the Parson has so little to do with this Matter, that I do not think any Direction ought to be taken about Fasting, but from our Constitution, or our Physician. If it be our Duty to fast on certain Days, no Tribe of Priests can dispense with the Pleafure and the Laws of Almighty God; tho' it is a Task which (for Money) they never refuse: And if it be not our Duty, it is infolent and wicked in them to command what neither God nor Nature requires; and it is in us a Sin and a Folly to obey them. ven the Protestant Priest, long fince the Reformation, have known how to make the right Use of this Power. I my felf have feen feveral formal Difpenfations, figned by Archbishop Sheldon, under the Archi-Episcopal Seal, to Licence the eating of Flesh in Lent; which Dispensations, I prefume, were not granted without Application and Fees.

Religion is a voluntary Thing; it can no more be forced than Reafon, or Memory, or any Faculty of the Soul. To be devout against our Will, is an Absurdity; and it is ridiculous in others to hope to make us so, in Spite of our felves. We have no Power over the Appetites of others, no more than over their Consciences. Neither a Man's Mind, nor his his Palate, can be fubject to the Jurifdiction of another; and whoever takes upon him to regulate one's Throat and Stomach, and direct one how much to fwallow, may (with equal Reafon) affume Dominion over the other Offices of Nature, and dictate how much one ought to difcharge. If Fasting is good and pious, because it afflicts and mortifies the Human Spirit and Frame; a Surfeit, or a Debauch, or a Kick on the Guts, or a broken Leg, must be good and pious, for the same Reason, if given or taken with the fame View.

As Fasting ought to be left to every Man's Discretion, because every Man is the best Judge of his Constitution and his Conscience, fo' ought it to be exercised with exceeding Care and Caution; otherwife it will be apt to four our Tempers, or diforder our Heads, and probably do both. Now, neither Ill-Nature, nor Enthusiasm, is any wife related to true Religion ; far otherwise, they are the greatest Enemies it has. A bitter Spirit, and a raving Brain, may be occafioned or increased by Fasting; but Christianity neither produces them, nor owns them. We may fast our felves into Peevishness, and call it Christian Zeal; and into the Vapours, and call the Wind in our Heads, Inspiration : But, by all this, we only fhew that we know nothing, at least possels nothing, either of Inspiration or Zeal.

But

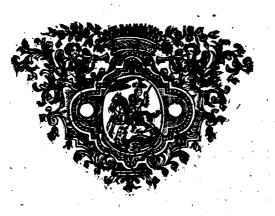

But this fame immoderate Fasting does not only render People whimfical and paffionate, and has confequently helped to give Birth to many ridiculous and uncharitable Principles of Divinity, which have infatuated and enflamed Mankind; but it also creates narrow Thoughts, and an abject Poornefs of Spirit ; and renders the Mind prone to Delufion and Slavery. It is manifest, that a moderate Use of the Bleffings and Enjoyments of Life, of which Eating and Drinking are not the least, has a wonderful Tendency to create or improve a good and beneficent Difpolition of Heart; which, in my Opinion, is as absolutely necessary to Devotion, as to good Neighbourhood. I can never think that Ill-Nature, or Baseness of Mind, can be an acceptable Oblation to the Wife and Merciful God; or that Religion shou'd command what common Senfe forbids. I must own, I am always beft pleas'd after a good Meal, and therefore best dispos'd to love God and my Neighbour, which is the Sum of both Tables: I feel, at the fame Juncture, the Love of Liberty, and the Spirit of Whiggifm, ftrongest in me. And if Eating and Drinking makes us thus bold for our Constitution, let us, we befeech you, in the Name of publick Spirit, promote moderate Eating and Drinking.

It is a Principle in Politicks, that a Happy People will never bear a Tyrannical Prince; He must therefore make his Subjects jects wretched, before he can make himfelf absolute. And this Principle holds equally true, in the Business of Church Dominion. The Laity must be Fools, before they can think the Priefts to be Oracles; and they must be Slaves, before they can think the Priests to be Lords. Here then is an unanswerable Reason, taken from the standing Rules of Ecclefiaftical Polity, why the Lay Beafts of the People, as Mr. Lefley kindly calls us, fhould be always kept fenfelefs, always starving. I would therefore entreat all my loving Countrymen, that, as they love their Liberty and the Protestant Religion, they would love their Victuals.

Of REASON.

EASON is the only Guide given to Men in the State of Nature, to find out the Will of God, and the Means of Self-prefervation. The Senfes are its fubordinate Inftruments and Spies: They bring it Intelligence; and it forms a Judgment, and takes Meafures, according to the Difcoveries which they make. It compares Things one with another, and choofes them, if they are good; or neglects them, if they are indifferent; or fhuns them, if they are bad. It difcovers a firft Caufe, the Maker, Contriver, and Preferver of all Things; and therefore it teaches Submiffion to his Will, Admiration of his Wifdom and Power, and Thankfulnefs for his Goodnefs and Mercy. It diftinguishes Subjects from Slaves;

Slaves; and fhews the Lovelinefs of Liberty, and the Vilenefs of Vaffalage: It flews that, as to political Privileges, all Men are born equal; and confequently, that he who is no better than others, can have no Right to command others, who are as good as himfelf; unlefs for the Ends of their own Intereft and Safety, they confer that Right upon him, during their good Pleafure, or bis good Behaviour.

R E A S O N has invented all Science; pointed out all Commerce, and framed all Schemes for focial Happinefs. It has polifhed Mankind, fet the Greeks above the Barbarians, and the Romans above the Greeks. It has been observed, in Praise of its great Power and Excellency, by a celebrated Moralist, that we have not fufficient Strength to follow our Reason as far as it would carry us.

To REASON we are beholden for all the Comforts and Conveniencies of Life, next after the first Author of them; and for our Defence against the Assaults of Beasts of Prey, and of one another; and for our Shelter from the Inclemencies of uncertain Weather, freezing us, or fcorching us, according to the different Seasons of the Year. The Earth, with all its Abundance, affords but rude and unpleasing Entertainment, without the Dexterity and Refinements of Reason. Thus, even the Gifts of Nature, before they arrive at us, and are made fit for our Use, become become also the Gifts of REASON. Without REASON, we had lived like the Brute Creation, upon raw Fruit, tasteles Herbs. and the cold Spring; or exposed to the mercilefs laws of Famine, when a fevere Winter had frozen up the Stores of the Earth, and locked the Waters under Ice.

REASON checks tumultuous Passion, the greatest Enemy to the Peace of the Mind, and to the Peace of Society. Hence it has been observed, by the same Moralist, that all our tational Purluits are temperate Pursuits; and that what we purfue with REABON, we never purfue with Violence. REASON fubdues Angers and prevents Cruelty; it makes a Man lefs fierce than a Lyon, and lefs ravenous than a Bear. It is not human Shape, but human Reason, that places a Man above the Beasts of the Field, and lifts him into a Refemblance with God himself. Hence it is justly stiled Droine particula Aure; A Ray, or Impulle of the Divinity. And, in what Senfe can a Man be faid to be made after the Image of God, unlefs by his poffelling that KEAson, which is a divine Particle of the GODHEAD? We resemble not our MAKER in Person or Complexion; and therefore can only resemble him in R E A. son, and in Mercy, which is the Child of this Divine Reason.

Were we not rational Creatures, we could not be religions Creatures, but upon a Level with Brutes, to whom God has made no Re-

Revelation of himfelf, becaufe they want Reafon to difeern it, and to thank him for it. Revelation therefore prefuppofes Reafon, and addreffes it felf to Reafon; and God himfelf, by perfwading us, as he does in his Word, by the Voice of Reafon, appeals to our Reafon. We cannot glorify God but with our Understandings; and we are convinced of his Goodnefs before we adore it. To praife him, without Reafon, is a Contradiction, and an Impoffibility. The Devotion which he requires, must be free, rational and willing; and where it is not fo, it is Folly or Hypocrify.

Nor is there any Opposition between Reafon and Grace, whatever fome may weakly, or dishonestly, maintain. In Truth, Grace is never given, but where Reason was already given; and the former cannot subfist, where the latter does not.. We may have worldly Wifdom without Piety; but cannot posses Piety without Understanding ; nor does Grace, tho' given in the greatest Abundance, at all supply the ordinary Offices of Reason. We do not find that St. Luke was a better Physician, for having written a Gospel; or St. Paul a better Sailor, or better Tent-Maker, for being an Apostle. But neither could St. Luke have been an Evangelist, nor Sc. Paul an Apostle, unless God had given them Reafon as well as Grace. Indeed they are both the Gifts of God; only the One is ordinary, and the Other is extraordinary.

REASON

REASON, even without the Light of Revelation, teaches us to investigate Nature. and praife God for the Wonderfulness of his Works. It must judge of Revelation it felf. what is fo, and what not; and of the Words and Language, in which the Holy Oracles were at first convey'd; and of the Words and Language into which they were afterwards translated. Now Words, many of them, being obscure or equivocal, and signifying different Things to different Men, it is left to our Reason to determine, in what Sense these Words are to be understood. The Spirit of God has invented for us no new Ones, or fuch. as carry in their Sound certain and determinate Ideas, which cannot be mistaken, but must infallibly be the same to every Man.

By the Light of REASON we fee about us. It warns us againft Craft, and arms us againft Force; and the fame Reason, which commands us to believe in God implicitly, and obey him passfively, does also command us to trust to no Man without Inquiry, and to submit to no Man without Cause. Thus, what is our Duty in Relation to God, would be Madness in Relation to one another: The good GOD cannot deceive us; but MEN have Pride, Folly, Interest and Complexion, all confpiring to deceive themselves and others.

Our first Attempt to make Converts, is an Appeal to their REASON, by which they are to judge for themselves of the Reafonableness of our Religion, and of the Argu-* ments

ments which we bring for the Defence and Recommendation of our Religion : Which Method would be exceeding abfurd and difhoneft, if we did not fuffer them to judge of our Religion with the same Freedom, after they are come into it, as they did before they embraced it. This would be Trepanning one's Reafon into Captivity, with its own Affaltance; first to make u/e of it, and then to vote it useless : A strange inconsiftent Piece of Treachery, and a flat Contradiction to that Liberty with which CHRIST has made as free! As if we were to receive any System upon the Grounds of our Reafon, without which it never can be fincerely receiv'd, and then to reject our Reason upon the Grounds of our System !

Pray, how do we diffinguish the Beauty and Truth of the Gospel, from the Imposture and Abfurdity of the Alchoran, but by our Realm? How do we detect the impudent and senseles Doctrine of Tranfubstantiation, but by our Sense and Reason? Why did we, or how could we, leave Popery, and embrace the Refermation, but because our own private Reason told us; and Scripture. of which we made our felves the Judges, told us; that we left Slavery, Falshood, and Cruelty, for Truth, Freedom and Innocence? How did our Saviour prove himself the Son of God, but by Miracles, which every Eye faw, and every Ear heard? He appealed ro the Senfe and Reason of Mankind, and all were were convinced, that would be convinced. How do we know the Scripture to be the Word of God, but by the Deductions and Information of Reason? How can we prove our own Church, as by Law established, to be the pureft and best constituted Church in the World. but by the Testimony of impartial, disinterested REASON? For, it is plain, from the great Number of Gain-fayers, and Arians, that her genuine Sons have not the miraculous Gift of infpiring, from above, all Men with their own Orthodox Sentiments. How can we diftinguish Religion from Enthusiasm; Grace from Superstition; Faith from Credulity; the Love of the Church from the Love of Power; and the Authority of God from the Impolitions of Men; but by Reafon, or by the Scripture, interpreted by Realon ?

In fhort, all who are Friends to T_{RUTH} , are Friends to REASON, the Difcoverer and Champion of T_{RUTH} ; and none are Foes to Reafon, but those who have Truth and Reafon for their Foes. He, who has dark Purposes to serve, must use dark Means: Light would difcover him, and Reafon expose him: He must endeavour to shut out both; and make them look frightful, by giving them ill Names; for farther than Names the Vulgar inquire not.

From this Caufe, Religion and Liberty flourish, where Reason and Knowledge are encouraged; and where-ever the latter are fliffled,

The Independent Whig. 275 ftifled, the former are extinguished. In Turkey, Printing is forbid, Enquiry is dangerous, and Free speaking is CAPITAL; because they are all inconfistent with the MAHO-METANISM by Law established. Hence it comes to pais, that the wretched Turks are all flupidly ignorant, are all Slaves, all Infidels. Nor have the Papifts much Advantage to boast above the Mahometans. Their Guides and Governors lock up from them the Scripture, which is the Book of Knowledge: They teach them, that Ignorance is the Mother of Devotion: They banish Liberty, they brow-beat Reason, they perfecute Truth. In Confequence of all which, the deluded Votaries of the Romish Church are as ignorant as the Mahometans, as great Slaves, greater Idolaters, and greater Perfecutors; that is, they exceed the Turks in their Barbarity, who exceed most others.

Here, in England, why are we free, why Protestants; but because we are guided by Reason, and judge for our felves? And none amongst us complain of the Liberty of the Press, or the Growth of Free-Thinking, but those who would found a Dominion upon Stupidity and Perfecution. Vile and Woful is that Caufe, which must be supported by Ignorance and Misery! And yet there are those in Great-Britain, who, tho' they wear a holy and venerable Livery, yet have the Boldness and Blasphemy to christen that impious Cause, the Cause of God and of his To Church. T 2

To conclude ; Scripture and Reafon, without which Scripture can have no Effect, are the only Tefts of every Fallhood and Impofture, and every Superstition. Suppose, for Example, a Reverend Doctor is touched with an odd Zeal for Bowing to the East; he ought to convince my Reafon that Bowing to the East is enjoined in Scripture, before he enjoins me to bow allo. If he fays, it is enjoined by the Authority of the Church; he then must fatisfy my Reafon, that the Scripture teaches the Church to teach her Members to make Bows. If he answers. that neither does the Scripture teach to bow to the Eaf, but that the Church thinks Bowing decent and edifying; he must then prove, by rational Evidence, that what every Church thinks decent is a Dury. If he replies, that this is only true of the one Or-thodox Church ; then he must prove that his Church is the fole Orthodox Church, according to the Rules of the Gofpel. And if the Doctor cannot do this to my Satisfaction, then there will be an End of his Argument for his Ecclefiaftical Bowings.

As we must judge from Scripture what is Orthodoxy; fo we must judge from Reason, what is Scripture.

Of the Peace of the Church.

T is a fhameful Infult upon our Understandings, that of fanctifying the most wicked Purposes and most cruel Actions with the most honeft and innocent Names; and yet nothing is more frequently practifed. Thus the worthy Name of RULER shall be profituted and pronounced aloud, to palliate and even to justify the Barbarities of a TYRANT; and that peaceable Word Obedience shall be forced to fignify an unmanly and unnatural Patience of Servitude. LAWS, which were intended to protect and encourage good Men, and to restrain and punish ill ones, are often perverted into deadly Instruments in the Hands of Robbers and Usurpers, against the Virtuous and the Harmless; and the Means of Prefervation are turn'd into Engines of Deftruction. Tz ftruction. The Lord's Anointed, which at first was only a Man approved and chosen by God himself to be the Ruler of his People, has been fince compelled to mean an over-grown Plunderer, who chose himself to be a Destroyer of God's People.

These are some Instances of the Abuse of Words in Civil Life. In Religion, the Abuse has been, if possible, still greater; of which I have given already many Proofs, and shall continue to give more in the Course of these Papers. I shall at present confine my self to a Phrase, which is indeed a very good one, but which I have never known applied to a good Purpose in my Time, nor at any Time before; I mean, that of the Peace of the Church.

By the Peace of the Church, when it is taken in a rational and warrantable Senfe, I take to be meant no more than this; namely, That any Number of People, who have agreed among themfelves upon Terms of religious Communion, thall quietly enjoy the facred Privilege of Meeting together to worship God; and whoever diffurbs them, let his Title or Pretensions be what they will, is a Breaker of the Peace of the Church. Or if any other Society greater than the former, and of longer standing, think fit to be provok'd at this religious Indulgence, and call it a Breach of the Peace of the Church, they bring home the Charge upon themfelves; who, by breaking the Peace of the Church, mean only the not fubmitting to their own proud proud Spirit, which finds Peace only in the Exercife of fuccessful Tyranny. Or if the fmaller Society should usurp Dominion over the Thoughts of its own Members, and demand of them a Belief contrary to the Light of their Minds, or a Behaviour contrary to the Dictates and Conviction of their Confciences; they justify the Claims of the greater Society over themfelves, and leave themfelves without Excuse for having left it.

A Man, who leaves the Communion of any particular Church, does no more break the Peace of that Church, than a Man who leaves the Realm, breaks the Peace of the Realm: or than a Man breaks the Peace of a Family, who, whilft the reft dine upon Flesh, does himself dine separately upon Fish. But he does evidently break the Peace of the Church, who would by Violence keep any one in that Church; forafmuch as, by fo doing, he violates Confcience, which is the Seat and Centre of Religion, there being no Religion where there is no Confcience, and confequently no real Church. He who prays without Book, does not break the Peace of the Church; provided he forces no Body to pray as he prays : But he who would compel others to pray by his Pattern, against their own Liking, does not only break the Peace of the Church, but destroys, as far as he can, its very Effence; becaufe a Church is conflituted by the voluntary Devotion performed by Two or Three met together in Chrift's T ₄

Christ's Name. If it is not valuatary, it is no Devotion; God will be worshipped in Spirit and in Truth: And if it is voluntary, no Man can controul it.

Hitherto, for the most part, the Peace of the Church has been unnaturally made to fignify a blind Submission to the Dictates of Priests in Matters of Devotion; and a blind Acceptance of all their Schemes, Dreams and Forgeries in Matters of Faith. Now here is no Church at all; but on one hand, the Invention and Impolition of deceitful and tyrannical Men, defacing and misrepresenting Religion, and wresting it to ferve their own wicked Purposes; and, on the other hand, a Tribe of Fools and Slaves, facrificing their Senfes, their Freedom, and their Confeiences to Antichrift, and worshipping him, and not God. If one of these groveling Bigots refumes his Eyes and breaks his Fetters, he, forfooth, is a Schismatick, he breaks the Peace of the Church.

Why will thefe Men, fo famed for being clofe and crafty, be fo plainly fhewing us; that by the Church they mean only Themfelves; and by the Worship of God, they mean only the Worship of their own Perfons and Authority? But they make this manifest, as by a Thousand Instances, fo particularly by by this; namely, that the greatest Rebel to God shall find good Quarter, provided he be but a good Subject to them; and the most conficientious Servant of the Living God shall fhall find no Mercy, if he difputes to bend to their Usurpations, and to swallow their Inventions for divine Oracles. It is no matter whether you live like a Christian or no, provided you do not break the Peace of the Church; but if you do, your being a Saint will not atone for it, nor stand you in the least stead.

If I do all I can to pleafe God, I fhall certainly pleafe him. Now, if the Clergy had the fame View and Defign, my pleafing God would alfo pleafe them. In confequence of this, if I thought my Abode and Communion with them a Sin, it is their Duty to encourage and exhort me to leave them, and to obey God rather than Men. But far from this, the Plea of pleafing God is often no Way of pleafing them; and they feldom fail to damn a Man for thofe very Actions, by which, through Chrift, he fhall be fav'd; namely, deferting Authority for Confcience, and finding out the Truth for himfelf.

A stupid Servitude to unbounded Dominion, supports the Peace of the Church in some Countries, just as Ignorance, Poverty, and many Dragoons do the Peace of the State in others.

The breaking of the Peace of the Church, as the fame is generally underflood by the ignorant People, and always by the ambitious Clergy, is both a rational and a religious Duty, and the beft Action a Man can perform. That, Man must be as void of Reafon fon as of Religion, who quarrels with me for having different Faculties from him, and a different Way of conceiving Things. He might with as much Propriety quarrel with me for having a different Complexion, and a different Palate, neither of which is in my own Power.

If I christen my Child without the Sign of the Cross, or a human Form of Words; how do I, by this, break the Peace of the Church or of good Neighbourhood? But he, who oppresses or calumniates me for thus doing my Duty, by discharging my Conscience, commits an Outrage both upon Humanity and Conscience; and not only breaks the Peace of the Church and of Society, but by his Want of Charity declares his Want of Christianity.

If I follow the beft Light I can get, I do my Dury; and if I do my Duty, I pleafe God. And who fhall dare to tell me, that though I pleafe God, yet I break the Peace of the Church? Would not this be to own, that the Will of God and the Will of the Church are oppofite Things?

I do not believe, that there are upon Earth two Men who think exactly alike upon every Subject; and yet our different Taftes in Meat, Drink, Building and Drefs, make not the leaft Difference in human Society; nor is it likely they ever will, unlefs we eftablifh by Law, and tack Preferments to One particular Mode of Eating, Drinking, Building and Dreffing; then indeed we may foon expect expect to fee the establish'd and orthodox Mafon, Cook and Taylor, very zealous and loud for Conformity and Penalties. But at prefent, Ten Men in Ten different Suits, can dine together upon Ten different Dishes, and give Ten different Opinions upon one Piece of Painting or Architecture, without breaking Friendship or good Humour. If indeed they are drunk either with Wine or Zeal, they will be apt to fight about the Church or fomething elfe: But why Men in their Senfes should clamour and quarrel at their Neighbour's particular Confcience, any more than at his particular Palate, no Reafon can be affigned, but the Infatuations of Priestcraft operating upon its Brat Bigotry. Is not Confcience dearer to a Man than his Palate or his Fancy in Cloaths? God can receive no Worship that comes not from the Confcience; and he who commands you to follow him against your Conscience, commands you in effect to provoke God out of Complaifance to Man: and rather than do this, I hope it is lawful to break the Peace of the Church. Where the Church quadrates with a Man's Confcience. he will of Courfe comply with the Church; but where it does not, he is in Confcience bound to defert it; otherwife to be a Conformist, he must be a Hypocrite.

Can these Men be Christians, who demand Submission to their Dictates, in Opposition to the Dictates of Conscience, and at the Peril of Salvation; and who, provided you obey * them, them, care not though you mock God? But if they will allow every Man to be fully perfunded in his own Mind, which is the Apoftle's Rule and Precept, then the Cry of breaking the Peace of the Church, is an empty knavifh Cry.

Indifferent Things in Religion there are none; and therefore the pretended Power of the Ecclefialticks to impole them, is wicked and ridiculous. If they are indifferent in their own Eyes, why are they impofed? And if they were indifferent in the Eyes of others, no Body would refuse them. But, if I diflike them, they are no longer indifferent to me; and if you lay any Stress upon them, they are no longer indifferent to you, But to oppress, imprison and ruin People for Things allowed to be indifferent, is such a Piece of Impudence, and wanton Cruelty, as cannot be described.

To call any Thing indifferent in Religion, is to own that it has nothing to do with Religion. Now, can any Reason be given why Religion should be interested in that, in which Religion has no Interest. Sure these Men mock us, and would seem to be in Jest, did not their Proceedings, when they have Power, shew them to be terribly in Earnest.

If I neglect a Ceremony or a Cringe, which I think a Reproach to Religion and Reafon; do I break the Peace of the Church, for thus doing Honour to Religion and Reafor t fon? Or is it not rather an Infult upon Both, and a manifest Breach of Charity, to use me ill for acting upon such righteous and laudable Motives? Do I break the Peace of the Church, in worshipping God after a Manner that I am verily persuaded be will accept? Or do I not rather disconsure him, in using that as Worship which my Mind tells me is no Worship, tho' it should be Established by Law?

In Popish and Mahometan Countries, you fee neither true Religion nor the Practice of it; and yet the Peace of the Church there is wonderfully well fecured by great Armies and Capital Penalties. Fire and Sword, Halters and Dungeons, are all employed to protect the Peace of the Church. And in every Nation under the Sun, where the Church enjoys the most profound Peace, the People enjoy the most profound Misery, Ignorance and Slavery. Civil and Religious Liberty are certain Signs of each other, and live and die rogether; but, I believe I may: lay it down for a Maxim, that in any Country where there is ne'er a Separatist from the Chnech, there is ne'er a Freeman in the State. To which Maxim I may venture to add another, namely, that in the Ecclefiastical Style. the PEACE OF THE CHURCH is but an. other Phrase for the POWER OF THE PRIESTS.

j. . . . NUMBER XXXVII. Wednesday, September 28. 1720. The Enmity of the High Clergy to the BIRTE. E can never fufficiently admire and adore the infinite Goodness of God to Mankind, in giving him a perfect Rule or Law for his Direction and Conduct ; and delivering it in Books and Scriptures, which are plain and eafy in all Things necessary to be known to every one, who shall make a proper Use of his natural Faculties, and not weakly trust a Pope, or some Body like a Pope, for their Interpretation, who will ever have ambitious or other wordly Purposes to ferve, by impofing false and wicked Meanings on those facred Writings.

How ought we then to value our Bibles, daily to read them, and fearch our felves for those those Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge; and how jealous should we be of trusting our Temporal and Eternal Happiness to the Judgment and Conduct of others, who, for the most Part, from imbibed Prejudices or worse Designs, represent the most ridiculous, chimerical, absurd, contradictory and immoral Opinions, to be fundamental Articles of Christianity!

Notwithstanding, fuch is the Power and crafty Malice of the Popish and popishly affected Clergy, that in most Countries they have either taken the Bible (even on the Pretence of Religion it felf) out of the Peoples Hands, or have made it useles there; and such is the fenseles Stupidity of the gaping Herd, that they observe not the Injury done them, and not only suffer this worst fort of Robbery, Violence, and Injustice, but kiss the Rod, and esteem themselves to be kindly and religiously dealt with.

In all Popish Countries, before the Reformation, the Bible was lock'd up in the learned Languages; which effectually hindered the People from being acquainted with that Holy Book; the Priest faying, and the poor ignorant Laity believing, That it was Heretical, and the very Foundation of all Herefy and Schism, for the People to read the Bible. Indeed, after the Reformation, fome Translations were made of it into the vulgar Languages of particular Popish Countries; but were the People ever the better for it? No fuch fuch Matter, I can assure you; for no one was suffered to read those Translations without a special Licence, which was dangerous to ask for, and rendred a Man suspected of heretical Pravity; and the Priest never graneed it but to those, who either would not or could not make any use of it; that is, to such as he well knew were pre-engaged by strong Prejudices, or stronger Interests, to favour the facerdotal Power, and who durst not understand the Word of God differently from the Clergy, who called themselves the Church.

But in other Popilh Countries, and particularly in Spain, the Bible is not extant in the vulgar Tongue, and confequently must be unknown alrogether to the People, who are incapable of reading it even by Licence; which can fearely be called a Privilege lost, confidering how few durft ask, or can get Licences, who they are that can obtain them, and what Danger they would incur in making a right Use of them.

Effectial Care is taken to prevent the Importation of any Translation of the Bible in these Countries 3 and no sooner does any Ship of a Protestant Nation come to Anchor in any Popish Port, where the Inquistion prevails, but she is visited and search'd narrowly for heretical Books, and particularly for Bibles, by the Officers of that Court, which are immediately carried to the Inquistion, and there burn'd.

The

The brave old Marshal Schomberg, when he was last at Lisbon, told a Friend of mine, with Tears in his Eyes, That having, when he came ashore there, left a Dutch Bible (which had been his Grandfather's) upon the Table of his Cabin, it had been carried from the Custom-House to the Inquisition; and that though he had fent to the chief Inquisitor, and had spoke to him himself for it, he had not been able to recover it.

Let us now approach nearer home, and fee how Protestants are used in respect to reading the Bible. And in order to confider this Matter, I shall premise Two Things. First, That the End and Defign of reading the Bible, is to find out the Will of God, or the Meaning God holds forth to us therein, that we may regulate our Belief, and form our Practice thereby. And, Secondly, I premife, That to fuch reading the Bible, it is requisite that we should not be prejudiced by Education, in behalf of any Fancies; that we should pay no Regard to the Authority of weak and fallible Men; that no Opinions fhould be imposed on us as Christian Opinions; as for Example, Confubstantiation, Predestination, the peculiar Opinions of Arius or Socinus, and other Doctrines, pretended to be derived from the Word of God; and that no Man should be hurt in his Body, Name or Goods, for understanding the Bible in that Senfe which he thinks to have been intended by God, but that we should act, and IJ and be permitted to act, in this Matter, as we do in understanding another Book : For if fuch Arts, and Crafts, and Force are used, to make Men understand the Bible in a Lutheran, Presbyterian, or Socinian Senfe, as form Mens Minds fo strongly to those Senses, that not a Man in the Countries, where any of those Opinions prevail, does, or dares differ from the Sentiments of the Publick, or hurts himself any way by so doing; that Man is not properly allowed to read the Bible, or to take his Religion from thence, but receives his Religion from his Lutheran, or Presbyterian, or Socinian Prieft, and might as well take his Religion from a Popilh Prieft, without using any Bible at all. For what is the difference between taking a Popish Priest's Word for the Senfe of the Bible, about the Infallibility and Authority of the Pope and the Church, or the Doctrine of Transubstantiation, (which Bible the Priest keeps folely in his own Hands,) and taking a Presbyter's Word, or being influenced by him, as to the Senfe of the Bible, in respect to the Doctrines of the Divine Right of Presbyters and Predefination? (which Bible he does, for Form's Sake, put into the Laymens Hand, but keeps the Senfe in his own.) If there is any material Difference, it is in this, that the Popilh Priest acts a fair, open and confiftent Part, in denying the Ufe of the Bible; and that the Presbyter does the fame thing hypocritically; and that the Presbyterian LayThe Independent Whig. 291 Layman makes a more fhameful and contradictory Submiffion to his Presbyter, than a Popifh Layman does to his Prieft.

When the Minds of the Youth, and their Paffions, are thus engaged in behalf of certain human Compositions; when they are taught to reverence Men, who are hired and paid to maintain those Compositions; are bred up to hate the Persons of Men of other Perswaftons, to abhor their Doctrines, and think it matter of just Difgrace to change the Principles of their Education: And when all this is taught as the Dictates of the Holy Scriptures; must they not, under these Prejudices, read the Scriptures, without underfanding them ? Is not that Impartiality, which is neceffary towards finding out the true Senfe of a Book, intirely taken away? And is not a Partiality, which must lead Men to miltake the Senfe of a Book, introduced ?

But even this is nothing to what those must go through, if they dare to understand the Bible differently from what is vulgarly understood in the Country where they live: They will be deemed Hereticks; which is fupposed to include every thing that is bad in it: It makes every thing appear odious and deformed; disfolves all Friendships, and extinguishes all former kind Sentiments, however just and well deferv'd. And from the time that a Man is deemed an Heretick, 'tis Charity to act against all Rules of Charity. And the more Men violate the Laws of God in dealing with him. 'tis in their Opinion, doing God greater Service. And besides being thus put into a Bear-Skin, and made a Scare-Crow; what is called Herefy, undoes Men in their Trades and Callings, fubjects them to Ecclefiaftical and Civil Profecutions, and deprives them of all Preferments in the Church or State. Whereas a Perfon who understands the Bible, as he is led by the Nofe to underftand it, which is for the most part falsly, has not only fair Quarter and Reputation, and all manner of Preferments in Church and State attending him; but may be as lewd as he pleafes, provided he has a sufficient Portion of Zeal for his Orthodoxy, or rather for the Orthodox Prieft.

Is it not therefore a mere mock Show, to recommend to Men the reading of the Scriptures; if, when they read them, they must understand them just as their Master, the Priest, tells them, under the Penalties of all the foregoing Inconveniences, and the foregoing Rewards, which the Prieft, by his Power and Influence, beftows ? Bishop Bramhall tells us plainly, (and too many of our modern Divines agree with him) that the promiscuous Licence which Protestants give to all forts to read and interpret the Scripture, is more prejudicial, nay, pernicious, than the over-rigorous Restraint of the Romanists: Which is Protestant Priestcraft with a witnefs! For, as Mr. Chillingworth most judicioufly ciously observes, He that would usurp an ab-folute Lordship and Tyranny over any People, need not put himself to the Trouble and Difficulty of abrogating and disannulling the Laws made to maintain the common Liberty, or of locking them up in an unknown Tongue from the People; for he may compass his own Defign as well, if he can get the Power and Authority to interpret them as he pleafes; if he can rule his People by his Laws, and his Laws by his Lawyers. Nay, the more expedite, and therefore the more likely way to be fucce (sful, is to gain the Opinion and Esteem of the publick and authorized Interpreter of them : For by this means he presses the Laws into his Service, to advance bis Deligns; and can, in Accommodation to the Opinion Men have of the Excellency of the Laws contained in the Scriptures, with a fort of Grace, put a Crown on their Head, and a Reed in their Hands, and bow before them, and cry, Hail King of the Jews; and pretend a great deal of Esteem, Respect, and Reverence to them, while he is in a more effectual manner mifleading the People about their Meaning, than if he deftroy'd the Scriptures themselves, or lock'd them up in an unknown Tongue from the People.

Of Penance and Religious Revellings.

Have, in Two former Papers, confidered the Nature, Ufe, and Confequences of Religious Faftings: I fhall, in this, enquire a little into the Merits of Penance, and the Devotion of Feftivals; a Couple of potent Engines in the Hands of Churchmen.

Joy and Sorrow proceeding, as they do, from certain Caufes which neceffarily produce them; the one troubles the Imagination, and the other delights it, whether we will or no. They are different Names given to different Operations of the Animal Spirits, which bring to God Almighty no voluntary Worship, and confequently no Worship at all. The fame Diforder in the Blood or Nerves, which difcovers it felf in Sighs and Groans, would, in in a greater Degree, bring forth Rage and Convulsions, which are not the Symptoms of a Gofpel-Spirit, but rather the Marks of Spirits disposses' in the Gospel. People under Trouble, or in the Spleen, are too apt to mistake their bodily or mental Diforders for the Workings of Divine Grace; as if the wife and mild Spirit of God delighted to play childifh and mischievous Pranks with weak and unhappy Men, by filling them with wild Freaks or cruel Agonies. I doubt there are few of these Sort of People, who can give a Reafon why the great God should be better pleafed with a forrowful Heart, than an aking Head.

If God Almighty is pleafed with our afflicting our felves, he must be pleased best when we afflict our felves most; and a greater Degree of Suffering must beget a greater Portion of his Favour: And confequently, the cutting our felves with Knives, as did the Priests of BAAL, must be more acceptable to him, than the bare whipping our felves with Rods, as do the Priests of ROME, &c. By the fame Rule, if the endangering of one's Life be well pleafing to him, the deftroying of one's Life must be more pleasing to him; and Despair and Self-Murther are more grateful Instances of Duty and Devotion to the God of Mercy, than barely being afraid of him, and barely making our Lives miferable. The pious Confequence of all which must be, that the bleffed and beneficent God, who is is the Giver of all Good, is the Author of all Evil and all Mifery; and the Maker and Preferver of Mankind, who is the Father of Mercies, is alfo the Deftroyer of Mankind, and the Father of Cruelties.

Nor is this Reafoning fo strange, or these Conclusions fo unnatural, as fome may ignorantly imagine; fince the Priefts, who, for the godly Ends of Dominion and Gain, were the first Inventers of Sacrifices and Penances. have frequently proceeded fo far in their inhuman and diabolical Craft, as to butcher Men to appeafe their Deity. And indeed. when once you had taken their Word for the divine Will, you renounced all Right and Pretence to judge for your felf, or to dispute any Measure of Devotion which they had thought fit to prescribe. Thus, for Example, if the Priefts told you, that their God gracioufly long'd for a Bonfire, and had, in his divine Goodness, appointed you to be the principal Faggot; as averfe as your carnal Spirit might be to this great Honour, yet you could not decline it, without the terrible Imputation of Disobedience, or Apostacy, and probably of Atheifm: For, having given the Priest the Property of your Body, your Thoughts and your Behaviour, you were become A L L the Priest's.

The Duty of Penance is, according to certain Churchmen, a very neceffary Duty: But there is another Duty quite opposite to it, and yet very neceffary alfo; and that is, the

the Business and Duty of Festivals. These two may indeed feem Contradictions to each other, and to the Eye of unfanctify'd Reafon are fo; but where they are enjoined by Church-Authority, it is our Duty to think them orthodox and confistent, and so to be merry or melancholly, and to weep or laugh, just as Mother-Church COMMANDS us, in defiance of our Constitutions and our Understandings. We are to mourn on Good Friday, because on that Day our Saviour died; though, if he had not, we could not have been faved: And we are to take our Belly full of Meat and Mirth on Easter Sunday, because Christ role on that Day from the Dead; though it was impossible for him to have continued there.

PENANCE is a ghostly Punishment impofed by a Priest, or voluntarily suffered by a Penitent, for some Offence real or imagined. Sometimes it confifts in Abstinence from certain Meats, which, it feems, are not fo much in Favour with Almighty God, as are others : A Piece of Cod, for Example, with rich Sauce, is lefs favoury in God's Sight, than a plain Piece of Beef and Cabbage, and a greater Atonement for Sin. Sometimes it is performed by Change of Apparel; and a dirty Hair-Cloth is more pious and merito. rious, than a clean Holland Shirt. Sometimes it is perform'd by rambling to fome Church, to stare at a wooden Saint, and kifs an old Coffin. Sometimes this holy Severity reffs refts altogether upon your Pocket, and God's Wrath is fervently and fuccessfully bribed away by the prevailing Intercession of some potent Pieces to his Priest, who will infallibly perfuade him to overlook your Guilt, and be good Friends with you. Sometimes you are to fcarify your Back-fide for the Healing of your Soul, and reconcile your felf to Heaven by the Dint of Lashing; which will fometimes ferve for another Purpose; and fo a Scourge made of Broom, is made the Scourge of God. But, if drawing Blood on this Occasion be fo pious, because fo painful, I do not fee why the Drawing of a Tooth would not do as well; or why the Omnipotent would not be as propitious to desolate Gums, as to blifter'd Loins?

So much for praifing God by being Sorrowful; in which Cafe, Sicknefs and Pain are great Bleffings. Now for the Method of pleafing him, by being Joyful; in which Cafe, Feftivity and Merriment are great Bleffings too! So that, we fee, the Almighty is highly pleas'd with both our Mifery and our Happinefs.

Worldly Bleffings are, no doubt, the Gifts of God, and we ought to receive them with joyful Hands and grateful Hearts; and Religion, and Philofophy too, teaches us to fubmit to Afflictions and Calamities with Patience and Humility, and to confider them either as Effects of our own Intemperance and Folly, as the neceffary and inevitable Concomitants comitants of human Nature, or the Strokes of Providence intended for our Correction and Amendment; nor do I deny but it may be fometimes lawful and expedient too, mechanically to prepare our Minds with Difpofitions fuitable to the Actions they are to produce.

Every one's Experience flews him, that his Mind and Body operate upon one another: Both are improved by Exercife and moderate Food, raifed and exhilerated by Mufick or Diversion, enervated with Sickness, oppress'd withDrunkenness and Gluttony, fatigued with Labour, and often all the noble Faculties of the former are quite destroyed and extinguished by Distemper and Accidents.

It may be therefore not only lawful, but our Duty, by proper Food, agreeable Conversation, and due Exercise, to prepare and keep our felves in fuch a Temperament, as may best qualify us for cool Reflection, and enable us in the best Manner to exert our Faculties; but from what Principle of Reafon or Religion do we find, that we must work up our Paffions beyond their natural Pitch, and endeavour to destroy the Serenity and Calm of our Minds, to do Homage to the Deity; who will accept no Service but what flows from a fincere and upright Heart, elevated and raifed by a due Contemplation of the divine Perfections, and the Benefits received from our great Creator, or humbled by the Confideration of human Infirmities; and

not intoxicated with various Musick, pompous Shews, delicious Banquets, or Bottles of Brandy; nor depressed or sunk with Mortifications, Penances, Fasting, or unwholefome Diet; all which have nothing to do with true Relgion, though they have been always essential Parts of every false one.

Let us now fee what fort of Devotion these Hely Days produce.

Idleness is the Nurse of Vice, and fills the Taverns and the Stews with many debauch'd Cuftomers, who, had they any Thing elfe to do, or would do any Thing elfe, might live as chafte and fober as any of their Neighbours, that are fo, because they are well employ'd. The common People think of a Holy \mathcal{D}_{ay} with no other View, than that they shall then have their Belly-full of Ale, and Rambling, and Idleness. Perhaps, in the Morning, they hear a Sermon, which is often calculated to drive Peace and Religion out of their Souls, and to fill them with Bitterness and Rage against those who provoke them, by being fober Subjects, and confcientious Christians. Next comes a gluttonous Meal, and a Load of Liquor, which adds fresh Fewel to the orthodox Zeal they imbib'd in the Morning, and infpires them to deface or demolish Places facred to God's Worship, and to affront and infult every fober Man, who has not been at the Brandy-fhop, and will not pronounce Hell and Damnation according to the Word of Command. After all this Mischief and Bravery, thev they have Recourfe to more Liquor, over which they fwear and triumph upon their late Orthodox Exploits. Probably, at laft they vomit up their Devotions in Drury-lane, and finish the Holy Day in a Bawdy-House. Next Morning, the Sum of the Reckoning will be this; They have lost a Day, and with it their Innocence: They have risked their Health and their Souls: They have provoked God; and in his Name, committed Outrages upon their Neighbours. Sweet Jesus ! Is this the Spirit of thy Church? Can these be thy Followers, or the Followers of thy Servants ?

Upon the Whole; a Man may ply his Imagination with black and difmal Ideas, till he has made his Heart as fad and forrowful as he pleafes: He may alfo, by playing with his Fancy, and by amufing it with agreeable and humorous Images, render his Soul as merry as he pleafes; and by these Means create either Comedy or Tragedy within himfelf: But neither is Wantonnels of Spirit any Worship of God; nor is this Gloominefs of Soul any Devotion to him. The Mahometan Dervifes and Indian Brabmans exceed us by far in Fasting and Austerities : It is incredible what voluntary Torture and Plague they undergo in the Way of Religion. And as to godly Ranting and Roaring, the old Pagan Bacchanals were as mad and as drunk on their Holy Days, as we of the Establish'd Church can be on ours.

ELIGION, as the Popilh Priefts have disfigured it, is only a wick-R ed and ambitious Scheme, contrived by them, to fet themfelves above the People. This is fo true, that whereever the Priests have the most Power, Religion has the leaft. Being neither appointed by the Law of Nature, nor the Law of Chrift, they are only Intruders into the Affairs of Religion; which is therefore under an Usurpation, while it is under them. Sø that their Foundation being false, they are in most Countries reduced to support it by false Facts, and deceitful Appearances. And as they are thus oblig'd to cover Fraud with Fraud, and support one Violence by another, it is no Wonder that we find it often fo carefully hidden under Inventions, and deformed by

The Independent Whig. 303 by Abfurdities; and all those Inventions and Absurdities defended by Cruelty and a strong Hand.

This Arange Jumble of Fictions they have the Front to call by the Holy Name of Religion, and gravely to create Faith out of Lies: And with the groveling Multitude, whofe Eyes are in the Earth, all this passes off well enough; They have fearful Hearts and fimple Heads, and fo ftand always prepar'd to be frighten'd or deluded at the priestly Word of Command. But because the Craft lies subject to daily Detection from rational and difcerning Men, its Champions have rais'd loud Cries and ftrong Prejudices against the Two principal Weapons, by which their Caufe is most annoy'd; I mean the Weapons of REASON and RIDICULE; the former of which difcovers Truth, and the latter exposes Fraud.

What civil Treatment these Reverend Seers afford to Reason, I have shewn else-where; and shall handle in this Paper, the Business of Ridicule, which they always represent as impious and profane, whenever it meddles with the Cassock; and yet always exercise it according to their Talents, without Mercy, when the waggish grave Creatures are pleafed to be Arch upon Dissenters or Free-Thinkers.

To them is no doubt owing, that frequent but false Saying, now in the Mouth of evety Ignorant; namely, that it is an eafy Matter

ter to make a Jest upon Religion or the Priestbood; which, whether they are aware of it or not, is faying that their Religion and its Priests are a Jest. For he, upon whom the Jest is made, does, in Essect, make the Jest; otherwise it is none. Religion and Virtue cannot be ridicul'd; and whoever attempts it, by shewing himself a Villain, raises Horror instead of Laughter, which is the End of Ridicule. But the vending of Grimace for Religion, and setting up for Piety without Virtue, are the natural Subjects of Jeer and Merriment.

Whoever fears Ridicule, deserves Ridicule. He is confcious of a weak Side, and knows he cannot stand a Laugh. This is the Cafe of facred Grimace, or Gravity, which Men of Sense see to be only a studied Restraint laid upon the Muscles of the Face, and the Joints of the Body, and teaching them to move, not by the Impulses of Nature, and the Motions of the Heart, but by Defign, either to attract Admiration, or obtain Credit, or gain Followers. And therefore facred Grimace dreads Men of Senfe. However. it is never to be fet aside; for this same affected Demureness, ridiculous as it is in it felf, is a folemn Bait to eatch the Mobb, whofe Refpect always follows their Wonder. The Vulgar are caught, like Woodcocks, by the Eyes, and led, like Calves, by the Ears; Shew and Sound lead their fat Heads Captive. It is therefore no Won-

Wonder, that in Popifh Countries, a fhewy Chancel, a curious tall Steeple, gilded Organs, and a delicate Ring of Bells, keep the Many on the Parfon's fide, and make them all good Churchmen; and always get the better of a plain Religion, that has its Abode only in the Heart, and wants all the above-mention'd Marks of the true Church. Befides all this, there are more Mirth and Holy Days in their Orthodox Faith, than in the contrary Scheme, which obliges Men to earn Heaven with the Sweat of their Brows, and take Pains to be faved.

Thefe, however, are but fmall Inftances of Ridicule, taken from the Force and Grimace of an external Religion. I shall here give Instances much more confiderable, as well as much more ridiculous. Do we not fee the pretended Successors of the Apostles, ať home and elfewhere, inflead of making Tents, or converting the World, living voluptuoufly, and promoting the Excife? Do we not frequently fee the Ambassadors of God, sent to promote Virtue and Peace, and the Obfervance of his Laws, promoting Strife, frequenting debauch'd Houses, rooking after Wealth, and plaguing and reviling their Neighbours? Do we not fee holy Men, who have the Call of the Spirit, rioting in all the Works of the Flesh? Do they not buy Livings with Money, and then claim them by divine Right? Do they not chop and jockey away poor Parishes for fuch as are richer, and х and yet pretend to have upon their Hands the Cure of Souls; tho', by fuch vile Bargaining, they shew that they value as little those Souls they have just bought, as they do those they have lately fold? Do not many of them, tho' they are void of all Merit, vet demand great Respect; and tho' ignorant, pretend to teach, and to reveal God's Will, which is already reveal'd, and yet live as the' there was no God? And do they not, without obeying God, fet up to command Men? Do they not feek Honour from their Cloth, which yet they diffionour ? And do they not, for the blackeft Crimes, claim San-Auary from the Church, which Church is the People, which People they abuse and deceive? Do they nor pretend to mend others, without being better than others, but in Truth more idle and proud than all others; two Qualities neither fuited to the Welfare of Religion nor of human Society? Do they not flatter and support the worst of Tyrants; plague and diffrefs, and often deftroy the best of Kings; and in both Cases, do they not bely the Holy Ghost, and pervert his Meaning? Do they not pretend to be appointed for the Good of Mankind, and yet always make Mankind, where-ever they have Power, thoroughly miferable, bafe, poor, ignorant, and wicked? And finally, do they not invent vile Lies for vile Ends, and then blafphemoufly make God Almighty to father them ?

Here

Here is fuch a motly Mixture of opposite Principles and Practices, as will always render those, who are chargeable with them, the Contempt or Abhorrence of all Men who have Eyes and Understanding. Jest and Scorn will fubfift as long as their Caufes fubfift; and Clergymen, of all others, will be most exposid to them, while they continue to deferve them; because more Modesty, Truth and Confiftency may be expected from them than any others. It is but a Piece of Justice due to Religion, to ridicule those, who, as far as they can, ridicule Religion, tho' they fet up for its Defenders. Ridicule, when it has no longer Matter to feed on, will die of it felf; and the Clergy, to avoid it, have no more to do, but not to deferve it: But to go on complaining, without amending, is to nourith Raillery and Satire, by their own Actions. But as the Reforming themfelves is a Practice feldom known among High Churchmen; Clamour, Lies and Oppression are the conftant Remedies they apply to the great Grievances of Wit and Ridicule, as often as they meddle, or feem to meddle, with the Cloth. This will abundantly appear from the following Instance, which will also thew the wonderful Vigilance and Jealoufy of Churchmen, in Behalf of the Trade.

Moliere having, in his Plays, brought upon the Stage Characters from the higheft Quality and Professions in France, without offending either; drew in his Tartuffe, an X 2 excel-excellent and firong Picture of a Hypocrite, who, the carefully diffinguished from a Man fincerely religious, yet happen'd to refemble the Churchmen fo much, that they raifed a terrible Outery against the Play; and, according to their laudable Custom, lugg'd Heaven, Head and Shoulders, into their Quarrel. Tartuffe was, it feems, their Reprefentative General, and in ridiculing his godly Grimaces and stoical Devotion, Moliere, they faid, ridiculed them. In fine, by exposing the concealed Villain and Debauchee, the whole Posse of the Priests thought themselves expos'd.

Zealous therefore for the Dignity of the Caflock, and juftly apprehending that a Contempt upon Hypocrify, would bring a Contempt upon the Order, they applied to the Court; I fay to the Court, where, by a religious Subferviency to the Ambition, Luft, and all the Rogueries of the Great, this fort of Creature always finds Friendship and Countenance. That arbitrary and debauched Court could refuse the Priests nothing; and the Play was forbid. Thus the Tartuffes of the Church, redeem'd from Scorn the Tartuffe of the Stage: The Picture was fecur'd from being shewn, by the Number, Clamour, and Interest of the Originals.

Not content to rail with all due Clerical Bitterness against this Comedy, and curfe the ingenious Author by Word of Mouth; they detach'd one from their Body to curfe him him in Print. This Christian Author, without ever having feen the Play, pronounced it diabolical : He affirmed, that Moliere had a Devil, that he was a Devil Incarnate, a Devil in Man's Shape, a Libertine, an Atheift, and one who ought to be burn'd in this World. as he would affuredly be damn'd in the nexr. For the Vengeance of these Messengers of Peace never stops at the Death of their Victim; nor will they allow their Maker to have more Mercy than themfelves. To fhew how justly thefe holy Perfons were alarm'd on this Occafion, I shall here give a Sketch of Tartuffe's Character, as drawn in that Play. He is a Fellow, who, from his godly Out-fide and great Poverty, is taken by an honeft Gentleman, credulous and devout, into his Family, and permitted to govern it. He is a great Glutton, and a great Pretender to Fasting; a great Despiser of Money, but rooks all he can from his deluded Patron. He will not speak to my Lady's Maid till he has covered her Bubbies with his Handkerchief, fo afraid is the Saint of Temptation; but at the fame Time he tempts my Lady her felf to Adultery, and endeavours to debauch his Benefactor's Wife. with Heaven in his Mouth. The Gentleman's Son difcovers to his Father thefe Solicitations of the Hypocrite, which he had overheard; and the Lady owns and confirms them; but neither of them is believed : The poor bewitch'd Man cries, You are all Enemies to the god-X 3 godly Tartuffe; and tells him that to make him Amends, he will give him his Daughter, and fettle his Houfe and Estate upon him. The Will of the Lord be done, fays the Hypocrite. Accordingly, by an inftant Deed, to the apparent Ruin of his Family, he makes this godly Villain Heir of all he has, with a Right of prefent Possellion. The Lady, not knowing what was done, does, by putting her Husband under a Table, make him a Witnefs of the Holy Lecher's Defigns and Importunity. He is by this convinced; but when alham'd of himfelf, and enrag'd at the Ingrate, he bids him get out of his Houfe; No, Sir, fays Tartuffe, It is your Turn to get out; the House is mine, and you shall know it; I will be revenged of you, on Behalf of Heaven, which you would wound thro my Sides. Behold an Orthodox Pattern of the usual Claim of Divine Right to the Wages of Villainy and Delusion !

All this Behaviour, and these Speeches, were such manifest Marks of the Church, that all its genuine Sons dreaded their coming upon the Theatre. Their Rogueries are all Sacred, and must not be set to View.

Moliere, to take away as much as was pollible, all reafonable Ground of Clamour from the Ecclefiafticks, had not fo much as fuggefted in the Play that Tartuffe was a Prieft; and only called his Comedy, The Impostor, in general. Befides all this, he had drefs'd up his Rogue like a Man of the World.

World. He had not given him fo much as a flapping Bever, but a fmart fecular Cock, with a Sword, a good Head of Hair, a Cravat, and a gaudy Coat. But all this Precaution of Mohere's availed not; Tartuffe had the Conduct, Craft, and Spirit of a Prieft, tho' difguifed like a Layman, and the Clergy found themfelves whip'd upon Tartuffe's Back.

Eight Days after Tartuffe was forbid to be acted, the Court was entertained with a very irreligious Play, call'd Scaramouch. After it was over, the King told a certain Prince, that he wonder'd why those People, who were fo fcandaliz'd at Moliere's Comedy, did not fay a Word of this. O Sir, answer'd the Prince, The Reason is plain; The Play of Scaramouch only makes a Jest of God and Religion, in which these Gentlemen are no wise consern'd: But Moliere has dared to bring the Priests upon the Stage; which is not to be suffered.

Of PRIESTLY CRUELTY.

Good Man, is diftinguish'd by his Humanity, as is the good God by his Mercy. Where there is no Humanity, there can be no Grace: We cannot posses at the fame Time the Spirit of God, and the Spirit of a Brute or a Dxmon. Charity it felf, the most fublime Christian Grace, seems to be only Humanity guided and animated by Piety: And this is the more likely, for that it is the Bufinefs of the Christian Religion, to recover to human Nature those Virtues, which were either loft or leffen'd by the Fall of Adam. Had Man continu'd as he was made, perfect, a new Covenant and another Institution had been unnecessary.

Humanity then is an amiable Virtue, and the Characteristick of a Man; and of a Man

The Independent Whig. 313 Man civiliz'd, gentle, benevolent; purged from all Rage, and every unfociable Paffion.

But the Appetites and Paffions of Men being too powerful for Reafon, and the Law of Nature; Religion was inftituted to regulate and quell them. For this End, it proposes, as Sanctions and Restraints, the Fayour of God to the Virtuous, and threatens his Difpleafure to the Wicked, in this Life; and, in the next, still more adequate Rewards and Punishments, even those of Heaven and Hell. This is the great Defign of Religion; and it effectually answers the fame, where its own honeft and fimple Dictates are obferved and followed; than which Dictates nothing can be more plain and reafonable; the principal Precept of the Gospel, next after our Belief in Jefus Christ, being that of Peace and Love: A new Commandment, fays our Bleffed Saviour, I give unto you, that you love one another.

In Confequence of this Doctrine, and of the heavenly Temper which it infpir'd, the first Christians lived together in perfect Concord, Love and Charity; and yet there is no Question to be made, but they differ'd from each other in their Conceptions about some Points in Religion; as we see the Apostles themsfelves also differ'd on several Occasions, and express'd some Warmth in these their Differences.

This

This fame Spirit of Charity and Love continu'd amongst the first Christians, till lying, crafty, and selfish Men, calling themselves Ministers, and assuming to be Teachers, fill'd them with the Spirit of Discord, and instructed them to hate one another. They rent them into Parties, infpir'd them with the Bitternefs of Faction, and taught them its Watch-words. by which they were to diftinguish themselves from all other Christians: I am of Paul, I of Apollos, and I of Cephas, and the like Cant, full of Zeal, but void of Senfe and Religion, had a direct and mischievous Tendency to abolish Faith in Christ, and to place it upon Men; and, in fine, to turn Christianity into Caballing. They likewife marked out all who would not be driven nor deceived by them, with malicious and opprobrious Names, proper to expose them to Hatred and ill Ufage. Heretick, Apostate, Unbeliever, Schifmatick, and the like hard and equivocal Words, were found strangely effectual towards stirring up Rage, Revenge, and relentlefs War, against those unhappy People who were miscall'd by them; fo effectual! that the fame Sett of Men have never fuffer'd the fame Sett of Words to wax obfolete, but to this Day use them, and cause them to be used, to the fame impious and anti-christian Purpose, and (where the Law does not restrain their bloody Hands, and guard the Innocent) with the fame Succefs.

When

When these ungodly and merciles Ecclest asticks had thus, under the Cloak of Religion, craftily rais'd the blind Refentment and impious Zeal of their deluded Followers. against their Christian Brethren, who preferred the Spirit of the Gospel, and the honest Convictions of their Consciences, to the Pride and Commands of Men; there follow'd fuch amazing Inftances of Cruelty, and fuch terrible Scenes of Blood, as must affect the Hearts and the Eyes of all who read them, or hear of them, if they posses either Christian Grace or natural Compassion. Christians were, by their Priest, fet on to butcher Christians; and to make Havock of each other, in the Name of that Religion, which was diftinguish'd from all other Religions, by a Spirit of Meekness, Mercy, and Love : And all this perhaps, for their different Manner of explaining a Mystery, which could not be explain'd; or which, if explain'd, ceas'd to be One.

This reftlefs and unrelenting Rage, which Chriftians practisid, at the Inftigation of their Clergy, upon one another, for Thoughts and Opinions which they could not help, was a ftrong and a lafting Stumbling-block in the Way of the Unconverted; who could have but fmall Appetite for a Religion, which difown'd all Kindred to Peace and Humanity, and infpir'd its Votaries with fuch cruel Hatred, and fuch dreadful Fury: For, in fhort, that was the Religion they were to embrace; embrace; a Religion no longer to be found in the Gospel of Christ, but in the ridiculous Systems and selfish Inventions of Priests. And it was no Wonder the Heathens were backward and afraid to embrace a Religion. in which the involuntary Mistake of a priestly Diflinction, without a Meaning, might coft them their Lives, and ruin their Families. So terrible and deform'd had mercilefs Christian Priests render'd the merciful and amiable Christian Religion! Their outrageous Zeal was become fo powerful, and had fuch bloody Effects, that the Pagan Perfecutions were real Advantages to Christianity, as they gave it a breathing Time from the more fatal Perfecutions and even Adulterations of its own Priefts; who, while the Civil Sword was over their Heads, being obliged to abscond or fly, could not throw about their Balls of Contention and War: and, therefore, against their Will, left Religion to flourish, as it always did, under those Pagan Persecutions, which their own turbulent and feditious Behaviour had often brought upon it. This is indeed their highest Praise, that the Church reap'd Good from their Wickednefs.

The Pagan Persecutions no fooner ceafed, but the War of the Christian Priests recommenced; and the Persecutions rais'd by them were ever more merciles and more dreadful, than those which were rais'd by the Heathen Princes; forasmuch as they added, as far far as they could, the Destruction of the Soul to that of the Body: So compleat was their Vengeance! And, besides, it had no End: The Severity of the Heathens had long and frequent Intermissions; but the Cruelty of the Priests was infatiable.

The Perfecutions practis'd by the Pagans had, moreover, this Mitigation, that they were occasion'd for the most Part by the Words and external Behaviour of Christians, who contemn'd their Gods, neglected their Temples, and ridicul'd their Manner of Worfhip: In all which, tho' they had Reafon and Truth on their Side; yet they provok'd by fo doing these ignorant Bigots, whose false Religion laid no Restraint upon their Passions, but on the contrary greatly inflam'd them. But the prieftly War was waged against the Mind it felf; the free and independent Mind! They would be controuling the voluntary, necessary and invincible Motions and Operations of the Soul; and be putting Bonds upon the Imagination, which is as ungovernable as the Wind or the Sea. You must say after them, nay you must think after them, and believe by their Direction; and either be Slaves or Hypocrites. A terrible and inflexible Tyranny ! It was to no Purpose to alledge, that you could not perform Imposibilities, nor fee with other Mens Eyes: You must be punish'd for what you could not help; you must be deliver'd to Satan, in Spite of your Innocence; and rewarded with Hell for your Sincerity, and Well-meaning: And the fame honeft Qualities which entitled you to the certain Favour of God, provok'd the certain Vengeance of his pretended Ambassadors; to whose Empire, Vertue and Truth are ever the most formidable Foes. To compleat this ghoftly Barbarity, not appeas'd by Death and Damnation; your good Name must be murder'd with your Body, and your Memory loaded with monstrous Calumnies, and bitter Defamations ; which merciless Treatment could be expected only from that accurfed Spirit. who has been a Lyar and a Murtherer from the Beginning; or from those who are acted by him. To pity you, was unpardonable: and to speak well of you, was to involve all. those who did it, in your Doom. Thus holy Wrath is, of all others, the foonest kindled, the fiercest while it burns, and the floweft in going out, if ever it goes out.

It would be endless to give Instances of the bloody Spirit of such fort of Churchmen. They are the only Body of Men upon Earth, who possess least of human Compassion. They have been even ingenious in Cruelty, and shew'd vast Invention in their rigid, various, implacable and exquisite Manner of executing it. Ita feri, ut se mori sentiat, seems to have been the Doctrine and Delight of the Church, as well as of Caligula. Neither He, nor Phalaris, nor Perillus, nor Nero, nor any other Pagan Monster, who made himself Sport with with human Agonies and Mifery, has exceeded them in the Variety and Inhumanity of his projected Tortures, nor equall'd them in the Length.

It is a melancholly Observation, that the Mahometans, who by Principle use the Sword, as their great and most prevailing Apostle for the Propagation of their Religion, do yet frankly tolerate Christianity, and every Sect of it, all over their Dominions; and that, on the contrary, Christians, who by the Doctrine of the Gofpel are allow'd the Use of no Means but those of Gentleness and Perswasion, to promote the Faith of 7efus Christ, do yet exercise Fierceness and Barbarity upon all who differ from them. where-ever the Mercy of the Government does not restrain the Cruelty of the Clergy. Thus far the Turks act, as if they were conducted by Grace, and obey'd the Precepts of our Bleffed Saviour; and thus far the Chriflians act, as if they had adopted the Spirit and Fiercenefs of Mahomet, and renounced the Gofpel for the Alcoran.

However, that I may not feem partial to the Mahometans, I fhall add this mournful Reflection, namely, That too many of the Christian Clergy do justly share with these Infidels, the infamous Praise of having almost dispeopled the Earth. The Infidels have slain their Thousands, and They their Ten Thousands. They have been the great Promoters of Cruelty and the Sword; they have have been the constant Patrons of Arbitrary Power, that mighty Engine for rendering Mankind few and miserable; they have been the continual Authors of Wars, Famine and Massacres: and, in fine, they have been the great Instruments of driving Virtue, Truth. Peace, Mercy, Plenty and People, out of the World. Kill all, faid the Abbot Arnold, a Monk militant, to the Army, which being employ'd by the Church to flaughter the poor pious Albigenses, had taken the City of Bezeir, and being Laymen, were inclining to have fome Mercy; Kill all, cried this bloody Prieft, God knows his own, and will reward them hereafter. Accordingly Two Hundred Thousand of these conscientious. Christians, and Catholicks mix'd with them. were instantly butcher'd for the Church.

To conclude; our modern Claimers of Church-Authority, do but contend for the fame Power and Advantages, which enabled and prompted thefe their Brethren to execute fuch numerous and melancholly Mifchiefs; and whether they ought to poffefs that Power, and thefe Advantages, or no, I take to be the great Point in Debate between the Bishop of Bangor and his Adversaries.

Of High-Church ATHEISM.

HAT Religion, or the Worship of a Deity, is natural to Man, is confefs'd by Mr. Hobbes himfelf in his Leviathan, wherein he endeavours to affign the natural Caufes thereof: And no Hiftory or Voyages give us an Account of any Country, in any Manner civilized, without Religion, as well as Priests or Ministers, and Temples or Places of Worship. Men have been in all Ages fo prone to Religion, that rather than not have one, they have been contented to worship the most abject Beings in Nature; and indeed, nothing feems to have been too absurd and ridiculous for them to believe and practife, under the Direction of any Men, who had Confidence enough to take upon them to be fpiritual Guides of the People. It was ever sufficient, to 322 The Independent Whig. to pretend to teach Religion, to make any Thing to be received as Religion.

The Egyptians worship'd Dogs, and for That Faith made internecine War. Others adored a Rat, and some For that Church suffer'd Martyrdom. The Indians fought for the Truth Of th' Elephant's and Monkey's Tooth. But no Beast ever was so slight, For Man as for his God to fight. They have more Wit, Alass! and know Themsfelves and us better than so. HUDIBRAS.

Nor is this Disposition at all abated in the World. The Pagan Part is much the fame. And many Christians are more prone, if poffible, to Absurdity and Folly, than the Pagans. The Popish, Greek, and several other Christian Sects worship a Breaden God; And, besides other numerous Absurdities and Follies, exceed them in that grand One of all, of delivering up their Persons, Estates, and Consciences, to the Priest; and of hating, damning, persecuting, and burning one another, and all who have any difference in Opinion with them, as he inspires them : Wherein they ou:go both the ancient and modern Pagans, who have generally given Toleration to Men of different Religions from themfelves, and have in no Place gone those Lengths in Perfecution which fome Christians (or

As a farther Proof that Religion is natural to Man, I observe, that no History informs us that ever Atheisim (by which I understand, a direct Denial of the Existence of a Deity, a Providence, and Worship) was able to introduce it felf among the People of any Country whatsoever.

Religion is not only natural to Man, but efteemed neceffary to Government by Princes and States, who, whether they themfelves have believed any Religion or no, have eftablished Forms of Religion, and been willing that their Subjects should obey them, and defend their Country, upon a Principle of Religion, as knowing its powerful Operation on the Minds of Men.

And befides, Religion has a great Support from Priefts or Divines, who are very numerous every where, and have a Zeal for every Form they profefs, equal to the Intereft they derive from it: And if the Intereft of one Form runs low, many of them can change their Party, and become zealous for another Religion; as they did three times, in the Compafs of five Years in England, in the Reigns of Edward the Sixth, Mary and Elizabeth; the non-complying Clergy never amounting to two hundred under any of thofe Changes.

Great Complaints indeed have been and are daily made in relation to the mighty Y 2 Growth

Growth of Atheifm. But those Complaints feem to me for the most Part, if not altogether, goundless, and to be generally Calumnies of High-Church Priests, and High-Church Men, upon the best Christians, viz. Such who profess themselves ready to submit to the Authority of Jesus Christ, but refuse Submission to any Priests, whether they be the Greek; Muscovite, Roman, Dutch, Scotch, or English.

There is not, therefore, and cannot be, any Danger of the Overthrow of Religion, as long as Men continue Men; Religion will neceffarily prevail amongft us, and every where elfe, in virtue of Mens general Difpofition to Religion, either under one or feveral Forms, according as the Civil Magifirates of the World are more or lefs perfuaded, that they themfelves are to dictate (or to dictate after a Prieft) Religion to their Subjects.

The noify Outcry therefore of the Danger of Religion from Atheifm or Irreligion, is a meer Chimera of the High Priefts; which, in all likelihood, they ftart to put Men on a falfe Scent, and to difguife and carry on their own Defigns of Power and Wealth: For while People are alarm'd with the Fears of Atheifm, they are difpofed to fall into all the pretended Measures of the Prieft to fupprefs it, and to become zealous for him, who never fails to make Use of the Panick or Madness of the People (which is his Opportunity) to establish Doctrines and Practices The Independent Whig. 325 Access for his own Advantage; which at his Suggestion they fally suppose to be most opposite to Atheism, and to be the best Means to suppress it.

But the conftant Danger, and the great and only Concern we ought to have, is, left, under the Colour and Name of Religion, or the Worship of God, we have not only Falfhood and Superstition put upon us, but the most detestable and wicked Practices introduced; fuch as tend to the Destruction of all Peace, both Publick and Private; all Virtue, Learning, and whatever is praife-worthy among Men. This is Practical Atheifm : This is the Atheism to be dreaded and feared: This is the Atheism whereof we are in Danger: This is the worft Confequence we have to fear from speculative Atheism; for no Man can fay worfe of speculative Atheism, than that it leads necessarily to all Immorality : And in fine, this Atheism the Priest has, in most Places of the World, introduced as Religion, to the utter Overthrow of true Religion; (which confifts chiefly, if not folely, in fuch Particulars as are for the Good of Society) for by making Men wicked out of Confcience, and upon a Principle of Religion, he as effectually destroys true Religion, as if he introduced speculative Atheism. What is it to a Believer in Christ, whether he be perfecuted for his Religion by a Papist, who does it religiously, and upon a Principle of Confcience; or by an Atheist, who does it either Y 2 either to protect himself, or to get Credit in the World, or to go Snacks with the Prieft, in the Advantages arising from Perfecution? Do Men fuffer lefs by a Civil or Foreign War, begun by Zealots, on a Principle of Religion, to promote Religion; than if begun by Atheifts, for the Sake of Ambition. Glory, Power, Rapine, or Murther? Are the Feuds, Animofities and Passions, stirred up by Priefts on Account of Religion, fewer and lefs difturbing of the Publick Peace, than those of Men left to the Conduct of Atheistical Principles? Is it not equal to Husbands to be wronged by Atheists, who need no Pardon, as by Popilh Priefts, who can pardon one another; or High Churchmen, who, notwithstanding fuch Actions, can be countenanced by the Prieft, and merit greatly with him, on account of his Zeal for the Church, that is, the Prieft? Nay, is not the Danger of Cuckoldom equal from a Popifb Prieft (who, by his Power of confessing and abfolving the Woman, has fo glorious an Opportunity) as from an Atheilt ? And would our High Priests, if they could get the Nation to be perfwaded that they have the fame Power of confessing and absolving, (as they have of late been attempting to do in their Books and Sermons) be lefs Cuckold makers than Popils Priefts and Atheifts?

Could an Atheift be a greater Calumniator than Dr. S-e? Could an Atheift, who thinks no Deference due to a Bishop, have lefs Regard gard for the Honour of a Christian Bishop than Dr. S-e, who pretends to think Bifhops have Divine Authority? Could an Atheift, after he had been convicted of Calumny, and forced to confess his Evidence for the Calumny failed him, be more hardened in Villany, than to make no Satisfaction to, and ask no Pardon of the Person injured, but perfift in fuppofing that Time will difcover his Charge to be true? Could a Set of Atheists have patronifed Calumny more, than to have called that Doctor to be the Head of their Society; and might they not with equal Regard to Virtue and Religion, have chosen a Highwayman, or a Pick-pocket, who gives his Money for the Augmentation of poor Livings? Has a Modern Bishop more Satisfaction in being thus attacked by a High-Church Priest, supported and abetted by others; or is the Society lefs difturbed by fuch Proceedings, than if fuch Priefts were all Atheifts?

Lastly, Is it not equally destructive of Liberty and Property, for Ecclesiasticks to use religious Cheats and Tricks to get Money from the People, towards raising and maintaining a needless Army of Black Coats, to live lazily in Monasteries, and other Religious Houses; as for Atheists to use any civil Tricks to maintain a needless standing Army of Red Coats, or by their Arts to plunder the Publick for any of their other Purposes?

The Defign therefore of fome following Papers shall be, to shew how the High Church Jacobite Clergy promote true Atheism and Irreligion : That the Laity may be put on the true Scent of Atbeism: That they may have a just dread of the true Atheism: That they may cease to be Atheists, or Worshippers of the Priest, and cease to receive Religion on his Authority; and that they may return to God and Chrift, the fole Authors of all true Religion.

Proceed, as I promis'd in my last, to shew, by an Induction of Par-ticulars, how the High-Church Priests promote true Atheism or Irreligion, by which I mean Practical A-

I. And,

I. And, first, I will begin with Perjury, or False Swearing.

I will venture to lay it down as a Truth in Politicks, that Oaths (or fomething equivalent to them) are, on many Occasions, neceffary in Government; and that Peace among Neighbours, Punishment of Rogues, and the Settlement of Property, depend upon In the next Place, I will lay down them. as religious Truths, that an Oath is a folemn Act, both of natural and reveal'd Religion; that Oaths to a Government are to be kept; that there is no greater Irreligion, no greater Affront to God, no greater Infincerity and Injustice to Man, than Perjury, and no Point of Religion, upon which the Honour of God, and the Welfare of Mankind, are more highly concern'd, than in keeping Oaths; that Oaths of Allegiance to a Government intend Loyalty; that Oaths are to be taken in the Senfe of the Impofers; that the Heart is to concur with the Lips in repeating them ; that Men are to have no mental Referves in taking Oaths: and that they must not defign to break them, nor take them with Delign to repent of them.

And yet, on this Head, Atheifts cannot be guilty of greater Irreligion than fome of our High-Churchmen, (under the Conduct of our High-Church Priests) who sometimes are not for restraining our Kings by their Coronation nation Oaths; and, at other Times, are not for restraining the People, by their Oaths of Allegiance: that is, they are at one Time for breaking Oaths, by contending for unlimited Power, and unlimited Obedience; and at another Time for breaking Oaths, by retrenching the Authority of the Prince, and Allegiance of the Subject. Under this Reign. they are for the latter Perjury : as appears by their open Rebellions; their irreverent Difcourses of the Person, and Family, of his Majesty; theirEndeavours to alienate from him the Hearts of his Subjects; and infpiring the People with Difaffection to his Government; their inventing and reporting defamatory Stories, to blemish his Character, and weaken his Authority; their rejoycing at any publick Distractions; their taking sides with the French, Turks, Swedes, Spaniards and Muscovites, whenever any of these Nations are in Measures contrary to the Interest of his Majesty; and lastly, by their ridiculing and cracking Jefts upon the State-Oaths, and citing, as a fort of Scripture, these Verses of Hudibras :

He that Imposes an Oath makes it, Not he that for Convenience takes it. Then how can any Man be faid To break an Oath he never made?

Appearance of attacking and ridiculing Religion and Virtue, the Joys of Heaven, and the Fears of Hell; but almost as if Slander and Calumny, Treafon and Sedition, were Articles of their Church, which they were in Duty oblig'd to perform. They pretend all the while to be religious Men, good Churchmen; concern'd for the Church's Safety; Enemies of false Religion, and particularly of Presbyterianism; and zealous for the Orthodox Faith. contain'd in St. ATHANAsius's Creed. And tho' the High-Church Priests have not as yet written any Books to defend this Manner of taking and keeping Oaths; yet they take a Method, no lefs effectual to recommend it: They not only do not bear their Testimony against this open Wickedness, this open practical Atheifm, (as is their Duty) but are active themfelves in the fame Practices, and countenance the Guilty, by the Credit and Applause they give them; and the Distinction they shew towards them, recommending them as good Churchmen, and reviling others, principally, for being faithful to the Oaths they have taken to the Government. All which is more effectual to promote Perjury, than di-rect dogmatizing in Behalf of it; for this fly Way gets them the Applause of many, and prevents the Clamour of others against them; who would be generally detefted, notwithstanding the Devotion of the People towards them, if they openly defended Perjury. Now,

Now, pray, what is the Difference between these High-Churchmen and Atheists ? Can Atheists be less bound by Oaths? Can Atheists be worse Subjects? Are not Atheists detestable, because it is suppos'd they cannot be bound by Oaths? And are others lefs detestable, whom Oaths do not bind? Can any Thing be faid worse of Atheists, than what Mr. LESLEY fays (in his Answer to King's State of the Protestants in Ireland) that the Parliament cannot make an Oath which the Clergy will not take? Had not King GEORGE Reafon to apprehend as much Mischief from his Swearing-Religious- Factious - Rebel- Church-Subjects, as he could have from Swearing-Rebel-Atheists? Was the Case of the Dissenters, and other good Subjects, who were plundered before the Rebellion for their Loyalty. or fuffered in the Rebellion, better for receiving fuch Ulage from the Hands of High-Churchmen, than from Atheists? They are plainly as bad as Atheifts can ever be fuppofed to be; worfe than Atheists, acting by the Principles of Eafe and Self-Prefervation, which may be fuppos'd to be the most general Principles of Action in Atheists; and, in fine, worfe than any profligate Libertines (I ever met with in Italy it felf, that Seat of High-Churchship) whom I never heard talk fo irreligiously about Oaths, as I have heard fome High-Churchmen, or deliver fuch open Perjury as Parfon B-fe. What adds to the Wicked-

Wickednefs and Guilt of thefe High-Churchmen, is, that they pretend to be Chriftians, and to take their Religion from the New Teftament; that they are of a Church, whofe diftinguishing Doctrine is Loyalty to the Prince, and which they extend fo far as to allow Refistance in no Cafe to be lawful; and that they have a Sovereign, against whom they have nothing to object, but his Virtues, his mild, equal, impartial and just Administration of Government; for as to his Title (which is the best of Titles, viz. the voluntary Establishment of a free People by an Act of their Legislature) these Swearing High-Churchmen can have no just Scruple.

These High-Churchmen therefore are true Atheists; They are practical Atheists. The speculative Difference between them and Atheists, is a Matter of small Moment; for what is it to their Neighbours, while they act like Atheists, that they believe in God and Religion? For while they act like Atheifts, they do all the Mischief that Atheifts can do, and all those Things for which alone Atheifm is fo justly detestable. For if Speculative Atheifm did not lead Men to Immorality, to Faction, to Rebellion, &c. it would be fo far from being deteftable, that it would be preferable to any Religion that fpoil'd Mens Morals, and made them bad Subjects: And I would rather have a Speculative Atheift for my Neighbour, and Fellow-Subject, and run the Hazard of his being a vicious Man, than than an Orthodox-Religious Man, whofe Religion made him Vicious.

Of High-Church ATHEISM. Part 2.

HE next Article of Atheifm, that I charge upon High-Church Priefts and High-Churchmen, fhall relate to the very Being of Religion, and that is, Toleration of Religion; for unlefs there be a Toleration of Religion, Religion, which is a Matter of Choice and Conficience, is almost excluded the World.

It is afferted by Mr. HOBBES, that the Civil Magistrate of every Country is the Legislator in Matters of Religion; that his Subjects ought to obey him therein; and that, if they do not, they should be compelled by Force to profess that Religion he enjoyns. Which Doctrine implies Speculative Atheism, as it destroys God's Dominion, by subverting his his Authority and Laws, and by making a God of the Magistrate; and as it roots out all Religion, by taking away Mens Right to follow their Confciences therein; which conftitutes the very Essence of Religion: And it must introduce Practical Atheism, if follow'd; by disturbing, distressing, imprisoning, and taking away the Lives of the best Men; by setting Men at Variance with one another, and causing Civil Wars on a religious Account; and by leaving Men to be govern'd only by the Laws of the Civil Magistrate, and taking away all Motives to good Actions drawn from Confcience towards God.

Now the Speculative Principles of High-Church Priest, and those of Atheists, differ but little from each other: And the Practices following from both their Principles are the same; that is, the High-Church Priests must be no less Practical Atheists, than the Speculative Atheists themselves.

1. For, First, as to the Speculative Principles of High-Church Priests. The the High-Church Priests contend for a Law of God, a Bible and a Confcience; yet they as effectually subvert the good Things, as the Atheist, by asserting, at the same Time, a Right in the Civil Magistrate to compel Men by Laws, or Force, to embrace the true Religion: For what is the Difference between a Right in the Magistrate to compel Men to embrace the true Religion, and a Right in the the Magistrate to compel Men to embrace his Religion, which he will always think the best and true Religion.

All the Arguments of High-Church Priefts for Church-Authority, and Church-Unity, imply the fame Atheism. For do they not therein contend for Submission to Much in Matters of Religion, and for the Sacrifice of fome Mens Conficiences to the Judgments of other Men? Which is fubverting the Lazz of God, the Bible, and Conficience, no lefs, than vefting the Power and Compulsion in the Civil Magistrate.

But their Arguments against all Innovations, in Matters of Religion, are most Atheiftical. They contend fo generally against Innovations, that they cite with Approbation MECENAS'S Advice to AUGUSTUS. viz. That he should follow constantly the Establish'd Religion of his Country; for all In-novations would foment Sedition in the State, and be a Means to fubvert bis Government. Which Advice (tho' it fo manifestly afferts Atheism and Hobbism, and implies, that neither Augustus, in whose Reign our Bleffed Saviour CHRIST was born, nor any other Pagan Prince, ought to permit Christianity, which is the most pure and peaceable Religion, to become the Establish d Religion of their Country) Dr. Dawson has lately had the Confidence to lay before the prefent Archbilliop of Canterbury; whole Conduct and Writings, before he was promoted to that that See, gave not the Doctor the leaft Ground to infpect that worthy Prelate would approve fuch Atheism, Irreligion, and Anti-Christianism; and no Man dares fay they have done fo fince.

2. Secondly, The Practices following from the Principles of High Church Priests, are the fame with those following from the Principles of Atheism. For do not many Chriftian Civil Magistrates exercise the Right afferted by High-Church Priests to belong to them, and fine, burn, imprison, inflict Corporal Punishments, take away Mens natural Rights, merely becaufe Men follow their Confciences in what they are perfwaded is the Law of God? And what more can be done in Virtue of any Atheistical Principles? Nor do the Notions of a Bible, a Law of God, and a Confcience, (however inconfiftent fuch Notions are with making penal Laws in Matters of Religion) render High-Churchmen lefs Perfecutors, than if they were acted by any Atheistical Principles; as is manifelt from what is done in most Countries, where, in Proportion to the Power and Influence of High-Church Priefts, Degrees of Violence upon Mens Conficences prevail: Nor do the Precepts of Chrift, who requires all Men to fearch the Scriptures, and to believe and live according to the Rules there laid down, and who never fends Men to the Magistrate or the establish'd Priests for the understanding of the Bible, abate in the least their Z their perfecuting Zeal. Nor laftly, does the most perfect Morality taught by CHRIST; who every where inculcates Love of Mankind, Forbearance, (and Forgiveness even of many Immoralities) and universal Charity, and who has faid, By this shall all Men know, that ye are my Disciples, if ye love one another; restrain the High-Church Priest from stirring up in Mens Minds the utmost Hatred, Malice, and Fury of Men against one another; who feem to learn little elfe from their Prieft as Matter of Religion, but the Doctrine of Malice against those whom he dislikes. Which Doctrine they practife with fuch Warmth and Zeal, as if it was the principal or only Article of Religion: And therein do more Mifchief than Men acted by Atheistical Principles can be suppos'd to do ; for Athei(m is as incapable of making Men uncharitable to one another, on Account of Religion, as it is inconfistent with true Religion to be uncharitable.

How these Atheistical Practices have prevail'd in England, even since the Reformation, (for I will not mention the Times before, wherein this priestly Atheiss was rampant) is apparent from our History, which gives an Account of the burning, hanging, fining, imprisoning, starving in Goals, banishing, corporal Punishments, and harrassing Thousands of good and religious People, on the Score of Religion; upon which I crave Leave to make these Observations.

1. Firft,

1. First, That as the High-Church Priests have been always most forward in making and defending Penal Laws; fo they have been the most Barbarous and Malicious in putting them in Execution, where they were intrusted with it, as is manifest from the Proceedings in the Star-Chamber; where, under the Influence of Archbishop LAUD, and fuch High-Priefts, exorbitant Fines, flitting Nofes, cutting off Ears, branding the Face with hot Irons, fevere Whipping, the Pillory, and Imprifonment for Life in Dungeons, or Places either unwholfome or remote from Friends, were common Punishments : and fometimes all inflicted upon one Man. Upon pronouncing One of these Sentences against LEIGHTON, LAUD pull'd off his Cap, and gave Thanks to God. But the Lay Part of the Court were merely Priestdriven and outwitted by LAUD in fuch Sentences: For when a Knight mov'd one of the Lords about the Dreadfulness of the Sentence, intimating, that it open'd a Gap to the Prelates to inflict fuch difgraceful Punishments and Tortures upon Men of Quality; that Lord reply'd, 'twas but in terrorem, and that he would not have any one think, that the Sentence should ever be executed. But that Lord (either judging of other Men by himfelf, or perhaps joining in the Sentence upon a Promise from LAUD, that it should not be executed) found himself mistaken in LAUD, who, having long divested himself of all Z 2 Lay-

Lay Pity, caus'd the Sentence to be rigoroufly put in Execution.

2. Secondly, The Ecclefiaftical Commissioners in the High Commission Court put the Oath, ex Officio, upon those brought before them on the Score of Religion; an Oath, unjust in it felf, as it obliged the Parties to answer all Interrogatories, and thereby made all Honest Men, if guilty of any Thing efteem'd a Fault, their own Accufers : and an Oath, neither founded on Act of Parliament, nor on Common Law in that Cafe. After what Manner this usurp'd Power of adminiftring that Oath was exercis'd, you cannot have better express'd, than in the Words of the Lord Treasurer BURLEIGH to Archbishop WHITGIFT. Your Articles are for curiously pen'd, so full of Branches and Circumstances, that the Inquisitors of Spain use not fo many Questions to comprehend and entrap their Preys.

3. Thirdly, I observe, that whenever the Parliament has been disposid to introduce the Practice of our Saviour's Dostrine of Love and Charity, by repealing any penal and fanguinary Laws, the High-Church Bishops always opposid such Repeal. In Proof whereof I will give the Reader but one Instance, referring him to his own Observation for more Proofs in the Case. In 1677, when the Nation and Parliament were under great Apprehensions from Popery and a Popish Successor, and fear'd, less the Law for Burning Hereticks

Hereticks would be foon put in Execution against Protestants, a Repeal of that Law was attempted and fucceeded: But it was opposid by the Bishops, who desirid that Law might continue in terrorem to Fanaticks, tho God forbid, faid they, it should ever be put in Execution. This Fact, and many others of the fame Kind, will foon be made more known by the (late) Bishop of Sarum's History of his Times.

4. Fourthly, I observe, that the Persecutions fince the Reformation have mostly been for errant Trifles, and Things of the least Importance to the World: We have been chiefly plagu'd and fet together by the Ears, about Caps, Hoods, Surplices, Ceremonies, ex. ternal Forms, removing Tables from one Part of a Church to another, and Railing them in. But the most extraordinary Subject of Perfecution and Animofities, and that feems peculiar to our High-Church, was the Book of Sports. High-Church having taken a Fancy to make it Religion to have no Sermons on Sundays in an Afternoon; but, instead thereof, to make the People Dance and Play, in Opposition to Puritans and Diffenters, who, it feems, were fo irreligious as to think they were oblig'd to fpend their Sundays after divine Service was over, in Family or private Devotion : That Book was iffu'd out by Authority; and many godly Clergymen were harrafs'd for not reading it, as many Laymen were for not turning that Hely-Day into a Play Day. But

But to the Glory of King GEORGE, this priestly Atheism of Persecution is now vanishing. His Majesty began his Reign with a noble Declaration for Toleration, wherein he allows his Subjects to have a Right to a Religion and a Confcience : The Perfecution commenc'd by a High-Church Priest against Honeft WHISTON fell; and the Promoter is defeated of all Hopes of getting his Charges by a Bilhoprick : The Bilhop of Bangor has preach'd up the Authority of God and Christ before his Majesty; and his Majefty (the Head of our Church, the fupreme Ordinary, and the fole Fountain of all Ecclefiastical, as well as Civil Authority) has preach'd it to the Nation: Some penal Laws have been repeal'd; wherein our truly Chriftian Prelates had, to their immortal Honour, their Share: Liberty of Examination and Debate (which is the most Sacred of all Principles, as it is the fole Foundation of all common Senfe, Truth, and true Christianity) grows upon us: A Majority of Diflenting Ministers, assembled in a Synod, have declar'd for the Bible; which was never before done by any Synod of Priefts, who have always endeavour'd to establish their own or fome other Human Authority. The High Priests dare not plainly excite the Mob to burn, plunder, and moleft their Neighbours; but are in great Measure reduc'd to Pulpit and private railing and damning. The fole Perfecution now on Foot, and countenanc'd by Au-

Authority, is, That High-Church cannot perfecute Diffenters; for it is effected by fome a Church-Perfecution not to be able to perfecute others: And laftly, I dare write the Independent Whig.

O Glorious King George ! O the Happinefs of a Nation to be govern'd by fuch a Monarch! Of whom I cannot but observe, that he feems to me the Favourite of Heaven, which fo bleffes all his Defigns with Succefs, that he need not fear Succefs in any truly virtuous or religious Defigns. And (that I may use the printed Words of Mr. BOLD, an excellent Divine of our Church) ' It is no fmall Encouragement to all, who ' have any Acquaintance with the Christian " Religion, to reft affured, that God will, ' in due Time, notwithstanding all the Ma-' chinations and Efforts of ill People, bring ' Matters in this Land to an happy Iffue, ^e becaufe none are against the Government ' of our most Excellent Sovereign King GEORGE and the Protestant Succession, ' but who are also against the Lord JESUS CHRIST being fole King in his own ' Kingdom, and confequently against his be-' ing fole Law-giver to, and Judge of his own Subjects, in Matters of Conscience, ٢ ' and which relate to their eternal Salva-< tion.

Of High-Church ATHEISM. Part 4.

S a further Proof of the Charge of A Practical Atheifm upon High-Church Priefts, I proceed to fhew, how they confound and fubvert all Morality and Holinefs of Life; which is the main Defign of all Religion, and more particularly of the Chriftian.

1. This they do, in the first Place, by teaching the most Immoral and Unholy Doctrines, and thereby leading Men to Actions, in the highest degree, prejudicial to human Society.

To do as we would be done unto, and to love our Neighbour as our felves, are Moral and Christian Principles, of daily and most general use. We cannot converse a Moment, without acting agreeably or contrary to them. And

And the Happinel's of Society confifts, in great Meafure, in the Practice of those Duties; as the Misery of Society confists in their Breach. For what is Happinel's in Society, but the Prevalency of universal Love, and equal Favour and Justice? And what greater Degree of Love can we shew to others, than that Love wherewith we love our felves? And what can a whole Society wish for more, than that equal Favour and Justice be distributed among them? And what is Misery in Society, but Malice, and Hatred, and Partiality; and their Confequences, Diforder, Confusion and War?

Now the High Priest dogmatizes against these fundamental Maxims of Morality, whenever he contends against the Right of Men to judge for themfelves in Religion, which he pretends to use himself; whenever he contends for Penalties, or Discouragements of any Kind, against those who differ in Opinion from him, which he would not at the fame time think just to have inflicted on himfelf for differing in Opinion from them ; whenever he damns Men as Hereticks and Schifmaticks, in Cafes wherein he would not damn himfelf; whenever he judges whole Sects or Bodies of Men Infincere, (as is his conftant Method towards Differters) and would not at the fame time be thought infincere himfelf; and in fine, whenever he preaches contrary to that Love of all Men, that Forbearance, that Forgiveness of Injuries, that Meekness, that that Peace and Quiet, that Beneficence to all in Diftrefs, and that Charity (the greateft of Moral and Christian Virtues) which beareth all Things, believeth all Things, hopeth all Things, endureth all Things, which is the Charity taught in the Gofpel: All which he cannot but be willing to fee prevail in the World, with refpect to himfelf. How often the High Prieft preaches after this Manner; or rather how feldom he preaches otherwife; and how fuccefsful he is in introducing the Practical Atheism fuited to fuch Doctrines, viz. Factions, Quarrels, Violence, Injustice, Plundering, Partiality, Devastation, and Murder; every Observer may be fatisfy'd by his own Experience.

Rebellion is the actual Diffolution of Order in a Society; and is ever founded either on the Jealoufies and ill-grounded Animofities of the People in Relation to their Sovereign, or to one another; or on fuppos'd Defect of Title in the Sovereign. Now these our High-Church Priests promote, and inculcate by their constant Lectures of Church-Peril; of the fad State of the prefent Times, beyond all that ever were before them; of their own want of Power; of Passive Obedience and Hereditary Right; and feveral other favourite factious Subjects: And this way lead the People to Rebellion; and that in Breach of Oaths, which are the most Sacred Band of Society.

And as the High Jacobite Priest thus teaches the very worst Vices, so nothing recommends The Independent Whig. 347 recommends a Layman to him fo much as the Practice of them,

2. Secondly, The High-Church Prieft fubverts Morality and Holinefs of Life, by laying an undue Strefs on Matters of little or no Importance; and thereby engages the Thoughts and Affections of Men about them, to the neglect of Morality and that Holinefs of Life, which is the End and Defign of all Religion. For whoever places Religion in Trifles, will (like the Jews who were much concern'd to pay Tythe to the Prieft of Mint, Annife and Cummin) neglect the weightier Matters of the Law.

What Work have we in England; what Hatred, Damning, and Uncharitablenefs is there among us, about mere Ceremonies. and external Forms? And what Arguing and Zeal is there for imposing them; when a general Agreement in them (as it would be manag'd) would be fo far from being of any real Use in Religion, and tending to Peace, that it would be a Confpiracy against the Rights of Mankind, and against that Peace and Charity, which would otherwife prevail? For have not Men a Right to follow their Judgments in Matters of Religion. and efpecially in fuch Matters as are allow'd to be indifferent in themselves; and is not that Right invaded by imposing them? And would not not Peace and Charity (which, we fee, exift not under Impofition) prevail, by allowing Men to practife as differently as as their Judgments direct them; as we fee they do prevail in Countries of Liberty and Toleration, in Proportion to the Degree of Liberty and Toleration allow'd?

What Work is there at this Time, how many Volumes are there daily publish'd, and how deeply concern'd is all England, whereof the about certain Speculations, People can understand nothing, and about which the Priest confounds himself? Can the People understand any of the various Schemes and Hypotheses invented by Divines, in relation to the Trinity in Unity, and the Incarnation of God? Does Dr. Waterland, who is a very learned, acute, and ingenious Perfon, and has writ two great Books on this Subject, know what he contends for himfelf, when he expresses the Sum of his Doctrine of the Trinity in Unily, in these Words, that each Divine Per-fon is an individual intelligent Agent : But, as sublisting in one undivided Substance, they are all together, in that respect, but one undivided intelligent Agent ? That is, One Individual is Three Individuals. One undivided Agent is Three undivided Agents, and One Perfon is Three Perfons? And can any Mortal fuppose the People to be in the least concern'd about fuch fophistical Chimeras, crabbed Notions, bombastick Phrases, and Solecifms? And must not Zeal about Ceremonies, and unintelligible Speculations, as much supplant and take the Place of Morality, rality, as ever Rites did among the Jews, or the religious Trumpery of the Pagans did among them? Even Zeal for Truth in certain Points, is not of fuch Importance as is commonly suppos'd. I have been much pleas'd with the Judiciousness and Charity of the following Passage in a Sermon of the Present Archbilhop of Dublin, the most worthy and truly profound Dr. King. Let us suppose one, who takes all the Descriptions we have of God in Scripture literally; who imagines him to be a mighty King that fits in Heaven, and has the Earth for his Footstool; that at the fame time has all Things in his View which can happen; that has Thousands and Thousands of Ministers to attend him, all ready to obey and execute his Commands; that has great Love and Favour for such as diligently obey his Orders, and is in a Rage and Fury against the Disobedient : Could any one doubt but he, who in the Simplicity of his Heart should believe thefe Things as literally reprefented, would be (av'd by Virtue of that Belief; or that he would not have Motives strong enough to oblige him to love, bonour, and worship God? The Impersections of such Representations will never be imputed to us as a Fault, provided we do not wilfully disbonour him by unworthy Notions, and our Conceptions of him be fuch as may sufficiently oblige us to perform the Duties he requires at our Hands. The like may be faid of a Man who has miftaken Notions of the Trinity in Unity, and of the Perfon Perfon of Christ; provided he does not wilfully dishonour God and Christ by his Notions, and conceives Christ to be a Legislator, and a Ruler fent from God; than which Conception, nothing can more oblige us to perform the Duties, that both God and Christ require of us.

3. Thirdly, There is no Crime, but what has, at Times, and on certain Occasions. the Support and Encouragement of the Popish Priest; as there is no Virtue which he does not at Times, and on certain Occasions, discourage. Let a Man be Whoremaster, or Drunkard, or Lyar, or Slanderer, or Paffionate, or Revengeful, or Cheat; and he may meet with fair Quarter from the High Priest, be seldom or never reprov'd by him, have his Efteem and Countenance, and the Character of a good Churchman from him, and be fure of Prieftly Abfolution at last; provided he heartily espouses the Interest of the Priest, that is, contends for his Power and Wealth. On the other fide, let a Man have ever fo many virtuous Qualities, and let him also be a fincere Believer in Jesus Christ; but without the Quality of efpouling the High Popilh Priest's Interest; and he will never stand so fair in the Priest's Eyes as the aforefaid Profligate-Good-Churchman. This Conduct of the Priefts has a mighty Influence on the Actions of Men, and tends to make them as bad as their Inclinations, and Temper, difpofe them them to be; inafmuch as the general Efteem and good Name of most Men will depend on the Characters given of them by the Priests, who are the general Gossips, and are reverenced every where for their inward Sanctity, and external long Gowns, and broad-brim'd Hats, the latter fufficiently manifesting the former. I will not deny, but that the Priests had much rather their Followers were virtuous than otherwife : they well knowing, that Credit is to be got by having fuch Men among them, and that the best Harvest is to be made of the Weakness and Superstition of virtuous Men. But the Bulk of Men being vicious, and the virtuous Man of Senfe being in the Interest of Religion, and against Priestcraft; the aforefaid High Priefts are reduc'd to the Neceflity of countenancing the Vicious, to carry on their own Interest with a fufficient Party.

4. Fourthly; High-Church Priests, by the Weakness of all Popish States, except the Common-wealths of Venice and Norcia, and of most of the Protestant States, are let into too great a Share of the Civil Governments of Europe; and thus by becoming Atting Politicians, confound all National, Publick, and Political Morality. For, as the late Bisshop of Sarum observed, the Priests have a Secret to make the Natives of a Country miserable, in Spite of any Abundance, with which Nature has furnished them.

They have not Souls big enough, and tender enough for Government: They have both a Narrowness of Spirit, and a Sourness of Mind, that does not agree with the Principles of Human Society. Nor have they those Compassions for the Miserable, with which wise Governors ought to temper all their Counsels 3 for a stern Sourness of Temper, and an unrelenting Hardness of Heart, seem to belong to that Sort of Men.

Of High-Church Атнеіsм. Part 5.

Peculative Atheifts exift but in few Places, and have never been numerous any where; even tho' all thofe be accounted fuch, upon whom Atheifm has ever been charged. But where they do exift, they feem to me to owe their Rife principally to Superfition and Prieftcraft; and the higher the Church and Prieft have been, the more numerous have been the Atheifts: Nay; there feems to me more just Cause to fuspect the High-Church Priefts of Atheifm, than any other Men.

1. Whoever reasons himself into Atheism, undoubtedly reasons very wrong, and either proceeds on false Principles, or makes wrong Conclusions from true ones. But among the A a feve-feveral falfe Arguments, by which the Atheifts and loofe People impofe on themfelves, and endeavour ro feduce others; there is none more frequently urg'd, than that the current Abfurdities and Superflitions taught by Priefts, and the Priefts Hypocrify and Villanies, are fufficient Reafons to make all Religion be deem'd a Cheat, and Priefts of all Religions to be deem'd the fame. The Poet fays, in the Perfon of a Libertine,

This indeed is pitiful Reafoning, and ought to be extended no farther than to those Doctrines and Priests, against whom the Objections lie. But so it is Men reason; and Experience will prove, that 'tis the High-Church Priest, and his Proceedings, which make the Atheist. But before I proceed to that Experience, I will fay this in behalf of this Argument for Atheism, that the Evil apparent in the World (which fome urge as an Argument against the Existence of a Deity) feems to me most visible in the Actions of Priests, who do, in my Opinion, create the greatest Diforder among Men.

The late Bishop of Sarum tells us, in his Travels, That a Man of Quality at Rome, and and an eminent Churchman, faid to him, that it was a horrible Scandal to the whole Christian World, and made one doubt of the Truth of the Christian Religion, to see more Oppresfion and Cruelty in their Territories, than was to be found even in Turkey. He fays, some Physicians in Naples are brought under the Scandal of Atheism: And it is certain, that in Italy Men of fearching Understandings, who have no other Idea of the Christian Religion, but that which they see receiv'd among them, are very naturally tempted to disbelieve it quite; for they believing it all alike in gross, without distinction, and finding such notorious Cheats as appear in many Parts of their Religion, are, upon that, induced to disbelieve the Whole. And it is an Observation of Dr. GEDDES, that there are more People of no Religion in Italy, than in all the World befides, (Tracts, Vol. 3.) England is alfo faid by our High Church Priefts, to abound with Atheifts, no lefs than Italy. But if there be fuch People among us, they are entirely owing to the Conduct of fome of our Priefts, who, I will be fo bold as to affirm, are as impudent in their Pretences to Power and Authority, as the Italian Priests dare to be. This, tho' at first fight it may seem Matter of Admiration, that they should be fo in fuch an inlightned Country as England, where fo many understand right Reasoning and true Christianity; yet is natural enough, if it be confider'd, that it is the laft Aa 2 ftruggle Atruggle of Priests for Popery and Slavery: They contend for the most ridiculous Things, as necessary to Salvation; and by their Prevarications about Oaths, and Shiftings about Doctrines, according to their Interest, dispose Men to make the same Inference, as the Men of Quality, and Men of fearching Understandings do in Italy. And some among us may, perhaps, make that Atheistical Inference, considering how the Nation had been managed in the High-Church Reign of King CHARLES the Second, when the Design, according to the late Bishop of Sarum, seem'd to be to make us first Atheists, that we might more easily, be Papists.

Dr. HICKES tells us, that the Practices of the fwearing Clergy, fince the Revolution, who had preached Passive Obedience before, bave tempted loose and unprincipled Men to turn Atheists; and that those Clergy have set open the Floud-Gates to that Deluge of Atheism and Impiety, that now overflows the Nation. And he cites another Author with Approbation, for faying, This Change has made many sober Men sceptical, and gone farther towards eradicating all the Notions of a Deity, than all the Labours of Mr. HOBBES. I have been ready to suspect, that Religion it self was a Cheat; and others, of my own Knowledge, have the same Temptations to question Religion it self.

Mr. Lefley fays, The Carriage of the Clergy in the Revolution, has given greater Occafion to the ENEMIES OF THE LORD TO BLASPHEME, and turn'd more Men from the Church of England, to the Church of Rome, and EVEN TO ATHEISM; has overturn'd, ruin'd, divided, and dishonoured our Church more, than if that Perfecution, which some feared or pretended, had fallen upon them. He fays, The Clergy banter and mock God to his Face; and that Atheism is a smaller Sin than this, since it is better to have no God at all, than to set up One, to laugh at him; and that the greatest Danger to which we are now exposed, by the Defect of so many of our Clergy, is a Contempt of all Religion, which is now spread over the Land, in a manner unheard of in former Ages.

Laftly, The late Bilhop of Sarum tells us, that fince his Conversation with Wilmot, Earl of Rochefter, he had had many Occasions to discourse with People tainted with wicked Principles; and, fays he, I do affirm, that the greatest Prejudice those Persons have at Religion, at the Clergy, and at the Publick Worship of God, is this, That they fay they see Clergymen take Oaths, and use all Prayers, both ordinary and extraordinary, for the Government, and yet in their Astings and Discourses, and of late in their Sermons, they shew visibly that they look another Way; from whence they conclude, that they A a 3

358 The Independent W hig. are a mercenary fort of People, without Confcience.

2. Atheism being, in my Opinion, a most unnatural Thing, and a Crime, which, for its Madnefs as well as Guilt, ought to fhut a Man out of Civil Society, I am not dispofed to lay it to any Man's Charge, tho' a vicious Perfon; much lefs to any fober Man's, without his open Profession of it, or an evident Proof of it upon him. But if confiftently with Charity, we may fusped any Men of Atheifin, who deny themselves to be Atheifts, we may certainly fuspect fuch Priefts, who live vicioufly; who play with Oaths; who, tho' fwearing to the Government, are Jacobites in their Hearts (as Dr. Hickes fays, I hope falfely, the main Body of the Clergy, God be thanked, are;) who are uncharitable in their Cenfures, and Perfecutors; who defend plain Abfurdities; who difpute against the Reafonablenefs of Reafon ; who contend for human Authority, that is, their own, in Matters of Religion; and argue for the Belief of unintelligible Propositions or Mysteries: (For Men of common Senfe and common Honesty, can hardly be supposed to join real Belief and fuch Things together:) And above all, fuch Priefts, who are conftantly charging others with Atheifm (and those oftentimes the most Learned, Best, and most Religious Men, as Cudworth, Tillot (on, and Locke;) upon whom we may justly return the Charge of Atheifm, in the Words of a modern modern Philosopher; How, says he to a high Presbyterian Priest, could you think me an Atheist, unless it were, because finding your Doubts of the Deity more frequent than other Mens are, you are thereby the apter to fall upon that kind of Reproach? Wherein you are like Women of poor and evil Education, when they scold; amongst whom the readiest disgraceful Word is Whore. Why not Thief, or any other ill Name, but because when they remember themfelves, they think that Reproach the likeliest to be true ?

And as many Priefts give fuch Caufe of fufpicion, to I would fain know what Mr. LESLIE must esteem the Priests of our Church to be, when he fays, That the Parliament cannot make an Oath which the Clergy will not take? And whether many of our Clergy must not be esteemed Atheists, according to the Saying of the late Bishop of Worcester, It was a great Providence of God, that so many of the Clergy refused the Oaths to the Government, left People should think there was no fuch Thing as Religion, and incline to Atheism? And laftly, what can be thought of the Reverend Author of the Tale of a Tub, a known High Priest; or of the Majority of a Lower House of Convocation, who, in their Representation of the present State of Religion, with regard to the late ex-ceffive Growth of Infidelity, Herefy, and Pros faneness, fell upon the truly religious (tho' erroneous) Books of Mr. Whiston and others, but

but passed over the Tale of a Tub, a Book of a reverend Brother; tho' that Book was the fole open Attack that had been made upon Christianity since the Revolution, except the Oracles of Reason; and was not inferior in Banter and Malice to the Attacks of CEL-SUS, OF JULIAN, OF PORPHYRY, OF LUCIAN? And what can we think of the Majority of another Convocation, which a worthy Member spoke to in these Words, With what Face or Confcience, Mr. Prolocutor, can we offer to complain of the Licentionsnefs taken by Lay Writers, and yet connive at the like Offences given by the Ministers of our Church ; I doubt greater Offences ? For if all the ill Books against Religion, Scripture, &c. were here packed up together, I would undertake to pick out the worst of them, by pointing at those written by Clergymen, even of the most prophane Drollery, as well as the most ferious Herely? So that upon the whole, the High-Church Priests seem to me to drive a mighty Benefit from Atheifm. They have it chiefly among themfelves, and protect one another in it; and thereby have the Profit of Atheism, arising from taking false Oaths, and from doing many Things without Scruple of Confcience; as alfo the Pleafure, as fome of them esteem it (See Dr. ATTER-BURY'S Sermon on BENNET'S Funeral) ariling from the Practice of Vice. And at the fame time they themfelves fland clear of the Imputation of Atheifm, and brand those they do

The Independent Whig. 361 do not like, with it, who are oftentimes the best Men and best Christians.

P. S. The Author of this Paper having received two very modelt and religious, though anonymous Letters, which take Offence at an Expression in the Independent Whig, N°. XXXVIII. about godly Sorrow; returns for Answer, That Sorrow for our Sins is not there opposed, but Mechanic Sorrow, and such as proceeds from wrong Causes; and the Author only supposes that such enthusiastick People, as he has before mentioned, knew not the true Principles of Repentance, which he himfelf has described.

In fine, as to godly Sorrow, Sorrow for Sin; I know it to be fo much a religious Duty, that I know there can be no Religion without it.

NUMBER

262 The Independent Whig. XLVI NUMBER Wednesday, November 30. 1720. No PRIESTS instituted by the Chriftian Religion. Will, in this Paper, fhew, that there are no Priests or Sacrificers in the Gofpel Difpenfation, in any other Senfe, than as every Christian may be called fo, as he offers up to God the Sacrifices of Praises and Thanksgivings, and a pure and contrite Heart; and, in this Respect St. Peter calls all Christians, a spiritual House, an Holy Priesthood, to offer up spiritual Sa-crifices, a chosen Generation, a Royal Priesthood, an Holy Nation, a Peculiar People, God's Heritage, or, more properly, God's Clergy. It is undoubtedly true, that all Power, Superiority, or Distinction amongst Men, must be derived either from the politive Institutions of God, or the Confent and Agreement of one another; and therefore, whoever demands any Authority over others, their Goods or Possellions, must support his Pretences by such Proof as the Nature and Importance of the Claim requires; and it must be very glaring and undeniable, when it is levelled at the temporal and eternal Happines of all Mankind.

It is a fevere Circumstance, which attends thofe, who oppose receiv'd Opinions, that they must not only contend against popular Prejudices, and long imbibed Notions, against the Interests and Passions of great Numbers of artful and combining Men, but in most Countries against the Weight and Force of Publick Authority. The labouring Oar too will always lie upon you: You must difprove what has no Proof to support it, and bring Clouds of Arguments to maintain Propositions that are really felf-evident; a bare Possibility that you may be mistaken, shall be deemed a full Conviction; and fometimes the clearest Demonstration on your Side, shall be called only carnal and human Knowledge, not to be used about Spiritual Things; and even when the irrefragable Strength of your Reafoning forces Confent, you will have no Thanks for your Pains, but will be esteemed officious and factious, and be faid quieta movere, if by Chance you should escape the Censure of promoting the Caufe of Deifm or Atheifm.

However,

However, these Claims in the Popish and Popishly affected Clergy are so enormous, the Confequences of them so fatal to Christianity, and the Arguments pretended to be brought from Reason and Authority for their Support, so weak and contemptible; the whole Design and Current of the Gospel being directly against them; that I shall do my utmost totally to demolish and throw down the tottering Building, and shew it has no Foundation in common Sense or Scripture.

No Propolition can be more evident, than that before any politive Inflitution, every Man mult have been his own Prieft, and alone mult have offered up his own Prayers and Thankfgivings; but when God Almighty inflituted the Jewifb Difpensation, which confifted of numerous Rites, Ceremonies, and Sacrifices, he also appointed Persons to officiate and execute these Duties for the People as well as for themselves, who were called Priefts or Sacrificers, with particular Salaries or Dues annex'd to their Office, and they were to be only chosen out of one Tribe.

Accordingly in the Épissle to the Hebrews, chap. v. v. 1. and chap. viii. v. 3. a High Priest is defined as one taken up from amongst Men, and ordained for Men in Things pertaining to God, that he may offer Gifts and Sacrifices for Sins: So that the Business of the Priesthood was for expiating Sin, and reconciling Men to God, by offering Gifts and Sacrifices: And the Apostle adds, verse the 4th, That

The Independent Whig. 365,

That no Man could take this Honour to himfelf, but he which was called of God, as was Aaron, whose Commission was couched in the plainest and most express Words imaginable, and the Peoples Duty and Obedience were prescrib'd even to the minutest Circumstance.

As the Jewish Rites and Ceremonies were almost endless, and consisted of so many minuce Particulars, that it was next to impossible not to commit fome Breaches of their Law, therefore God appointed Atonement to be made for the leffer Transgressions of it, by Gifts and Offerings, and the Perfons aforefaid to make those Offerings; but for the greater Sins, fuch as Idolatry, Perjury, Murder, Adultery, breaking their Sabbath, &c. no Sin-Offerings or expiatory Sacrifices were allowed; and for this Reafon the Apostle, chap. vii. v. 18, 19. argues there is verily a Difannulment of the Commandment going before for the Weakness and Unprofitableness thereof; for the Law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in a better Hope did, by the which we draw nigh unto God.

He adds, chap. ix. v. 9. That Gifts and Sacrifices could not make him that did the Service perfect, as pertaining to the Conscience. And chap. x. v. 4. That it is not possible that the Blood of Bulls and of Goats should take away Sins. And v. 6, 8. That in Burnt-Offerings and Sacrifices for Sins, God has no Pleasure; and he argues from thence, chap. v.

v. 4, 10. and chap. vii from the 11th v. to the 19th, a Necessity that another Priest should arise after the Order of Melchisedeck, which was an higher Order, and that he should be perfect (being to become Author of eternal Salvation to all them who obey him) for if Perfection was in the Levitical Priesthood (under which the People received the Law) what need was there that another Priest should arise after the Order of Melchisedeck, and not after the Order of Aaron; for the Priesthood being changed, there is made a Necessity of the Change also of the Law.

And then he observes many Differences berween our Saviour's and the Jewish Priesthood.

1. That this Priest was not made after the Law of a carnal Commandment, but after the Power of an endless Life.

2. That he was made a Priest, not without an Oath, which the Jewish Priests were not, v. 20, 21.

3 That they were many Priests, because they were not suffer'd to continue, by reason of Death; but this Man, because he continueth, hath an unchangeable Priesthood: Wherefore he is able to save them to the utmost, that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make Intercession for them, v. 23, 24, 25.

4. That the Law maketh Men High Priests, which have Infirmity; but such a High Priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from Sinners, and made higher than the the Heavens, who needeth not daily to offer up Sacrifices, first for his own Sins, and then for the People; for this he did once, when he offer'd up himself, v. 26, 27, 28.

5. That he obtained a more excellent Miniftry, by how much he is Mediator of a better Covenant, which was established upon better Promises; for if the Covenant had been faultless, then should no Place have been sought for the second; for finding fault with them, faith the Lord, I will put my Laws into their Minds, and write them in their Hearts, and they shall not teach every Man his Neighbour, faying, Know the Lord, for all shall know me from the greatest to the least; for I will be merciful to their Unrighteousness, and their Sins and Iniquities I will remember no more; in that he faith, by a New Covenant, he hath made the first Old, and that which decayeth and waxeth Old, is ready to vanish away, chap viii. v. 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13. and chap. x. ver. 16, 17.

6. In chap. ix. the Apostle compares the Rites and bloody Sacrifices of the Law, and shews how far inferior they are to the Blood and Sacrifice of Christ, who not by the Blood of Goats and Calves, but by his own Blood, enter'd at once into the holy Place, having obtained eternal Redemption for us; for if the Blood of Bulls and of Goats, and the Asso of an Heifer sprinkling the Unclean, sanclifieth 'to the purifying of the Flesh, how much more shall the Blood of Christ, who through the Eternal Spirit, rit, offer'd himsfelf, without Blot, to God, to purge your Consciences from dead Works, to serve the living God? V. 12, 13, 14.

7. In chap. 10. he shews the Weakness of the Law-Sacrifices; which being offer'd up Tear by Tear continually, could not make the Consers thereto perfect, for then they would have cealed to have been offer'd, because that the Worsbippers, ence purged, should have had no more Conficience of Sins. Vcr. 1, 2, Then faid he, Lo I come to do thy Will, O God: He taketh oway the first, that he may establish the second ; by the which Will we are fantified, through the Offering of Jesus Christ, once for all. Every Priest standing ministring, and offering the same Sacrifices, which can pover take away Sins; but this Man, after he effered one Sacrifice for Sins for ever, fet down at the Right Hand of God; for by one Offering be bath perfected for ever, them that are fanctified; that is, those who obey his Commands, v. 9, 10, 11, 12, 14. And in v. 18. he tells them, Where Remission of Sins is, there is no more Offerings for Sins.

In the reft of the Chapter, the Apofile exhorts the Hebrews, whom he calls his Brethren, to have the Boldnefs to enter in with him into the Holieft, by the Blaod of Jefus; and having a High Prieft over the Houfe of Gad, to draw near with a true Heart, in full Affurance of having our Hearts for inkled from an evil Conficience, and our Bodies washed with pure Water, and to hold fast the Profession

feffion of our Faith, without wavering; and to confider one another to provoke unto Love, and to good Works; not forfaking the affembling our felves together, as the Manner of fome is; but exhorting one another, and fo much the more as ye fee the Day approaching. And he enforces his Argument, by telling them, that if we fin wilfully after the Knowledge of the Truth, there remaineth no more Sacrifice for Sins.

Now in all this Epiftle, where this Matter is fo fully and at large explained, (as well as in many other Parts of Scripture where the Jewish Priesthood, Rites and Ceremonies are plainly abolished) there is not one Word or Hint given of any other to be eftablished upon the Ruins of it. In all the Chapters I have quoted, no Priest, Sacrificer, Prophet, Mediator, Intercessor, Reconciler, Benedictor, Amballador, or Spiritual Prince, is once mentioned, but Jesus Chrift alone; though one might have expected to have met with him, or to have heard of him here, if there was to have been any fuch Perfon in Nature. On the contrary, the Apostle himself address to the Hebrews as his Equals, and claims no Right, Privilege, or Superiority over them; talks to them always in the Plural Number; nor does he, in the modern Phrase, fay, Pray ye, &c. but joins himfelf with them in every Act of Love and Dury.

Bb

If

If this was the Cafe of the Hebrews, who were Parties to the Horeb Contract, by which God became their Temporal King ; and confequently, they became bound, and Subjects to all the Laws of Mofes; the Argument is much ftronger in behalf of the Gentiles, who were never any way concerned in the fewi/b Priefthood, Rites and Ceremonies; and there must be therefore a very plain and positive Institution and Establishment found out in Scripture, before they can be subjected to it.

NUMBER XLVII.

Wednesday, December 7. 1720.

All Priestly Power inconfistent with the Gospel, and renounced by it.

HAVE fully fhewn, in my laft Paper, that as there is but one Sacrifice in the Christian Religion, fo there is but one Sacrificer or Prieft.

who, as our Church declares in the Communion-Service, made one Oblation of himfelf, and once offer'd up a full, perfect, fufficient Sacrifice, Oblation, and Satisfaction, for the Sins of the whole World; and agreeably to this Declaration, in the 13th Article, fhe calls the Sacrifices of the Popifh Priefts, dangerous Deceits, and blasphemous Fables.

I cannot with my beft Enquiry find out, that in the whole Christian Religion, there are any new Rites and Ceremonies appointed, or any Offices erected; nor in the Gof-B b 2 pels⁶ pels, Acts or Epistles, does any thing like an Inflitution occur, except that of Deacons; which Office is now quite laid aside, unless it may be said to be revived by Virtue of the Act of Queen Elizabeth, which appoints Overscers of the Poor: for as to the modern Ecclesiastical Deacon, he has no Resemblance to the Scripture Officer, who was appointed to serve Tables, upon Complaint of the Grecian Widows, who were neglected in the daily Ministration, which the Aposs were not at Lessure to attend, because of the preaching of the Word, and therefore directed the Congregation to choose others, whose Business it should be. Acts chap. vi.

I thall therefore enquire how the Popish World came to be bleffed with fuch a long Train of fpiritual Equipage; and fee what can be found in the Scriptures, to warrant or countenance their prefent Pretenfions. In order to it, I shall observe, that Promulgation is of the Effence of a Law, which cannot be without Plainness and Perspicuity: It must not be express'd in doubtful and equivocal Terms: It must not depend upon critical Learning, or different Readings; nor receive its Explanation from the mysterious Gibberish, and unintelligible Jargon of the Schools; but ought to be fuch, as a plain, open, simple hearted, sincere Man may easily difcover, amidst the numerous and contradictory Schemes of the Ecclefiasticks.

Weak

Weak and corrupt Men may, thro' Ignorance or Defign, frame and enact Laws obfcure and unintelligible; but the Almighty cannot intend to miflead his Creatures, or want proper Words to express his Meaning: Even fuch human Laws as enact Penalties. or restrain the natural Liberty of Mankind, are always conftrued ftrictly, and extended no farther than the Letter expressly warrants : and tis much more reasonable it should be fo understood in divine Laws, upon which the Temporal and Eternal Happiness of all the World depends; not only because of the Importance of the Subject, but as there can be no unwary Omission, or Defect in Words chofen by the Holy Ghoft : We may therefore be very fure, that whatever is not expressed in Scripture, plain and clear to common Understandings, was not intended for our Instruction, or can become a Duty.

With our Eyes thus cleared up, we will view thofe Texts and Parts of Holy Writ, brought together to fupport this unweildy Fabrick. And here, for fome Time, I muft beg leave of my Reader, to ftand amazed, and be at a Lofs, which moft to admire, the Stupidity and Acquiefcence of the Popifh and popifhly affected Laity, or the daring Infolence and Impiety of their Ecclefiafticks; that without Reafon, or the Appearance of Reafon, without Sripture, or the Colour of Scripture, but directly in Defiance of them B b 3 both, they could be able to form fo compleat an Empire over the Bodies and Minds of the greateft Part of Christendom; rob them of their Goods and Possessing, and make them Instruments of their own Ruin, hug their Chains, and mortally hate, murther, or ruin every one who would fet them free.

But before I enter upon a particular Difquifition of the Texts produced, I would first enquire what Benefit can accrue to Christianity, by fuch Powers in the Christian Clergy. A Roman Judge is honourably mentioned by Cicero, for always asking cui bono an alledged Action was done; by which he could make fome Judgment whether it was done or not, and who did it. The fame is a reasonable Proceeding in this Cafe; for tho' it is no Objection to the Truth of what God has faid, that it is not agreeable to the Sentiments of weak Men; yet whilft it remains a Question, whether God faid it or not, there cannot be a stronger Way of arguing used, than to shew that it is unworthy of the divine Wisdom and Goodness, who can fay nothing which is trifling and impertinent, or make any Ordinances ufeles or mischievous to his Creatures.

Nothing can come from God, but what is godlike; and therefore when any Number of Men combining together, dare tell me any thing in his Name, of no use to Religion or Virtue, and yet of apparent Advantage to themselves or their Order; I shall always beThe Independent Whig. 375 believe it to be an Invention of their own, forged to gratify their Ambition and Avarice, and shall ever vindicate the Almighty from the imputed Calumny.

Now of what use is it to Religion and Virtue, that the Clergy flould always make one another? Whether the Imposition of Hands be efteemed barely a Ceremony, to denote a Person appointed to an Office, or be the Appointment it felf? Or whether he be chosen by laying on of Hands, or by any other Ceremony? Will the fame Perfon, with the fame Qualifications, be a better Man, better Christian, or abler Divine, if he receives his Orders in a direct Line from the Apostles, thro' the Canal of a Popish, High Church, or Presbyterian Priesthood, or if only from the Civil Magistrate, or Voluntary Societies? Or is it possible to believe, that whilf he is administring the Offices of Religion, and doing the Duties of the Gofpel, the devout Christian People shall loofe the Effects of their Piety, and the Benefit of Chrift's Promifes, for the Defect of any Circumstance, or any Omission or Superfluity in his Adoption, which they could neither prevent nor know? Sure we have not fo learn'd Chrift.

Can we fuppofe that Almighty God fhould make fuch an Eftablishment of Christianity, as must destroy Christianity it felf; and put it under the fole Guidance and Direction of a Society of Men, who will have a perpetu-B b 4 al

376 The Independent Whig. al Interest to overturn or pervert it, and ever did so when they had Power?

What can be fuggested more absurd, than than that the good God should fend his Son from Heaven, to teach Virtue and Goodness to Men, to manumit and fet them free from the Superflitions of the Jews, and the Idolatries of the Gentiles; who, whilst upon Earth, fhould not only disclaim all Power and Dominion himself, but suffer an ignominious Death, to make Mankind happy; and yet fubject them to a Yoke, the most arbitrary and tyrannical in the World, without Redrefs, without Remedy; where the Governours have constant Temptations and Motives to opprefs, and the Governed no Means to refift or oppose? For no lefs than this are the Popish and High Church Demands upon us, and the inevitable Confequences of their wild and wicked Hypothefis.

If they are an Order of Men appointed directly by God, and have the Government of the Church by divine Right in all Things, which relate to Spirituals, (that is, in all Things wherein their own Interest is concern'd:) If they are to be fole Judges of their own Powers, and what Doctrines they are to teach; that the People are to receive them implicitly, and to fubmit to and be concluded by their Determinations, and if no human Authority must controul them; which I think those I write against all claim; (tho fcarce two of them agree in whose Hands, or or in what Part of the Clergy, these Powers are vested) then 'tis plain, they are possified of the most despotick, unlimited, and uncontroulable Sovereignty in the Universe, and which of Necessity must prove, and actually ever has proved, the most Cruel and Tyrannical in the Exercise.

But if they have not this Power, they can have none at all, but what the Civil Magiftrate or Voluntary Societies truft them with ; for, what is the Name of a Power, which every Man is a Judge whether he will fubmit to, or not? Or how can that be faid to be Divine, which the Civil Magistrate can controul at his Pleafure? There can be no Medium in Nature betwixt another's judging for me, and my judging for my felf: If another is to judge for me, I must submit to his Determinations, let them be ever fo abfurd, monstrous or wicked; but if I have a Right to re-examine them, they can amount to no more than Advice, and my own Judgment alone must determine me.

As I think I have amply proved that its inconfiftent with the Goodnefs of God to truft the Powers fo claimed with the Popifh Clergy; fo in my two next Papers, I will as fully prove that, in Fact, he has given them no Authority at all.

Indeed, to do them Right, the Popifh Priests do not pretend to offer any direct Texts to their Purpose, expressing particularly the Powers given them, and the Persons in in whom they are to be vefted; as might be reafonably expected in a Cafe fo nearly affecting the Liberties of all Mankind; and was actually done in the Jewifb Difpenfation, where every Circumftance relating to their Worship and the Prieft's Office was minutely defcribed; but instead thereof, they pick up fcatter'd and disjointed Sentences, and fet them together by the Ears, to try what they can get by the Scuffle : They argue from Types, Antitypes, Parables, Metaphors, Allegories, Allusions, Inferences, Patterns, Refemblances, Figures and Shadows, and by fuch Means can fetch every Thing out of every Thing.

The Bible is a Miscellanious Book, from whence craz'd or defigning Men, by joining or disjoining; by various Readings, corrupt or ignorant Translations; by far-fetch'd Interpretations, and putting different Meanings upon Words in Scripture from what they fignify in any other Parts of Language; by trifling and knavish Distinctions, metaphysical Subtilties, no Definitions, but thifting the Significations of Words as they have Occafion; by References to ancient Cuftoms, and Twenty other Theological Systems of Reafoning, may always fetch Materials to ferve their loofe or wicked Purpofes; as we actually find an Hundred different, and many of them almost contradictory, Religions are pretended to be deduced from that Book; and if the Priefts were let alone, they would find find a Thousand more, and burn for them all, (I mean other People.) But if Men would be contented to judge of the Gofpel Style. by the fame Rule as they do of other Writings : If they could be perfwaded that God Almighty, when he condescends to make use of human Language, intends to be underftood, and confequently uses Words in their common Acceptation; that when he defigned to reveal his Will to Babes and Sucklings (that is, to the Ignorant and Unlearned) $\bar{h}e$ did not chuse to do it in Riddles, to make Way for Interpreters, and that the Popish Clergy might have a Pretence for picking the Laity's Pockets; then I affirm, that the Bible is the plainest, openest, most moral, fignificant and intelligible Book in the World, in all Things which can be the Duty of a Man to know; and in no Part of it more fo, than in the prefent Difpute, which has been rendered fo perplex'd and intricate by Craft and Artifice: And I undertake in my two next Papers to make this out.

NUMBER XLVIII.

Wednesday, December 14. 1720.

The same Subject continu'd.

HERE is nothing in the Four Gofg pels to authorize or countenance the Diftinction of Ecclefiaftical and Civil; for as our Saviour renounced all worldly Power himfelf, fo he gave none. He neither used, nor allowed the Use of Force and Violence, to coerce and conquer Subjects to his Kingdom, which he declared was not of this World. As the Religion he taught was not to confift of outward Actions and Ceremonies, like the Worship of the Gentiles, but was to refide in the Mind, fo he chose proper Means to attain his End: He knew the Sword might make Hypocrites and Slaves, but never Converts; therefore he instructed his Apostles to win Mens Affection by Love and Gentleneis, to allure them by Example, and convince them by

by the Reafonableness of his Precepts, and he enabled them to prove their Mission by Wonders and Miracles; all which are directly contrary to the Proceedings of Mahomet, whose Aim was Temporal Dominion, and his Religion Imposture; and confequently Violence was necessary to propagate Both: for Absurdity can no Way be supported but by Tyranny; but Truth can ever defend it felf, and defires nothing but a fair Examination, a free Hearing and equal Favour.

He takes every Occasion to caution his Apostles against spiritual Pride, and claiming Superiority over others, or one another: The Powers he gave them were of another Kind, such as were proper to overcome the Prejudices of the innocent and well-meaning, tho mission of the innocent and well-meaning, tho mission of the governing Priesthood, (viz.) A Power against unclean Spirits, and to cast them out; to heal all manner of Sickness, and all manner of Diseases; and to raise the Dead. Sure no Clergyman pretends to these Powers.

He bids them provide neither Silver, nor Gold, nor Brafs, in their Pockets; nor Skrip for their Journey; neither Two Coats, nor Shoes, nor Staves: Much lefs Coaches. I prefume no Clergymen defires thefe Powcrs.

He orders them when they come into any House, to salute it; and if they do not receive them, and hear their Words, to depart from that House,

House, and shake off the Dust of their Feet. The Popish Clergy are for setting Fire to such an House, (as they did lately to several) and for burning and damning every one within it.

The Apostles Commission was to preach Christ to all Nations, in Matthew; and in Mark, to go into all the World, and to preach him to every Creature. The Popish Priest stays at Home, and preaches himself only, to his own Parish for Money.

Those who believed in the Apostles, and were baptized, had the Power of casting out Devils in Christ's Name, and speaking with new Tongues: They could take up Serpents; no deadly Thing they drank could hurt them; they laid Hands upon the Sick, and they recovered. Those who believe in the Popish Priest are the best Friends the Devil has; and instead of casting him out, for the most Part bring him in: They can speak Sense with no Tongue; nor dare venture on any Poison, but what proceeds from Gluttony and Drunkenness, with which they give their Votaries Diseases, instead of recovering them.

The Apostles were to be Witnesses of all which they had heard or feen faid or done by our Saviour; and who elfe could be fo? But the Popish Priest has no other Means of knowing Christ, than any Layman of equal Abilities and equal Application; nor can have any greater Motive or Inducement to preach him, except his Hire; which, as it first first fuborn'd his Predecessors to betray his Person, and take away his Life, so it has ever fince been the Occasion of Crucifying him a-new, by misrepresenting his Doctrines, and making them subservient to worldly Ambition and Interessors, which is so universal, that no Englishman can set his Foot out of his own Country, but he set the Clergy perverting the Scripture, and abusing the People.

Our Saviour himfelf appointed the Seventy Disciples, whom he fent before him Two by Two, in every Place where he intended himself to go, and gave them Powers almost equal to the Powers of the Apostles, (viz.) to heal the Sick, to tread on Serpents and Scorpions, and over all the Power of the Enemy, and that nothing should hurt them; but he was so far from giving any worldly Authority, that he tells them, he fends them forth as Lambs among ft Wolves; that they should carry nothing with them, but what soever House they came into, they should fay, Peace to that House, and should eat and drink fuch Things as the People gave them ; and whatever City they came into, they should eat fuch Things as were fet before them, for the Labourer is worthy of his Hire; (here it feems the People were to judge what Wages and Hire they deferve) and if any Persons refuled to receive them, they were to go into the Streets, and shake off the Dust of their Feet at them; which was all the Excommunication they were directed to use, and was nothing thing elfe but to leave them in their Sins, and preach to them no longer.

Whatever is meant by the figurative and abstruce Texts of binding and loofing, remitting and retaining Sins, is evidently confined to those it is spoken to, and seems to have Relation to the other World alone.

Now I would be glad to know by what Rules of Conftruction can the Powers, now claimed by any Sett of Clergy in the World, be brought from thefe Texts, or in what Senfe can any Clergyman be faid to be a Succeffor of the Apoftles, more than every Layman of equal Qualifications.

If our Saviour had intended to have conveyed down any Powers to any Man, or Set of Men whatfoever, it is impossible to believe but he would have expressed himself in the fullest and most fignificant Words; and lest no doubt behind him what those Powers were, and to whom they belonged. No Statute enacted amongst weak Mortals is penned fo loosly: What Lawyer in Westminster-Hall could have found out Sovereign Power in the Precept, Feed my Sheep? Or in our Saviour's Promise to affist the Apostles and perhaps all Christians in general, in these Words, I will be with you to the End of the World?

The Priefts of Delphos uttering, for the most part, their Oracles in forry and balderdash Poetry, gave Rife to a waggish Jest amongst the Ancients, viz. that Homer could write write better Verses than Apollo, who infpired him. But fure no one among Christians will be so profane, as to give Occasion to the Suggestion, that the Attorney-General can draw up a clearer and more intelligible Commission than the Apostles.

But tho' there is nothing in the Gofpels to juftify or excufe the prieftly Demands upon the Laity, yet there are many Texts expressly against them, in which our Saviour disclaimed all Authority over Men, and forbids his Disciples and Followers assuming Superiority over their Brethren, or censuring, judging, or using any one ill, for not receiving, or for opposing them.

In Luke the xiith, v. 13. A Man defires of our Saviour to fpeak to his Brother to divide his Inheritance with him; and his Anfwer is, Who made me a Judge, or a Divider over you.

In John, chap. xii. v. 47, 48. our Saviour declares, If any Man hears his Words, and believes not, that he will not judge him; for be came not to judge the World, but to fave the World. And in the next Verfe, leaves him to the Judgment of the Father, and tells him what will be his Doom.

In John, chap. xviii. v. 36. he was brought before Pilate for fpeaking Treafon againft Cæfar, and claiming the Temporal Kingdom of Judæa; and he took that Occafion to renounce all earthly Sovereignty, by declaring, His Kingdom was not of this World, C c and and gave his Reafon for it; which fo fatisfy'd the Roman Governour, ever jealous of his Master's Authority, that he pronounced him innocent, and would gladly have released him, if the Jewish Priests would have suffered it.

In Matthew, chap. vii. v. 1, 2, 3. he fays to his Disciples, Judge not, lest ye be judged; for with what Judgment ye judge ye shall be judged, and what Measure ye meet shall be measured to you again, &c.

In Luke, chap. ix. v. 53. James and John defired of him, that they might command Fire from Heaven to punish the Samaritans for not receiving him; which he was so far from confenting to, that he reproves them for it; and tells them, Te know not what Spirit ye are of, for the Son of Man is not come to destroy the World, but to save the World.

In the fame Chapter, John faid to him, Master, we saw one casting out Devils in thy Name, and we forbid him, because he followeth not with us. And Jesus faid, Forbid him not, for he that is not against us, is far us. A plain Precept for Christians to tolerate one another.

Thro' the whole xviiith Chapter of Matthew, our Saviour exhorts his Disciples to be humble, and to forgive Offences. And in the 15th Verse tells them, If thy Brother trespass against thee, go and tell him his Fault between thee and him alone; but if he will not hear thee, take one or two more with thee, &c.

and if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it to the Church, or Congregation: And if he negtect to hear the Church, let him be to thee like a Heathen or Publican; that is, have no more to do with him. And in the two Verses after, he tells them what a Church is, viz. When two or three are gathered together in my Name, I will be in the midst of them; and his Prefence, methinks, should be effectual to constitute a compleat Church, tho' a Parson is not one of the Company.

Indeed the whole New Testament is a Lesson of Humility, Humanity and Morality; the Sermon upon the Mount is nothing else; and we every where find constant Precepts and Cautions against Pride and Domination.

In the xxiiid of Matthew, our Saviour fpake to the Multitude, and to his Difciples, bidding them not to be called Mafter, for one is your Mafter, even Christ, all ye are Brethren; but he that is greatest amongst you, shall be your Servant; and whoever does exalt himsfelf, shall be abased; and he that shall humble himsfelf, shall be exalted.

In Luke, chap. xx. v. 46. he warns his Difciples to beware of the Scribes, who defire to walk in long Robes, and love Greetings in the Markets, and the higheft Seats in the Synagogues, and the chief Places at Feasts, (hear, O ye Popish Bishops, Priests and Deacons!) who devour Widows Houses, and for a Shew make long Prayers.

In Luke xxii. v. 24, 25, 26. There was a Strife among (t the Apostles which should be the greatest. And Jesus said unto them, The Kings of the Gentiles exercise Authority over them; and they that exercise Authority upon them, are called Benefactors. But ye shall not be so; but he that is greatest amongst you, let him be as the Younger; and he that is Chief, as he that does serve. The same in Matthew, chap. xx. v. 25, 26, 27. And he enforces this Precept in Verse 28. from his own Conduct, viz. Even as the Son of Man came not to be ministred unto, but to minister.

Our Saviour did not, like others, preach Doctrines to his Disciples which he refused to practife, but teaches them Modesty and Humility by his own Example: For in the 13th of John he washes their Feet himself, and bids them wash one another's. How different is this from the proud Spirit of his pretended Successors, who take Place of the Nobility and Gentry, and make the great Men of the Earth kifs their Slippers; falute them upon the Knee, as if they were Gods below, or Sovereign Princes; nay more, fet, themfelves above the Crown it felf; for what is it elfe they mean after faying Grace, and in their Cups by putting the Church (by which they mean Themfelves) before the King and Royal Family? We all know too well their Kindness for the People (who are the Scriptural and Legal Church) to fuspect that they mean them.

Not many Years fince, the conftant Health amongst them was, King, Queen, and Church; but now all the High Clergy are guilty of the fame Crime for which Cardinal Woolfey ought to have lost, and in all Likelihood would have lost his Head, if he had not prevented it, as it is faid, by Self-Murther, viz. of fetting themfelves above the Crown, and viva voce, crying out, Ego & Rex meus, when they are in the Humour of owning him as fuch.

I shall hereafter write a Paper on Purpose on this Subject; but in my next shall shew, that the Atts and Epistles no more favour their wild Pretensions than the Gospels.

An Inquiry into Religious Eftablishments, with a further Confutation of the impious and absurd Claims of High Priest.

O many are the various and contradictory Opinions and Reafonings of Men, that no voluntary Society or Affembly can act, or long hold together without eftablifhing certain Rules and Orders amongst themselves, regarding the Common Interests and Conduct of the Society, and appointing Persons whose Duty it shall be, to see those Orders put in Execution; and if any Member does not think it lawful or expedient to submit to the publick Regulations, they must have a Right to exclude him, or in other Words, to excom-

The Independent Whiz, 391 excommunicate him from their Body, if he does not chufe to feparate himfelf.

If the Defign of the Meeting is to worfhip God, to join in the fame Prayers, and for Exhortation and Edification, (which Affembly is called a Church) there must be Time and Place appointed when, and where, they are to meet, and Perfons to prepare and keep in order all Things necessary for their meeting: There must be one, or more, appointed to read those Prayers to the Congregation; in which they are to join, and to do all those Offices, which can be performed only by fingle Perfons; and if the Society would avoid the Loquacity and Interruption of ignorant and conceited Members, they must confine Exhortation to one, or to a few Perfons of approved Gravity and Wildom. There must be also some Means of conferring and agreeing together, to support the common Expences of Buildings, Repairs, Utenfils, &c. and confequently, there must be Debates. which cannot well be carried on without a President, Chairman, or Prolocutor, to regulate them, collect their Voices, and pronounce their Refolutions; without which Precautions they will be more likely to fight than pray.

If feveral of these Churches, residing at too great a Distance from one another to meet together, should esteem it their Duty or Advantage to join in the same Form of Worship, and unite in a common Interest to support it, they must find out some Means of Commu-C c 4 nication, nication, and contrive fome Cement of their Union, otherwife they would foon feparate again: This may be done by chufing Deputies to reprefent them, and concert common Meafures, or by fubmitting themfelves to the Conduct and Determinations of one, or more Perfons, chofen by common Confent, in all fuch Matters as do not interfere with their Duty to God; and the Perfons fo chofen can have no more Power, nor of longer Duration, than their Principals think fit to give them.

If these Churches think it their Duty or Interest to enlarge their Bottom, and make Converts, they cannot take a more effectual Method to do it, than to choose, appoint, or ordain discreet and honest Men, who are acquainted with their Way of Worship, their Ordinances, and the Reasons of them, and send them forth to teach, persuade, and convince others; to exhort them with Meekness and Love, (the likeliest Way to gain them) and afterwards to preside and watch over them, and thereby prevent their Straying and Apostatizing.

This was the Cafe in the Beginnings of Christianity, before National Churches were established, as well as the present Cafe of independent, voluntary Societies. The Apoftles Commission was, To go into all the World, and preach Christ to every Creature. Which was impossible for them to do in their own Perfons; and therefore as they made Converts, verts, they exhorted them to convert others, as Acts viii. v. 1, 4. When the Apofiles were left at ferusalem, the Church was scattered abroad through all Judæa and Samaria, and those who were scattered abroad preached the Word. Acts xi. v. 13, 14. They that were scattered abroad upon the Persecution that arose about Stephen, travelled as far as Phœnice und Cyprus, and preached the Word to none but the Jews only; and some of them when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus Christ, Chap. iv. v. 4. Peter and John converted Five Thousand. And v. 31. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the Word of God with Boldness.

And they were all enabled to prove their Miffion, by having the Power of working Miracles; for Mark xvi. v. 17, 18. these Signs were to follow those who believed in Christ's Name. They could caft out Devils; they could Speak with new Tongues; they could take up Serpents; no deadly Thing could hurt them; they could lay their Hands on the Sick, and recover them. John, chap. xxiv. v. 12. Our Saviour fays to his Disciples, Whoever believeth in me, the Works that I do shall he do, and greater than thefe shall he do: Which Gifts would have been unneceffary, if they had been to have made no Use of them; and by Virtue of these general Powers given to all Christians, Philip and Stephen, who were chosen by the Congregation to the menial Office of ferving Tables, Tables, preached, baptized, and did many Wonders and Miracles, Atts, chap. vi. v. 8. chap. viii. v. 7.

But befides the common Right which every Man had to preach Christ, and propagate his Kingdom, the Apostles prevailed with particular Persons to undertake it, and make it their Business, who were to affift and overfee the Brethren, as a Shepherd does his Sheep : Having the Gift of difcerning Spirits, they knew who were fittest for the Employment, and who would engage in it without any finister Views; but 'tis plain, they gave no Gifts or Advantages to them above other Chriftians. They could not give the Holy Ghost; which Power was confined to the Apostles alone, and, as far as appears, was bestowed without Distinction upon all who believed and were baptized.

The Power of fpeaking with Tongues, as is abovefaid, was given to all Believers; which appears to be in Scripture, one conftant and infeparable Mark of having received the Holy Ghost.

In Atts the 2d, v. 4. The Holy Ghoft fell on the Apostles, and they spake with Tongues. In Atts x. v. 46. While Peter spoke, the Holy Ghast fell on all who heard the Word, and the Jews were astonished when they heard the Gentiles speak with Tongues. Chap.xix. v. 6. Paul lays his Hands on certain Disciples, and the Hoby Ghost came on them, and they spake with Tongues, and prophesied. Atts the xith. v. 15. Peter.

Peter justifying himself to the Jews, for preaching to the Gentiles, fays, And as I began to Speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them as on us at the Beginning. Then remembred I the Word of the Lord, how that he faid, John indeed baptized with Water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghoft; for as much therefore as God gave them (viz. those who believed) the like Gift as he did to us, who believed in the Lord Jefus Christ, what was I that I should withstand God? So that here, from the Mouth of Peter himfelf we have it. that the Gentiles who believed, had the fame Gift as the Apostles. Chap. viii. v. 14. When the Apostles at Jerusalem had heard that the Samaritans had received the Word, they fent to them Peter and John, who laid Hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost, which they had not received before, the' they were baptized by Philip. In chap. ii. v. 38. Peter fays to them of Ifrael, Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the Name of Jesus Christ, for the Remission of Sins, and ye shall receive the Holy Ghoft; and v. 41. They gladly received the Word, and the same Day were added to them about Three Thousand Souls, who must have all consequently received the Holy Ghoft. Chap. viii. v. 8, 9. Paul speaking of the Gentiles, fays, God which knoweth the Hearts, bear them Witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us, and put no Difference between them and us, purifying their Hearts by Faith.

There-

Therefore it appears plain to me, that all who believed, efpecially by the Apoftles Ministration, received the Holy Ghost, and could do Miracles; and confequently, the Perfons aforefaid, by whatever Names they are called, were not defigned to be an Order of Men distinct from other Christians, with different Powers and Privileges. They undertook a Burthen, not a Command. They were better and poorer than other People, not their Lords and Masters; nor is there a Word in Scripture, whereby we can guess that they were intended to be Successors to the Apoftles, much lefs that the Succefforship was to continue to the End of the World; and 'tis evident in Fact, that there were no fuch appointed, because the Power of giving the Holy Ghoft, and in Confequence of doing Miracles, foon ceafed in the Church.

With this View, let us now examine the Atts and Epiftles, and fee what there is which contradicts it.

Acts xiv. v. 23. Paul and Barnabas ordained Elders in every City; and chap. xx. v. 17. Paul calls the Elders of the Church of Ephefus together; and v. 28. tells them their Duty, (viz.) Take heed therefore unto your felves, and to all the Flock, over the which the Holy Ghoft hat h made you Overfeers, to feed the Church of God, which he hath purchased with his own Blood. Here, luckily, the Word Episcopos is translated Overfeer, and not Bishop, because it is explained in the Text, to import no no more, than to feed the Church of God, that is, to affift them, to preach to them, to exhort them, to advife them, and give them good Examples; but all this implies no Jurifdiction, nor had the Apoftles any to give.

The solution of the solution o

Ephelians, chap. iv. v. 7, 11. Unto every one is given Grace, according to the Measure of the Gift of Christ; and he gave some Apostiles; and some Prophets; and some Evangelists; and some Pastors and Teachers; and in the next Verse tells for what (viz.) for the perfecting the Saints, (that is, all the Faithful) for the Work of the Ministry, and for the edifying the Body of Christ.

Romans, chap. x. v. 14, 15. How then shall they call upon him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him, of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a Preacher? And how shall they preach unless they be sent? This relates plainly to the Teaching of the Apossiles, who were sent to preach the Gospel to the unconverted World, that otherwise could have known known nothing of it, and possibly in a larger Senfe may be extended to all Christians, who had the Power as well as the Means to preach it, and confequently might be faid to be fent to do it; but I should be glad to know, by what Skill in Chymistry it has been discovered, or how it came to be guessed, that the Clergy of the many Nations in Europe, as by Law severally established, were the Persons meant; or if only one fort of them, which that is; when 'tis plain, they have no other Means of knowing Christ than the Laity have, and for the most part can tell them no more than they knew before.

Hebrews, chap. xiii. v. 7. Remember them which have the Rule over you, who have spoken anto you the Word of God, whose Faith follow, confidering the end of their Conversation: And, v. 17. Obey, by others translated, be persuaded by them that have the Rule over you, and submit your selves; for they watch for your Souls, as those who must give Account. Here it seems the Editors of our English Bible do not think fit to stand to their Translations; for in the Margent, against the Words Rule over you, in both Verses, they have inferted the Word Guides, which does not give us altogether so frightful an Image.

The Word translated Obey in the last Verse, is explained by the Word Remember in the first; and the Reason given in the One is, because you are to confider the End of their Conversation; and in the other is, because they watch watch for your Souls; fo that the Hebrews were exhorted to remember, hearken to, or be perfuaded by their Guides, who had fpoke to them the Word of God, which was the End of their Conversation, and who watched for their Souls: And, I think, all good Christians ought to do fo still, when they know where to find them, and the Clergy have agreed amongst themselves who they are.

At the latter end of the fecond Epistle to Timothy, in our Edition of the Bible, he is faid to be the first Bishop of Ephefus, by which, we are to understand, if we please, that he was in Possession of the Authority and Dignity of a Modern Prelate; but the Text fays no fuch Matter : Indeed Paul's rft Epifle, chap. 1. v. 11. fays, that the Glorious Gospel of Christ was committed to his Trust. that is, he was intrusted to preach it. And, v. 18. he commits the fame Charge to Timothy: But in chap. iv. v. 12, 13. he tells him what he is to do (viz.) he is to be an Example to the Believers in Word, in Conversation, in Charity, in Faith, in Purity; and till he comes himself, he is to give Attendance to Reading, to Exhortation, to Doctrine; and the rest of the Epistle is spent in telling him what Doctrine he is to preach.

In his 2d Epiftle, Paul fays unto him, And the Things thou hast heard from me among st many Witness, the same commit thou to faithful Men, who shall be able to teach others also; which he expresses summarily before, in these thefe Words, Lay Hands fuddenly on no Man; a Ceremony always used amongst the Jews, to denote a Person appointed for any Purpose, as well as on many other Occasions; so that Paul himself knew, by Inspiration, who was sit for his Charge, and Timothy was to make good Enquiry after faithful Men: But there is no Power here given but to preach the Sospel, and to employ others to do it; which I have shewn every one was at liberty to do, tho' all had not an equal Call, or were equally qualified for it; and therefore it was certainly good Advice to endeavour to find out such as were, and prevail upon them to undertake it.

In the Epistle to Titus, who it feems was another Bishop, he is directed to set in order the Things which are wanting (the Business amongst us of Church-Wardens and Vestry-Men) and to ordain Elders in every City, as Paul had appointed him; which alludes to private Directions before given, and proves nothing, but that Paul took the best Precautions and most prudent Measures to propagate Christianity, by reducing his Converts in every City, into orderly, though voluntary Societies, by finding out and appointing difcreet and honeft Men to affift and fuperintend the reft; and it cannot be doubted but the People who knew him to be infpired, would be advis'd by him, accept his Recommendations, and confequently hearken to, truft their Affairs, and be directed by the Wifdom of of Perfons to powerfully recommended; which Refpect and Deference has been always paid by every Sect that ever appeared in the World to their first Founders, and for the most part to their after Leaders too.

These are all the Texts that I can at prefent remember, which are usually brought to support the Priestly Claims, except such as plainly relate to our Saviour himself, or his Apostles; but if any others occur hereaster, I shall take Notice of them in proper Time.

But what has all this to do with a formal and folemn Inftitution, and eftablished Form of Government, a Political Oeconomy, or in Ecclesiaftical Language and Stile, a Spiritual Hierarchy?

What, must fovereign and independent Power, (without which, as I have shewn in my 48th Paper, there can be in this Cafe no Power at all) depend upon figurative Expressions, and Allusions to Seniority of Age, as Elders; to mean and low Professions, as Guides, Shepherds, Pastors, Teachers, Oversers, notably translated Bishops? Or upon the critical Knowledge of antient Eastern Terms, of doubtful and disputed Significations, which would put it in the Power of the very few Men faid to be skilled in the Oriental Tongues (which, for the most Part lick out all their Brains) to fettle what Establishments or Religion they please.

The Prophets and Evangelists often speak after the Manner of the Eastern Nations, D d which which was for the most Part figurative; where, for ever, to the End of the World, and fuch like Language, was frequently used to denote a long Space of Time; and therefore general Expressions in Scripture are not always to be taken strictly, as Covetousness is the Root of ALL Evil: Swear not ATALL: Children and Servants obey your Parents and Masters in All things. Take no Care for to Morrow: Take no Thoughts for your Life, what you shall eat, what you shall drink, or what you shall put on: Whatever you ask of my Father in my Name, he will give it you. Submit your felves to one another : Te younger be subject to the elder; yea be subject to one another: And there were many other Things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written, the whole World could not contain the Books; and more than an hundred others of the fame kind. When fuch Paffages occur, we must construe them by the Rules of Eternal Righteousness, the Reason of the Thing, and the general Bent of Scripture, and then we cannot miftake their Meaning, but in fuch Cafes as are of no Confequence, whether we do or not.

Befides, almost all Words vary their Meaning by Time, and every one of the least reading, knows that there is fcarce a Word in Nature, (except the proper Names of Perfons, Places, and Things) that is answer'd by any other in a different Language, fo as to comprehend exactly the fame Number of Ideas; nor is it pro-probable that any two Perfons of the fame Nation ever ufed one fuch Word minutely to the fame Purpofe; but if they were ask'd to give an adequate Definition of what they meant by it, would differ in fome Particular: therefore 'tis abfurd to fuppofe that Mens Duty and Eternal Salvation flould depend upon the nice Signification of fingle Hebrew and Greek Words; Languages fo long fince out of common Ufe, and dead.

The Almighty is too merciful to his Creatures to leave them at fuch Uncertainties, which is in effect to let them throw Crofs and Pile for their Religion: When he makes an Establishment, and gives Laws to Mankind, he always expresses himself in a manner not to be misunderstood; so he did in the Jewish Difpensation, where there was no dispute about the Meaning of their Law; though there is nothing in Scripture to countenance these Pretensions, yet the Gospel almost every where forbids them, as I have partly shewn in my last Paper, and shall unanswerably make out hereafter, when I shall more fully confider the Acts and Epifles; and then I will fhew that the Apoftles themfelves claim'd no Authority over other Chriftians, or any Power but of Perfwasion. I shall endeavour to fhew what is meant by Baptism and the Lord's Supper; and do undertake to prove, that the Clergy have no more Power from Scripture to administer them than Women and Laymen, and that nothing is meant Dd 2 by by Excommunication, but not keeping ill Company: I will fhew too that the Clergy, in the first Ages of Christianity, were always chosen by the People, and lived upon their Alms, and by what Steps of Impiety and Forgery the Popish Priesthood came to be Lords of sgreat a Part of the Terrestrial Globe.

NUMBER L. Saturday, December 24. 1720.

Of the Three High-Churches in England.

AVING in my former Papers given fome Account of the Scripture-Church; I fhall, in this, give an Account of the Three High Churches in England, which are very different from it. And tho' in order to this, I fhall be oblig'd to take in a good deal of Matter, and reveal many High-Church and Jacobite Secrets; yet, I hope to give the Town a clear Notion of them, them, in the Compass of one Paper. I shall, First, state what the true Church of England is; and then describe the Three High-Churches of England, shewing how they differ from one another, and from the true Church of England.

I. First, What the true Church of England is. All Churches by Law establish'd, are Creatures of that State, where they are fo establish'd. For whatever is establish'd, neceffarily depends on the Legislature, which can and does repeal and enact whatever it thinks fit, and always calls its prefent Constitution in Religion, The Church by Law establish'd. The Church of England therefore by Law establish'd, is whatever the Legislature has enacted, and continues in Force. in relation to Religion, together with whatever is enjoined by the Authority of the King, or is determin'd by the proper Judicatories, acting by the Authority of, and in Subordination to, the Legislature. Thus the Act of Parliament requiring the Subscription of the Thirty nine Articles; the Acts of Uniformity, and the Act of Toleration; the King's Injunctions, the Canons of Convocation confirm'd by the King; the Sentences of the Delegates, and the Determinations of the House of Lords, constitute the Church of England: And the Members thereof are good and true Members, who conform their Belief and Practice to the feveral Particulars aforesaid: As on the other fide, they fall fhort Dd 2 fhort of being good and true Members, who recede from any Particular establish'd and fettled as aforefaid. Nor can those be truly faid to agree with and conform to a Church, who do not agree with and conform to it in the Senfe intended by the Makers of the feveral Constitutions of that Church. This laft is fo plain a Truth in it felf, and fo manifeftly imply'd in taking all Oaths, and making Subscriptions and Declarations, that it would have been needlefs to have obferv'd it, had it not been for the Equivocation and Jesuitifm of fo many of our Priefts, who think they may take Oaths, and make Subscriptions, in Senfes contrary to, and different from, the Intention of the Impofers, and yet be good, and true, and perfect Members of the Church.

II. Now the High-Churches, which differ from this Establishment, are Three in Number: which I shall rank under the Names of the most remarkable Leaders in them. 1. Dr. Bungey's High-Church. 2. Mr. Lefley's High-Church. 3. And Dr. Brett's High-Church. The Two last are in an open Separation from one another, as well as from the true Church of England. But Dr. Bungey's High-Church has as yet made no Separation from the True Church. He and his People are only Schifmaticks in the Church, (as were those upon whom St. PAUL charges Schilm, when they were met together in the fame Church. 1 Cor. xi. 18.) being as his prefent Grace of of Canterbury defcribes fome High-Church Priests, a new Sort of Disciplinarians rifen up among our felves, who feem to comply with the Government of the Church, as others do with that of the State; not out of Conscience of their Duty, or any love they bear to it, but because they cannot keep their Preferments without it: They hate our Constitution, and revile all fuch as stand up in good earnest for it; and yet. for all that, go on to Subscribe and Rail; which Passage, from fo great an Authority, cannot be too often quoted.

But to proceed to the Description of these Three High Churches, in their Order.

1. Dr. Bungey's High-Church stands distinguilh'd from the True Church of England; by their Arminian Doctrines, contrary to our old Orthodox Calvinistical Articles; by their Enmity to the Act of Toleration, and to the Principles on which it is grounded; by their claiming an Independent Power in Priests to make Laws, and govern the Church; which is contrary to the Laws of England, that place the Power of making Church-Laws in other Hands, and particularly contrary to the Oath of Supremacy, which makes his Majesty Supreme Head of the Church; by teaching the Doctrines of Hereditary Right and Passive Obedience, contrary to the Judgment and Practice of the Legiflature at and fince the Revolution, and to the Determination of the House of Lords, on the Impeachment of Dr. SACHEVEREL, and Dd4 their their Condemnation of the Oxford Decree; and by a Spirit of Faction against the prefent Establishment in State, and against his Majesty's Measures; by Rebellion and Perjury, by Uncharitableness to all Foreign, and more especially to Domestick Protestants; and by an implacable Fury and Malice towards all Diffencers among us, besides Jews and Papists: In which they act contrary to the known loyal Principles of our Church; to its Opinion of all Foreign Protestant Churches, which it esteems true Churches; to its Principles, which all tend to preferve Liberty and Property; and to its known charitable and peaceable Temper, and Regard to tender Conficiences.

2. The Second High-Church is, Mr. LES-LEY'S High-Church. At the Revolution feveral Bishops, who were deprived by Act of Parliament, for not taking the Oaths to the Government, made an open Separation from the Church of England; and pretended, that they and their Adherents were the Church, charging those who fill'd their Sees with being Ufurpers, and fetting up Altar against Altar; and alfo charging them and their Adherents, together with all the other Bilhops, Clergy and Laity, who join'd in the fame Communion with the usurping Bilhops, with Schifm. Hereby also they diffinguish themfelves in Principles from the Church of England, which, being a legal Establishment, afferts to the Legislature, which has a Right to preferve their Peace, a Right to deprive Bi-

Bishops for Crimes against Law. They do not indeed fo much diftinguish themselves in Principles from Dr. Bungey's Church, as they do from the true Church of England: For the Doctor's Church equally contends with Mr. Lessey's Church against the Parliament's Right to deprive Bishops, and calls it Usurpation on the Rights of the Church; but is for Submission to such usurg'd Exercise of Power; and contends, Schism to be on the Side of those, who separate on a Principle of defending the Rights of the Church, against an Usurpation of those Rights.

This new feparate Church agrees with Dr. Bungey's Church, in the other Principles before-mention'd, which diftinguish the Doctor's Church from the true Church of England. But in Point of Honesty, or Adherence to those Principles, it greatly differs from the Doctor's Church, which goes on to Subscribe, and swear, and practise contrary to what they do subscribe and swear; Mr. Lessey's High-Church honestly practising in feveral Respects according to its villanous Principles.

3. Proceed we now to Dr. Brett's High-Church. Soon after King GEORGE's Acceffion to the Crown, the Bishops of the last mention'd High-Church did all, except one, assertion a Synod, where they resolv'd upon making Four Alterations in the Common Prayer Book, viz. 1. To mix Water with the Wine in the Sacrament. 2. A Prayer for the Dead.

. Dead. 3. A Prayer for the Descent of the Holy Ghost, upon the Bread and Wine in the Sacrament. 4. An Oblatory Prayer; which goes upon the Ground, that the Eucharift is a proper Sacrifice. All which Dr. Brett is not only an Advocate for, as an Author, but (perhaps) as Titular Archbishop of Canterbury exercifed his Authority in enjoining. This has split the last High Church into two Churches: Dr. Brett and his Followers adhering to the Bishops, or Church Governors of their Church, in Behalf of Wine and Water, &c. and Mr. Lefley and his Followers adhering to one Bishop only, in Behalf of Wine, dec. contrary to the Determination of their own Bishops, and all their own Principles, about the Authority of Bishops and Clergy.

To render my Account of our feveral High-Churches of England more compleat; I shall, by Way of Supplement, observe, that there is a Distinction in Dr. Bungey's Church ; and his High Church may be divided into two High-Churches. Some of his High-Church are Swearers to the Government, and fay the Church Prayers for his Majesty King GEORGE and his Family, continuing at the fame Time difaffected to him, and Enemies to his Legal Title. Others of the Doctor's High-Church are Non-fwearers; and, tho' they come to the Church, difown joining with the Swearers in the Prayers for the King and his Family; whofe Pra-Atice the profound Mr. DODWEL has defended fended in a Book, (whofe Title I fhall, up-, on Memory, venture to give the Reader) intitled, A further Prospect of the Case in View; Proving, that it is our Duty to be prefent at linful Prayers, made sinful by the Mistake of Fallible Superiors, who have a Right of imposing Prayers. So that, I think, the High-Churches of England may not improperly be reckon'd Four in Number; which may be juftly diffinguish'd by Things, as well as by Names of Men, after the following Manner.

- I. The Swearing and Forfwearing High-Church.
- II. The Non-fwearing High-Church, that contends for being prefent at the finful Prayers of the Church.
- III. The Non-fwearing Wine and Water Church.

IV. The Non-fwearing No Water Church.

An Analogy between ancient Heathenism and modern Priestcraft.

S Extremes meet in a Point, and Corruption in Terrestrial Bodies is the next State from Perfection; fo all the Commands and Denunciations of Heaven have not been able to keep the Christian Priesthood, in most Countries, from running Headlong into the Superstitions and Follies of the Gentile Idolaters. By a strange fort of Fatality, they have jump'd in the fame Thoughts, and play'd over and over again, the fame Tricks; infomuch, that if we but make fmall Allowances for the constant Alterations of Time, and fuch as must neceffarily refult from different Languages and Fashions, the present Romish Churches might be eafily mistaken for Heathen Temples, and the The Independent Whig. 413 the Services performed in them for Pagan Worship.

The Devil, as fubtle and cunning as he is reprefented to be, with all the Affiftance of corrupt Priefts, has not been able to find out a new Device, but has ever danced the Hay, and made his Rounds within the fame Circle. The fame Arts and Stratagems have been always made ufe of to feduce and delude Mankind ; the fame Advantages taken of their Weakneffes and Paffions, and in all Times equally applied to deftroy true Religion, advance the Priefthood, and make the honeft and induftrious, but unthinking, Part of the World, the Prey and Property of Hypocrites and Impoftors.

The All-powerful, All-wife, and All-merciful God himself, is too often represented like the Heathen Deities, to be revengeful, cruel, capricious, impotent, vain, fond of Commendation, and Flattery; and, in effect, fubject to all the other Paffions and Imperfections of the weakest Men: His Being, which is boundlefs as Extension, and which the whole World cannot contain, is pretended to be confined to fingle Structures, and narrow Edifices built with Hands; nay, to Parts of those Edifices; where he is supposed to be pleased and gratified, like frail Mortals, with coftly Furniture, gilded Roofs, engraven and polished Marble, fine Carving, and other curious, tho' baubling Workmanship of Mechanicks and Artificers.

I confess I am not wife enough to find out any effential Difference between the prefent and the old Roman Worship : They both dedicate their Temples to dead Men and Women. whom the Papifts call Saints, and the Pagans called Demi-Gods and Goddeffes : The latter Forms of Hocus Pocus, which they called Confectations; and were intended to conjure and call down their Deities to inhabit perfonally their Temples, their Images and Idols: The Popish Priests confectate their Churches for the fame Purpose, viz. to obtain the more immediate Prefence of the Deity: Like the old Romans too, they crect Altars in their Temples, where they worship Saints with Supplications, Tears, Grimaces, antick and difforted Faces and Gestures, Musick, and Ceremonies, and tender Offerings and Oblations to them; and, like the others, often make Processions, Cavalcades, and Shews in their Honour; and fometimes go in Pilgrimages to them to obtain their Favour.

The Popish Priests have prophaned the plain and simple Direction of our Saviour to his Disciples, for commemorating the Benefits we have received by his Death, by turning it into an old Roman Sacrifice: Amongst them, the Pipers and Harpers were the Forerunners of the Shew; and before the modetn Sacrifice, the Organs strike up a Tune: There the Priests went up to the Altar in a white Garment free from Spots, (being an Emblem of Innocence;) in new Rome the Priest wears a white Surplice: The Heathen Priest turned about to the East, being the Region of the Rifing Sun, and bowed; the Popish Priest does the fame: The Horns of the Beaft facrificed were marked with Gold, and his Blood received in Golden and Silver Veffels ; here the pretended Christian Sacrifice of the real Body and Blood of Chrift, is poured into the fame coftly Cups, or laid upon as rich Plates and Dishes: The old Roman Altar was raised, by feveral Steps, above the Floor of their Temples; fo is the prefent. The Prieft, amongst them, made a crooked Line with his Knife from the Head to the Tail of the Victim; the Popish Priest plays Tricks of Legerdermain with his Fingers over the Elements : Laftly, When the Beaft was confecrated and killed, the Heathen Priests regaled themselves upon what was left, after their Gods were ferved; the Romifs Priefts make it prophane for any Layman to drink of the confecrated Wine, or for any one even to eat the Bread but the Communicants.

The old Romans had different Orders of Priest, with different and diffinct Offices and Revenues, viz. the High Priest, the Luperci, the Augurs, the Haruspices, the Pontifices, the Flamines, Salii, Feciales, Sodales, the Duumviri, Decemviri, Quindecemviri, the Keepers of the Sybilline Books, the Corybantes, &c. The present Romans (besides the several Sorts which are in Use and Fashion amongst us) have a Pope, Cardinals, Dominicans, nicans, Franciscans, Jesuits, Carmelites, Benedictines, Mendicants, Capuchins, Cistertians, Observantines, Augustines, Servites, &c. In imitation also of the Vestal Virgins, in old Rome, they have founded several Orders of Nuns, who take a Vow of Chastity, for the Breach of which they are immured, as the others were burned alive : And as they had a Right to deliver from the Hands of Justice, any Malesactors they casually met in their Walks; fo the present Romis Priests claim and exercise an equal Right to protect all Criminals who can fly to them for Protection, which is borrowed from that of the old Roman Afyla.

The old Romans had their Dies fastos & nefastos, their Fasts and Feasts, their Sacrificia, their Epulas, their Ferias, in Honour of their Gods and Demi-Gods; the present Romans also make distinctions of Days a great part of their Religion; they too have their Dies fastos & nefastos, their stated Fasts and Feasts in Honour of their Saints, or to commemorate and condole past Missfortunes, or rejoice over signal Success; and some of their Feasts, and particularly their Carnivals, exceed in Lewdness and Prodigality the Bacchanalia of the Ancients.

The Heathens had their Deos Tutelares, to whom the Defence of certain Countries were committed; and their Deos Presides, who had the Safe-guard of particular Cities; the Papists have Saints, who supply the fame Offices:

Offices: Artificers and Professions have also their particular Saints who prefide over them; Scholars have their Saint Nicholas, and Saint Gregory; Painters, Saint Luke; as Soldiers and Lovers had formerly their Mars, and Venus: Diseases too have their Saints to cure them; as the Pox, Saint Roque; the falling Evil, Saint Cornelius; the Tooth-Ach, Saint Apollin: And even Beasts and Cattle have their's; Saint Loy is the Horseleech, and Saint Anthony the Swincherd.

As the Heathen Priests would suffer none to come into their Sanctuaries but themfelves; neither will the Popi/b Priests permit any Layman to come within the Rails of the Altar, and profane with unhallowed Feet that Holy Place. As the Ancients obliged all who were initiated into their Mysteries to confess, under the most fevere Denunciations, all the Secrets of their past Lives, by which Means they were fo much in their Power, that they never afterwards durst blab our what they faw, nor give the least Opposition to their Defigns; fo the Romish Priests trust their Mysteries only to the vere Adepti, and have made the fame use of Confession, (the loss of which is forely lamented by others;) for they oblige, upon the Penalty of Damnation, all their Votaries to confess not only their private Sins, but fecret Thoughts, as well as every Thing elfe they know of other Peoples, which may any way regard the Interests of their Order; and Ee and fo have Possessin and fast hold of all Families, and become acquainted with all the Designs, which may ever thwart their Pride; and consequently have secured their own Domination, and the Peoples Misery, beyond almost a possibility of Redress.

Lastly, as the Heathen Priests facrificed Goats to Bacchus, for browfing his Vines; and Men to Pluto and Proferpina, and other angry Deities, to appeale their Wrath, and avert Evils from themfelves; fo the Popish Priests facrifice and devote their Enemies, under the Names of Hereticks and Schifmaticks, to the infernal Fiend: And as those Idolaters were allowed to know when was the most proper Time to make their Sacrifices to their Deities, and what Victims would be most acceptable to them, as being prefumed to understand best the Minds of their provoked Gods; fo the prefent Ones are in Possession of the fole Judgment of what is Herefy, and of facrificing by that Means whom they please to their Ambition and Revenge; which equally fubjects the unhappy Laity to them.

They have also imitated the Heathens in making every human Foible and Imbecility, as well as every common and uncommon Appearance in Nature, contribute to their Interests; which shall be the Subject of my next Paper.

Priefly Empire founded on the Weaknesses of Human Nature.

HERE is not a living Creature in the Universe, which has not some innate Weaknefs, or original Imbecility co-eval to its Being; that is, fome Inclinations or Difgusts, some peculiar Desires or Fears, which render it an easy Prey to other Animals, who, from their con-Ritutional Sagacity or Experience, know how to take Advantage of this Infirmity; of which it would be needlefs, as well as endlefs, to enumerate Particulars; my Purpofe being only to fhew, that all the Dignity of human Nature, and the Superiority which Almighty Ee 2 God

God has given to Man above other Beings, has not exempted him from this Imperfection; which probably was left in his Fabrick, to put him in mind of his Mortality, humble his Pride, and excite his Diligence.

The peculiar Foible of Mankind, is Superstition, or an intrinsick and pannick Fear of invisible and unknown Beings. It is obvious to every one, that there must be Caufes in Nature for all the Good or Evil which does, or ever can happen to us; and it is impossible for any Man fo far to divest himself of all Concern for his own Happines, as not to be follicitous to know what those Caufes are; and fince, for the most part, they are so hidden and out of fight, that we cannot perceive or difcover them by our own Endeavours, we conclude them to be immaterial, and in their own Nature invisible; and are, for the most part, ready to take their Accounts, who have the Dexterity to make us believe that they know more of the Matter than we do, and that they will not deceive us.

To this Ignorance and Credulity joined together, we are beholden for the moft grievous Frauds and Impositions, which ever did, or do yet oppress Mankind, and interrupt their Happiness, viz. for the Revelations and Visions of Enthusiasts, for all the forged Religions in the World, and the Abuses bufes and Corruptions of the true One; as well as all the idle and fantaftical Stories of Conjurers and Witches, of Spirits, Apparitions, Fairies, Dæmons and Hobgoblins, Fortune-Tellers, Aftrologers, and the Belief in Dreams, Portents, Omens, Prognofticks, and the feveral Sorts of Divinations, which, more or lefs, difturb the greatest Part of the World, and have made them the Dupes and Property of Knaves and Impostors in all Ages.

Every thing in the Universe is in constant Motion, and where ever we move we are furrounded with Bodies, every one of which must, in a certain Degree, operate upon themfelves and us; and it cannot be otherwise, that in the Variety of Actions and Events, which happen in all Nature, but fome must appear very extraordinary to those who know not their true Causes. Men naturally admire what they cannot apprehend, and feem to do some fort of Credit to their Understandings, in believing whatever is out of their Reach, to be Supernatural.

From hence perpetual Advantages have been given to, and Occafions taken by, the Heathen and Popifh Priefts, to circumvent and opprefs the credulous and unwary Vulgar; what fraudulent Ufes have been made of Eclipfes, Meteors, epidemical Plagues, Inundations, great Thunder and Lightnings, and other amazing Prodigies, and feeming E e 3 Mena-

Menaces of Nature? What jugling Tricks have been or may be acted with Glaffes, fpeaking Trumpets, Ventriloquies, Ecchoes, Phofphorus, magick Lanthorns, &c. in the ignorant Parts of the World? The Americans were made to believe, that Paper and Letters were Spirits, which conveyed Mens Thoughts from one to another; and a dancing Mare was, not many Years fince, burnt for a Witch in the Inquisition in Portugal.

Nature works by a Thousand Ways imperceptible to us: The Loadstone draws Iron to it, Gold Quickfilver; the fenfitive Plant fhrinks from the Touch; fome forts of Vegetables attract one another and twine together; others grow farther apart; the treading upon the Torpedo affects, and gives raging Pains to our whole Bodies; Turkey-Cocks and Pheafants fly at a red Rag; a Rattle Snake, by a fort of magical Power in his Eyes (as it is faid) will force a Squirrel to run into his Mouth: Musick will cure the Bite of a Tarantula; the Frights and Longings of Women with Child, will stamp Impressions upon the Babes within them : People, in their Sleep, will walk fecurely over Precipices, and the Ridges of Houfes, where they durst not venture, when awake; Lightning will melt a Sword without hurting the Scabbard.

There

There is fomething within us, which we all feel, that baffles and gets the better of our best Reasonings and Philosophy; and this shews it self in Love, in Fear, in Hatred, Ambition, and almost every Act of the Mind ; but in nothing fo much as in Superflition : Sometimes we find a fecret Pannick, and at other times a strange and uncommon Energy, or Feeling of a mighty Power within us; and not being able to account, by any Conduct of Reason, or other Causes in Nature, for fuch Perceptions, are eafily perfwaded to believe them to be Supernatural : And from hence great Philosophers, Poets, Legislators. famous Conquerors, and often Madmen, have been thought in many Ages, by themfelves as well as others, to be infpired; and even Diftempers, fuch as, Apoplexies, Epilepfies, Prophetick Fits and Trances have been deemed miraculous.

Nothing firikes fo firongly upon our Senfes, as what caufes Surprize and Admiration: There are very few Men, who are not affected with unufual Sounds and Voices, the Groans of others in Mifery, the Solemnity of a Coronation, or any publick Shew, the Pomp of a Funeral, the Farce of a Proceffion, the Power of Eloquence, the Charms of Poetry, the rich and fplendid Equipage of great Men, or the folemn Phiz and Mien of an Enthuliaft. Whoever therefore can find out the Secret of hitting luckily upon this E e 4 Foible Foible and native Imbeaility in Mankind, may govern them and lead them as he pleafes. And herein has confifted the greateft Skill and Succefs of crafty Priefts in all Ages: They have made ufe of this Power to turn us and wind us to all their Purpofes, and have built and founded most of their Superstitions upon it; and confequently, have ever adapted their Worship rather to catch our Passions, than convince our Minds, and enlighten our Understandings; all which is directly contrary to the Spirit of Christianity and the Precepts of our Saviour, as shall be fully shewn in the next Paper.

For this Reafon the Heathens built their Temples in Groves, in folitary, dark and defart Receffes, by or over Caverns, Grottoes, or in the midft of ecchoing and refounding Rocks, that the hideous and difmal Afpect, and often hollow and hoarfe bellowing of fuch Places, might ftrike a folemn Awe and religious Horror into their Votaries, and fometimes help their Imaginations to hear Voices, and fee Forms, and fo intimidate and prepare them for any Stories and Impreffions, which they fhould think it their Intereft to make.

glimmering Light; arched and contrived in fuch manner, as to refound the Voice hollow and shrill; with many private Apartments, Cœmetaries for their Saints, proud Inscriptions, whifpering Places, fecret Chappels for Confessions, faying Masses, Dirges, Penances, &c. Like the Heathens too, they build their Temples folemn and magnificent, in antick and uncommon Figures, adorn them with Silver and Gold, rich Carpets, curious Statues, and Images fluck about with Jewels ; and their Priests appear in gaudy Vestments, and fantastical Robes and Caps, and perform their Worship with Musick and affected Ceremonies; all which Pageanrry and Farce is calculated, and intended to act upon the Passions, attract the Eyes, amuse, lull and fufpend the Understanding, and draw Admiration and Reverence to those who preside in these haughty Fabricks, and this pompous Adoration : Their Bells too, which call the People together, are contrived to emit fuch Sounds, as affect the Minds of most People, with a fort of fuperstitious Melancholly.

Indeed, as the Romish Priests are more numerous, have vastly larger Revenues, and more Leisure, fo they have greatly improved upon the Heathens in this Art of deceiving; infomuch, that there is fearce an Imperfection or Error of human Nature, which is not adopted into their Scheme, and made subfervient fervient to their Interest. Men of sprightly Genius and Courage are caught by their Ambition, are highly honoured, flattered, and raifed up by their general Voice to the highest Dignities, and then are indulged in all their Passions, and gratistic with Confessors, who are not only to overlook or pardon, but assist them in their vicious Pleasures; by which Arts those great Talents, instead of being nobly employ'd to free Mankind from sacerdotal Usurpations, are meanly perverted to support and aggrandize the monkiss Empire.

Men of violent and impetuous Tempers, are fuitably employ'd to execute their Tyrannical Defigns, and to take Vengeance of their Enemies; and the Debauched and Wicked are made to buy their Peace of Heaven, by giving Money and Lands to the Priest; but none contribute fo much to advance their Syftem, as Visionaries and Enthufiasts: There are, in all Countries, Multitudes of People, whom Ignorance, Pride, Conceit, ill Habit of Body, melancholly and fplenatick Tempers, unfortunate, Circumftances, caufeless and fecret Fears, and a pannick Disposition of Mind, have prepared to be the Objects, as well as Inftruments of Delusion, and they have been ever made use of accordingly.

Some of these are thrust or decoyed into religious Houses, or perswaded to lead retired, retired, reclufe and auftere Lives, and to forture and punish themfelves with Whippings, Penances, Falting, and to walk Barefoot, to altonish the gaping Multitude, and thereby gain Reverence to the Priesthood, for their fancied Holines; whils the governing Ecclesiasticks feast and riot in delicious Banquets, ride in State with Coaches and Six, attended by numerous Servants in costly Liveries; and Earth and Sen is ranfacked, and Heaven it felf profaned, comaintain their Luxury and Pride.

Such amongst them as are differed to hear Voices and fee Forms, shall bear and fee enough of those, which are real ones, and afterwards be made use of to divulge them; and in order to it, their Sanctity shall be proclaimed abroad, and their mad and incoherent Speeches be called Revelations, heavenly Dispensations, and incomprehensible Mysteries. Such crazed and fanatical Men and Women have been the Founders of most of the Colleges, Monasteries, and Nunneries of the Ramis Church, (to fay nothing of others) and their Follies and Madness been the Support of the Papal Dominion.

But this artificial Devotion, this mechanick Religion has nothing to do with Chriftianity; which is natural Religion reftored and improved, and confifts in Virtue and Morality, and in being ufeful and beneficent to one another, as I shall shew in my next Paper. The

The Prophets have taught us the fame Leffon: The First Chapter of Ifaiah fully shews, that Religion does not confist in Sacrifices, in Burnt-offerings of Rams, and the Fat of fed Beasts, in the Blood of Bullocks, and of Lambs, and of He-Goats, in vain Oblations, Incense, New Moons, Sabbaths, and Calling of Assemblies, in appointed Feasts, or many Prayers; but in doing Good to Mankind. The Prophet sums up our Duty in these Words, Cease to do evil, learn to do well, seek Judgment, relieve the Oppressed, judge the Fatherless, plead for the Widow; for, as another Prophet says, What doth the Lord reguire of thee, O Man, but to do justly, and to lave Mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? In what only true Religion confifts.

Have undertaken in this Paper to prove, what, methinks, should want no Proof; namely, that the All-powerful God is not a whimfical and humorous Being, that governs his Creatures by Caprice, and loads them with arbitrary and useless Burthens, which can ferve no good Purpose in Nature.

The Almighty is infinitely happy in his own Perfections, and cannnot receive Pleafure from fuch Things or Actions, as only the weakest Men are fond of, and the wisest contemn. He is not capable, like Mortals, of being ruffled by Accidents, or furprized by Disappointments. Wisdom, Goodness and Felicity, are effential to his Being; and confequently,

It is abfurd therefore to fuppole, that there can be any Merit in bare Opinions and abstrufe Speculations; or in the Performance of indifferent and useless Actions; or, indeed, that any thing can be Part of true Religion, but what has a tendency to make Men virtuous and happy. The Father of Mercies will never perplex our Minds, or burthen our Bodies, with any thing that fignifies nothing.

Moses indeed gave to the Jews a carnal Law, a Law of Bondage; a Toke, which nei= ther they, nor their Posterity could bear; Statutes which were not good, and Judgments by which they could not live. But these were given them for the Hardness of their Hearts, and as Punishments for their manifold Sins and Iniquities. And befides, they were only to tail for a Time, and afterwards give way to a fimple, pure, and perfect Law, to a fpiritual, innocent, and undefiled Religion: free from their own fond Superstitions, and the stale Idolatries of the Gentiles; not load. ed either with Priests, Sacrifices, or Ceremonies; a Religion, which was to confift in Spirit and in Truth, and intended to make Men wiser and better.

Íc

It feems plains to me, that there is bur one Article of Faith in all this Religion, and that Effential to the very Being of it; namely, that Jefus is the Meffials: Without this preliminary Acknowledgment, his Miffion could not have been owned, nor his Precepts obeyed; which are nothing elfe bur Exhortations to Love, and Directions for focial Happinefs; and which he has enforced, by annexing eternal Rewards to the Obfervance of them. Hitherto Virtue had expected its Reward in this Life; but our Saviour gave new Sanctions to it, by bringing Life and Immortality to Light.

There is no Proposition in all Scripture more evidently reveal'd, or laid down in more politive and express Terms, than that the Confession of this Truth, was the Basis and Support of Christianity, the unum magnum requisite to be believed: Every thing else is practical Duty, and Belief is no farther concern'd in it, than as it produces Practice. For before we can think our felves obliged by a Precept, we must be fatisfied of its Reasonableness, or of the Legislator's Authority.

The World had been fo long corrupted by Superfition, and deluded and abufed by felfish and lying Priests, who taught Wickedness for Virtue, and Nonsense for Philosophy, and placed Devotion in foolish Ceremonies and Sactifices, and in ridiculous Cringes, Cringes, antick Vestments and Grimaces, that nothing less than a Divine Legislator, with the Power of Miracles, could restore Men to their Senses and to Natural Religion. The fole Article therefore that our Saviour made necessary to be believed was, That he came from God, and acted by the Authority of God. Then every one would see the Impossibility that he could deceive or mislead Men, and consequently would take his Word for every thing elfe, in the Sense he understood it.

And this Proceeding was agreeable to eternal Reafon; namely, to make nothing neceflary in Belief, which was not neceflary to Practice; for what Purpose could be served in obliging Men to believe, or rather to fay they believed, mysterious and unintelligible Propositions? Such Articles are only the Watch-words of a Party, and can never be the Objects of real Affent; for no Man can be faid to believe what he does not understand, and has not fuitable Ideas of, as far as his Belief goes. We must understand the Meaning of every Term in a Proposition, before we can assent to it or dissent from it : for Words, of which we do not understand the Signification, are the fame to us as if they had no Signification at all. How much therefore more honeft and prudent would it be to own, at first, our Ignorance concerning certain abstruse Speculations, than to form form Propositions about them, pretend to define and explain them, and then confess that we do not understand our own Definitions and Explanations; and call out Herefy and Atheisim, when we are defired to speak intelligibly, and tell what we mean?

But to the Proofs from Scripture: John iii. 8. fays, He that believeth in him is not condemned; but he that believeth not, is condemned already. And v. 36. He that believeth on the Son, hath everlasting Life; and he that believeth not on the Son, shall not see Life. And chap. vi. 40. Every one who feeth the Son, and believeth on him, may live eternally. And v. 51. I am the living Bread which came down from Heaven; if any Man eat of this, he shall live for ever. And Acts x. 43. To him all the Prophets bear Witness, that through his Name, whoever shall believe in him, shall receive Remission of Sins. And chap. xvi. v. 31. And they faid, Believe on the Lord Jesus Chrift, and thou shalt be saved, and thy House. And Rom. chap x. v. 9. If thou shalt confess with thy Mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine Heart, that God hath raifed him from the Dead, thou shalt be saved. Ift Epistle of John, chap. iv. v. 2, 3, and 15. and chap. v. ver. 1. to the fame purpofe.

These, with many more plain and direct Texts, make only this Article necessary to be believed, and supersede all others. Nor is this required of us, barely because it is true, or to gain adventitious Honour to the Deity, who wants not the Applause of poor mortal Men; for fuch Belief could fignify nothing: But it was required of us to obtain Obedience to his Commands, and direct our Practice, to promote virtuous Actions, and the Principles which produce them. John, chap. v. ver. 24. Verily, verily, I fay unto you, He that heareth my Word, and believeth on him, that sent me, hath everlafting Life. And chap. viii. v. 31. Jefus faid to those Jews which believed in him, if ye continue in my Word, then are ye my Disciples indeed. So that Faith in Chrift is not enough, unless we obey his Word; or rather, we cannot be truly faid to believe in him, whilft we reject, his Commandments. If Epiftle General of, St. John, chap. ii. v. 3, 4. And bereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his Commandments: He that faith, I know him, and keepeth not his Commandments, is a Lyar, and the Truth is not in him. But whofo keepeth his Word, in him verily is the Love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

Let us therefore fee what are those Commands, in the Observance of which Christianity consists. It does not consist in the Observance of Days, nor Months, nor Time, nor Tears, Gal. iv. and 9. And Rom. xiv. v. 5. One Man esteemeth one Day above another, another Man csteemeth every Day alike: Let every Man be fully persuaded in his own Mind.

It does not coulift in politive Institutions, in Forms and Ceremonies. 1 Cor. chap. vii. V. 19. Circumcision is nothing, and Uncircumcifion is nothing, but keeping the Commandments of Christ. And Gal. vi. V. 15. In Christ Jesus, neither Circumcision availeth any Thing, nor Untircumcision, but a new Creature. Gal. v. Vet. 6. to the fame Purpose.

It does not confift in Meats nor Drinks, in Fift nor in Flefh. 1'Cor. chap. viii. v. 8. Meat commendeth us not to God; for neither if we eat, are we the better; nor if we eat not, are we the worfe. But take heed left this Liberty of yours become a Stumbling-Block to them that are weak. And Rom. xiv. v. 17. The Kingdom of God is not Meat nor Drink; but Righteoufnefs, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost.

It confifts not in long Prayers, nor in many Prayers. Mat. vi. v. 7. When ye pray, use not vain Repetitions, as the Heathens do; for they think they shall be heard for their much speaking. Re ye not therefore like them; for the Father knoweth what Thing ye have need of before ye ask. Indeed, it seems plain to me from this Text, as well as from the Reason of the Thing, that Prayer itself becomes chiefly a Duty, as itraises our Minds, by a Contemplation of the Divine Wildom, Power and Goodness, to an Acknowledgment of his repeated Bounties to Mankind; and as it disposes us to an Imitation of those high Perfections, Ff 2 and and to be merciful and beneficent to one another. For it is abfurd to fuppofe, that we can direct the All-wife Being in the Lifpenfations of his Providence; or can flatter or perfuade him out of his eternal Decrees. If therefore any Texts in Scripture feem to carry a contrary Implication, I conceive they ought to be underflood with the fame Allowances as those are, which fpeak of God's Hands and Feet, and of his being fubject to human Paffions.

At does not confift in Sacrifices performed in pompous Churches and magnificent Buildings, or in confectated Trinkets. Acts xvii. v. 24, 25. God, that made the World, and all Things therein, feeing that he is Lord of Heaven and Earth, dwelleth not in Temples made with Hands, neither is worshipped with Mens Hands, as though he wanted any thing, feeing be giveth to all Life and Breath, and every Thing. Acts vii. v. 48, 49, 50. The most High dwelleth not in Temples made with Hands. Heaven is his Throne, and Earth is his Footstool; what House will ye build to me, faith the Lord; or where is the Place of my Reft? Hath not my Hand made all Things?

His Being is univerfal, not confin'd to Churches, Chappels, Choirs, nor Altars; but his Prefence is every where alike, and not more immediately in one Place than another. Acts xvii. v. 27, 28, 29. He is not far from every one of us, for in him we live live and move, and have our Being, as certain alfo of your own Poets, have faid, for we are his Offspring; for as much therefore as we are the Offspring of God, we with not to think that the Godhead is like ...o Gold or Silver, or Stone graven by Art or Man's Device.

The Almighty has no favourite Opinions, Sects and Nations. Acts x. v. 34, 35. And Peter opened his Mouth and faid, Of a Truth, I perceive that God is no Respecter of Persons; but in every Nation he that feareth him and worketh Righteousness, is accepted of him. Rom ii. v. 11. There is no Respect of Persons with God. Colof. iii. v. 11. There is neither Greek, nor Jew, Circumcision, nor Uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, Bond nor Free, but Christ is all, and in all. Gal. iii. v. 28. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither Bond nor Free, there is neither Male nor Female, for ye are all one in Jesus Christ.

How therefore fhall we workhip him? how know his Will? St. John tells us, chap. vii. V. 16, 17. If any Man will do God's Will, he will know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God or not: That is as much as to fay, "Make use of the Judgment which God has given you; and see whether the Doctrine taught you, be worthy of an Omnipotent Author; see whether it teaches Peace and "Love to your Neighbour, Compassion to Ff 3 " all

" all in Diftress, Forbearance of Injuries, " Humanity and indulgence to all who dif-" fer from you, Duty to Parents, Submif-" fion and Obedience to the Laws of your " Country, and Charitableness and Benevo-" lence to all Mankind, and even to the " Brute Creation; then you may be fure " fuch Doctrine comes from God. But if " it breathes forth Revenge, and implacable " Hatred: if it raises Mobs, Civil Wars, " and Perfecutions, for triffing Opinions; if " it has for it's End Ambition and worldly " Pride, and overturns every thing Sacred " and Civil, which stands in its Way; if it " encourages the worft Men, and oppresses " the best; if it discourages Industry, and " depopulates Nations; then there are plain " Traces of Satan's, or the Popifs Priest's " Foot in it, and fuch a Religion can never " come from God,

When you have made this your beft Ufe of the Faculties God has given you, your Endeavours will certainly be accepted by him; and you will meet all the Reward which attends the judging right, fince you, have done all in your Power to do fo: For God puts upon no Man the Agyptian Task of making Bricks without Straw; nor requires any thing which you cannot perform. Rom. chap. ii. v. 10, 11. Glory, Honour, and Peace, to every Man who worketh Good; to the Jew first, and then to the Gentile; for.

as many as have finned without Law, shall be punished without Law: and those that have finned in the Law, shall perish by the Law. And, V, 14. 15. For when the Gentiles, which have not the Law, do by Nature the Things of the Law, they are a Law unto themselves: Which sheweth the Work of the Law written in their Hearts; their Conscience also bearing them Witness; and their Thoughts the mean while accusing or else excusing one another.

So that the Gentiles themfelves are to be judged by their Sincerity, and not condemned for involuntary Errors. Rom. xiv. v. 10, 11, 12. 13. Why dost thou judge thy Brother? As I live, faith the Lord, every Knee shall bow to me, and every Tongue shall confess to God; so then every one of us shall give an Account to God. Let us not, therefore, judge one another any more. And, v. 22. we are told who will be judged to Happines; Happy is he who condemneth not himself in that Thing which he alloweth. I Epistle General of St. John chap. iii. v. 21. Beloved, if our Hearts condemn us not, then have we Considence towards God.

Cornelius, tho' a Heathen, is commended in Acts the xth, v. 2. as a devout Man, and one that feared God with all his House, which gave much Alms to the People, and prayed to God always: And Lydia, a Seller of Purple, tho' neither a Jew nor a Christian, is faid to Ff 4 bo be a Worshiper of God, and one whose Heart God had open'd, before she heard the Preaching of Paul, Acts xvi. v. 14.

This comprehensive Charity, this Spirit of publick Beneficence, runs every where through the New Testament; nor can I find any Precept there given, but what is manifestly advantageous to Mankind, conducing to their present Happiness, and deducible from eternal Reason, and the Result of it. Mat. xxii. v. 35, to 39. A Lawyer ask'd of our Saviour, which is the great Commandment of the Law? And Jesus faid unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul, and with all thy Mind. This is the first and great Commandment: And the second is like unto it; Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy felf: Upon these Two Commandments bang all the Law and the Prophets.

Another Lawyer asks of him, (Luke x, 25.) What shall I do to obtain eternal Life? and he faid unto him, What is written in the Law? kow readest thou? And he faid, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Soul, and all thy Strength, and all thy Mind, and thy Neighbour as thy felf. And he faid unto kim, Thou hast answered right: Do this and thou shalt live. And chap. xviii, v. 18, and 20, &c. A certain Ruler ask'd him, faying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal Life? And Jesus faid, Thou knowest the Commandmandments: Do not commit Adultery, do not kill, do not fteal, do not bear falfe Witnefs; honour thy Father and thy Mother. He indeed adds afterwards another Condition, which was to fell all he had and give it to the Poor; which the Ruler could not bring himfelf to comply with: tho' I dare fay he would have promifed to have believed Creeds by the Dozen, if those would have done him any fervice. But I cannot find, that in all Scripture, our Saviour does impose upon us the Belief of one Modern Creed, or of any other but that He was the Messian.

Chap. xviii. v. 8. Zaccheus, a Publican, faith unto the Lord, half of my Goods I give unto the Poor; and if I have taken any thing from any Man by falfe Accufation, I reftore him four fold: And Jefus faid unto him, this Day is Salvation come unto thy Houfe; without asking him one Question about his Faith.

Rom. xiii. v. 8, 9. Owe no Man any thing but to love one another; for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the Law: For this, Thou shalt not commit Adultery, thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false Witness, thou shalt not covet; and if there is any other Commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this Saying, namely, thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self. The same Doctrine, in another Place, is thus shortly described; By this all Men shall know that ye are my Disciples, if ye love one another. So that the Love

Love of God, and of dur Neighbour, is the Whole Duty of a Chriftian. The first implies the Worship of God, or rather is the true and very Worship of God in Spirit and in Truth; and the latter comprehends all the Moral and social Virtues. ist Epissie of John, chap. iv. v. 7, 8. Beloved, let as love one another, for Love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God; be that loveth not, knoweth not God, for God is Love. v. 16. God is love; and he that dwelleth in Love, dwelleth in God, and God in bim. And, chap. v. ver. 3. St. John defines what the Love of God, that we keep his Commandments.

This appear still more evident, when we examine, for what Virtues and Crimes Men will be rewarded, and punished, eternally. Matth. Chap. xxv. v. 31. When the Son of Man shall come in his Glory, and all the boly Angels with him, then shall he sit upon the Throne of his Glory, and before him fhall be gather'd all Nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as the Shepherd divideth the Sheep from the Goats; and he Shall (et the Sheep on the Right Hand, and the Goats on the Left. Then shall the King fay to them on the Right Hand, Come, ye Bleffed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the Foundation of the World : for I was hungry, and ye gave me Meat :

Meat; I was thirfty, and ye gave me Drink; I was a Stranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye clothed me; I was fick, and ye visited me; in Prison, and ye came unto me. Then shall be say also to them on the Left Hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting Fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels; for I was hungred, and ye gave me no Meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me no Drink; I was a Stranger, and ye took me not in; naked, and ye clothed me not; fick and in Prison, and ye visited me not.

But the Want of Faith is here objected to no Man: No one is rewarded, or punifhed, for believing, or not believing, in Transubstantiation, Consubstantiation, or the Real Prefence; in Predestination or Free-will; or for having, or not having, right or wrong Conceptions of the Trinity in Unity, the Incarnation, Hypostatick Union, infinite Satisfaction, &c. Nor is the Divine Right of Bishops, Presbyters, and Tithes, once montion'd. Not a Word about Obedience to Spiritual Sovereigns, and Ecclessifical Princes, or about our receiving the Sacraments from a regular Priest, descended in a right Line from the Apostles.

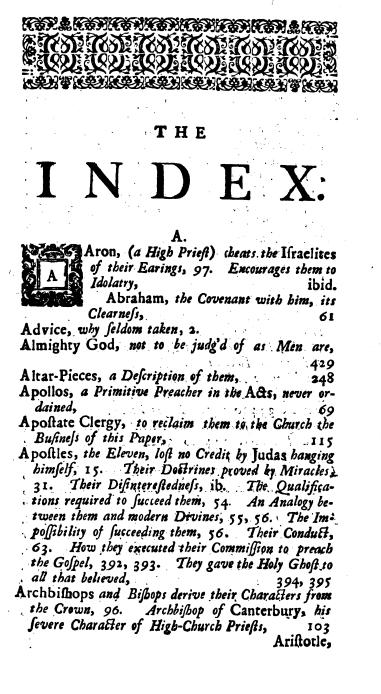

Such a Religion as this, which I have defcribed, is agreeable to the Divine Justice; which does not punish any Man for speculative Opinions, and especially for Opinions which neither do Good nor Hurt to any any one, and for Opinions which no one can help. " This is a Religion every way worthy of its eternal Author; and we " may know by the Doctrine, that it comes " from God. It is a Religion for Men of " Senfe, for Philosophers, for honest Men; " and comprehensible too by the meanest " Vulgar, without a Guide; a Religion of " Reason, free from the blind Mazes and " ftudied Intricacies of Popish Priest, and " beneficial to Society at first View. It " despises apish Gestures, and external Buf-" foonery; and effectually prevents, and " puts an End to, all inhumane Fiercenefs, " and holy Squabbles, ever occasioned by " the felfish Religions of corrupt Priests. " It leaves not unhappy Men in perpe-" tual Doubts and Anxieties, nor toffes and " tumbles them, for Relief, out of one Su-" perfition into another; but efteems them " all alike.

" In short, this is a Religion, which eve-" ry wife and honest Man would wish to be " Religion; a Religion of Charity, the Religion of JESUS; and this is The INDE-" PENDENT WHIG'S Religion.
